He has promised, however, that next year's increase will be limited to 15 per cent by the time final estimates are calculated, the newspaper says.

Treasury Board Chairman Jean Chretien said last month he and his colleagues have been vigorously opposing spending proposals from various departments, The Globe and Mail says.

Mr. Chretien will not divulge which projects he has refused to fund on the basis the information is confidential, the newspaper says.

"What it really means is that there will be no new high-flying schemes this year," a unnamed senior treasury board official said.

"But don't hold your breath waiting for the implementation of those campaign promises."

The newspaper quotes another senior official in a department with one of the largest budgets in government:

"I'm not aware of any clampdown. . . . There certainly aren't any bodies in the streets the way there were in 1969."

Davis Pledges Spending Curbs

PERTH, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario government is determined to show continuing restraint in its spending regardless of the political consequences, Premier William Davis said Wednesday.

In an apparent response to a public opinion poll showing his Progressive Conservative party slipping to second place in popular support behind the Liberals—42 per cent to 33—Mr. Davis told a meeting of eastern Ontario tourist operators that his government is not going to base its decisions solely on public popularity.

He warned that there will be continuing restraint in spending in an attempt to control inflation despite pleas by those of the tourist industry and others for provincial financial aid.

"I read the polls but I still know there are two ways you can go," Mr. Davis said to about 250 persons at the annual meeting of the Rideau Lakes and 1,000 Islands Travel Council.

"You can be the kind of political person who every morning puts his finger in the air, tests which way the wind is blowing and then follow it.

"Or you can make a genuine effort to see what the future holds . . . and make those decisions that are not always politically popular but are in the long-term interests of the people you represent."

Mr. Davis said Ontario residents must show restraint in their wage and price demands just as the government must hold the line on spending to help keep inflation under control.

Policemen, Fugitive Wounded

OTTAWA (CP) — City police believe that a man captured following a shootout here Wednesday night escaped earlier from Collins Bay penitentiary guards near Kingston.

Supt. Thomas Flanagan would not confirm at a news conference Wednesday night that the two incidents involved the same man, but said he would wait until positive identification was made and charges laid today.

Constables Robert Proulx and William Mason and Robert Jordan, 29, of Touraine, Que., were wounded in the shootout.

Mr. Jordan was released from hospital after treatment of a flesh wound on his arm and Constable Mason's back wound was not considered dangerous. Constable Proulx was in critical condition with bullet wounds in his thigh, chest and shoulder.

Their alleged assailant also was treated in hospital but Supt. Flanagan was unable to confirm if abrasions on his chest were caused by a bullet.

Barry Forsyth, 31, of Toronto escaped about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when he and five other prisoners, along with four unarmed guards, were travelling by bus to military hospital in Barryfield, Ont., from Collins Bay penitentiary.

Police, who described Forsyth as extremely dangerous, said he pulled an automatic pistol, fired a shot at one of the bus windows and ordered the bus driven to Ottawa.

After arriving at a west-end shopping centre, he offered the other prisoners the chance to escape with him. When they refused, he took the bus keys, warned those in the vehicle to stay where they were and left.

Stanfield Will Quit By November

HALIFAX (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday he expects to retire before November.

"I'll need good reasons to stay any later than that," he said in an interview.

Mr. Stanfield said he has discussed the timing of a leadership convention with the caucus and the national party executive.

But he said a convention is not likely before the fall because of the mechanics involved.

Restrict Foreign Doctors

OTTAWA (CP) — Health ministers agreed unanimously Wednesday to an Ontario plan to restrict immigration and movement by foreign doctors.

The plan means that prospective immigrant doctors will not receive points for occupational demand in the immigration selection system unless they go to an area which needs physicians.

The points would also be allowed, however, if the doctor was a specialist in a category for which a province was in short supply.

Tax Cut Likely Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats hope to pass a tax cut within two months but they say the rest of President's Ford's economic and energy proposals face slower action and considerable revision.

CIA Head Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William Colby denied Wednesday published reports that the CIA "conducted a massive illegal domestic intelligence operation." However ,in a lengthy statement, he outlined agency spy operations directed against anti-war radicals and other dissidents in the United States. Colby also acknowledged that the CIA had established files on some 10,000 American citizens.

Picton Hill Proves Hazard

Police Cruiser Is Casualty As Winter Spreads Trouble

By MARGARET HATLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Old Man Winter set the stage for a comedy of errors in Picton Wednesday, leaving the town's police department without a cruiser.

Headlining the cast of characters was town constable George Wright. He was responding to an accident at the foot of the town hill at the intersection of Union and Bridge Sts. in Picton's only police car.

While it was navigating around an OPP cruiser that apparently had slid into a ditch, the Picton cruiser was pasted broadside by a truck driven by Picton resident Robert Norton.

Constable Wright walked the rest of the way to the accident. By this time, not two but five cars were "piled up" at the foot of the hill.

"As fast as we'd pull them off, another would crash," he said. He reported 16 vehicles were involved in eight accidents as a result of the storm. Included in the count is the town's snow plow driven by Constable Wright's son Edward.

Minor damage and no injures were reported from the collisions.

Damage to the police cruiser was assessed at $400.

Whelan Quotes Cheese Tariffs As Example of Euromart Inequity

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The European Economic Community (EEC) may find itself facing tough Canadian tariffs unless it reduces its own levies on Canadian products, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Wednesday.

Mr. Whelan told the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario that Canadian cheese exports to the EEC face levies of up to 65 cents a pound, a tariff Ottawa sees as unfair.

In contrast, he said, European speciality cheese imports to Canada face a tariff of about 3½ cents a pound.

"We can't afford to be nice guys forever," he said.

Postmen Set Month Limit On Pay Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — The national executive of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada has given its five-man bargaining committee a limit of one month of direct negotiations with government officials before taking steps toward a strike, union president Roger Decarie said Wednesday.

Negotiations are expected to begin next week following the expected certification of the union as the bargaining agent for 16,000 letter carriers and mail truck drivers.

Night Blaze

City firefighters spent about two hours at a blaze at a vacant wood frame house on 70 Canniffton Rd. The fire broke out at about 9.30 p.m. Wednesday. The cause and amount of damage have not been determined yet, said Fire Chief Leo Culhane. Here a firefighter prods at a section of the roof with a pike in an effort to make an opening for water to play on the fire. For story, see front page, second section.

Poultry and Egg Surpluses Fraction of Production

OTTAWA (CP) — The poultry and egg industries both have huge surpluses in storage because they cannot sell them, but the figures, while large, represent only a small fraction of production.

Wednesday, the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency confirmed it has 40 million eggs in storage. Monday, the food prices review board disclosed that there are 31 million pounds of surplus broiler chickens.

But the eggs represent only about one per cent of Canadian annual production, and the surplus broilers, birds up to eight weeks old and weighing up to eight pounds, represent less than five per cent of chicken production.

Many factors are involved, not the least of which is the way provincial marketing boards control the market.

Since last January, CEMA has accepted all unsold production in provincial markets at a set price assuring the provincial marketing boards of an outlet for unsold eggs resulting from over-production.

The food prices review board has observed that provincial boards apparently raised the price in their regions, depending on CEMA to take up the slack when demand reduced because of the higher price.

"The v ew has been held that
"The view has been held that consumers will continue to buy eggs for table use no matter how high the price," the board said in a report last August.

". . . Actually, since 1971, in response to these high prices, consumers have reduced their lurchases by nearly 11 per cent. As production during this period has increased, more eggs have been left for CEMA to purchase."

Whelan Blames Producers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Wednesday he has no intention of taking the blame for producers' actions.

Commenting on reports that there now is a surplus of some 40-million eggs in the country, the minister said much of the surplus can be blamed on producers who have not cut their production quotas.

He said the marketing plan was designed to stabilize the chaos which had led to so-called egg wars between provinces.

"If some people want to go back to that chaos, I won't force them to work together."

The minister also warned that he will not move to set import restrictions in order to hide mismanagement of the industry in this country.

"There is no reason they can't get their house in order," he said.

Bancroft Gets Part-time Station

BANCROFT: North Hastings residents soon are going to be able to set their radio dials at 1240 and hear news, sports and entertainment that are geared only for their area.

At a meeting held here on Tuesday evening, Frank Murray, General manager of CJBQ told a local radio advisory committee that the new North Hastings Station will officially go on the air at 8:00 p.m. on March 1, with a community party and live broadcast from the North Hastings High School Auditorium.

The North Hastings Station CJNH will operate a satellite station of CJBQ in Belleville. However, several portions of the day will be designed only for the local area. A local advisory committee is working on a voluntary basis to provide approximately 5½-hours weekly of local programming.

This community broadcasting will cover sports in the community, current events, interviews, youth programs and exposure for local musical and dramatic talent.

Gary Stevenson, chairman of the local committee, said enthusiasm from the community has been overwhelming.

"I think that so far there have been between 250 and 300 people involved in this project," he said.

Also included in the plans for the local programming are a weekly church service and school broadcasts.

During the broadcast times that programming will not be originating from the CJNH studio, the local station will carry the regular CJBQ schedule.

The CJNH studio and transmitter are located on Highway 500 west just beyond the village limits.

Work Almost Complete On Flood Control Study

FRANKFORD — Mapping of the flood plains of Mayhew Creek in Trenton and Rawdon Creek in Stirling should be complete and reports ready for approval by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority in late February.

Authority resources manager Bryan Boyce said Wednesday, the aim is to complete the two reports in time for the authority's annual meeting Feb. 25.

Mapping of the two creeks has proceeded on schedule, he said.

At present, the deliniation of flood plains is in the draft proposal stage. A meeting is scheduled Friday with Kilborn Engineering of Toronto to go over final proposals of engineers.

Mr. Boyce said authority staff and Kilborn will make any necessary changes to the maps at that time.

Kilborn Engineering began the $11,000 study of the two creeks in early October.

The major portion (75 per cent) of the study cost is covered by a provincial government grant. As primary benefiting municipalities, Trenton and Stirling will pay 95 per cent of remaining costs. Authority members will pay the balance through their general levies.

Mr. Boyce said maps, once completed, will provide both towns with the exact dimensions of areas along the creek beds susceptible to flooding.

Hazard land areas, those unsafe for building, will be defined. The maps will also deliniate distances from each creek bed that fill or construction will be permitted.

The width of the flood plain, or danger area, is based on calculations made by engineers using figures provided by the conservation areas branch of the ministry of natural resources.

Ministry statistics outline the maximum effects that can be expected during storms in this area. Such figures are based on a climatic history of the area.

Once the two studies are approved and problem areas defined, corrective steps can follow.

Marmora Requests OMB Action

MARMORA — Marmora council has decided to proceed with an application to the Ontario Municipal Board for the annexation of two areas of Marmora Township.

The decision came after Robert Drummond, owner of one of the areas, asked what progress is being made on his request for annexation.

Reeve Jack Reynolds explained that council is waiting for word from Marmora and Lake Township Council on the results of a meeting with the residents of South Maloney St.

Mr. Drummond said he was not at that meeting but it is his understanding the meeting was merely to inform the residents of the proposed annexation and he was not aware that any resident had objected to it.

Mr. Drummond reminded council that approval for the subdivision he plans to develop hinges on the annexation recommended by the ministry of municipal affairs so that existing services in the village can be extended to the project.

Councillors said they felt application for annexation should be proceeded with immediately.

The other area for which annexation has been requested lies to the northeast of the village and is owned by Crawford O'Connor. The takeover of this portion of land would help to square off the village's boundary.

Council Covers Hydro Bills

MARMORA — Marmora council has agreed to pay two bills sent to the Marmora Curling Club by Marmora Hydro for energy used at the arena.

President Ken Gillies asked the village to assume the payment of $184.56 and $55.42 on the grounds that the club is inactive due to the closing of the arena. He said that after the club received the first large billing he had spoken with the chairman of the rink committee and had asked that all power in the curling clubroom be turned off.

When the second bill arrived, Mr. Gillies said he had investigated and found that heat had been left on to protect the hot water heaters and plumbing.

Council agreed that the village should be responsible for the power used while a decision was being made on whether or not to use the arena as an open air ice surface.

Bank Expands

Hasting MPP Clarke T. Rollins, Bancroft Reeve Russell Hawley and Toronto Dominion Bank Vice-president and General Manager R. J. Henderson participated in the opening of the bank's newly renovated quarters in Bancroft Manager W.K. Lyon said the renovated and redesigned quarters increase the bank's size by approximately 35 per cent and allow for space for six more employees who will be hired over the next two year.

'Getting to Know You'

Capt. David McNair puts the armed forces' new C-130H model Hercules aircraft through its paces to familiarize himself with the plane's improved power and braking capability. Some 40 pilots from 436 Squadron at CFB Trenton flew circuits this week to get to know aircraft they may fly in future. The five C-130H model Hercules will be stationed with 435 Squadron in Edmonton. The forces now fly C-130E model Hercules.

Trenton Outlines 1975 Committee Members

TRENTON — At its first regular meeting of its current term, council appointed both its own members and Trenton citizens to represent the town on 17 Trenton and Quinte area boards and committees.

In its appointments, council chose to remove several long-standing members of town committees.

It also established a policy for appointments that will limit the number of consecutive terms each town appointee can serve.

Among the councillors, F. J. (Pete) Aziz and Ronald Price are appointed to the council's industrial and economic advisory committee. Mr. Aziz becomes the town's representative with the Chamber of Commerce.

Quinte Planning Board members remain the same with Mayor Robert Patrick, councillors George Greer and Robert Wannamaker continuing to serve for a one-year term.

The latter two councillors and citizens Louis Aziz and Howard Langdon, join Douglas Livingston, Harriett Simmons, Robert Carleton and Jack Crowther on the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board.

Samuel Potts, Gerritt Bruinix and William Norman have been named to the committee of adjustment for a three-year term.

Grant Rathbun has been reappointed member of the Trenton Library Board.

Two members of the Board of Park Management Marion Baker and M. F. (Babe) James have been replaced by newcomers Sidney Walker and Less Henson. The six-member board serves for three years.

New Recreation and Community Centre Board appointees are David Camp, Rex Glover, John Van Vaals, Harvey Pare and Len Coward. Remaining members of the board are Jack Bonn and Leroy Wannamaker. Council's representatives are Robert Wannamaker and Peter De Groot.

Wayne Simmons and Carl Weiss remain as members of the Trenton Parking Authority. Dieter Rolf is council's new appointee.

Dr. Harry Hutchinson and Marion Baker were appointed to the Lower Trent River Conservation Authority.

Jack Wilson becomes the town's representative on the Quinte Exhibition board.

Court of revision appointees were councillors Mr. Aziz and Edward Todd, and citizens Vern McKee, Frank Cormier, and Jack Johnson.

Other appointments are: councillors George Greer (Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region), Mr. Price (Hastings County Social Services committee), Mr. Aziz (Family and Children's Services of Hastings County and Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit), and Mr. De Groot and Mr. Todd (Emergency Measures Organization, Quinte Area).

Yoga Popular Among Stirling Area Ladies

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — The ladies in this community are tying themselves in knots trying to relax, so it seems. About 40 women living in and around Stirling are taking yoga under the direction of Audrey Williams, wife of Hastings County School Board trustee Don Williams.

This is the second year teaching yoga for Mrs. Williams. "I used to take calisthenics at the Y but found this strenuous," she said in an interview. "I read about yoga and decided to try it, and I took it for five years. Yoga is not as exhausting. There is a lot of jogging in calisthenics, which is good for you, but I am not crazy about it

"Yoga is more relaxing," Mrs. Williams explained. "You do the same type of thing as calisthenics, but you are not bouncing back and forth quite so much.

"I don't teach meditation along with the yoga because you have to know what you are doing. If they want to read about it, and learn themselves, that is all right," she added.

Mrs. Williams pointed out that she teaches yoga to the ladies so they can learn to relax. "Everybody is so uptight these days," she said.

And they certainly do learn to relax. So much so that last week one lady fell asleep while practicing yoga.

Take 2

Mrs. Williams is a registered nurse, and switched one class from Monday night to Tuesday so she can attend a refresher course at Loyalist. So, she knows a fair amount about the body.

"We do a fair amount of deep breathing during the yoga class," she said. "This is to expand the lungs. Most people don't develop them to their potential. We use only about one-fifth of their capacity. Deep breathing relaxes the body and the mind. It is really a good thing to do."

No Granny Knots, Please

You would think these ladies were tying themselves in knots, but they are actually relaxing, the yoga way. They attend classes in yoga at the Stirling Senior Public School. Left to right are Chris McPheat, Church St., Beatrice Harry, RR 3 Stirling Marleen Bailey, RR 3 Stirling, and Eileen Bateman, Baker St. Mrs. Bailey says that her husband can do better than she can getting into these akward looking positions.

Leaflet Stresses Need for Pool

PICTON — A flyer prepared by the Prince Edward Community Swimming Pool Committee this week urges county residents to "dive in and help" to make the project a reality in 1975.

The leaflet distributed through the mail states the pool should be supported because of lack of facilities for swimming instruction in Prince Edward, lack of transportation and access to swimming areas, need for a supervised swimming program for adults and because of the water pollution problem in the county.

Cost of the pool, to be constructed at the fairgrounds in Picton, is estimated at $120,000. A total of $30,000 is available through provincial grants and service clubs to date have committed in excess of $17,000. This leaves a balance of $73,000 to be raised through donations.

The pool committee has established a trust fund with trustees Ed Rae, Rodney Dulmage and Reverend Robert Jones.

When completed the half Olympic-size heated outdoor pool will be turned over to Prince Edward County for operation by the recreation and parks committee of Picton.

The pool area will include change rooms, showers, a staff room and equipment rooms. There will also be a surrounding deck, overhead lights, one and three-metre diving boards and an enclosing fence.

The community swimming pool committee was formed from members of the Picton Kinsmen Club who are spearheading a campaign with other participating service clubs including Rotary, Kiwanis, Elks and Lions.

With immediate public financial support the pool committee says it can make its target date for completion of June 30, 1975.

Woman Dies In Crash

MADOC — A 46-year-old Belleville woman was killed Wednesday afternoon in a single-car accident on Highway 62, six miles south of Madoc, near Ivanhoe.

Provincial police in Madoc said that Jean N. Nawryluk of RR5, Belleville, was driving her car in a heavy snowfall south on Highway 62 when the vehicle left the road about 2:40 p.m., and hit a metal culvert.

A passenger in the car, Pamela Storring, 21, of Dundas St. East, Belleville is in satisfactory condition at Belleville General Hospital with neck and shoulder injuries.

Communication Gap

A high school student once made a shrewd observation on the art of communication. He wrote in an essay about musical appreciation that the trouble with listening to music was that most people didn't really listen. That is, they did not give their undivided attention.

The student and the observation belonged to an earlier time and the same young man would now be well into middle age. And over that period we have been witnessing further deterioration and emasculation of what we call communications. On one hand it has improved vastly at the technical level, so that today we have such extraordinary and fascinating achievements as the CBC's Cross Continental Checkup program at the weekend (a global adaptation of Cross Country Checkup), with Montreal linked with callers in the United States, New Zealand, South Africa, and of course Canada, leapfrogging across thousands of miles and across international datelines. On the other we have a growing and highly disturbing picture of semi-illiteracy in modern life.

It ranges from a tuning out of much of what is being said among any adult aggregation — in short, some are not really listening, or the subject is beyond them, or does not interest them — to political gobbledegook, to the sometimes unintelligible language of he business or scientific world, to grunting inanities that often pass for conversation at the student level.

Ernest Kneisel, director of the Loyalist school of business and communications, has spoken of this in recent days. He says there is a "general problem with literacy throughout the college and the whole school system."

Author Gore Vidal expressed similar sentiments in a recent magazine interview. He said in effect, "if we cannot communicate properly, what else can be achieved?" Yet the problem was widespread, said Vidal, as he had discovered for himself in the course of visits to colleges around the country.

Mr. Kneisel, incidentally, complained of pressures on professional courses that have been exerted by outside associations which use a business language different to normal English.

You get the picture . . . if not, then it may be blamed on the general communications hangup, and here we are also lapsing into fringe areas of the jargon of the seventies. Sometimes it can be colorful and even explicit; too often though, — once again to embrace the contemporary literary wisdom, — it is "something else."

Plant Closing

The Deseronto firm of Ideal Venders, finding itself between the devil and the deep blue sea, is planning to shut down by late June.

According to a parent company spokesman, the vending machine market is shrinking and business is mainly of a replacement nature.

This is of small comfort to the plant's more than 200 employees and a blow to the town's economy.

It is difficult, given the economics of the matter, to imagine the firm changing its mind — as Mayor Dickinson hopes — but there should be prospects in the very existence of this modern plant (including a recent addition) and of a ready work force.

It is true Deseronto is a little off the beaten track, but it enjoys a serenity lacking in larger communities and it is handy to those other centres whenever a trip out of town is desired.

Perhaps this would be an opportunity also for consideration by Deseronto of expanded recreation facilities, for it is in the provision of such drawing cards that location of an industry often depends. Education too enters into the picture, with Deseronto youngsters having to travel to Napanee for high school.

The town will have to work hard to keep things going in this situation, and more than likely it will mean attracting a new industry to replace this one reportedly being phased out.

From 'Pay Raise to Price Increase'

How Taxpayers 'Share' in the Business of Government

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA - Too bad Parliament has been in recess since Prime Minister Trudeau sounded his New Year call for "sharing".

This "sharing" of his is all part of his plan for what he calls "redistribution of income."

Just think of what former Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Maritime Conservative MP Bob Coates, Social Credit Leader Real Caouette, New Democratic veteran MP Stanley Knowles, and a few other members of the Opposition parties who know how to talk tough could do with Pierre Trudeau's conception of "sharing."

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson has just finished saying that "one man's pay raise is another man's price increase."

Straight-talkers Dief, Coates, Knowles, Caouette and company would be asking – you can drop into the Chief's office these days and hear the warm-up – who is going to be doing the "sharing" so that the Prime Minister can have his $84,000 salary, those two $75,000-plus Cadillacs, his 29 cabinet colleagues collect their $64,000 cheques, and the lot of them free-load their wives aboard Air Canada, the Transport Department's jet fleet, and the Defence Department's Boeings.

We, the unorganized taxpayers, are going to be doing the "sharing" for the Prime Minister.

The process of "sharing" has been in operation for some time now.

And it is one of the main reasons you may be experiencing some shrinkage in the area of the pocketbook.

Among those benefitting from the "sharing" have been the ever-increasing number of unemployed – even when times were better and far more jobs were in pursuit of non-workers than jobless chasing work – who have managed to massively change their life-style at your expense and with the blessing of the Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister has told them that since there is more to life than working for a living, it's perfectly alright for them to loaf for a living while developing what he described as the potential for enjoyment and fulfillment.

Pretty hard to beat that for a deal.

In on the one-way "sharing" also have been municipal, provincial and federal civil servants – the politicians in Ottawa and the provincial capitals alike, grabbing more for themselves while gabbing others to be satisfied with less – and the big, tough, well-organized unions.

For these people, particularly the politicians, Mr. Trudeau's "redistribution of income" has been something of a bonanza.

Hasn't hurt the militant unions either.

And if, as a member of the unorganized working taxpayer majority, you feel a little ripped off, don't anticipate with any joy the unfolding year when labor militancy is going to make these last 12 months of confrontation look, in fond retrospect, like a quiet era of peace and harmony.

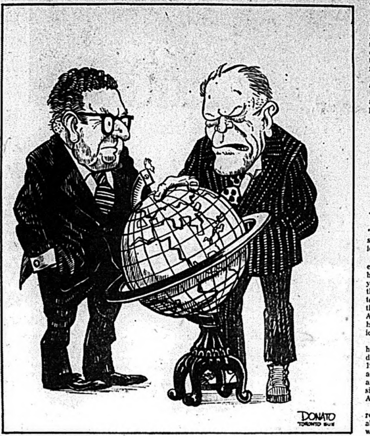
The public servants at all levels of government, and their political masters, as they call our elected representatives, have been getting their share of the "sharing."

And wouldn't you if you could, knowing as we all must, that "sharing" is great stuff as long as someone else is doing it?

Income "redistribution," the selfless way the Prime Minister tells it, is a truly Christian thing, except like everyone else who can help it, he has not been doing much "redistributing" except in his own direction.

You just don't join in the "redistribution" process joyfully if you personally are being "redistributed," and are on the giving, not the receiving end of it.

You being the unorganized worker, the member of a weak and frightened union, the helpless self-employed, the unaffiliated professional, the pensioner falling further and further behind in the "sharing," the investor, and the poor sap who has worked and saved for future comfort and security and discovered in the way of Trudeau's world that frugality, prudence, and self-discipline is a sick joke.



'GAD... I WISH THE C.I.A. COULD START SOMETHING SOMEWHERE SO WE GET THE DAMN ECONOMY ROLLING AGAIN!'

Concept of Inter-Americanism Causes Nervousness in Ottawa

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

"We don't like the expression 'inter-American system'. It smacks too much of Seward's icebox and manifest destiny."

A senior official of Canada's external affairs department blurted this out to me several years ago in my attempt to find the rationale for Canadian interest in Latin America, or as they say at the Organization of American States, which Canada has never joined, in "the Americas."

But that phrase too rings harshly in the minds of Canadian policymakers in the mid-1970s when Canadian nationalism has been on a 10-year rise and Washington no longer considers us an appendage of the American system.

Seward's icebox is of course a reference to the sharp deal, about $7.5 million in cash, which changed Russian America into the American territory now the state of Alaska.

Canadians remember the deal because American diplomatic pressure in 1903 with the threat of a military intervention resulted in an extension of Alaska into the so-called Panhandle which shuts out long stretches of Canada's north Pacific Coast from the sea.

It was president Theodore Roosevelt, fresh from carving Panama out of the heart of Central America as a buffer for the future Panama canal, who tried the same thing with the Canadians, or rather with the British, then negotiating on our behalf.

It's curious in the context of our shunning of the Americas as our national allies in geography and economic development, how we have clung to the British heritage. The same British are the ones who sold us out over the Alaska panhandle crisis, as they did earlier in the Treaty of Paris in 1783 on deciding the Lake of the Woods regional international boundaries, and in the 1820s over the Maine-New Brunswick boundary.

The latter resulted in a local settlers' outbreak called the Aristook War which in highly-politicized countries like some of our Latin American neighbors, would be remembered as part of the "people's struggle against imperialism."

After the war that super-patrician, the late Vincent Massey, who privately mourned because he could not accept a British title, wrote a book called On Being a Canadian.

It decried the hemispheric ties and in effect wrote an apologia for "being a British Empire Canadian."

How then have we begun "to penetrate" Latin America as the politician and salesman put it? At this late date it's mainly through trade and relationships, the former putting us in intimate contact with political systems in Latin America strongly opposed to each other.

The current example of our style of easy access to the hemisphere is the fact a Canadian minister of industry trade and commerce, namely Alastair Gillespie, can visit Brazil and Cuba within six months of each other.

Brazil is ruled by a tough, strongly anti-Marxist military government, fiercely opposed to Marxist Cuba. Mr. Gillespie who was in Brazil last October hustling Canadian goods and services, will do the same in March when he goes to Havana to talk to the Castro Cubans.

Are we creating our own profitable form of "the inter-American system?"

Latter-day Economics

Business World Is in a Quandary

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Business, in Canada as in most countries, heads into 1975 with none of that old-time religious fervor of the 1960s.

Instead of basking in the confidence that a new year used to generate, business appears to be in a dilemma—how to handle the unprecedented combination of big cost increase and a recession-induced slump in orders.

In 1974 the Canadian economic performance was worse than even the pessimists had expected. Real growth dropped to about four per cent — too little to create enough new jobs to take up the economic slack.

To a certain extent Canada's current recession stems from the economic troubles of our major trading and investment partners—as Messrs. Trudeau and Turner are fond of reminding us. Foreign demand for our exports has declined, especially in manufactured goods.

The government of the U.S. our biggest trading partner, launched a campaign last August to psyche its people out of their inflationary expectations, just as the Trudeau government had done six years earlier.

Now Washington has abandoned that campaign, just as our government did, because of the business slowdown that came in its wake.

President Gerald Ford's big new tax-cutting, pump-priming legislative program will certainly rekindle the flames of inflation.

Whether it will end the U.S. recession—and thus help to stimulate economic growth here as well as there—is debatable.

The optimistic view is that inflation will not go out of control because there is enough slack in most industrial economies; that the world will find ways of adapting to the permanent energy crisis; and that capital spending on new plant and machinery will rise (creating new jobs) in anticipation of increased business.

The optimists may be right about inflation. It could be argued that the world has gone through a major, wrenching price shift to adapt to the five-fold increase in the Middle East crude-oil price, and once that shift has been completed we will see a return to more normal price trends.

But the fault in that argument is that it has become next to impossible to bring about a reversal of price expectations. Profiting from the oil-price situation, opportunists have achieved huge increases in totally unrelated goods and services — from grain - handlers' wages to firewood from pay phones to hockey tickets.

Nor is the widely heralded capital-spending boom a sure thing.

"Capital spending in the seven years to third - quarter 1974 rose by a compound growth rate of 5.5 per cent compared to 5.1 per cent in the economy as a whole," notes Fry Mills Spence Ltd. of Toronto.

"This suggests that the capital in place is adequate for all normal purposes."

Financial factors are also working against businesses that are contemplating capital expansion. Costs have been rising at an annual rate of more than 20 per cent in some places, it is nearly impossible to raise new money through bond or stock issues, and corporate profits in 1975 seem likely to fall 10 per cent short of last year's—which had risen perhaps 30 per cent over 1973.

Canadians' personal incomes will rise about 13 per cent this year on the strength of big wage increases, offset to some extent by a cutback in overtime earnings.

Spending? On durables—cars and the like—little change from 1974. On non-durables, perhaps 17 per cent (largely through inflation). On government services, 16 per cent according to official estimates but more likely 22 per cent.

That would mean that government spending, reaching a record 40 per cent of gross national expenditure, could well be Canada's most dynamic growth area in 1975.

Moves to Bring Uniformity

Building Law Jungle in Canada

By DON O'HEARN
Thomson News Service

For the last two decades there has been pressure all across Canada to simplify building laws.

The situation has been that authority to establish building codes has been left with the municipalities. This has meant great confusion, difficulty and waste.

Across the country little uniformity exists in the requirements for building standards.

Ontario with more than 1,000 municipalities has been probably the worst example. For there has been nearly that number of building codes.

And a great many of them with widely differing requirements.

Differing qualities of foundations are called for, for example.

The result has been that a manufacturer of cement blocks who desires to serve the whole province must produce 16 types of blocks.

Some municipalities will permit prefabricated components, such as roof trusses. Others won't.

There is a variation between municipalities of standards required for practically every component that goes into buildings; residential, commercial or industrial.

The consequence has been that manufacturers of building products, architects, builders, developers and even lawyers have all been frustrated.

Their job has been tremendously complicated by the lack of uniformity.

With manufacturers they have tended to concentrate on the standards of the large markets. But these vary and it has meant there must be a variety of expensive machinery and tooling And the long production runs which cut down costs aren't possible.

Builders too have tended to concentrate on the one community, meaning that the expertise of the mature firms can be lost to smaller communities.

All those involved in the building process have been pressing for change. And latterly even the public, appreciating that the system was cumbersome and costly, has been agitating for uniform provincial codes.

For the last 20 years there has been a national building code. But this has only been a model for minimum standards. It has had no force in law. And the municipalities have tended to ignore it.

It is these same municipalities who have been the major cause of the long delay in getting practical new approaches established in the provinces.

The municipalities have been jealous of their authority and the provincial governments have been disinclined to step on them.

In the last year, however, there has been a change of attitude. In that span all provinces except Newfoundland have taken steps toward more uniformity.

British Columbia has approved a uniform code and now is awaiting the establishment of ancillary services, such as facilities for the training of inspectors.

Ontario put its legislation through the house just before Christmas. It will go into force when the big job of drafting the very extensive regulations, which are the core of the code, has been completed. The target date is July 1.

Quebec is in relatively the same position as Ontario. And all other provinces have taken steps which will lead, to a varying degree, to uniformity.

What will be the advantages, particularly to the individual?

Authorities don't like to forecast any savings. They are frightened off in this by the zooming house prices. But obviously uniformity will eventually lead to houses that are cheaper than they otherwise would be.

Then there are other potential benefits, such as a surge in prefabricated housing which, of course, is cheaper than custom-built housing.

The pre-fab industry, however, has had a hard time getting off the ground because a lot of municipalities have either banned it or have had requirements in their code which made their markets difficult to serve.

At this point one can't really say just what benefits may accrue.

But obviously uniformity is a step in a sensible direction.

A Look at Mortgage Subsidies

Ottawa Citizen

The mortgage subsidy amendments to the National Housing Act will benefit almost entirely the low and middle-income groups.

That much is clear from the provision that only those who have to spend more than 22 per cent to 25 per cent of their incomes on mortgage payments will benefit. People in the high-income groups don't have to spend more, unless they buy extremely expensive houses.

That takes care of one potential weakness in the legislation. But another, raised by the Canadian Real Estate Association, is worthy study by Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson.

Many young couples buying their first house - and only first house purchases will be subsidized - buy an old dwelling. Later, as their income grows, they may buy a new one. They will not get the subsidy, because the subsidy will be paid only on new construction.

In larger cities, new construction is confined to the outskirts, and in a place like Toronto could be far from the downtown area. That may not be a major objection to the bill. But coupled with the restricted market it would provide for families buying a house for the first time, there is a strong argument for a further look at the legislation.

Picky Probe

Mrs. Trudeau and Those Perks

Ottawa Journal

The picayune probing into Margaret Trudeau's perks as wife of the Prime Minister of Canada reached a new low with the almost breathless reports that, yes, she has received complimentary passes from Air Canada and CP Air. Perhaps she has even been known to ride in the Prime Minister's car without the meter being turned on. (A taxable benefit?) Perhaps OC Transpo is thinking of giving her a pass to ride its buses. The shame of it all! Other women don't get free passes. "Why should Mrs. Trudeau?" ask the great egalitarians in our midst. Such petty-mindedness, of course, will always be with us. Fortunately, the great majority of Canadians understand that courtesies to the wife of any Prime Minister are reflected courtesies to the office. To object to them is a particularly unpleasant form of small-mindedness, or envy.

Canada Neglected

CHICAGO (CP) — Senator Lloyd Bentsen (Dem. Tex.), regarded as a leading candiate for presidential nomination in 1976, says the United States is neglecting Canada and Latin America in her preoccupation with cementing relations with China and the Soviet Union.

In a speech Tuesday to the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, Bentsen called for President Ford and State Secretary Henry Kissinger to develop a "hemisphere energy strategy based on a new, co-operative, enlightened relationship with Canada, Mexico and Venezuela and with our other Latin allies."

Fertilizer To Be Scarce

RIDGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — A shortage of fertilizer will continue but the major price increase in cost is now in the past, the president of the Potash Institute of Canada said Wednesday.

Netrogen and anhydrous amonia will be in short supply, Dr. K .M. Pretty said at Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology.

Disgusting

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court upheld Wednesday the constitutionality of a section of the Criminal Code under which a Toronto art gallery faces five charges of exhibiting a disgusting object.

Ration Coins

OTTAWA (CP) — Banks here have begun to ration coins as a strike by 600 employees at the Royal Canadian Mint adds pressure to an existing coin shortage.

Lewis Opposes Move Of CGE to His Riding

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Provincial NDP leader Stephen Lewis said Wednesday he will demand government intervention into the Canadian General Electric (CGE) company's plan to move its structural steel division to Scarborough, the Metropolitan Toronto riding he represents.

He told representatives of Local 524, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, the largest union representing CGE employees, that he will ask Labor Minister John MacBeth to investigate the company's plans.

He added that if that fails, he will bring the matter up in the legislature.

Union representatives say the move would mean a loss of 130 to 150 jobs. They also say they fear related divisions of CGE's Peterborough plant will be phased out, meaning a loss of up to 700 jobs.

Present facilities here should be expanded to absorb growth, they added.

"I am the Scarborough member and it's nice to have jobs in Scarborough," Mr. Lewis told union officials during his one-day visit here. "But not at the expense of jobs elsewhere."

He said private enterprise has a right to determine its own priorities. But they also have "a moral and economic obligation to be faithful to the workers," he said.

"You can't just say to hell with the workers."

Fines Low

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Attorney-General John Clement said Wednesday he will write to federal Justice Minister Otto Lang to ask for increased fines under the federal Lord's Day Act.

No Compassion Shown Disabled Says Wife

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — A former miner's wife talked of poor compensation and a mining company referred to improved safety Tuesday during the second day of a public inquiry into health, safety and working conditions of Ontario miners.

Mavis Boreham, whose husband is 10-per-cent silicotic and has left the mine to be retrained, told the royal commission that wives and mothers must work because of inadequate compensation for silicotic miners.

"May I further stress that in Elliot Lake, the job - seeking wife of a disabled miner can expect no compassion," Mrs. Boreham said in a brief. "There are no jobs for people who have been out of the work force for years."

She asked the commission, headed by Dr. James Milton Ham, a former dean of engineering at University of Toronto, if something can be done "as long as we are willing to work."

"Few mines in Ontario will hire wholly or partially disabled husbands," she added. "Why?"

Silicosis is caused by quartz dust in mines and a statement from the United Steel Workers of America has said there are more than 140 cases, as well as 40 lung cancer deaths, in the uranium industry here.

Since Jan. 1, 1974, a man suffering from silicosis is compensated but not required to leave the mine.

In its 203-page brief, Rio Algom Mines Ltd. told the commission that one of its main concerns since it started development here in 1954 is safe and healthy working conditions.

Ted Cheeseman, vice-president of underground operations, presented sections of the brief.

He said there has been a major improvement in environmental conditions in the last 16 years. He said ventilation has been increased 300 per cent, dust levels have been lowered 50 per cent and radiation levels have been lowered.

"Since the start of operations, there have been some 8,000 Rio Algom employees in dust and radiation exposure operations," the company brief stated. "Of these men, four have been awarded compensation for lung cancer, three of whom have died, and, in relation to lung cancer deaths among the males in Ontario in equivalent age groups, the death rate for Rio's employees and former employees as a group is below the Ontario average."

Option to Buy Canadair Taken Out by Government

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Wednesday signed an option to buy Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, a move described by Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie as a "second important step toward implementing a strategy for restructuring Canada's aerospace industry."

The first step was the government purchase of de Havilland of Canada last May.

The option signed Wednesday between the government and General Dynamics of St. Louis, Mo., involves a purchase price of $36.65 million, plus certain profits earned after Jan. 1, 1974. The total price would not exceed $38.15 million, the government announcement said.

The government does not intend to operate the firm even if it takes up the option purchase within the nine-month period.

Referring to the purchase of the Toronto-based deHavilland and the purchase option announced Wednesday night, Mr. Gillespie said in his announcement that "the scene is now set for responsible Canadian interests to make proposals to the government for the operation and future development of these airframe manufacturing companies."

The government intended to retain ownership of land and buildings and sell the remaining part of the firms to Canadian investors "with a view to rationalizing and strengthening major Canadian airframe manufacturing facilities under Canadian ownership and control."

One Separate School Dispute Still Unsettled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All eyes will focus on the Carleton separate school board situation today, now the only unresolved dispute, after both teachers and board members in Elgin County ratified a new 20-month agreement Wednesday.

The Elgin dispute, affecting 1,800 pupils, was the sixth of seven settlements in the current round of negotiations between Ontario separate school teachers, members of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers Association (OECTA), and their boards.

The 86 Elgin teachers were to be back in the classrooms today following ratification of the agreement which gives them average salary increases of $2,800 or 33.9 per cent.

Allergies were topic of seminar that drew crowds to Belleville General Hospital lecture theatre recently. Among Kingston medical experts discussing the problem were doctors Susan Tarlo and James H. Day, director of Kingston General Hospital's allergy division.

Channel Tunnel Dream Dimmed

LONDON (Reuter) — Once again the dream of digging a tunnel between Britain and continental Europe has dimmed, though not entirely faded.

With excavators already hacking tentatively near the White Cliffs of Dover, the British government has decided it cannot afford the cost of a high-speed railroad track to feed traffic direct from London to the tunnel mouth.

Announcing the decision in Parliament, Environment Secretary Anthony Crosland said he will examine the chances of squeezing tunnel traffic ont existing rail lines.

Even if the study eventually concludes that present rail lines are sufficient, the project will put back at least a year and cannot be completed before 1981.

Some experts believed the decision may spell doom for the whole idea, which has been talked about with varying enthusiasm ever since the days of Napoleon.

Until a year ago, plans to burrow under the English Channel looked firm. That was be- inflation shook the whole western economy.

Even before Crosland scrapped the plan for a special railroad, clouds had grown around the tunnel enterprise.

For one thing, the rising cost of fuel cast doubts on earlier estimates of the auto traffic likely to be carried on transporter trains between England and France.

On top of that, the stock market depression posed fund-raising difficulties for the two tunnel construction companies, the British Channel Tunnel Co. and France's Societe Francaise du Tunnel Sous la Manche.

According to present estimates, the tunnel building costs may reach $2.3 billion. At least 10 per cent of that would be raised privately by the companies. The rest would come from loans guaranteed by the British and French governments.

The special rail link would have been the first new railroad track to be built in Britain this century. The idea was to carry trains at 150 miles an hour between London and a terminal at Cheriton, near Dover.

But Crosland reported to Parliament that the cost of this rail line, first estimated at $276 million, had shot up to a likely $857 million. "It is out of the question that the government should approve or finance an investment of this magnitude," the minister said.

Pressure to drop the project will come from the Labor party's left wing which believes a tunnel linking Britain and Europe will psychologically assist sentiment for keeping Britain in the European Common Market.

And there are still a few politicians who believe that a tunnel would destroy Britain's island status and leave it open to attacks of the kind which Napoleon and Hitler found impossible from the other side of the English Channel.

Negotiations Are Suggested Between Criminals, Victims

HALIFAX (CP) — The perpetrators and victims of crime should get together with mediators and work out punishment which would financially repay the victim for his loss, suggests the co-ordinator for an agency counselling female offenders.

"Hashing it out between them" in this manner, said Barb Unroe of Halifax, would mean that the offender would avoid prisons, which are schools of crime.

As co-ordinator for Unison, Mrs. Unroe said she has concluded that if people become more aware of the criminal justice system and involved in it the rate of crime would decline.

Unison is centred here and in Sydney, N.S., and tries to help the female offender and victim as well as the wife of the male offender through counselling and assistance in finding employment and economic stability.

Mrs. Unroe said the criminal and victim should get together and discuss why the crime occurred and how the victim can be repaid. If the offender had no money, he should provide some service to the victim or an organization.

She said prison is an easy way out for an offender because he is away from society and encouraged to be lazy. "It almost amounts to encouraging them to commit more crimes because they do not have to face what they did with the victim of the crime."

She conceded that this would be difficult with certain crimes such as a case where someone is killed by an impaired driver and the family would probably not want to meet the offender. But for the driver, meeting the family would be much harder than spending 10 years in prison for manslaughter.

Lose Knives

LONDON (CP) — Britain's 600,000 boy scouts can no longer wear the Jim Bowie sheath knives that have been a tradition of the movement since it was founded in 1908. Police say it is too easy for muggers or thives to attack a boy and take his knife for criminal purposes.

Further Study of Rape Necessary Before Legislation Can Be Changed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women (ACSW) decided Tuesday to undertake an extensive study of rape, including recommendations for legislative and social changes.

The 30-member council, meeting here this week, rejected preliminary recommendations by its working group on social concerns because it felt detailed legal study was needed.

Raizel Macklovitch of Montreal, group co-chairman, presented recommendations calling for amended legislation, including a prohibition against cross-examination of a victim on her "moral integrity, previous sex life and private life."

The group also called for federally-funded rape counselling centres in all major urban areas, as well as training of women RCMP and police members in rape counselling.

The report noted that fear of cross-examination, male judges and juries and lack of knowledge about evidence needed for conviction deter victims from prosecution.

Dispute over adopting the recommendations began when council member Claude-Armand Sheppard, a Montreal trial lawyer, said concern for the victim must be balanced with protection given the accused.

"If I have to choose between embarrassing a rape victim and sending one innocent person to jail, I have no trouble making a decision," he said.

The council agreed any thorough report on rape must include both psychological, social and legal concerns at preliminary pre-trial proceedings and legal implications of specific legislation and court procedure.

Dr. Cooke, noting the federal Law Reform Commission is studying sexual offences, suggested the ACSW study—to be presented at its April meeting in Ottawa—look at the commission's documents, in addition to research by the working group and private legal research authorized by Mr. Sheppard through his own firm.

Pension Should Be Divided Between Marriage Partners

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada Pension Plan credits should be split 50-50 between marriage partners, whether one or both works and contributes to the plan, the federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women (ACSW) recommended Tuesday.

June Menzies of Winnipeg said in a report that "this approach is in keeping with the concept of marriage as a partnership . . . and does not depart from the earnings-related, compulsory principle of the Canada Pension Plan (CPP)."

Mar Lalonde, federal minister of health and welfare, last April requested the ACSW and CPP advisory committee to agree on a plan for introducing housewives into the CPP.

The splitting of credits was among ways of integrating housewives into the CPP plan suggested by Mr. Lalonde in a paper submitted to the parliamentary committee.

Both the committee and ACSW rejected such other suggestions as payment of housewives for housework, voluntary contributions or creation of a separate voluntary insurance-retirement income plan.

The suggestion to credit 50 per cent of a married person's contributions to the CPP to that person's spouse via social insurance numbers and thus allow each to build up pension credits was essentially the plan approved by the ACSW and found acceptable by the committee.

However, the ACSW also recommended that in event of divorce each spouse automatically become entitled to 50 per cent of the family unit's CPP credits, noting that otherwise it would not be effective when a marriage breaks down but does not end in divorce.

The report said studies carried out for the committee

The report said studies carried out for the committee showed that retirement income of a family would not be reduced under the sharing formula if the working spouse reaches age 65 earlier than the non-working spouse.

ACSW president Katie Cooke said the recommendation on splitting is essentially an "agreement in principle" and its financial ramifications will be studied in greater depth for the council's April meeting in Ottawa.

The 30-member council was established in 1973 by the federal government to advise the government and public on matters relating to the status of women in Canada.

Unified Family Court Advocated by Council

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal and provincial governments should accept the principle of unified family courts and co-operate in establishing such courts, the federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women (ACSW) said Tuesday.

The 30-member ACSW, meeting here this week, heard its human rights and justice committee state that jurisdiction in family matters is shared by up to five different courts in some provinces.

Such fragmentation makes the court system inefficient and costly, while decisions of different judges on the same problem may be contradictory, the report said.

The council, established by the federal government in 1973, also recommended offences by and against juveniles be heard in family courts, family court judges be federally-appointed and trained in family law and professional support staff be attached to the court to assist judges.

It recommended that family court hearings be open to the press and interested public organizations—such as social workers, or a civil liberties association—but that details identifying those involved be banned from publication unles both parties agreed to it.

The suggested change would provide privacy in discussion of marital matters and increase public awareness of actions against juveniles, said committee member Claude-Armand Sheppard of Montreal, a lawyer with family law experience.

The only unified family court project operating in Canada is in British Columbia, said June Menzies of Winnipeg, a member of the council's sub-committee on the one-parent family.

That project, established last summer, is provincially funded and uses both provincial and Supreme Court judges.

Ontario is considering a project similar to the B.C. experiment, she said, but it has not yet been approved.

ACSW members also voted to urge the provinces to submit unified family court plans to the federal government before April 1, when money for pilot projects will be available.

The council also directed its executive to draft terms of reference for a more complete study of problems facing one-parent families, prior to the ACSW's next meeting in April in Ottawa. About 500,000 Canadian women head one-parent families, an ACSW spokesman said.

Punchard - Wallbridge

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallbridge, Belleville, are happy to announce the marriage of their daughter Carole Pearl Katherine to David Nelson Punchard, Ottawa. The wedding was solemnized by Rev. Alexander McDowell, Eastminster United Church on December 18, 1974. The couple have made their home in Belleville.

Spry - Barton

Linda Jane Barton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.C. Barton of Madoc became the bride of Phillip James Spry, son of Mrs. Frederick Spry of Belleville and the late Frederick Spry, in a service held in St. John the Baptist Anglican Church in Madoc, December 14.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W.G. Hope Swayne of Picton, and Rev. James Thompson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian-style gown of white crepe with a mandarin collar. Her headdress was of holly and maiden's breath, and her bouquet was of red and white roses.

Joni Sudsbury of Oshawa was maid of honor in a royal blue velvet gown, carrying a nosegay of red and white carnations.

The groom's best man was Gary Barton of Madoc, and his brothers, Kenneth Barton of Peterborough and Gordon Barton of Belleville, served as ushers.

The reception was held in Madoc's Catholic Parish Hall, where a dinner was served by the Anglican Church Women. The bride's cake was made by her great aunt, Vera Smith of Bancroft.

The newly-married couple now live in Hornpayne.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ketcheson, RR 1, Foxboro, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter Gail Ann to Ronald Ernest Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, Aylmer, Ont. The wedding will take place Saturday, February 22, 1975 at 4.30 p.m. at Emmanuel United Church, Foxboro.

Ann Landers

Fighting Parents Destroy Children's Trust

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday was the last straw. Our parents have been fighting for as long as we can remember. The fights always start over some little thing that doesn't amount to a hill of beans. My father calls my mother "dumb," then she swears at him and he swears back and throws a few things, like a lamp or a chair. Last night he knocked her bridgework loose and she told my older brother to call the police.

When the police arrived, my father was sitting on the sofa reading the newspaper and my mother was beside him knitting a sweater. It was the most peaceful scene you ever saw in your whole life. They both acted very surprised. Dad stood up like a perfect gentleman and said, "You fellows must have the wrong house."

Now my brother is in plenty of trouble because he did what my mother told him to do. Our parents are beautiful people until they lose their temper. Do you have any advice for them?—Upset Children

Dear Children: These "beautiful people" need to see a marriage counselor. If they call the Family Service Association or the local Mental Health Society (county or state), they can get the names of some good ones.

Suggest it, but don't bet the rent they'll follow through. They sound like a couple who love to fight.

Dear Ann Landers: My cousin who lives in a big city 400 miles from here graduated from business college four years ago. Amy and I were always good friends—more like sisters than cousins. She is 24, I am 22.

Six months ago, Amy got me a job in the city and I moved into her apartment with her, replacing a former roommate with whom she did not get along. It turns out that Amy is a sex maniac. She goes out every night and picks up some guy. I am supposed to shut my door and play dead.

This morning there were three of us at the breakfast table and I was very uncomfortable. This evening I told her how I felt. She said I was a prude and had no right to "judge her life-style."

I'm afraid Amy is going to get into serious trouble one of these days. You wouldn't believe the creeps she picks up. Shall I tell her parents, or what? Please advise me, Ann. I am—Boggled

Dear B.: The girl is 24. You are not your cousin's keeper. Keep your mouth shut and move. At once.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read that letter from "Sorry for mom" about the mother who received a chain letter that was supposed to have been started by a saint. Some saint. I wish I had seen your answer two months ago.

I received that same chain letter and being very superstitious I was afraid if I didn't send out 20 copies right away something terrible would happen. Well, you were right. It is a crock of cranberries. That same week someone ran into my car ($160 repair bill), I broke my finger, my husband sprained his back and my best friend, who also had sent out 20 copies of the chain letter, had a heart attack.

I could kick myself for being such a sucker. Now I think that darned thing brought me bad luck instead of good. I wish I had never bothered with it. Print this, please, for other would-be suckers.—Dumbbell In Dothan

Dear D.I.D.: Here's your letter with an added word. Those chain letters are illegal in many states.

Doris Clark

Converter for Foreign Travel

Dear Doris: You had a letter from a lady who is planning a trip to Norway this March break, and she was worried about hair dryers. Well, as you know, it is really awful to sleep with the curlers in, so I have a better solution.

I am from Scandinavia, now living in Canada, and I have been going through all those electrical problems myself. My advice to her is: buy a new hair dryer with a switch for both voltage (mine is a German Braun, if I remember correctly, which I think I do; is also sold through the Air Canada catalogue, available at every flight or Air Canada office; there might be other brands also).

The plug difficulties are very easy to solve: you just buy a little plug to put there in between. I paid about one dollar for mine, available in large cities Also, if you stop in Oslo, Norway, you can get one.

Many happy uses for your new dryer, both travelling at home.

Scandinavian Friend.

Dear Friend: Your information is just the ticket.

"Concerned," from St. Catharines, are you reading us? You foolishly gave us no name or address to write to you or you could have had this information several weeks sooner by private letter

I have another helpful reader who would gladly loan you her European hair dryer, and a third informing us about the converter plugs which are available.

Write in again, quickly, and we may still be able to solve your problem before March.

Dear Doris: Your thoughtful and understanding advice has always been much appreciated.

As I am very interested in the battle with tobacco, would you have an address for a Smokers' Anonymous group so I can write for information on their program?

No Smoking.

Dear No Smoking: In Canada, the most active club is the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada. Bob Ludwig (No 13, 2505 Fraser Street, Vancouver, B.C V5T 3V3) is president, and will fill you in on anything — and I mean anything — that is going on about how to stop smoking.

Also, would you like my 25-cent leaflet, "Why Smoke?" It supplies some practical ideas for quitting. Just send the money and stamped envelope.

Confidential to Can't Decide: There's nothing wrong with being unmarried at 26, or wanting to be married, or being a nice girl either! When the right man comes along, you will know him. As for the one you'd like to get acquainted with, be friendly and pleasant when you see him — but not too aggressive. If he's interested, he will let you know!

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Bottoms Tops With Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Bottoms are tops. Slim, trim, curved ones are what women notice," says the president of Man Watchers Inc., an organization devoted to the study of the male physique.

Suzy Mallery says a survey of her membership shows women notice men's buttocks more than any other male physical characteristic. The next most-noticed aspects of the male physique are chests, hands and posture, she says.

Man Watchers' list of the 10 most beautiful men for 1974 is headed by actor Burt Reynolds for his "animal magnetism, masculinity, sense of humor and great good looks from top to bottom."

Others included actor Alan Alda, "low-key naturalness and subtle sensitivity"; actor Jack Nicholson, "killer smile and cobra eyes"; tennis star John Newcombe, "exciting body language"; actor Cleavon Little, "satin-smooth bearing and catlike elegance"; actor Robert Redford, "traditionally handsome in the classic style";

Football player Larry Csonka, "rugged athlete with slick, muscular thighs";

Ms. Mallery, said in an interview that she founded the San Diego-based group several months ago because "I decided it was time men became sex symbols, too."

She says the group now has nearly 1,000 members.

Frothy Fashions

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

around town.)

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new

Introduction

Today we meet some new friends in Around The Town. But there'll be a few familiar names too. There are some advertising spaces still available in this column. Direct inquiries to the Advertising Manager, Eric Williams. A bright hello to new friends and old.

The Right People

I've met some very interesting people getting ready for this second edition of Around The Town. And the Sherwoods of The Tropical Gardens Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. qualify well for this category. This couple has always been interested in animals and had lots of them around their house. Now they're making a business out of this long-time interest. When I visited their store I was told that stock was low after the Christmas rush, but there was still plenty to see. The Sherwoods will help you place that new litter of puppies you weren't counting on. They sell them for only $5.00 and won't sell anything to a youngster without Mommy's or Daddy's say so, which saves many tears and heartaches all-round. Also Mr Sherwood is glad to come to any school class and share his knowledge of the animal world. Now, don't the Sherwoods sound interesting?

Studio 231

Studio 231 is called "231" for a very good reason; that's the street number of its location on Front St. - 231. You may first have acquainted yourself with this location through De Kapsters Wigs which is in the front and boutique part of the establishment. Now there is a dress shop also included at 231 Front St., both the brainchilds of a dynamic and ambitious Connie Mitchell. Connie says her clothes, wigs and Danish pewter jewellery are for women from 18 years of age to a young 85 She carries a junior line, a career girl line and a "look for any figure" line which combines good fashion points at reasonable prices. When you visit Studio 231, you won't be pressured into buying or forced to try something on; you'll be invited to shop at your own pace in an environment where you're first, not the clothes.

Bragging A Little

I happen to be a resident of that idyllic community across the bay as Picton. As with most Pictonites, I'm very proud of my town and one of our local sources of pride is Inn On The Bay. Inn On The Bay is a dining room and tavern encased in a captivating old mansion. You can find it easily by going through Picton, going down the town hill and heading toward the Glenora Ferry. Just as you go up the hill on your way out of town, on the left, you'll spot a most noticeable sign which says Inn On The Bay. Winter or summer Inn On The Bay is a delightful experience, from the congeniality of owners Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ingarfield to the glow of the ballroom fire on Wednesday International Dining Nights. If you haven't experienced Inn On The Bay, you must. Call for reservations in Picton at 476-3114.

Superior TV and Service

Superior TV at 183 Cannifton Rd. is an idea that wasn't anticipated. Three people experienced in the TV repair business looked around Belleville, checked repair prices and waiting lists and decided that Belleville needed a TV repair centre which specializes in reliable and fast service. And that's what you get with Superior — service within 24 hours on all makes and models; authorized factory service for 10 different makes; sales and service on Fleetwood, Hatashi and Rogers-Majestic; service to all of Prince Edward County, north in Hastings to Hw.y 7 and from Brighton east to Napanee (with mileage charge over 15 miles). And Superior TV will make a service call up until 9 p.m. in the evening. They know your TV set is no good to you if it isn't working. So they'll get to work and fix it. Call them at 962-7611.

Sale Still On

The floor sample clearance at Wrays Home Furnishers, 306 Front St. is still on. There are still some living and dining room suites available at great savings and a good selection of chairs. Perhaps you have an anniversary or birthday coming up in your family. Buying a gift at Wrays sale prices is an additional reason for celebrating too. Carpet too is featured in this sale, and Wrays have their own installers — something that is very important if you want both quality carpet and quality installation, and Wrays is open Thursday and Friday nights until 9 p.m. too.

A Great Property

Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front Street has a property right now which they describe as a great investment property. I think you'll agree. This piece of property consisting of 7¼ acres overlooks the Bay of Quinte and has over 600 feet of frontage on their Rednersville Road and Old Orchard Road. There is a well on the property and hydro and good financial arrangements are available This site is worth developing. Call Gord Roblin Real Estate at 968-6475. If you like good ideas, here's one for sure.

Free Estimates

One thing about the kind of winter we seem to be having, and that's that piles of snow around your home can't be an excuse for doing nothing about home improvements. If you call Belleview Glass and Mirror now at 968-5731, they will come and give you a free estimate on a new storm and screen, steel or aluminum doors or aluminum storm and screen windows. Allowing 3 to 4 weeks for delivery, you'll be all set for March winds and April showers for sure — not to mention all that balmy glorious weather we're going to have after that. Get busy and get ready for spring. Call Belleview Glass now.

Have You Heard?

Perhaps in all your pre-Christmas frenzy, you didn't notice my news about the new division of Sidney Inn, and that's their carpet division located at the rear of the Mutual Life Building at 185 Pinnacle St. This spacious showroom has plenty of room for you to investigate carpet and you'll find the price selection interesting too. This outlet is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. but special appointments can be arranged by calling Al Whitney, the Sidney Inn owner at 968 9131. So in case you missed it, now you know.

Large Small Car Choice

Vader's Car Sales, at the corner of College and North Front St. tell me that they've got the small car for those of you who are looking for a good used car, strong on economy — which means gas mileage. Vader's also have a good range of automatics within their small car selection — and a variety of makes and models too. The facts of the family budget or the car needs of a two-income family may have told you 'plain and simple' that you need a good used car. Now, I'm saying, equally plainly and simply, that Vader's is the place to go.

ALL IN THE FAMILY/Isabel Huggan

Children or Not? It's Your Choice

To have kids or not to have kids, that's the question.

It's an issue that's really never come up much until recently.

Previous generations simply took for granted the facts of life. Marriage, then a family.

Childless couples could adopt, and only rarely did couples remain a twosome, and then usually for reasons of age or health.

Childless couples were not only uncommon, they also endured pity ("their lives must be so empty") or scorn ("imagine being so selfish and shallow"), or amusement ("they just baby that dog of theirs something awful!") from relatives and friends.

In the last few years, however, there have been a growing number of couples deciding to remain childless. More and better methods of contraception have meant that the choice is possible.

In fact, more children than ever are the result of thoughtful family planning, not chance.

But the choice itself – whether or not to be parents – is still a difficult one to make. Tallying the reasons for and against having children is even harder now that the pros and cons are almost evenly balanced.

Magazine articles and books are heralding a new age of freedom from parenthood, as well as a new responsibility to one's self and to mankind to limit population growth.

One of these books that makes interesting reading is The Baby Trap by Ellen Peck. She attacks maternal instinct as a myth, and parenthood as a life-long job that many are not suited for.

Using her own marriage as an example, Ellen Peck points out that the decision to remain childless can result in a better, deeper and more satisfying relationship. Romance doesn't have to fade, she says. In fact, it can increase as the years go by.

Travel, education and the pursuit of the good life are easier when there are only two to consider, instead of three or four or more, she says. And she argues, quite convincingly, that babies don't strengthen a marriage. If anything, they widen a gap between husband and wife that isn't closed until the children have grown up and gone away.

Her opinions are justified in the light of a recent survey by members of the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan. They've found, as you can read in the adjacent article that the happiest married couples are those without children.

The desire to have a family is often the result of social pressures that have little to do with the best possible life for either children or parents. But even if some choose to have babies for all the wrong reasons, surely there still must be persuasive arguments for parenthood.

Aren't there?

Put your thoughts down on paper and let us hear from you.

If you have children, perhaps you can explain how children have improved (or ruined) your marriage.

If you don't have children, you may be able to support your lifestyle or may want to talk about what joys your life lacks.

Address letters to Isabel Huggan, "All In The Family", The Intelligencer, 45 Pridge Street E., Belleville.

Survey Destroys Parenthood Myth

ANN ARBOR, Mich (Reuter — A team of United States university research experts, striking a blow at the popular belief that childless marriages are incomplete, say the happiest married couples are those without children.

As for the pains and sorrow associated with children leaving home to lead their own lives, the team said the truth was much the opposite.

"The time of the empty nest turns out to be a time of fulfilment," the experts said.

The team, headed by Angus Campbell, Philip Converse and Willard Rodgers, members of the Institute for Social Research of University of Michigan, has issued a series of findings based on interviews with more than 2,000 persons in 1971.

A chart on people satisfied with life as a whole, as based on the interviews, showed the happiest were married couples without children.

"Peope with children find that parenthood involves both costs and rewards and during the years of raising small children the costs appear to be substantial," the team said.

"Parents of young children show a great deal of strain both personal and economic, which gradually subsides as they pass through the stages of later parenthood.

"After the children are grown and the parents are alone again, their general contentment is again high and their companionship and mutual understanding surpass their preparenthood level."

Despite the growing divorce rate, the experts said the overwhelming proportion of married Americans are satisfied with their relationship.

Fifty-eight per cent of the married people asked said they were satisfied and only three per cent said they were more dissatisfied than satisfied.

The people least happy are those divorced or separated, the chart showed. Next comes widows and—a blow to the so-called swinging singles—persons not married.

Whatever the psychological costs of marriage, the experts said, the costs of being single are greater.

"People who are currently ingle generally report a good leal less satisfaction with life han the married persons and he lack of satisfaction shown by women and men who are divorced or separated is quite remarkable indeed," they said.

There is little support in the study results for the belief that housework casts a pall over the life of the housewife or that the working wife suffers from the pressures of having two roles.

"But college graduates who are housewives find their lives less rewarding than other housewives and, in particular, less rewarding than the lives of college graduate women who have outside employment," the report added.

People and Events

QUEENSBORO W I

Jean Tokley was hostess for the January meeting of the Queensboro Women's Institute held in the W.I. Hall recently. There were 15 members and four visitors present to hear an article on nickel mines at Sudbury read by Hazel Thompson.

Ella Thompson showed slides taken on her trip to the west coast, and on a trip to Florida as well.

Lunch was served at the end of the meeting.

ROSLIN W I

The January meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held at the home of Pat Isaac.

Plans were made for a bus trip in March, and for future entertainments of neighboring W I branches.

A donation of $25 was voted for the Thurlow Fire department fund for an emergency van.

Helen Howes led the program in which Laurie Martin gave a reading about getting along with others, and Maragaret Emmons and Annie Bates also read "New Horizons" and "Recipe for a Happy New Year".

MARMORA CITIZENS

The officers and trustees of the Marmora Senior Citizen's Association for 1975 were installed in a special ceremony at the January 8 meeting.

Eva Post begins her seventh year as president. Other officers are vice-president, Richie Wells; secretary, Marjorie Roussey; and treasurer Ada Donaldson.

The trustees are Gladys Leonard, Charles Lajoie and Harry Moffatt. The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Freda Leal.

The meeting opened with "The Lord's Prayer, following which Mrs. Post welcomed several new members.

It was decided that the clubroom would be open every Wednesday afternoon for anyone wishing to drop in for a game of cards or social time.

The meeting closed with "The Queen" and a social hour enjoyed while cake and tea were served.

Sugar Surge

LONDON (CP) — Sign of the times in sugar-short Britain Mr. and Mrs. Mick Wigley have a sugar-supply contact shipping them 40-ton loads. Wigley, who runs a removal company, has been steadily selling the sugar. Once a double-decker bus drew up at his house and disgorged a group of customers. A hearse driver stacked his purchase in the space usually reserved for coffins.

Eire's Civil Servants No Longer Need Gaelic

DUBLIN (Reuter) — An ancient linguistic quarrel is reverberating in the Republic of Ireland with a government decree that Europe's oldest vernacular tongue, Gaelic, will no longer be compulsory for civil servants.

Demonstrations in Dublin and protests by Irish cultural leaders quickly followed the government's announcement of the relaxation last November.

Constitutionally, Gaelic is Ireland's first official language, though spoken only by a minority. English technically ranks second. Over the years, the linguistic problem has acquired nationalistic and political overtones.

The present debate is over whether Gaelic is better promoted by compulsory or voluntary means.

Used in a crude form before the Romans came, Gaelic was the accepted language in the country until the 18th century. It lost strength through the growing influence of English and was greatly weakened during the famine conditions of 1845-48.

In announcing that Gaelic would no longer be obligatory for entry and promotion in the public service, government officials in Dublin made clear that optional Gaelic courses for civil servants will be increased.

Opponents of the decision assert that the ruling goes contrary to the policy of giving new life to Gaelic. This move started at the end of the 19th century and played an important part in the nationalist struggle ending with the proclamation of independence from the United Kingdom in 1919.

The Fianna Fail party, long dominated by Eamon de Valera and now in opposition, had made itself the defender of Gaelic even though economic circumstances have greatly reduced the number of areas where it is spoken.

Some critics say the present government coalition headed by Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave, composed of Fine Gael and the Labor party, is less rigid in its defence of Gaelic than the opposition.

Present government policy is to strengthen Gaelic, recognizing its cultural role but considering it unrealistic to seek to replace English as the language of business.

The program takes two forms: economic and social promotion for underdeveloped Gaelic-speaking areas and support of Gaelic cultural activities

For the Gaelic-speaking areas, a government ministry has been created which gives special subsidies for housing and seeks to create employment.

For the other areas, effort is concentrated on Gaelic television and radio programs, help for children going to Gaelic schools and the provision of theatrical or folklore troupes

The church also helps. In Dublin, at least one mass is said in Gaelic weekly in all parishes

At the popular level, the renaissance of cultural activity is apparent, particularly among the young people, thanks to recordings of hundreds of Gaelic folksongs.

In Dublin you can go to a Gaelic evening each night of the week and listen to a program dominated by story-tellers

Seated with arms crossed on the stage, they recount from memory for 15 or 20 minutes stories going back to the earliest days. These stories deal with Celtic myths about the sacred bull, hunting themes, beautiful princesses or St. Patrick.

'Horrendous Hazards' Seen In Hydro Nuclear Program

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro's pursuit of nuclear energy programs runs the risk of creating "horrendous potential hazards which may be irreversible for thousands of years," says a report by Energy Probe, an offshoot of Pollution Probe Foundation.

The report was to be distributed at a news conference today. Its authors are David Wood, Sandford Osler, William Peden and Wendy Johnston.

"Hydro is gambling that nuclear fission will provide most of the power for Ontario's soaring electrical needs," says the report. "However, these new forms of generating electricity have brought with them immense problems and potential hazards."

Ontario Hydro's $40-billion expansion program for the next 11 years is "blind to the immense social and environmental problems it implies for the future," continues the report.

Planned growth by Ontario Hydro "provides no opportunity to avoid these problems, consider alternatives and decide on other courses."

The reports' authors say Ontario Hydro defends its projected growth, doubling and re-doubling electrical capacity, by emphasizing the benefits it will bring to society's standard of living.

"The public is given the impression that it has no alternatives to the choices Ontario is making for them. Without this massive expansion and development, according to Ontario Hydro, we risk the possibility of blackouts, brownouts, shortages and potential economic depressions."

Energy Probe maintains that the opposite is true.

The report says Ontario Hydro's expansion program will promote inflation, promote emphasis on consumer-oriented society rather than a shift to a service-oriented society and take land from housing, recreation and agriculture.

Energy Probe suggests strong land-use regulations, research programs for alternate sources of clean, safe energy and a transition to a service-oriented, ecologically - balanced economy as alternatives to nuclear energy.

The major problems with nuclear power systems are radioactive emissions, storage and disposal of long-lived radioactive wastes and the possibility of nuclear accidents and thermal pollution, the report adds.

"The evidence of some United States atomic scientists strongly indicates that the emission from nuclear plants is already causing a tremendous increase in leukemia deaths and birth defects."

The authors state that large, above-ground, concrete storage buildings will be constructed in Ontario to store wastes from nuclear power plants.

Electrical needs could be cut in half, says the report, by "an honest effort."

"If we made consumption and production efficiency the focal point . . . rather than increased supply, we could substantially reduce our energy requirements to far below those of Ontario Hydro's future load projections.

"This would permit as a much greater flexibility of choice as to energy alternatives, yet still provide us with a very high quality of life.

U.S. Said Welshing On Supertanker Pledge

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. department of transportation was accused Wednesday of welshing on an understanding that supertankers plying Canada's West Coast waters would be required to be built with double bottoms.

That there will be no such stipulation when the new U.S. Coast Guard regulations come out next month was confirmed by Cmdr Richard Sutherland. The coast guard comes under the jurisdiction of the transportation department.

Jared Carter, deputy undersecretary of the interior, said: "We still favor double bottoms, but the department of transportation welshed on us."

Double bottoms, as well as radar surveillance and electronic navigation systems, are expected to be on the agenda here Friday when Canadian and United States officials meet to discuss Canada's objections to the planned movement by supertanker of oil from Alaska's north slope to refineries just south of Vancouver.

J. S. Nutt of Ottawa, director, general of the Bureau of Western Hemisphere Affairs, external affairs department, will represent Canada.

Quinte Homebuilders Endorse Proposed Warranty Program

The Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada (HUDAC) is planning a $4 million, five-year national warranty and insurance plan for new home buyers — forming protection against substandard building.

The plan which would allow a one-year warranty on builder-caused defects in a new home plus four years against major structural damage, was announced this week in a letter to provincial directors of Quinte Home Builders Association is a HUDAC member and has endorsed the program. Already, the local association has a standard warranty among its members but no insurance plan is available.

Bob Marcotte, president of the Belleville association, said Wednesday, "it would be premature to comment on the plan at this time."

"The concept will receive extensive discussion at the HUDAC convention in Winnipeg in February where something official will be announced," said Mr. Marcotte.

"Negotiations are still continuing between national and provincial HUDAC councils and between the entire group and the federal government," said Mr. Marcotte.

William McCance, HUDAC research director, said "the plan would ensure that new home buyers do not lose money because of sub-standard construction or builder bankruptcy and would protect them from fly-by-night operators."

The same spokesman said the plan would be administrated by an independent council which is non-profit and non-political.

Mr. McCance said the cost to the homeowner would be about $80 over the five-year period providing a maximum insurance of $30,000. He said about 150,000 dwellings would be eligible each year. Rental or mobile homes would not be covered.

Professor Stresses Need For Controlled Growth

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A geography professor zeroed in on provincial government Wednesday night for lack of policies controlling urban growth.

Dr. John N. Jackson of Brock University in St. Catharines, said urban-centred regions are the basic planning units, but "only gestures" have been made in the last 10 years to implement controls and to construct better cities.

Dr. Jackson was the speaker at a dinner sponsored by Centre Hastings Secondary School and the board of education at the Four Seasons Hotel. His address was part of a special urban geography program. The professor spoke earlier in the day at the Madoc high school.

"The problem is not to stop growth," said Dr. Jackson, "but where to accommodate that growth."

He outlined five hurdles to proper urban planning.

One is the failure of the government to develop an official plan "for its own responsibility."

"The plea must be for a framework provincial policy plan covering southern Ontario," Dr. Jackson said. "I doubt that if planning for growth and change can be undertaken by local representatives."

The planning period should be extended from the traditional 15 years to 35 years, said Dr. Jackson. He said planning for 15 years constitutes non-planning because of the number of years (four years in the Niagara region) required for the preparation of reports and documents.

The "sheer weight of inertia" of the inherited attitudes toward land is another hurdle. Land, Dr. Jackson said, is a resource which should be used in the best public interest, but this cannot be achieved without such measures to control the price of land. An official plan without such measures is a "charter for speculators", because it tells people where land is likely to become most valuable.

"The government should pursue an aggresive policy to support agricultural imperatives," he said. "Long-term strategies to keep the most fertile agricultural areas in active food production in perpetuity are necessary."

Canada will become an importer of food if fertile land continues to be lost to urban sprawl, he warned.

Finally, Dr. Jackson said, Canada must examine the urban experience abroad, and learn how to plan cities from the British and Scandinavian examples.

Yeates Suggests Move Government

The public is 20 years behind the realities of Planning, teachers attending an urban geography program here were told Wednesday.

Dr. Maurice Yeates, head of the geography department at Queen's University was a member of the reaction panel, whose members commented on the address by Dr. John N. Jackson, professor of geography at Brock University.

"If anyone is serious about solving urband problems, he will have to learn to manage urban growth," Dr. Yeates said.

The provincial government now spends 14 per cent of its annual budget on locating manufacturing plants outside the metropolitan areas. But, in the decade from 1961 to 1971 only three per cent of every 10 new jobs were in manufacturing.

Instead of moving manufacturing, with its low record of job generating potential, to outlying areas, the government should move its bureaucracy out of Toronto, suggested Dr. Yeates. A ministry with 1,000 employees would generate about 2,000 jobs in a community like Belleville and with families and service personnel necessary to accommodate them, would bring in a total of 6,000 new people.

Yeates Take 2

Bert Kenny, director of the Quinte Planning Board, said the provincial government spends its time "promoting The Plan, not planning."

He said preserving agricultural land brings frustration to the farmer. There is not a great demand for good agricultural land in this area, he said. For an older farmer whose children will not take over his farm, the acerage represents his pension.

"He tries to get the best buck for it," said Mr. Kenny, and it goes out of production.

"This kind of land should be bought by the province and landbanked for future agricultural use," he said.

Editor Says Retarded Need 'Normal Models'

By SHARON-AIRHART
Staff Reporter

Integration has replaced isolation as the goal of the community in dealing with mentally retarded persons, Betty Anglin said Wednesday night.

Mrs. Anglin, editor of the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded quarterly journal, was addressing a seminar at Loyalist College sponsored by United Community Services, the Association for the Mentally Retarded, the Ontario ministry of community and social services, and the college.

Mrs. Anglin told more than 300 persons that early in the century the mentally retarded were viewed as a menace to society and this led to their segregation.

In 1947, she said, the first association in the country for the mentally retarded was formed in Kirkland Lake.

"It's only taken us 25 years of work to turn that idea of isolation around."

"In the past the government has been eager to fill the needs of the big corporations — building roads and the like — but now we question the subordination of the needs of the individual to the corporation."

Institutions, she said, have been located in depressed areas for economic reasons not humanitarian reasons.

"We know now that the handicapped learn normal behaviour from having normal models around, not from isolation with only other handicapped persons."

"The first big step was that responsibility for the mentally retarded was changed from the ministry of health to the ministry of community and social services."

It's not a health problem, she said.

"When the community focuses attention only on that part of a child that is not functioning, parents and the community develop a vested interest in the child's disability and the child can't afford to get better."

Fire Guts House

City firefighters were called to a blaze at a vacant house at 70 Cannifton Rd. about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The two-storey wood frame building was undergoing renovations and was due to be converted to four apartments. Fire Chief Leo Culhane said the building is owned by Antonio Velente of Kingston.

Cause of the blaze, which caused extensive damage to the house, has not been determined, said the Chief.

Five units of the city fire department were called to the blaze when there was danger of the fire spreading to a nearby house. Firefighters stayed at the scene for about two hours.

Aluminum Wire Hazzard 'Exaggerated' Says Hydro

Due to the flurry of controversy surrounding the use of aluminum wiring rather than copper wiring, Ontario Hydro, following intensive investigation, says "reports of a higher incidence of fire in aluminum-wired homes are exaggerated".

During the last five years, approximately 95 percent of new homes constructed in the city have been built with aluminum wire.

These statements were made at a meeting of the Quinte Home Builders Association meeting Wednesday.

The controversy over the merits of aluminum wire originated in the United States. From there it gained momentum in the press and was published by Canadian papers before it was determined if a danger existed in Canada, said Percy Pickering, Ontario Hydro employee.

"The problems connected with aluminum wire have been blown far out of proportion," said Mr. Pickering. "It's not that severe."

The hydro spokesman said "it's not a question of aluminum versus copper, but a question of workmanship in preventing a fire."

"The dangers of fire are no greater with aluminum than with copper," said Mr. Pickering.

A major factor in Canada having a better performance record for safety is that Canadian aluminum is "a higher quality for wiring purposes" said Mr. Pickering.

"Our aluminum is a different alloy than the U.S. brand and it makes it safer," said the spokesman. He could not elaborate on the differences between the two conductors

While Mr. Pickering was steadfast in his defence of aluminum wire, he said it is wiser to have an electrical contractor do the work than for a homeowner to attempt its installation.

Lamprey Spawning In Lake

Ontario ministry of natural resources biologists have discovered the sea lamprey has a dirty trick up its sleeve that could mean it will never be eradicated from the Great Lakes.

The lamprey, a parasite that attaches itself to and kills valuable commercial and sports fish species, is blamed for having wiped out the lake trout population of the Great Lakes.

Control of the undesirable and costly parasite is considered to be largely successful in the upper lakes — Superior, Michigan, Huron and Erie — but the control program in Lake Ontario is not yet complete, and it may never be.

Alarmingly, a lake-spawning lamprey has been discovered.

Method of lamprey control has been to kill them off in the rivers and streams where they normally spawn, or to prevent them from getting upstream to spawn. This approach will have no effect on the lake-spawning variety.

Hans Von Rosen, fish and wildlife supervisor with the ministry's Napanee District, says discovery of the lake-spawning lamprey indicates total elimination of the parasites may be impossible.

Picton Captures IAPA Area Title

Picton — Prince Edward Collegiate Institute of Picton, Wednesday defeated Centre Hastings Secondary School, of Madoc, in the Prince Edward — Hastings Section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association School Safety Awareness Program.

P.E.C.I. three times grand champions, will now represent the Quinte area against a still undecided Ottawa Valley team in the Kingston Collegiate Vocational School on Janurary 29.

The Picton team, consisting of Warren McFaul, Eric Graham, Herb Pliwischkies and Don Leslie, consistently beat the opposition for answers to the questions used by moderator Jim Dunlop, IAPA chairman for the Prince-Edward Hastings section.

The members of the team can be comprised of any high school student from Grades 9 through 12 with some 133,000 students participating in last years events.

In an exhibition match held before the playoffs Bayside Secondary School went down to defeat 140 to 120 at the hands of Team 2 from Picton.

Robinson Winner

A judicial recount has reversed the school board election results in North Hastings.

Incumbent trustee Emerson Robinson picked up two votes in the recount Wednesday to win the school board seat by one vote over George Lackey of Carlow. The final count was Robinson 907, and Lackey 906.

Mr. Lackey was sworn in as a trustee with the county board last week, pending the result of the recount conducted by County Court Judge Russell Honey.

Mr. Robinson will now continue to represent Ward 1 on the school board, a post he has held since the board was formed in 1969. Ward 1 comprises the townships of Bangor, Wicklow and McClure, Hershel, Monteagle, Carlow, Dungannon and Mayo.

Damage Heavy

TWEED — Damage amounted to about $2,500 in a two-car collision on Highway 37 which occurred during Wednesday's snow storm.

Police said that the accident happened about 4.20 p.m. Wednesday on Martin's Hill on Highway 37, four miles south of Tweed. No one was seriously injured.

The driver of one car was Helen Rita Bosley, 32, of RR 4, Tweed who sustained $1,500 damage to her car. The second vehicle, driven by Collen Bennett, 66, of Toronto, sustained $1,000 damage.

Youth Charged

BLOOMFIELD — A Bloomfield area youth was charged with wilful damage early today after a window of Frank's Used Furniture on Bloomfield Main St. was smashed.

Charged is 16-year-old John Struthers of RR2, Bloomfield.

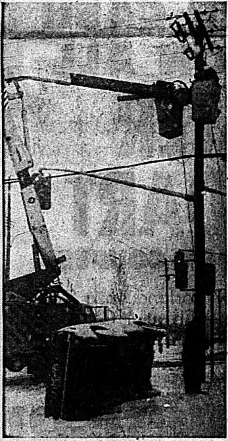
Police said a Bloomfield resident reported hearing the sound of breaking glass. No estimate of damage was available.

Police Busy

BRIGHTON — A woman of unknown age and address was treated for minor injuries and released from Trenton Memorial Hospital after a two-car collision on Highway 401, six miles west of here Wednesday.

Brighton Provincial Police say Christene Howard was taken to hospital by ambulance. The driver of the other vehicle, Roman Horban, also of unknown age and address was uninjured.

The two-car collision was one of 12 minor accidents in the Brighton area Wednesday.



Winter Wonder

Belleville motorist Sophia Christopher found herself topsy turvy Wednesday at the corner of College and Sidney Sts. Police had no details on the noon-hour accident other than the woman's name and a 125 Birch St. address.

Three Cars Collide

A three-car collision Wednesday caused the write-off of one car and extensive damage to the other two cars.

Police said the accident occurred at Sidney St. and W. Moira streets about 1.20 p.m. Wednesday in a heavy snowfall. No one was injured in the mishap.

The car written off in the accident was driven by Bruce Bankey, 50, of Third St., Belleville. He was travelling south on Sidney St.

The driver of the second car, Claude Arthur Roper, 50, of 94 Sidney St. was travelling north on Sidney St. The third vehicle, driven by Gordon Raymond Sine, 27, of S. John St., was stopped at a stop sign while travelling west on W. Moira St., police said, when the collision occurred.

The Roper vehicle sustained about $800 damage while the Sine vehicle received about $100 damage.

Conference Opens

Farmers Told to Expect Higher Costs

Keynote speaker at the first session of the three-day Quinte Farm Conference Wednesday was Professor K. Ross Stevenson of the department of crop science, University of Guelph.

The day was designated Energy and Machinery Day and Prof. Stevenson told an audience of about 140 Quinte-area farmers they can expect to have to pay more for fuel and for the farm machinery that consumes it in the future.

"The higher energy costs," he said, "will be most obvious in higher machinery and fertilizer prices and higher drying costs. I suspect we will see the following trends in the future:

"The trend to reduce tillage will continue. Reduced tillage allows a farmer to cover more acreage with the same equipment and reduces fuel consumption per acre.

"Also, higher machinery costs will put extra emphasis on preventive maintenance to either extend the life of a machine or justify a higher trade-in value," Prof. Stevenson said.

The University of Guelph professor also predicted that the natural fertilizer, manure, would be increasingly used. "It has become valuable enough that farmers can afford to spend a considerable amount of money to minimize manure losses.

In conclusion, Prof. Stevenson said farmer could not be expected to make any changes in their operations to conserve fossil fuel — oil and gasoline. "Farmers are in a high capital, high-risk business. They are in business to make a profit.

Decisions on production practices, he said are based on largely economic factors. However, farmers are very conscious of factors affecting land and the environment because their existence relies on the non-destructive use of land year after year.

"Because of this awareness," he said, "farmers will do their share to eliminate wasteful use of energy, but not to the point that would significantly reduce the net profit of their farming operation."

Other speakers on the first day of the conference dealt in detail with such topics as corn handling, the farm workshop, methods of tillage, approaches to planting and getting the most from the combine.

The conference continues through Friday.

Official Urges Early Farm Equipment Check

By BOB BOXALL

Hal Wright, secretary-manager of the Farm Machinery Board told Quinte area farmers Wednesday they can best avoid machinery problems by checking their machinery now and ordering the parts that will be required and therefore eliminate having to do it during the growing season.

Mr. Wright said his job is to resolve problems concerning farm machinery between farmers and manufacturers. He said he tries to clear questions that local area farmers pose concerning transportation, customs and foreign imports.

The Farm Machinery Board meets three to four timees a year to update policy and attends various farm shows and meetings to publicize and talk with farmers to see what problems are being experienced.

The board, he said, is also watching the effectiveness of the Farm Equipment Acts in the Prairie provinces to gather information in trends and shortages so information can be made available to the ministry of agriculture and aid farmers in other areas.

Safety Winners

Hinse Spree Sinks Oilers

When left-winger Andre Hinse goes on a scoring spree, it apparently doesn't matter who is playing goal.

Hinse scored two goals in the first period against Edmonton Oilers goalie Ken Brown and fired three more past backup goalie Chris Worthy to almost single - handedly propel Houston Aeros to a 9-2 win over Edmonton in one of five World Hockey Association games Wednesday night.

Hinse, a 29-year-old native of Trois Rivieres, Que., tied a league record with his five-goal performance and moved up to seventh place in the league's scoring race.

In other games, Toronto Toros and Phoenix Roadrunners played to a 5-5 tie, Minnesota Fighting Saints downed Cleveland Crusaders 4-2, Vancouver Blazers stopped Winnipeg Jets 4-2, and New England Whalers defeated Chicago Cougars 7-5.

Hinse's five-goal effort tied a league record held by Edmonton's Ron Climie and then New York Raiders' Ron Ward.

Hinse scored one goal in the second period and added two more against Worth in the third to help Houston goaltender Ron Grahame win his 11th game in a row—a league record.

Gordon Labossiere, Don Larway, Gordie Howe and Frank Hughes scored the other Houston goals, while Doug Barrie and Ray McKay replied for Edmonton.

At Winnipeg, the Blazers snapped a six-game losing streak with their [illegible] Jets and moved out of the Canadian Division cellar.

The Blazers are now tied with Winnipeg for fourth spot but have three games in hand.

Fran Huck's two goals led the Fighting Saints to victory at Cleveland.

Minnesota goalie Mike Curran made his first start in 13 games and recorded his ninth victory over the Crusaders, stopping 40 shots.

At Hartford, Conn., veteran defenceman Ted Green scored his second goal of the season on a power play to give New England its win over the Cougars.

New England had taken a 4-1 first period lead on two goals by Larry Picau and singles by Tim Sheehy and Tom Webster, but Chicago tied the game in the second period on goals by Rick Morris, Larry Mavety and Rosaire Paiement.

Tom Simpson and Paul Henderson scored goals 23 seconds apart in the third period to give the Toros their tie with Phoenix.

The Toros got another third period goal from Vaclav Nedomansky and first - period goals from Steve Cuddie and Brian Gibbons.

Jim Boyd scored twice for Phoenix and Cam Conner, Dennis Sobchuk and Michel Cormier added singles.

The financially-troubled Michigan Stags have postponed their scheduled home game against the Cougars tonight. In games tonight the Racers are at Indianapolis, and Edmonton is at San Diego.

Moser Buried

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — "He'll be with us when we pick up our medals in '76"

The remark, by Jack Donohue, coach of Canada's national men's basketball team, was one of many tributes to Mike Moser, the 22-year-old University of Waterloo star, who died in St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday of a heart attack.

"He was simply a super guy," said Carl Totske, athletic director of the university. "He was a tremendous athlete but not a natural basketball player. He had to work hard! He got more out of his skills than anyone I've known."

Funeral services were held here Tuesday for Moser who became ill while in Florida with the Warriors for a series of exhibition games.

After being treated for what was thought to be the flu, he was released from hospital Jan. 7 but was back three days later. Death was attributed to a heart attack brought on by a blood clot produced by bacteria resulting from inflammation of the heart membrane.

The Ontario Universities Athletic Association western division game between Waterloo and Wilfrid Laurier scheduled for Wednesday night was postponed in a tribute to the six-foot-six centre, the son of Wellington Region police sergeant George Moser.

Forest Heights Collegiate, for which Moser starred as a high school athlete, has established a fund in his memory and the University of Waterloo is considering a similar move.

Moser, who was considered a certainty for the national team that will participate in the 1976 Olympics, was described as remarkably determined by Waterloo coach Don McCrae.

"He'd set goals for himself and through his determination and hard work he would achieve those goals. He had this tremendous ability to organize himself. He'd work hard in early October so that he'd have a lot of his school work out of the way for the months of November and December when he knew we'd be involved in a lot of basketball."

"Mike was something special," said Paul Thomas, coach of the national team which toured China in 1972 and the Canadian team that played in the World Student Games in Moscow in 1973. Moser was a member of both teams.

"Mike added class and was a leader in giving our conference top standing in Canada," said Thomas, who is head coach at the University of Windsor."

"He was an unbelievable person," said Donohue. "He bubbled over with enthusiasm all the time. He made as much of his talent as anyone I've known."

Moser's high school feats earned him an athletic scholarship at Brown University in Providence, R.I., but after one year he returned home to play for McCrae, his old high school coach who by then was at the University of Waterloo.

"The team played well in Florida even without Mike in the lineup and they were happy and enthusiastic," said Totske.

"Then everything fell to pieces."

CJHL All-stars Do It Again

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — For the third year in a row the Central Junior Hockey League all-stars reached up and defeated Ontario Hockey Association major junior A competition in their annual confrontation.

The all-stars turned the trick 3-2 Wednesday over Ottawa 67s before about 1,300 fans here a day after the 67s had demolished Nepean Raiders of the CJHL 8-2 in an exhibition game at Nepean.

The previous all-star victories were against Toronto Marlboros and Sudbury Wolves.

Bob Bingley and Steve Waddington of Pembroke Lumber Kings scored 40 seconds apart to give the all-stars a 2-1 first period lead and league scoring leader Rick Bordeleau of Brockville Warriors salted it away at 18:17 of the third period after the 67s had tied the score 2-2 in the second.

Ottawa scorers were Peter Lee on a short-handed effort in the first period and Jim Roberts in the second.

Next regular CJHL action is tonight with Nepean in Gloucester against the Rangers.

Old Nemesis Haunts Bruins

The Canadian Press

The Bruins ran into an old nemesis at Montreal Forum Wednesday night and he prevented Boston from snapping a prolonged winning streak by the Canadiens.

Goaltender Ken Dryden, the hero in 1972 when Montreal eliminated Boston in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals, displayed some of his old-time form as the Canadiens stretched their unbeaten streak to 21 games by defeating the Bruins 5-3.

In other play, Chicago Black Hawks edged Vancouver Canucks 2-1. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated St. Louis Blues 4-1, Pittsburgh Penguins downed Atlanta Flames 5-3, New York Rangers clipped Minnesota North Stars 5-3, and Buffalo Sabres blanked California Seals 4-0.

Dryden, appearing in his 32nd game of the year, made 36 saves—19 in the first period, including seven on one Boston power play.

"It's the first time since we started this streak that we have been bombarded in the first period like that," said coach Scotty Bowman. Ken was excellent in that period."

The last time the Bruins were here Dec. 4, they rallied from a three-goal deficit to gain a 4-4 tie. At one stage in the second period, they trailed 4-1 but cut the margin to 4-3 with 8½ minutes gone in the third.

"I think we may have learned something from that last game," said Dryden. "They can score when the opposition is not applying themselves."

Said Boston coach Don Cherry:

"Any time you outshoot a team 20-5 like we did in the first period, you should w[illegible] Dryden was excellent."

Yvan Cournoyer scored his 14th and 15th goals of the year for the Canadiens who have 15 wins and six ties during their streak.

The Canucks dropped their seventh in a row at Chicago. Vancouver has not won a game since it defeated Boston Dec. 28.

Rookie Grant Mulvey's goal at 13:35 of the second period proved to be the winner for the Hawks, who now are five points behind the first-place Canucks in the Smythe Division.

First-period goals by Bob Neely and Errol Thompson carried the Leafs to their win at St. Louis while the Penguins ran their home-ice unbeaten streak to 12 games by defeating the Flames. The loss was the first in 11 games for Atlanta.

The Rangers scored three goals in the second period to defeat the North Stars, who lost their seventh in a row.

New York, hard hit by injuries all season, suffered another blow when rookie forward Rick Middleton fractured a fibula in his left leg. He is expected to be sidelined six weeks.

Two goals by Rick Dudley and shutout goaltending by veteran Roger Crozier paced Buffalo to its win over the Seals.

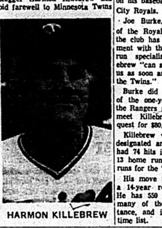
Wants New Life

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Aging slugger Harmon Killebrew has bid farewell to Minnesota Twins and hopes to gain a new lease on his baseball life with Kansas City Royals.



HARMON KILLEBREW

Joe Burke, general manager of the Royals, said Wednesday the club has reached an agreement with the 38-year-old home-run specialist and that Killebrew "can sign a contract with us as soon as he is released by the Twins."

Burke did not disclose terms of the one-year agreement but the Rangers said they would not meet Killebrew's reported request for $80,000 a year.

Killebrew will be used as a designated and pinch hitter. He had 74 hits in 333 times at bat, 13 home runs and drove in 54 runs for the Twins in 1974.

His move to the Royals ends a 14-year reign in Minnesota. He has 559 career home runs, many of them of record distance, and is fifth on the all-time list.

Kingston Midgets Advance in Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Kingston and Cornwall entries advanced with two local teams Wednesday in the annual double-knockout midget hockey tournament here.

Kingston battered Renfrew 8-1 to eliminate the Ottawa Valley entry from the 32-team, week-long event and Cornwall, with Scott Hills in goal, registered a 2-0 shutout over Gatineau.

Nepean doubled South Ottawa 4-2 and Hull Kiwanis defeated Trois-Rivieres 3-1 in a bruising, hard-hitting contest.

Stags Postpone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michigan Stags have postponed a scheduled home game tonight against Chicago Cougars, Dennis Murphy, president of the World Hockey Association, said Wednesday.

"The action is pending final disposition of the Michigan club at a meeting of the WHA's board of trustees in Edmonton on Monday," said Murphy. The meeting will be held in conjunction with the league all-star game Tuesday night.

Parun Outlasts Amitraj

LUCKNOW, India (AP) — New Zealand's Onny Parun outlasted Indian ace Vijay Amitraj in five sets Wednesday, giving his country a 1-0 lead in an Eastern Zone Davis Cup tennis semi-final.

Parun needed a little more than three hours to win 4-6, 6-2, 10-12, 6-3, 6-4 in the opening singles of the best-of-five series.

Amitraj's brother, Anand, was leading Brian Fairlie 6-3, 8-6, 7-9. When the match was adjourned. It will resume today when doubles also will be played.

Nicks Sweep PECI

PICTON (Special) — Nicholson Catholic College swept three games from Prince Edward Collegiate here Wednesday, dumping the local secondary school squads in senior, junior and midget competition in Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boys' Basketball League action.

The Nicks recorded a whopping 84-25 victory in senior, but were a little less overpowering in the other two divisions. In junior Nicholson won 44-38 and in midget they had to come from behind an 18-10 first quarter deficit to earn their two points.

9:00 — Sesame Street

The seniors defence never allowed Picton to get into double figures in any of the four regulation quarters. The Nicks outscored the local team 22-5, in the first period, 21-8 in the second, 20-7 in the third and 21-5 in the final quarter

Bruce Collins dropped in 18 points and Dale Wilson hooped 14 to top the Nicks scorers. Jeff Boyle and Chris Kalnay came up with 12 each, and Mike Hall had eight. Danny Kraszewski and Dave Holland scored six points each, Mike Gorman got four, and John Lynch and Peter Wilkinson rounded out the attack with three apiece.

Bryce Rutter led the way for the home team with eight points. Ed Hodgins had seven and Joe Gillies got five.

Steve Dolan led the list of Nicholson scorers in the junior contest with 13 points. Peter Paquet added eight and Boyd Kalnay and Martin Seemungul got seven eac. Ernie Rainbow was next with six.

Paul Milander replied with 14 for Picton and Joe Hacle got 10.

Jeff Jones' 15 points was tops in the midget game, but it wasn't enough to give his PECI squad a victory.

The Nicks got 14 points from Kitchen to earn the narrow, two-point victory. Mark Crawford added eight to Belleville's attack and Ron Finkle rounded out their scoring with four.

Bob Hanison was next on the Picton scorer's list with 12 points.

Storey Special Guest

KINGSTON — R. A. (Red) Storey, a former National Hockey League referee, will be guest of honor at the seventh annual Historic Hockey series here next month.

One of the most colorful officials ever to perform in the NHL, Storey will address a group of Kingston and district hockey greats and guests at the Holiday Inn, Friday, Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. The following day, Saturday, Feb. 8, at 2 p.m. he will face-off the puck to start the historic games on Kingston harbor ice.

One of eight referees inducted into the Hall of Fame, Storey officiated more than 2,000 games between 1951 and 1959. A sales representative for Joseph E. Seagram and Sons Ltd., of Montreal, he still referees old timers exhibition games.

Former NHL official Art Casterton of Kingston will handle the bell for the historic games. The series features Queen's University and Royal Military College teams that met in the first recorded match here in 1886, and Royal Canadian Horse Artillery of CFB Petawawa, representing the army garrisons teams which played shinny on the same open air site in the mid-1800s.

The three seven-man teams will meet in a round-robin series for the RCHA Brigade Association trophy. The gentleman cadets of RMC have captured the historic trophy the past four years.

The players, wearing uniforms of 90 years ago, including toques and knickerbocker pants, will attempt to score between two upright posts frozen in the ice between Confederation Park and Shoal tower.

The game will be preceded by a parade from Kingston Shopping Centre to the harbor front rink. Warm drinks and snacks will be available for the spectators.

Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali displays the Hickok Award he received in New York Tuesday honoring him as the Professional Athlete of the Year for 1974. Ali picked up 49 first-place votes and 249 points in nationwide balloting among sports writers and sportscasters. (AP Photo)

Ali Named AP Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali evened two scores last year—beating Joe Frazier and regaining the heavyweight championship he had lost out of the ring. For his successes, he has been named The Associated Press male athlete of 1974.

Ali, who regained the title by knocking out George Foreman in Africa, received 162 votes in a poll of sports writers and sportscasters from across the United States.

Hank Aaron, who broke Babe Ruth's career home run record by hitting No. 715 in April, finished second with 110 points and Lou Brock, who set a major league base-stealing record of 118, was third with 67.

Tennis star Chris Evert was named female athlete of the year for 1974 on Wednesday.

"Do they pick the best athlete or the most famous," asked Ali when informed he had been chosen.

"The best," he was told.

The 32-year-old champion had a lot to smile about in 1974.

"It was my greatest year," said Ali who opened it by beating Joe Frazier on a unanimous 12-round decision Jan. 28 at Madison Square Garden to avenge a 15-round decision loss to Frazier, then champion, March 8, 1971.

But it was Oct. 30 in the early morning hours in the African country of Zaire that Ali reached another peak in a career marked by these highlights:

His title-winning upset of Sonny Liston in 1964, the conviction for refusing induction into the military and his being stripped of the title in 1967, his dramatic return to the ring in 1970 against Jerry Quarry, the first Frazier fight in 1971 and the U.S. Supreme Court reversal of the draft-evasion conviction that same year, and his broken-jaw loss to Ken Norton in 1973, which many boxing observers felt signalled the end of his career

On that morning in Zaire, as a 3-1 underdog, Ali knocked out George Foreman in the eighth round and regained the championship, a decade after he first won it and seven years after he had it stripped from him.

Last year was also a big one to Ali financially. He got about $3 million for fighting Frazier and $5 million for his effort against Foreman.

In winning the poll, Ali become only the third boxer to do so. The others were heavyweight Joe Louis, in 1935 when he won the title by knocking out Jim Braddock, and Ingemar Johannson, in 1959 when he gained the title by knocking out Floyd Patterson.

Reds Really Rolling

Red continued to roll in the Quinte Women's Basketball League Wednesday night with a 60-30 win over Blue. In the other league game, White whipped Green 50-31.

Joan Watson led the list of Red scorers with 22 points and Ann Lietar was right behind her with 20. Lynn Burkitt dropped in 14 and Ann Rice got four.

Gabi Cornellier was tops for Blue with 16 points, Linda Belanger got eight, Sally Dollack had four and Barb Covert scored two.

Nancy Birch was once again the big gun for White as she popped 18 points and Dawn Smith had 13. Carol Northey and Donna Patterson got nine each and Margie Scanlon rounded things out with one point.

Debbie Oshimo, Carol Mott and Sheila Alexander got eight points each for Green and Elain McGrath, Patty Clapp and Irene Proux had two each. Lynn Brealey added a single point.

Caterers Crowding

Chuckwagon Foods lifted their record to 10-5-1 won-lost-tied Wednesday night with a 5-1 victory over last place Art's Esso in the only Gas House Hockey League game played.

The win left Chuckwagon in fourth spot in the league standings two points back of third place Belleville Generals and four behind Rollins Lumber in second. Stanley Structures continues to lead the league.

Mark Aquafreddo and Cliff Janitsch scored two each to lead their club to its win and Grant Sage added the fifth.

Bernie Robar replied for Art's which is still tied in the league's cellar with six points.

Lots of Competition in BMHA

John Burke closed the door on Quinte Rentals in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Atom Minor house league action on the weekend as his A and D Esso team skated to a 9-0 win, paced by three-goal efforts from Sean Boombower and Peter Seymour.

William Belch and Son topped Cherney's Furniture 5-2 with Brock Barager and Duane Emery scoring two each. Glen Graham had three goals and Tom Kelley, a pair, as Maher Shoes topped Belleville Yardmen 7-2.

In Atom Major, Reagan McGrath rattled in six goals as Ellis Printing topped Fry Ford Sales 12-1. Two counters by Todd Crawford led the way in Eastern Business Equipment's 5-3 defeat of Quinte Home Builders and Dairy Queen stopped Red Barn 5-3.

Paul Beilliveau potted three goals as Hawkins Chips shaded Clayton's TV 4-3 and Belleville Firefighters got by Bowes and Cocks 5-2.

Novice action saw first place Dixie Lee and runnerup Beaver Lumber score wins.

Dixie Lee brought its point total to 16 by defeating Local 1000 4-2 with Brian Cleary scoring three of the goals. Gordie Cook recorded a shutout in Beaver's 2-0 win over Warren Whitley.

Two goals by Jeff Freebrun sparked Stephen Licence past Uniroyal Radials 4-1 and Credit Union nipped Manpower 3-2.

Beaver Lumber is just two points off the pace being set by front running Dixie Lee. Beaver has 14 points; Whitley, 12; Stephen Licence, eight; Uniroyal, seven; Manpower, six; Credit Union, five and Local 1000, four.

First place King Penguins now have 21 points in the Peewee Minor standings, four more than runnerup Canadian Legion. Y's Men's Club is right in step with 16 points; Signs Unlimited has 10; Dairy Queen, nine; Bellewood, nine; Police Association, eight; Bob's Body Shop, eight; Cole's Jewellers, eight and Reid's Plumbing, four.

In Saturday games, Bob's Body Shop and Signs Unlimited played to a 5-5 draw; Y's Men shaded Police Association 3-2; Penguins topped Bellewood 8-3; Cole's outscored Dairy Queen 6-2 and Legion blanked Reid's 2-0.

Major Peewee section features a six-way battle for first place.

Circle TV leads with 16 points; Ellis Printing, Belleville Truck Centre and Belleville Conductors have 14 each; Elliott Motors has 13, and Trumpour Construction, 12.

Following in order are Motorland Chrysler and Duby Brothers with eight points each, Ideal Venders, four and Kings, three.

The Truck Centre team and Duby's played to a 2-2 draw, Saturday while Elliott Motors defeated Ideal Venders 7-1; Trumpour outlasted Kings 7-5; Motorland tripped Ellis Printing 5-1, and Circle TV beat Conductors 3-1.

Ed's Esso shows the way in the Bantam Minor grouping, with 18 points. Kiwanis, Lou Williams and Y's Men are deadlocked at the 13-point level while Blake Kerr Imperials and Ken Brooks Masonry have 11 each. McInroy is next with eight points; Belleville Broadloom and Red Shark are even with five each, and Legion has three.

Not So Fond Memories Return

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Seventeen years in the big time have worn the sharp edges of memory a little dull for Eddie Shack.

He is spending some time in the minors—his first visit since the 1965-66 season—and all the little things aspiring young players, or the not-so-enduring older players have to put up with are becoming clear again.

"You carry your own equipment here and there's no place to take a shower after practice," he said after an hour-long workout in a local arena with Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Hockey League.

But the two-week stint with the Blazers was his own idea. He asked to be sent down from the Toronto Maple Leafs in an attempt to play his way back into shape.

"I wasn't playing in Toronto and I hope to get in shape and get my confidence back here," said Shack.

His last trip to the minors was during the 1965-66 season when he played eight games with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League while a member of the Leafs' organization. Since that time he has played with Boston Bruins, Los Angeles Kings, Buffalo Sabres and Pittsburgh Penguins before being sold to the Leafs in 1973.

Shack has played in three Oklahoma City games so far and scored a goal in the Blazers' 5-4 victory over Denver Friday night. But Oklahoma City lost to Salt Lake City 4-0 Saturday night and to Dallas 7-3 Tuesday night.

Shack was awarded an assist on one of the Blazers' goals against Dallas.

Attendance at Blazer home games generally runs between 2,000 and 3,000. But for Shack's debut Friday night it climbed to 6,194.

By Tuesday night, though, it was down again to 2,107.

In talking about how hard the Blazers work, Shack said: "I've seen games in the NHL where the players didn't work as hard as the guys did here the other night. You might see Los Angeles play a game and it would put you to sleep. It's just up and down.

"The fans are missing a lot of good hockey. It's a lot more interesting and faster, to me, than football."

But that's where he parts company with the majority of Oklahomans, who pack football stadiums and boast of having the nation's No. 1 college team in the University of Oklahoma.

Quaraishi Top Soccer Pick

NEW YORK (CP) — Farrukh quraishi, named by coaches as the outstanding college soccer player in the United States last year, was the No. 1 pick in the North American Soccer League draft Wednesday.

The 23-year-old forward was chosen by Tampa Bay, Fla., one of four expansion teams.

San Antonio, another expansion team, took Sergio Telasquez, a forward from UCLA.

Defending champion Los Angeles, which obtained the right to pick third from Chicago, another expansion team, went for Michael Ian Bain, a halfback.

Chynoweth Building One Roof Over Major Junior A Triad

TORONTO (CP) — There is a strong possibility Canada's top three junior hockey leagues will band together and become a separate indentity, "maybe under the CAHA (Canadian Amateur Hockey Association) umbrella," Ed Chynoweth, president of the Western Canada Hockey Association, said Wednesday.

In a telephone interview from Victoria, where he is attending WCHL all-star game festivities, Chynoweth says he has been in contact with the Quebec and Ontario major junior leagues and is "very optimistic" they will join forces in their attempts to get money from the professional leagues for development of junior players.

Chynoweth announced Monday that WCHL governors had agreed unanimously to withdraw from the CAHA after this season, citing a lack of leadership in pressing the professionals for the money outstanding as the problem facing club owners in his league.

"I have been in contact with the Ontario and Quebec leagues, outlining our position to them and have made it clear that we want to continue in partnership with them.

"I am not in a position to speak for the Ontario and Quebec leagues, but I would say personally there is certainly a strong possibility that we will become a separate identity, maybe under the CAHA umbrella."

Chynoweth said the crux of his league's decision to withdraw from the CAHA "is that somebody had to take a stand. We can't continue to operate without being paid development money from the professionals.

The CAHA is in continuing contact with delinquent National Hockey League and World Hockey Association teams trying to collect the $640,000 still owed for drafted juniors.

"I'm sure the CAHA has attempted to get the money from the pros, but men on the CAHA executive cannot appreciate the problem of an owner who has to go into the bank for $60,000 to keep his team going."

The major reason for the WCHL's decision to withdraw from the CAHA is its desire to negotiate an agreement of its own with the pros.

"We would like to be in a position to receive the draft money directly from the pros immediately upon the signing of a player," Chynoweth said. "If the players can get a bonus for signing, why not the clubs they played for? We're always the poor country cousins. We always go to the pros with our hats in our hands, yet it's our product."

Under the one-year agreement signed among the NHL, WHA and the CAHA—in which draft money is sent to the CAHA head office and then distributed to the various clubs—the junior leagues are powerless to take action against the pros should draft money be overdue, as is the case this year.

CAHA president Jack Devine said Wednesday the association will hold discussions with the WCHL in the next few months in hopes of getting the league to change its mind about withdrawing.

Chynoweth, in response to Devine's offer for a meeting, said he would be receptive.

"We're open-minded people. We're not holding a gun to anybody's head. What we are saying to the CAHA is that they'd better reassess their system because under the present system, we're not interested."

Joudwa Leads McMaster Win

HAMILTON (CP) — A seven-goal third period lifted McMaster University Marlins to a 12-5 victory Wednesday over Ryerson Rams in the only Ontario Universities Athletic Association hockey game scheduled.

Kevin Joudwa, Paul Ciemny, Brian Toll and Carl Maragno each had two goals for McMaster with Wayne Dusome, Skip Foster, Murray Mark and Dave McCulloch getting the others.

Brad McCann had two goals for the losers. Ted Horobin, Paul Crouch and Mike Downey added one each.

The win was the Marlins' second in eight starts. The 2-4-2 record leaves them eight points behind first-place University of Western Ontario Mustangs in the west division. Ryerson is in the division basement, winless in nine games.

Games tonight have Western playing host to Brock University Badgers and University of Guelph Gryphons meeting Wilfrid Laurier University Golden Hawks in Waterloo.

CFL Coaches Want Bigger Rosters

EDMONTON (CP) — Coaches of the nine Canadian Football League teams agreed Wednesday that playing rosters should be increased from the current 32, but they did not agree on the number.

At a news conference setting the stage for a later announcement of the CFL coach of the year for 1974, coaches said economic factors would have to be investigated by owners and general managers before a new level could be set.

Joe Moss, who served as interim head coach of Toronto Argonauts last season and became an assistant again when Russ Jackson was hired as head coach, said the ideal roster would be 40, with taxi squads outlawed.

Ray Jauch of Edmonton Eskimos, Bud Riley of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Eagle Keys of British Columbia Lions said a more-practical number would be 36.

Jim Wood of Calgary Stampeders said the question of roster must not be left with coach "because we'd take all the players we could get."

Keys said every Canadian team is forced to keep players around because of injuries and advocated recognizing taxi squads—players who work out with the team but are not part of the roster—as a solution to he injury problem every club ncounters during a season.

Wood said a taxi squad of Canadian players would help solve e of the coaches' major diffi-ties, developing young prospects. Many young players lacked experience and were discouraged by being forced to move from team to team because the current 32-man roster did not leave room for them.

Wood said he was opposed to rules approved recently to open up the kicking game by allowing blocking above the waist on punt returns.

Blocking on punt returns will lead to injuries, he said. He doubted the change would oper up the game as much as wa intended.

"I think you'll find ever team kicking higher and shorte and being careful not to ki too far to provide coverag And we won't hesitate to ki out of bounds rather than gi the ball to a top runner.

"Take Johnny Rodgers of lontreal, for example. I'll fire e guy who kicks it to him."

Marv Levy, coach of the Grey p-champion Alouettes, said favored almost all the anges that promise to open the game, but he was un-ppy that a reduction to 11-n was not approved.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

THINKING OF BUILDING?

This is a good time to buy because there is a quantity of vacant land with severences, complete, ready to build on in the Spring. Call us about a lot in Foxboro village; one on the Moira River (complete with building permit) one at Wallbridge, one on the 5th of Tyendinaga (barn and cottage on an acre) and 15 acres of spruce and cedar at Lonsdale. — Varying prices and financing.

RETREAT HOME, BOTH GLAMOROUS AND RUSTIC

. . . Tough combination to get? Maybe, but if you use cedar logs, cedar shake roof, copper decks, pine floors than lots of glass, two fireplaces, three bathrooms away from sight of neighbors on 100 ft. of waterfront—then youve succeeded. School bus, township services, Crowe Lake near Marmora. Under $40,000. Come and see our photo coverage or call tonight. Mrs. Jo Grieve on duty (968-8347).

Chico No Chicano, This Raises Fuss

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was barely a year ago that Freddie Prinze first appeared on The Tonight Show.

Today he's the co-star of the television hit Chico and the Man, in which he plays Chico, who charms his way into a stormy relationship with a worn-out WASP garage owner, Jack Albertson.

Freddie, at 20, believes he can handle overnight stardom and weather the controversy that has arisen over the casting of a New York Puerto Rican as a California Chicano.

"I'm fed up with all that," he said in reference to protests by militant Mexican-American groups.

"Hey, black people made it cause they stuck together. The 70s is the time for the Latins to make it but we don't know how to stick together. The only way is for a Puerto Rican to play a Chicano and be applauded. The sound doesn't matter. The feelings are the same. Spick means the same thing in New York as it does in Los Angeles. The pain is the same."

All the protests haven't come from outside radicals. Ray Andrade, the Mexican-American associate producer of Chico and the Man, said he was "about 75 per cent happy with the image.'

Andrade once was president of Justica, a Mexican-American organization seeking equal rights for Chicanos. He led a protest that forced a commercial for corn chips off the air because it was derogatory to Chicanos.

"The only point is, Freddie isn't putting his heart into learning Chicano ways,' Andrade said. "He has the wrong accent. I've offered to take him to the barrio, but he doesnt want to go.

"He's a talented man. But he should get down to earth. I blame the producer, his manager. They keep telling him he's a star. They're taking him away from reality.

"He can be saved but if he's not handled right, he can be destroyed."

Prinze, 6-foot-2 and unmarried, said he's doing a Chicano as best he can.

GETS MESSAGE ACROSS

"I have the language, the mannerisms. The message we're saying to 40 million people college lecturers couldn't get across in 10 years There are people out there who don't know what a Chicano is."

He has been to a number of functions in the Mexican-American community in Los Angeles, where, says NBC community relations director Jay Rodriguez, he has been quite a success.

Freddie first performed on television in the dying days of Jack Paar's ABC comeback. A tape from that landed him on the Johnny Carson show, where he was seen by James Komack, producer and creater of Chico and the Man.

Freddie's mother is Puerto Rican and his father Hungarian. He calls himself a Hungarican. Freddie joined a gang and developed his humor as a protective device to disarm rival gang members.

He spent his high school years performing as a standup comic in amateur nights at coffee houses and nightclubs in New York.

After winding up at 3 a.m., he'd fall asleep in class the next day. Eventually he graduated from the New York High School of Performing Arts.

Freddie said he landed the part because he worked best with Jack Albertson, who already had been signed.

He said he went into the role of Chico wide open.

"Chico became me, not the other way around. He's street-smart. He has gutter sense. He's using his street-fighting instincts in a peaceful way. He's a very sensitive person.'

Freddie believes he can handle the quick success which, he said, he expected.

"When I was in high school they told me I was gonna be a bum. That gave me the incentive. I worked hard. I was lucky but I knew it was coming. I know one thing, I'm funny. They can't take that away from me.

"I make good money but Im not living in Beverly Hills and I don't have a fancy car. I stash my money in the bank. I see that my family is taken care of. I've got a few toys. I go out with the chicks.

"Sure, a lot of people tell me I'm a star. That's what keeps me the same. I want to hold on to what I am, what my family made me.'

Showbiz Briefs

NEW TORK (AP)—Rock promoters in the U.S. are singing the recession blues. Their ranks diences shrinking as inflation are dwindling and their au eats up teen-agers' spending money.

"This is the first year that rock 'n' roll hasn't operated outside the real world with its real problems; says Howard Stein, whose Academy of Music has succeeded the closed Fillmore East as New York's Carnegie Hall of rock.

"The kids are being forced to make decisions about which shows they will see and the many they wont see, as opposed to buying all the major concerts almost automatically.

"Basically, concert attendance is off somewhere between 25 and 40 per cent across the country."

Ron Powell, who books concerts in 16 cities in the Midwest and the South, blamed the downturn on the economy. The music is still popular, he said, predicting album sales will go up as concert attendance goes down.

In efforts to survive, John Scher, whose office is in South Orange, N. J. and Don Law, who books throughout New England from Boston, have "rescaled the house." Instead of charging $5.50, $6.50 and $7.50, Law is charging $6 or $6.50 for every seat in the concert hall.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Lambs Club, where theatrical personalities have gathered for more than 100 years, was sold at auction Monday for $350,000 to Tremont Savings and Loan Association, which held a $450,000 mortgage on the four-storey building in the heart of the Broadway theatrical district.

The sale was held at the direction of bankruptcy referee Edward Ryan to satisfy creditors.

The Lambs recently admitted Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis to its formerly all-male membership.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hiroo Onoda, the Japanese army officer who kept fighting the Second World War in a Philippine jungle for 30 years because he got no orders to stop, opened a tour of the United States Monday.

Onoda, 52, is promoting his book about his experiences. It already has sold 400,000 copies in Japan and earned him $200,000 in royalties.

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Winkler, who plays Fonzie, the super - cool, greasy - haired, leather-jacketed high school dropout on ABC's Happy Days series, has a master's degree from the Yale School of Drama.

He grew up in New York but says he wasn't a fun city Fonzie. He attended private school and wore a tie, a blue blazer and grey slacks each day.

He saw his share of Fonzies—people here call them "punks" if they are fleet of foot—but says: "I gave 'em a lot of room. I'd go upstairs on the roof of the nearest building if they were around."

Winkler, 29, says he has acted in about 60 plays and two movies—The Lords of Flatbush and Crazy Joe—since graduating from college in 1967.

The movies were followed by an appearance on the Mary Tyler Moore TV series and the lead in a Bob Newhart program. That led to an audition for the Fonzie part.

NEW YORK (AP) — American Bellet Theatre gave itself a gala evening of dance in honor of its 35th birthday.

There was a spoken tribute by choreographer Agnes de Mille and the award of Handel Medalions, New York City's highest culture award, to co-directors Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith at the ceremonies Saturday night.

The loudest bravos of the evening were for Erik Bruhn, the elegant classic dancer who retired from the company only two seasons ago. He danced, in Miss Julie.

Though only Bruhn did any large amount of real dancing, about 25 former dancers either took part in the evening's dances or took bows at the end of the evening.

Fernando Bujones, Buddy Balough and Terry Orr danced the opening trio from Jerome Robbins' light-hearted Fancy Free.

Agnes de Mille started in her original role in her 1941 ballet, Three Virgins and a Devil, to be replaced before the going got too tough by Sallie Wilson. Yurek Lazowski, who was in Ballet Theater from 1941 to 1943 was the Devil.

Cynthia Gregory, who also danced Miss Julie, was the Princess in the Rose Adagio, partnered by three former company stars, Igor Youskevitch, Andre Eglevsky and Scott Douglas and present principal dancer Gayle Young.

Messina Rocked by Quake

MESSINA (AP) — Two sharp earthquakes centred in the Strait of Messina rocked Messina on the Sicilian coast and Reggio Calabria across the strait on the Italian mainland early today.

Damage was light, but two elderly men died of heart attacks in Messina, police reported.

The Seismological Institute said the epicentre of both quakes was beneath the sea, about 12 to 18 miles south of Messina

Although no significant damage was reported, many of Messina's 200,000 people and Reggio Calabria's 250,000 fled outdoors when the first quake hit and spent the rest of the night in the open.

Messina was destroyed in 1908 by a quake that killed about 30,000 people.

In Reggio Calabria, streets were blocked by massive traffic jams as panicky residents fled to the outskirts of the city. Some crowded into the city's soccer stadium. Electric power was lost briefly.

Schools were empty today after most of the students spent a sleepless night outdoors.

Not Guilty

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday found Walter Laaneoja, 58, not guilty by reason of insanity on two charges of murder laid in connection with the stabbing death Feb. 1, 1957, of Gerard Castonguay and his wife, Jeanne d'Arc.

Laaneoja was brought before the courts soon after the incident but was found unfit to stand trial at the time. He since has been held at the maximum security unit of the Mental Health Centre, Penetanguishene, Ont.

Your Horoscope

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, January 17

Aries (March 21-April 19) Although you'll be tempted to do otherwise, manage things from behind the scenes. Let another take the bows.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A philosophical discussion will arise with a friend. To make your points and keep your pal, keep your temper in check.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Be very tactful in handling people you have authority over. Don't reward one and ignore the others.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Be careful how you phrase things or you'll pit one listener against the other and have both upset at you.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You tend to be a bit too possessive today. You're not likely to take polite measures to cover your feelings.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a good day to extend an impromptu invitation to come to your home, without consulting with your mate.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) For the sake of your efficiency, pace yourself sensibly workwise. The more you hurry, the more careless you'll be.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will be a contest between better judgment and your impulses as to which rules your purse today. Make it at least a draw.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A material issue could be the reason for a nasty family dispute today. Be sure you're not the one who provokes it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't revive something that has angered you concerning one now essential to your immediate plans. It will impede progress.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This will be a mixed day for you, moneywise. Prudent management of finances is essential to wind up in the black.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep friends out of your business matters today or one who means only to help will cause complications.

Some experts are more expert than others. If you don't think so, just look at this hand played by Lou Mathe of Los Angeles in an important team match.

North's double of two spades was one of those popular but rather confusing negative doubles that experts like to use. It asked Mathe to bid a new suit if he could do so

North's three spades was sheer idiocy. Normally the bid would be a slam try and Mathe's four-heart call was his start to a slam in one of the minor suits. North realized he had gotten himself into trouble and decided to pass while still alive.

West opened with the king and ace of spades and then made the brilliant lead of a low spade. East ruffed with the jack and Mathe simply discarded a diamond.

Since East had started with four hearts there was no way to keep Lou from taking the rest of the tricks and chalking up a thoroughly undeserved game

Strangely enough, there was no way to beat him once West had cashed two spades, provided Lou figured out where all the cards lay.

What do you do now?

A — The scientists have all sorts of fancy ways to bid this hand. You should either underbid four spades or overbid four notrump. You do overbid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

In response to your Blackwood overbid your partner bids five diamonds to show one ace. What do you do now?

To Your Good Health

Early Emphysema Missed by X-rays

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About a year ago I had a chest x-ray and was told there was a possibility that I had pulmonary emphysema. My doctor advised me to quit smoking.

Since that time I have had three x rays taken of my chest, and they show that my lungs are clear and free of disease. What I want to know is whether or not I have emphysema that is not showing up on x-rays, or whether it has cleared up since I quit smoking.—Mrs. M.P.

The damage done to the lungs by emphysema cannot be repaired, so in that sense if you had emphysema, you would still have it.

However, when you quit smoking you compensated for the damage by reducing any extra strain on the lungs by just that much.

Now as to the x-rays. In the early stages of emphysema, an x-ray of the lungs is usually inconclusive, and the disease — which then resembles other lung ailments such as bronchitis—is diagnosed more from such symptoms as shortness of breath, chronic coughing and spitting up of mucus. Therefore, at the outset, lung function tests are often more conclusive for a correct diagnosis of emphysema than x-rays.

But in the advanced states of emphysema, x-rays are more revealing. On the three recent x-rays, your lung expansion apparently shows a marked improvement over the earlier one.

If you had emphysema, there would have been a tendency for your lungs to get progressively worse, especially had you continued smoking. Consider your experience a good warning: having stopped smoking, do not resume it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was on tranquilizers for his nerves. Can you get into a habit and crave these like other drugs?

The doctor doubled the amount and his mind became fuzzy, his tongue thickened and his speech was different. He was so unstable he could hardly walk, couldn't focus his eyes. Was it an overdose?—Mrs. E.B.

Yes, a person can become psychologically addicted to the tranquilizers, although this is not the same as physical dependence, which is true of the hard drugs.

The mental fuzziness resulted from the increased dose and indicates he is getting too much. This is an effect of the drug's depressant action on the brain centre that controls the motor activities, of which walking and eye focussing are examples.

The fuzziness you mention, incidentally, is the reason why we hear now and then of people overdosing and dying. In most cases it is not suicide but the result of the person's forgetting when he or she took the last pills and repeating doses at too short intervals.

There are about a half million pounds of tranquilizers consumed every year in the U.S. Much of it is used soundly, but in some cases tranquilizers mask symptoms of mental disturbance which might otherwise be treated. More often they provide a means of escape from normal daily pressures of living that in the end are seldom faced.

Floating an Idea

Don Keller (middle), first vice-chairman of the Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee, points out the benefits of his parade float application form to chairman John Lewars and secretary Peter Richardson following this weeks annual committee meeting at Ben Bleecker Auditorium. The proposed form, to be refined later this year, would allow the committee to be aware of the exact makeup of each float, and all aspects surrounding the entry.

Controlling Shoplifting Proves Challenging Life

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — One of the shoplifters encountered by Bill Mason was a small man who dressed in a nun's habit before going out to help himself at a store in British Columbia's Lower Mainland.

Mr. Mason is a store detective and manager of a detective agency which deploys its agents in some of the Vancouver area's largest and most susceptible retail outlets. His is one of many agencies throughout the country attempting to curb a crime which cost Canadian merchants an estimated $300 million in 1973.

In the United States, recent reports indicate shoplifting cost merchants $4.8 billion last year.

Mr. Mason once had to chase a shoplifter four miles through the streets of Surrey, near Vancouver, only to have the thief leap bareback onto a horse and gallop across a field. Mr. Mason and an associate raced to the far end of the pasture and apprehended the culprit. All for a small amount of merchandise.

Shoplifting has its tragedies too. An example was the 13-year old girl who hanged herself after being caught shoplifting.

Shoplifters range from elderly kleptomaniacs to airline pilots, and most of them have money when caught.

The largest amount Mr. Mason can recall is $1,200 but most have more than enough to pay for the items they steal. Some in fact, are among the wealthier elements of the population.

Mr. Mason said most of the shoplifters are amateurs and a large proportion are juveniles.

"It's the kids who are stealing us blind," he said.

Mr. Mason cited the example of one Surrey store which recorded 44 adult shoplifting cases in 1973 and 53 in the juvenile category. Last year there were 46 adult offenders and 105 juveniles.

Mr. Mason said the offenders are coming from younger age groups every year.

Apathy is one problem that Mr. Mason singled out to explain why only one in every nine shoplifters is caught.

"Nobody gives a damn about shoplifting. Everybody turns a blind eye to it—the parents, the schools, even the merchants.

"The merchants don't give a damn because they can pass it on to the customer. Shoplifting is either tolerated or ignored.

"And a lot of it is their fault. Their staff is not properly trained and most of them don't have good security systems."

But it is the lack of conern of parents that is chiefly to blame, said Mr. Mason.

"You woald expect parents to take an interest when the kid brings in $500 a month in clothes but they don't say anything."

Store detectives must match the shrewdness and doggedness of their adversaries.

Detectives are employing a host of gimmicks ranging from dressing as though they were down-and-out to working from a wheelchair. More women are being hired as store detectives and also more persons from diverse ethnic groups.

The problem, however, is too big to be handled by detectives alone. Mr. Mason suggested the provincial government should establish a retail division in police departments similar to the one in Vancouver.

He said every case, even those involving juveniles, should come to court. Penalties, which locally were about $25, should be increased to $250 as they are in Victoria and Nanaimo, B.C., where shoplifting was on the decline.

Also Mr. Mason said the retailers should provide training to both regular and detective staffs and install more sophisticated equipment to thwart shoplifters.

In the meantime, Bill Mason and his associates will have to continue lurking the aisles.

"All I can do is keep picking them up and watch broken-hearted mothers come in," he said.

Prisons for Restraint, Not Rehabilitation

VANCOUVER (CP) — "The state should keep out of people's heads and out of their psyches," says Mervyn Davis, 54, who recently resigned from the job of executive director of the John Howard Society after nearly 20 years.

"Society is being softened up to accept that it is the right and responsibility of some agency of the state to make people into the kind of persons that state thinks they should be," he said in an interview.

He said prisons are for restraint and control, not rehabilitation. There were resources in the community which could help, but rehabilitation was a job only the individual could do on himself.

To tell a felon he is a victim of society and essentially helpless without massive psychological, emotional and social support from others is to counsel despair, he said.

"We can control our behavior and be held responsible for it and for our own rehabilitation. To the extent that we are not, society is justified in exercising restraint.

"For a psychiatrist or panel institution to say the only hope for you is to get the right kind of help initiates an endless pursuit and one that takes you away from yourself and your own responsibility."

When Mr. Davis joined the John Howard Society in 1955, the issues were "cruelty and material deprivation in prison."

Physically prisoners are much improved over those of 20 or 25 years ago because of better nutrition and medical care, he said. "The issues now are of character and personality destruction."

"There's a whole experience built on the idea that we (society, social workers, correction officers) are responsible and will develop structures to help you become the person you should be. If we don't do the right things to change you, the fault is ours, not yours."

Mr. Davis said many people misunderstand the place of guilt, penitence and punishment.

"The whole rehabilitation trip is that you shouldn't feel guilty; your should be helped. Guilt is one of the major means of controlling behavior. Denial of it is an outgrowth of misapplied Freudianism.

"You see people in prison for the ninth time and they say, 'if I can just find out why I do these things. . . .'

"We need to help people handle guilt, not deny it."

Mr. Davis thinks the present system of handling offenders is cruel, with an attitude of "we're doing this for your good."

"And it's not working. If it costs the taxpayer $11,000 a year to keep a person in an institution, see that you are getting value for it."

He suggested probation, fines, discharges with no prison sentence but that jail terms might be employed, depending on the individual offender, the situation, the victim and the misbehavior in terms of the values of society.

He supported the proposal of John Hogarth, recently appointed head of the British Columbia Police Commission, that the criminal justice system de-emphasize service to the criminal in the form of rehabilitation and focus on service to the victims of crime.

"I buy that. A byproduct will be the best form of rehabilitation; the individual faced with the consequences of his act. We have tended to lean heavily on the Criminal Code. We should re-emphasize moral teaching.

"There are people in prison completely unaware they have done anything wrong. If you mention their victims, they say, what's that got to do with us?"

Mr. Davis said he was leaving the society for personal reasons.

$950 Million Lost In U.S. Auto Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Later this month, the government will release figures that show a $950-million loss on automotive trade with the United States during 1974, and trade officials expect a similar deficit in 1975.

Ten years after it was signed—on Jan. 16, 1965—this record deficit is one sign that the Canada-U.S. auto pact has turned sour for Canada.

In recent months, both industry and union groups have begun petitioning the government for a review of the trading arrangement.

The Automotive Parts Manufacturers' Association and the United Auto Workers union have each received sympathetic audiences, but no commitments, from Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie.

Red Espionage Aimed at IBM

BONN (Reuter) — West Germany has cracked a Communist-directed espionage ring aimed against the U.S. International Business Machine (IBM) computer concern, federal public prosecutor Siegfried Buback said Wednesday.

Buback said nine persons have been arrested on suspicion of disclosing secrets about electronic data processing techniques of the West to an Eastern European secet service.

He told a news conference police investigations also involved three other persons, but declined to name any of the suspects or state their nationality.

IBM in a statement from its Stuttgart headquarters, later said one of the nine arrested was an employee of the company.

It denied an earlier Reuters news agency report that all nine arrested worked for the firm. The report arose from a misunderstanding of the federal public prosecutor.

IBM, which specializes in electronic data processing and employs 24,000 people in Germany, said the employee arrested was an equipment maintenance man.

The firm said it had co-operated with the police in their enquiries and declined to disclose any further information.

The public prosecutor said the industrial spy ring had passed on secrets to a special department of an Eastern secret service, but did not name the country. Informed sources in Bonn identified it as the Soviet KGB.

Buback claimed to have cracked one of the most significant industrial spy rings in West Germany. He said the investigation began Dec. 22 when two people were caught microfilming computer maintenance manuals in an industrial firm in Frankfurt.

New Command to Unite All Canadian Forces Air Activities

Staff - CP

OTTAWA — Creation of a new air command within a pared-down armed forces was announced today by Defence Minister James Richardson.

The new command will co-ordinate all Canadian forces air activities, a CFB Trenton spokesman said.

But, indications are the move will cause no significant changes at CFB Trenton.

A base spokesman said today the big facility — home of Air Transport Command and four transport aircraft squadrons — will remain intact as a base and no aircraft will be moved.

The new command, announced by Mr. Richardson, is in effect the creation of an air force within a combined service and is expected to include air transport, air defence and the air contingent in NATO.

Air command will unite Mobile Command — the land element — and Maritime Command — the sea element.

The minister — who is from Winnipeg — said headquarters for the new command will be somewhere in Western Canada.

At CFB Trenton, Capt. Robert Burke, base protocol officer, said the move will definitely affect Air Transport Command "in some way — what way we don't know."

The Trenton base is home for Air Transport Command — administrative core of the service's air transport — a distinct unit from the carrier squadrons.

Capt. Burke said it was not known what the implications of the new move for the command unit were. It was not known how many — if any — personnel might be moved to the new western command headquarters.

Asked if the entire Air Transport Command headquarters could be involved he said that "is speculation and I wouldn't jump to conclusions."

He said there had been no word on a single person being moved.

But the four transport squadrons will remain based at Trenton, he said.

Pick up CP 146 fifth para Mr. Richardson.

The minister also announced that the level of Canadian forces in the United Nations operation on Cyprus will be reduced to about 450 from its present 750 during the next six months.

At present the contribution to the Cyprus force is made up of members of Royal Canadian Regiment from London and Petawawa, Ont.

During the height of hostilities last year 950 Edmonton parachute troops also were on the island.

The minister said any adjustments made necessary by the fact that the forces now are down to about 70,000 troops, about 3,000 below last year's peak strength, will simply mean some juggling of existing manpower.

Some unfilled positions will be left vacant and some personnel will be relocated and retrained.

Mr. Richardson, speaking to the Canadian Defence Association's annual meeting, outlined some reductions within the forces made necessary by inflation-caused reduction in personnel this year.

These are:

—The base at Val d'Or, Que. will be turned over to the transport ministry and the CF-101 squadron there will be returned to Bagotville, Que. next year;

—The radar station at Moosonee, Ont., will be closed;

—The number of CF-101 air defence interceptors will be reduced to 44 from 56; the number of Argus long-range patrol aircraft to 26 from 32; the number of CF-5, troop-support planes to 20 from 27;

—Seven Falcon jet transports, which are nine-passenger executive jets, will be retired.

"If that decision—our decision to eliminate our VIP transport aircraft—does not demonstrate our determination to cut costs, nothing will,' the minister said.

He said the changes are "common sense judgments which do not impair to a significant degree our ability to ensure the maintenance of our sovereignty in the North or in any other region of Canada."

Ulster Truce Ended

BELFAST (Reuter) — The Irish Republican Army IRA today ended its 25-day ceasefire in the guerrilla war which has cost 1,300 lives during the last five years.

A bomb was thrown at an army observation post in Belfast minutes after the ceasefire ended at midnight Thursday night.

A police patrol in the Ardoyne area, an IRA stronghold, came under fire from gunmen and shooting also was reported from the Falls Road area of the city, another Republican district.

No one was wounded in the three incidents, but a British soldier was injured by gunmen while on guard at a power substation near Tandragee in County Armagh. He had challenged the two men as they were trying to climb the station's fence carrying a suitcase.

Resumption of hostilities was ordered Thursday night by the IRA's eight-man army council which has been meeting daily in Dublin since Sunday to consider the British government's response to the truce.

There still was hope among politicians that the new bombing campaign will not start before Monday.

The statement from the IRA council calling off the truce blamed a lack of British response to its peace proposals for the breakdown of the ceasefire. It also accused the British forces in Northern Ireland of not observing the truce.

The statement said the council could not renew the ceasefire order which had been issued shortly before Christmas for a period of 11 days and extended for another two weeks on Jan. 2.

First, Plenty of Study

Replacing the aged Bay Bridge linking Belleville and Rossmore won't happen overnight. For one thing, public opinion and other surveys are needed before a choice is made of site and structure, says a transportation and communications ministry team discussing the project with local area governments. It could be 1981 before all construction preliminaries are finished said the officials who wound up its visit in Thurlow township offices Thursday. Scrutinizing plan of study area are (from left) Reeve Horace Casey, Councillor Garnet Denyes and ministry officials Tim Stevens, Peter Pinfold and Harry Vander Kooij.

Three-man Team Reports

Bridge Stays For 6 Years

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

No new Bay-of-Quinte highway link will replace the Belleville-Rossmore Bay Bridge for at least six years.

And even that timing could depend on future Ontario government budget priorities.

Of necessity, this means the Bay Bridge is in for more repairs.

Those are the indications from a provincial ministry study team which spent the last two days discussing the project with local government spokesmen in the Belleville-Picton district.

The three-man team tour was the forerunner to a start on serious study of the project which would replace the aged Highway 14 span now bridging the Bay.

The study alone — its area stretching well east and west of Belleville — will take 18 months to evaluate a site and what form the new link will take.

Then comes the process of planning and land acquisition, said Tim Stevens, project design engineer with the transportation and communications ministry.

As a result "the earliest we foresee a start on the new crossing would be 1981 — and that would be dependent on the provincial budget," he told Thurlow township officials as the team wound up its on-the-spot discussions Thursday afternoon.

The talks were aimed at setting the scene for the formal study which will require input from the public, planners and municipal governments involved, said the officials.

Stevens, with ministry colleagues Harry Vander Kooij and Peter Pinfield, discussed the preliminaries with administrative and political representatives of Prince Edward and Hastings counties, the city, Sidney and Ameliasburgh townships.

The study area is about a 15-mile reach of the Bay, from Point Anne to CFB Trenton.

"We have tried to make it cover all possibilities," explained Mr. Stevens.

Introductory information from the ministry adds that the area "should be considered as a general guide only at the beginning of the study to ensure ... no reasonable alternative locations will be overlooked."

Intentions for a new link were first announced Aug. 28 by Transportation Minister John Rhodes after viewing the present swing bridge-causeway that joins Prince Edward County to the Belleville-area mainland.

At the time, Mr. Rhodes said "if logical" the new structure — a bridge peaking to about 90 feet — would be built at the present site.

Later the project's location became a political issue among local governments. Ameliasburgh and Sidney township councils, supported by Prince Edward county council, proposed a route further west, hooking into Loyalist-Wallbridge Road.

With direct access to Highway 401, this would bypass downtown Belleville. A petition was circulated in the Rossmore area to retain the present site. Belleville city council also suggested a tunnel be considered as an alternative to a bridge.

These were among other pointers mentioned by the ministry men at the Thurlow briefing:

— Ameliasburgh spokesmen had suggested the possibility of a swingbridge higher than the present structure. This would facilitate more boat traffic while reducing bridge openings and road traffic delays.

— Tunnel construction is costlier than bridge-building, although the approaches are shorter.

— And cost alone is not the sole criterion in the project. In fact, it is only one of 17 guidelines laid down for the study. These also include safety, road network links, effect on environment, agriculture, recreation and esthetics.

The study team hopes to meet with municipal government technical representative during February; meet in March with local councils and gather public input in later weeks.

After the study is finished it will then be evaluated. Then it goes to the minister who will review the information and announce the selected route.

Some "extensive repairs" to the present bridge deck may be done before the summer season, said Mr. Vander Kooij, and work undertaken on its electrical controls system after the boating season.

$32 Billion Funds Aid Oil Buyers

WASHINGTON (CP) — Finance ministers from most of the non-Communist world agreed in principle Thursday to set up two multi-billion-dollar lending facilities to help countries shaken by soaring prices for oil and other commodities.

Ten of the wealthiest Western countries, including Canada, agreed to set up a two-year, $25-billion "safety net" under their own economies and those of 15 other well-to-do countries.

All 126 member countries in the International Monetary fund (IMF) approved a separate "oil facility," with up to $7 billion in funds, to be financed largely by the oil-exporting countries and loaned to countries having trouble meeting their inflated oil-import costs.

Canadian Finance Minister John Turner told a news conference that the two loan funds represent "significant progress in assuring the world of economic stability."

He said he expects the decisions reached will "reinforce business confidence around the world" and encourage national governments that it will be possible "to deal with a difficult global economic situation."

Bourassa Raises Iron Workers' Pay

QUEBEC (CP) — Striking Quebec iron workers are expected to vote to return to work today following a government-imposed wage settlement designed to end a labor dispute that threatens the 1976 Summer Olympics.

Leaders of a common front of workers involved in the eight-week walkout decided Thursday to recommend acceptance of the settlement proposed earlier in the day by Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa.

A vote by 1,200 striking iron workers today almost certainly will confirm the union leadership's position, said common front spokesman Andre Vachon.

The settlement gives Quebec's 100,000 construction workers an 85-cent-an-hour increase.

Premier Bourassa told a news conference 59 cents an hour will be retroactive to Jan. 1, with an increase of 26 cents to become effective May 1.

Mr. Bourassa declined to say what measures would be taken if the iron workers continue to demand a $1-an-hour increase.

Some union and employer groups were unhappy with the settlement.

"Once again, reprehensible acts, illegal behavior and provocative attitudes have permitted workers to win their cause," said the Quebec Construction Federation, the province's largest employer association.

Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), said a 75-cent-an-hour increase was needed "immediately" to match the loss of purchasing power through inflation.

The iron workers have complicated the future of 1976 Olympics, already under severe public scrutiny after it was revealed costs will soar to $653 million from the original estimate of $310 million.

Most of the increase was for construction of the main stadium. The latest estimate for the 70,000-seat facility is $380 million.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau and the Olympic organizing committee will have to appear before a national assembly committee Tuesday to explain the increased costs.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Trudeau said the federal government will not pay any deficit incurred by the Olympics.

Premier Bourassa said the Quebec government is ready to help "provided interested parties offer a minimum of co-operation."

He said Mayor Drapeau's objective of making the Games pay their way still applies and additional revenue sources, such as another lottery and the sale of more Olympic coins, are being considered.

La Ronge Dog Pack Kills Boy, Aged 3

LA RONGE, Sask. (CP) — A three-year-old boy was killed Thursday by a pack of stray dogs.

Sean Douglas McNeil, son of Dr. and Mrs. Maitland McNeil, died after being dragged and mauled by the dogs in the street in front of the family's home.

The boy had been crossing the street to a neighbor's to play when he was attacked by the pack of about 10 dogs.

His mother attempted to rescue the boy but he was dead when she reached the scene of the mauling about 150 yards from the house, an RCMP spokesman said.

RCMP said they have proceeded to shoot all stray dogs in the village.

A special meeting of the La Ronge village council was held after the incident and, following the meeting, Mayor Harry Houghton said village councillors had supported him in demanding strict enforcement of the village's dog bylaw.

In the past many dog owners have opposed the implementation of the bylaw which allows authorities to shoot and destroy stray dogs, he said.

"It is a terrible thing for a three-year-old boy to be torn literally to pieces, limb from limb," the mayor said. "There was a trail of blood right down the street."

Plan April Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal-provincial premiers conference on energy and the economy will be held in early April, Prime Minister Trudeau announced Thursday. He told reporters following a cabinet meeting that no suitable dates for the conference could be arranged in February or March. But all premiers were free to attend a meeting early in April. Exact dates were not announced.

Reeve Suggests End To City's Growth

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Local government and the implications of regionalization were the topics examined Thursday evening by the Belleville and District University Women's Club.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey and Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen were speakers for the monthly meeting held in the Corby Library art gallery. In their speeches they highlighted all sides of a question that concerns residents of Hastings county: What kind of government best suits our future goals?

"I'm opposed to any more changes in the political structure of this particular county,' said Reeve Allen in her opening remarks.

"There are enough regional boards and commissions already," she added.

Any further expansion of the regional concept would be bad for the county, said Reeve Allen, since the unique nature of Hastings' geography creates different needs in different areas.

Her chief concern, she said, is that Belleville stay "just as it is", with no further industrial or residential growth out into the farming land surrounding the city.

"I'm in favor of a green belt around the city. I think it's immoral to use arable land for building purposes. Land's a non-renewable resource, and once its's built on, it's gone as far as agriculture's concerned.

"I think that the provincial government should be buying land from county farmers, and banking it for the future," she said.

Mayor Jeffrey agreed that good farm land should not be used for commercial development, but disagreed with the reeve that further regionalization was a bad idea.

"We are three-quarters of the way to regionalization in this county,' she pointed out. "We now have within our region many joint goards, commissions and committees, among them the Board of Education, the Health Board, Hospital Board, Family and Social Services, Waste Management Committee. What is missing is a regional government of one elected body that would be responsible to the people."

Mayor Jeffrey explained that the pressure for urban growth and servicing are problems only found in the southern part of the county.

But, she said, the residents of the northern rural and recreational areas have the advantages of the city's transportation, cultural and industrial facilities — and without paying city taxes for these benefits.

"Can anyone explain to me the justice of urban residents paying for police protection when rural residents other than in towns and villages have police protection provided by the provincial government through the OPP?" Mayor Jeffrey asked.

An informal discussion followed the speeches about the further problems of "loss of identity" through new all-encompassing regional governments, and the further advantages of unity through restructuring the county's 27 small governments under one "umbrella'.

Trail Link Problem

There's difficulty locating a loop that will give Bellevillians direct access to the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail.

Trail officials said Monday so far they've had no success finding a suitable route for such access north of the city.

The trail's closest point to the city is about 12 miles north on Highway 62 at Pine Hill Cres., where the trail curves north out of Sidney Township.

Most rural approach is along Sidney St. to the Baptist Church Road near Holloway. But, the ideal route would take trail users off roadways. Finding such a link is a project for this winter.

Nonetheless, said trail secretary Grant Harvey, to date no off-road access link has been found. Among reasons are good farmland in the area, increasing urban settlement on the city's perimeter, and the number of roads that must be crossed.

Drivers Win Award

Safe Driving Awards will be presented to drivers of three city transport companies on Feb. 1 at the Oddfellows Lodge in Belleville. The drivers of Lafferty-Smith Express Lines Ltd., Haggarty Transport Ltd. and Canada Transport Ltd. will be recognized for their safe driving practices.

Awards Presented

Quinte Home Builders Association members Don Keller and Randy Loewen both received awards for outstanding service from a national builders group at an association meeting this week. The two men, active members of the home builders in Belleville, were named by the president of the national Housing and Urban Development Association.

Farmer Wants Research Centre

Forage, the grass and hay that is a basic diet for most cattle, was the day-long subject for farmers and farming experts on the second day of the three-day Quinte Farm Conference at the Four Seasons Motor Hotel Thursday.

Advantages of forage crops pointed out by leadoff speaker Malcolm MacGregor, of Morewood, Ont., included the fact that it can provide energy and protein requirements for his dairy herd and, with the proper equipment, does not require a lot of labor input.

Mr. MacGregor concluded that while corn was in the farm limelight in the 1960s, this is the era of forage crops.

He recommneded that pressure be brought to bear on the provincial agriculture ministry to set up a forage research centre for the province so that farmers could more effectively exploit the potential of forage crops.

Other speakers on the program discussed large hay handling systems, the production and storage of forage crops that are high in nutrients, the establishment and maintenance of pasturage and types of cattle that do best on a forage diet.

County Inspectors Sought

Village council has decided to sign an agreement with the Hastings county building and plumbing inspection department to carry out plumbing and building inspections in the village, except for the hookups with the sewage system which they said could be handled by works superintendent Les McKeown. Mr. McKeown attended a course last year to qualify for this work.

Arena Shut Down

MARMORA — Arena council has decided to disconnect all hydro and close down the furnace and all plumbing in the village's arena.

Insurance on the building was reduced to $25,000.

The minor hockey assoication will be notified to remove all trophies and supplies from the building pending a decision on what will be done with the structure.

Deputy-reeve Grant Airhart commented that if a new arena is to be built, he would like to see it placed in the centre section of the race track to allow more parking space for cars.

Leaky Mains Feared

Bert Gray, chairman of Marmora's water, sewage and fire committee, has expressed concern about the large amount of water being pumped through the village's pumping station, compared to former years.

Council directed William Shannon to write to a firm in London asking for an estimate of their charges for equipment to locate leaky water mains.

The water main on William St. — which was broken in eight places during the sewage installation, will be replaced by Clairson Construction Co., deputy-reeve Grant Airhart reported.

Campsite Approved

Council has been asked by the ministry of industry and tourism if the municipality has any objection to a campsite proposed for the Twin Sister Lakes area in Marmora Township.

Clerk-treasurer William Shannon will reply that the village has no objection to such a venture. Councillor Gordon Bennett pointed out that the campsite could bring business to the village.

All Together, Push

A Picton motorist spinning on the town's slippery streets yesterday welcomed help from two employees of a Main Street restaurant who came to his aid. In minutes the car was freed.

Icy Road Blamed for Crash

BANCROFT — An elderly Bancroft man, man, Cleveland Loney, 70, of 66 Hastings St. S., and his wife, Amelia, 60, were seriously injured when the car Mr. Loney was driving crashed into a rock cut on Highway 62 about one-half mile north of the village early Thursday afternoon.

Investigating Ontario Provincial Police officers describe road conditions as "poor" at the time of the accident.

Mr. Loney suffered a broken hip and leg as well as lacerations. His wife is being treated for a fractured jaw and leg as well as undetermined head injuries. The car is described by investigating officer Terry Banks as a writeoff.

The couple was treated at Bancroft Red Cross Hospital and transferred to Peterborough General Hospital where their condition is described as "fair".

Committee to Proceed With Arena Funding

STIRLING — The Stirling and District Arena finance committee was told in a meeting this week that nearby townships send 179 youngsters to play minor hockey in this community, whereas Stirling resident hockey players number 78.

Unless municipal council says otherwise, the committee is proceeding to raise funds for a replacement for the existing 50-year-old structure, which many past and present politicians fear will be closed before a new one can be built, or the old one rebuilt at a cost of almost two-thirds of a completely new arena.

Treasurer Bert Bastedo said that to date there is $45,000 in the bank for the arena. $25,000 came from Stirling taxpayers from the mill rate set by last year's council. Sydney Township donated $10,000 and Rawdon Township $4,000.

Sydney sent 69 hockey players to Stirling this year and Rawdon added 59. Thirteen came from West Huntington and 38 from Thurlow.

"That is more than usual from Thurlow," Mr. Bastedo said. "Sydney is up and Rawdon is down, that's a switch."

The committee hopes it will be able to get a federal grant. Councillor Fred Brandt, who sits on the committee, said he wanted to set up a meeting with the group and council so they could jointly approach MLA Clarke Rollins and MP George Hees.

The provincial government will give $75,000 for the project, according to Mr. Rollins, under legislation now before the assembly. Mr. Hees has written to local officials before about a grant.

"I am not satisfied with the letter we got from Mr. Hees," councillor Brandt said. No money was available, Mr. Hees wrote.

Grants Approved For Trails

Snowmobile clubs in the Quinte area have received word from Queen's Park of grants from the province to assist them in improving their public trail facilities.

Largest grant, $5,400, went to the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail Association. Next, the amalgameted snowmobile clubs of Prince Edward County received a grant of $5,000 and the combined snowmobile clubs of Deseronto and Lonsdale were awarded $1,300. Further north, the Coe Hill Sports Club received $1,255 for trail improvement work.

The Big Reach

The Stirling and District Arena finance committee has a long way to go to raise money towards a replacement for the present 50-year old structure. Here Ted Dobson, president of Stirling Minor Hockey turns over a cheque of $1,100 to finance committee treasurer Bert Bastedo while eager hands of committee members reach for the much needed donnation.

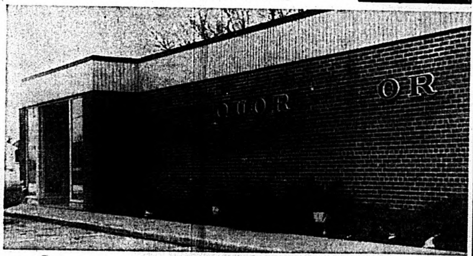
Letters Attract Vandals

STIRLING — The liquor store here has a problem. Its identity is being stolen.

Overthe past few months the metal letters that identify the store, mounted on the brick side of the building, have been systematically pried off by persons unknown. At present the building, located on the northern fringe of the village on Highway 14, is identified as "quor or."

"We used to have a provincial coat of arms, but we've lost two of them and that's that," said store manager Vic Jackett. "We won't replace them.

"I suppose they're in somebody's recreation room now, but we find the metal letters in ditches in the area. It just seems to be plain vandalism."



Quor Or?

Maybe it's the Stirling liquor store's remote location on the northern outskirts of the village. The foot-high metal letters that identify the building seem to be irresistable to vandals. This is what is left. Having lost two provincial coats of arms, store manager Vic Jackett says the liquor control board won't replace them.

Students Stage Model Parliament at PECI

PICTON — There's an election in the wind at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute where model parliament soon will sit for the seventh year.

Students at PECI have become supporters of the Progressive Conservative, Liberal, New Democratic and Social Credit parties and are readying campaigns based on current national issues.

Organizer of the model parliament for 1975, teacher Helen Nelson says party policies resemble the national polices but students deal with all issues in their own way.

An election will be held Feb. 17 and will follow national voting procedures through polling booths in the cafeterias at PECI.

After election day parliament will meet three times, once in March and twice in April. The final session of model parliament is an annual feature of Achievement Night at the high school.

Milk Producers to Meet

PICTON — Prince Edward County milk producer will hold their annual meeting Thursday, Jan. 23 at Wellington Consolidated School with guest speaker T.R. Hilliard, deputy-minister of agriculture and food.

The meeting says Harry Evans, chairman of the county milk producers' organization, will include a chairman's report, financial report, presentation of the 1974 budget and election of committee members. Time of the meeting is 7:30 p.m.

Cruiser Damage Minor

PICTON — Picton police did not receive an official report of an accident involving a snow plow during Wednesday's storm as was stated in a recent news story.

Edward Wright, listed as operator of the plow, was in fact, driving a car that was in collision with a vehicle operated by Helen Duggan of Picton. The collision was caused by icy road conditions said a police spokesman.

Also, the Picton police department was not left without a cruiser in Wednesday's storm as stated in the Intelligencer. The car received $400. damage but remained in service after colliding with a truck during a snow storm.

Centennial Panorama

With Mayor Jeffrey's announcement that appointment of a Centennial Year chairman is under consideration the year of 1978 assumes that much extra prominence at this time.

Naturally the activities of that year must reflect to a large degree the history of this community which, incidentally is outlined in the Chamber of Commerce's interesting periodical, What's Happening in Belleville, or may be gleaned in part from a perusal of the historical plaque at Victoria Park.

To touch again also on one aspect of life here: education in the early part of the century and at St. Agnes Manor, now site of a high-rise apartment building, in particular.

It is to suggest that Toronto-born actress Beatrice Lillie (Lady Peel) and any other surviving students of those days be invited to the city at some stage of the year's celebrations.

Lady Peel's London address is contained in Who's Who available at the library and it would surely be of mutual interest to the city and to the students of that period, if time and health permit, to visit Belleville in 1978. Some of course may still reside here.

It is interesting to note that in 1971, in response to a mention of Lady Peel in this column, a former Bellevillian wrote from Toronto recalling her days at St. Agnes Manor, from 1903 to 1909, mentioning Miss Lillie (she retained her maiden name throughout her theatrical career) and other students.

It so happens too that in recent days some St. Agnes Manor pictures have come to our notice from a staff member who received them from Mrs. R. M. Werry of Deep River. Mrs. Werry's mother, Mrs. Howard Box, late of Arnprior and now a patient in hospital in Kingston, is the former Florence Elliott who was one of the students.

Mrs. Box and Miss Lillie are seen in one group picture; and another shows three attractive young ladies in Laura MacCausland, Doris Carter and Selina Blackburn, two of them holding tennis rackets. There is one showing the school building, and there are others of a pond in the grounds, and of the school dining room, with its fine linen and high-backed chairs.

There is a summery aspect to the lush grounds, reflecting the observation of the former student in Toronto (who asked that her letter not be published) that "at that time St. Agnes was a very beautiful place." We are sure she would not object to us having now quoted that part of the letter.

This is all part of the historical panorama which Belleville will be trying to recreate only three years from now. It is a challenge to us all.

Skating Attractions

Now if only Belleville had an arena that could accommodate something of the color and magnitude of the Ice Capades or the Ice Follies.

As of now Bellevillians wishing to see this kind of show must hike off to Toronto, or across the border to Rochester, or to Peterborough.

Wouldn't it be great if Centennial Year in Belleville would bring a new and sizeable arena, to accommodate such a show, as well as provide improved and continuing facilities for an enlarged population.

Perhaps in these uncertain and inflationary times such a project is unrealistic, remembering also the shelving of similar schemes in the past. Yet it is something to consider, in the long-term.

Meanwhile the capades and the follies on ice are both within easy distance at this time of year. Each is featuring former rivals for international honors — the Ice Capades has Karen Magnussen at Peterborough February 6-9, while the Ice Follies of Shipstad and Johnson have opened in Toronto with Janet Lynn, regarded by many as the world's finest free skater, for a run extending until January 26.

There is no more beautiful spectacle than that of the professional ice show, enhanced as these are by two of the greatest individual stars in the world today. This is the time to see them.

Portugal's Withdrawal From Africa

Angola Could Evolve As Important 'Third World' Power

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The quiet but steady unwinding of the last European colonial empire in Africa continues in Lisbon in a manner not unlike the end of the British Empire in Africa in the late 1940s.

Cabinet ministers and senior bureaucrats of the once Portuguese colonial power are sitting down with leaders of African liberation and revolutionary movements to find formulas to end all Portuguese rule in Africa.

Because it has not taken place within the English-language context of divesting an empire, we have given the Portuguese experience little publicity. But it bears watching. And it proves, in spite of the long and bitter colonial war which preceded it, that the Portuguese heritage is still one of conciliation and compromise.

There is a major difference between Britain of the 1940s and Portugal of the mid-1970s. A conservative and reactionary leadership persisted in Portugal which was determined the empire must remain an inherent part of the Portuguese world community, while at Westminster in the late 40s, an anti-colonial socialist government was just as determined to do the opposite, separate the empire from the Mother Country.

Looking back, the British dissembling of their colonial heritage, was not done without bloodshed, especially in India in the 1930s when the modern counterpart of the concentration camp was created by Britain in India to hold the hundreds of political dissidents.

Only in postwar Malaya now divided between the Commonwealth nations the kingdom of Malayasia and the island republic of Singapore, was independence preceded by a bloody Communist-inspired war of liberation.

The liberation movements in the various African colonies of Portugal operated over wider territories, but were not more effective in bringing an early end to colonial rule than the Communist-inspired revolts in Malaysia of the early 1950s.

In both cases too, the young soldiers who conscripted into peace-time military establishments and sent to Southeast Asia and Africa, were seen as doing the work of colonial powers determined to hold on for their own political and economic reasons.

Portugal without the parliamentary institutions of Britain, finally let the army itself destroy the old order and to proceed to set the rules for freedom in all of Portugal's former African possessions.

And now it is Angola's turn to negotiate in Lisbon to its freedom. Where Mozambique or Portuguese East African can be compared to former British Tanganyika and Kenya, also in East Africa and which are today the independent black nations of Kenya and Tanzania and where Portuguese Guinea-Bissau can be compared to its once British-ruled, tiny neighbor Gambia, Angola is Portugal's Nigeria in West Africa.

When independence comes, Angola will be as important in Africa and in world councils as a Third World power as Nigeria presently is.

Both areas are huge even by African standards, with large populations, many spoken languages and many tribal differences.

Both are producers for the world of vital raw materials. Both have oil, sugar and industrial minerals. Both have an emerging black elite. Nigeria's knighted and military leaders trained in British institutions, Angola's small but influential Portuguese-speaking black elite in Portuguese ones.

If the three Angolan liberation movements who will rule an independent Angolan republican can sort out their differences and rule coherently, Angola will be yet another force in black Africa to compel an end to racism and apartheid in what must be her very uneasy Rhodesian and South African neighbors.

Jelinek's Plan to Free Public From One Strike After Another

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Sick of public service strikes?

Fed up with the increasing inconvenience and economic impairment — to the individual and the community alike — of walkouts, legal and illegal, in such essentials as air travel, shipping, trains, ports, the mails, rapid transit, the schools, food inspection, and other public sector services?

You are?

Who isn't?

And what's to be done about it?

Conservative MP Otto Jelinek of the Toronto riding of High Park-Humber Valley, one of the two Tories to survive last July's sweep of the Metro constituencies, thinks he may have the answer.

It has to be, he says, sector-bargaining for longer contracts.

He argues there is an urgent need for federal legislation requiring union groups in a single public service sector to bargain with Treasury Board on a joint basis and for relatively longer-term agreements of perhaps no less than three years.

The result, he believes, in the simplest terms, would be assurance to the taxpaying public that each essential service sector would be strike free, except for the possibility of a walkout every three years or so.

By a wide margin, the majority of these public service strikes are at the federal level.

It was a Liberal government that gave federal public servants the right to strike back in 1967.

And so, "quite fittingly," says Otto Jelinek, it is the Liberal government, with its new, strong majority mandate, on which the public responsibility rests to take the initiative to restore some balance between the right of the taxpayer for uninterrupted essential services and the right of the federal unions to withdraw them.

The most frustrating — even maddening, if you happen to be grounded by an air service strike on a business or holiday trip — aspects of the current situation is the fragmentation of union power in shutting it all down.

Most devastating for the management, too, and damaging for the economy, is the same idiot spectacle of airline service, for example, having just been restored after a strike in one sector of the industry being closed down again by another union group walking out.

All at different times, in recent years, air service has been grounded in turn by striking firemen, runway maintenance, air controllers stewards, baggage handlers, ticket agents and other service workers.

The railways, shipping, port services and the post office run the same risk of disruption by fragmentation of union bargaining.

Over the last three or four years the record of labor disruption of essential services and the economic cost and inconvenience to the public make it plain to see that sooner or later there must be a reasonable balance struck between union freedom to strike and the taxpayers' right to freedom from extortion through harassment.

And sooner, rather than later, says Otto Jelinek, with so much labor militancy this year threatening the public interest.

Because they are on the government payroll, with armour-plated job security and the public treasury conveniently handy for easy pickings, the public servants are insulated against the raw winds of recession howling out there in the cold competitive world where the taxpayers work and live.

This isolation, as Otto Jelinek sees it, of public servants from "economic reality," has allowed them — because of the "gutless permissiveness of governments" — to "impose actual hardship" on the taxpayers.

He sees it as a form of blackmail and suspects that the public is becoming so outraged that it will demand that the labor clock be turned back and strikes outlawed with real and heavy penalties in the essential services.

And that, he concedes, will bring some very rough confrontation.

The way out and around it all — acceptance, he says, of his concept of sector-bargaining for longer contracts.

Lumber Just One Canadian Export Which Is In Declining Demand

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Anyone looking for evidence of the current recession would need to look no farther than Canada's export-import figures.

They show clearly that our foreign trade is in a slump.

Granted, the same can be said of just about every industrialized country today, as the recession spreads. But Canada's foreign trade has always played a disproportionately large part in our total economic performance.

"The weak economies of Canada's major trading partners, chiefly the United States and the United Kingdom, will create a major problem for many industries," says Babson's Canadian Reports Ltd., "since exports account for about 25 per cent of gross national expenditures."

Canada's surplus of exports over imports has been falling steadily—with the exception of a slight upturn in late 1973—from an annual rate of $2,704 million in April-June, 1973, to $48 million in July-September, 1974, the last quarter for which all figures have been added up.

But in the latest month with complete figures—November, 1974—our foreign trade went into the red with a deficit—that is, an excess of imports over exports—equivalent to $1,788-million at an annual rate.

Our export totals have been dragged down by a cut in foreign demand for our lumber, parts—and by the sharp increase in our export prices.

Prices of Canadian exports rose 27.1 per cent in 1974, according to estimates of economists at Fry Mills Spence Ltd., Toronto based investment house, compared to a 14.5-per-cent average price jump in 1973.

Canadians also pay more to import foreign goods, but there the advance has not been as strong—an estimated 18.1 per cent last year compared with 8.8 per cent the year before.

The prospect for 1975: Possibly a modest increase in the dollar figure for exports and imports, because of inflationary price increases—but a drop in volume of both.

Export orders will be harder to land, as our customers—particularly in fabricated goods—in the United States and overseas curtail their demand, and as our foreign competitors become more aggressive in the international marketplace.

Our imports are also likely to be curtailed by the recessionary slowdown in consumption.

The Canadian dollar has been remaining slightly above the U.S. dollar on foreign-exchange markets for many months.

The U.S. dollar has always been the accepted yardstick against which ours is measured, because the bulk of our foreign trade is with the U.S.

But in comparison with almost every other unit of currency (the pound sterling and the Italian lira excepted), the international value of the Canadian dollar has dropped disastrously.

Since July, 1971, the Swiss franc has risen 57 per cent, the West German mark 42 per cent, and the Netherlands guilder 40 per cent, as measured against the Canadian dollar.

For the individual Canadian that means that travel to Western Europe—whether for business or pleasure—has become prohibitively expensive.

For the Canadian dollar will not only buy far fewer francs, marks and guilders, but inflation has sent European prices up by an average of 5 per cent in the last 2½ years while the lowest transatlantic air fares have nearly doubled.

For the coming year at least, those trends are unlikely to be broken.

Timbrell At 29 In Energy Post Although McKeough May Oversee

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Many years ago I did a study for Leslie Frost into liquor problems, at the time, shortly after Frost took office as premier, there was practically a cold war between the licence holders and the government liquor authorities.

When it came to report, it was done verbally and the premier asked me what the main problem was.

And I told him, quite frankly, that I thought his biggest problem was a weak minister.

And he said, "I know Don. I have felt this too. But, you know, you only have so many to choose from.'

This incident of the past came very much to mind when watching the latest Davis cabinet shuffle.

Only so many to choose from.

At this point with his party slipping, Davis would be anxious to present a new front, a new image.

But looking over his backbenches, his foot soldiers, he obviously met disappointment.

The only new face he was able to unmask was Dennis Timbrell.

Assessing this last cabinet change one can see little improvement, if any.

Darcy McKeough, the government's strong man, goes back to treasury. He has shown that he can handle this job well. But in the change the government loses John White, who also is one of its few strong men.

Sidney Handelman moves into consumer and commercial affairs. He is the one man in the government who could possibly handle this intricate portfolio.

But with the move the government loses John Clement from up front and centre.

Clement moves into the attorney-generalship and justice portfolios, and today these are a couple of dogs. There is not much scope for exposure in them any more.

One frightening aspect of the change is the thought of 29-year-old and still naive Timbrell trying to face up to Peter Lougheed and the other oil barons on the energy problem.

However, our understanding of this is that McKeough still will remain in control. And a good thing.

Hundreds of Low-income Families Eat Dog Food — Toronto Official

The Sudbury Star

There are kids in Canada eating dog food, not as some childish quirk or out of desire to share more fully in the life of the family pet ... but because their parents provide it as a regular diet.

As The Star reported on its front page, June Rowlands, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Family Services Association, said the practice likely involves "hundreds of low-income families."

In the same news story, North York Alderman Frank Faulbert was quoted as saying a 1969 study showed that in Toronto's core earea, four times the amount of dog food needed to feed the pet population was sold. He drew the reasonable conclusion this extra amount was going to human consumption and conjectured that the situation has worsened since the study was made..

There have been previous reports about old age pensioners in the Vancouver area eating dog food because of financial straits. It is a pitiful reflection upon the grossly expensive and ineffective welfare services of this country, that such a situation should not only occur but clearly continue unchecked.

It was no solace to the responsible authorities, either, that the same edition of The Star which contained the Toronto story also presented what purports to be the final count of those Canadian eggs which went rotten in storage this year. Now the tally is officially 29,208,120 eggs destroyed as useless.

There was disgust across the country this past fall when the monumental egg mess was first revealed. It came out in a dripping patter, blob by blob from a low early "estimate" of the number destroyed to this final figure of more than 29 million..

There was a general wringing of hands among responsible authorities and expressions of regret that it was not possible (for logistical reasons) to process the surplus eggs and ship them to areas of the world beset by famine. Now, it turns out, a considerable number could probably have been put to use feeding Canadian children. The Toronto situation cannot be unique.

This country is a vast producer of food. (It has already promised more to help the needy of other lands, although it is still in question whether much of this aid will arive in time to prevent thousands of deaths by starvation.) We can produce an adequate diet from domeste sources for all the children in this country and the old age pensioners and other in reduced circumstances.

The dog food revelation does not indicate the need for vast new sums of money "redistributed" from the incomes of the taxpaying workers to those who are unable to work, or who have insuffient money for other reasons.

But it does highlight (again) the need for a far more rational approach to the requirements of a welfare system that will combat poverty by providing practical help. In the case of low income families eating dog food, help in the way of a balanced human diet provided in the form of groceries is part of the required package - not merely more money which might not be spent on food..

Sufficient food, warm shelter and clothing appropriate to our severe climate are surely not unattainable hopes for the children of Canada's poor.

LETTERS

Landlords, Tenants, and the Law

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I would like to thank Rodney E. Follwell, Barrister and Solicitor, for the time he took to enlarge on the comments I made regarding landlord tenant relations.

I must, however, disagree with the writer when he says that I gave "legal advice." I did nothing of the sort, nor was such implication intended.

In passing, I would direct Mr. Follwell to the Booklet "Ontario Landlord Tenant Relations" By Ron McInness. In his chapter on the Small Claims Court, Mr. McInnes says "This is the court in which most landlord tenant disputes involving money will be heard." Like Mr. Follwell, Mr. McInnes is a lawyer.

The Citizens' Bureau is not in the business of dispensing "legal advice," and does not pretend to do so. If Mr. Follwell will read my letter he will find that I said that the courts and the legal process exists for the protection of all and that individuals should not be afraid to avail themselves of it ... that's hardly "legal advice."

CP News Roundup

Rifleman Does Time Weekends

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — James Allan, 37, of Waterford, Ont., was sentenced Thursday to 60 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to wounding a man by firing three rifle shots at him.

Mr. Justice J. G. J. O'Driscoll of the Ontario Supreme Court said Allan would serve the sentence on weekends. Allan is a trained mechanic and the court was told he is regularly employed.

Allan was also put on two years probation and prohibited from owning, possessing or carrying a firearm for the next five years.

A charge of attempted murder was withdrawn.

The charges were laid when Allan fired three shots through a window Nov.15 striking Carl Klimchuk, 25, in the jaw. The two men worked and lived at a repair garage east of Waterford.

Evidence showed there were bad feelings between the two men over a woman they both were seeing.

No Illegal Drug Supply

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP officers are not supplying illegal drugs in return for information "as far as the force knows," Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Thursday.

But it is possible that individual RCMP officers could be breaking the rules and giving out drugs on their own, he told reporters.

Consideration Is Promised

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Robert Andras said Thursday his department will give "sympathetic consideration" to a proposal by provincial health ministers to restrict immigration and movement by foreign doctors.

However, Mr. Andras also said in a prepared statement that "the application of immigration regulations to doctors will be no more or less stringent than the application to any other trade or profession."

He said his department "has been in consultation for some time with federal and provincial health authorities on the question of immigrant physicians."

Ignorance Best Says PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday he would be "delighted" if taxpayers paid for the swimming pool now being installed at his residence.

But in the meantime "I assume it's the best thing that I not know" the names of the individuals who contributed to the pool, estimated to cost about $200,000.

Reject Increase

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Elementary school teachers in Frontenac County rejected Wednesday an 18-per-cent wage offer for 1975 which would raise the minimum salary to $6,900 from $5,600 and the top salary to $20,200 from $18,000. The 650 elementary school teachers want basic scale and responsibility allowances increased and a cost-of-living clause.

Offer Rebate

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Chrysler Canada Ltd. announced Thursday a $100 rebate to any employee who purchase a 1975 or 1974 Chrysler-built car or truck between Jan. 13 and Feb. 15.

Seek Boost

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — A mid-contract wage increase of $1.50 an hour is being sought by about 1,760 area petrochemical workers to offset the escalating cost of living, a union official said Wednesday.

Cheap Houses

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — A project that will provide houses at lower-than-market prices for individuals who qualify was started Thursday by the city.

Under the plan announced by Ald. Mac Makarchuk, chairman of the city's land assembly and development committee, and R. L. Churchill, Brantford housing co-ordinator, the 17 houses available will sell for $20,000 to $30,000.

An applicant must have an adjusted family income of $12,500 or less and have been a resident of the city for a year or more.

Chilly

PORT ROBINSON, Ont. (CP) — An 87-year-old man spent 40 minutes in the chilly water of a shallow cistern at the rear of his home Thursday before being rescued by firefighters.

Regional police said Ace Williams slipped into the cistern when a rotten step gave way.

Mackasey Says Mail Theft Can Easily Be Avoided

TORONTO (CP) — Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey says banks should use registered mail if they want to avoid mail thefts of credit cards.

Wednesday, an official of the Bank of Nova Scotia said banks are looking for new ways to get credit cards and cheques to customers because of widespread mail theft.

In a telephone interview from Ottawa, Mr. Mackasey denied that credit-card thefts are connected with the post office.

He said the post office is considering making it mandatory for banks to mail credit cards by registered mail. This would cost an extra 50 cents in postage for each card.

Mr. Mackasey said the credit-card thefts take place at apartment mail boxes, street mail boxes and green relay boxes where mail is left for postmen.

He said the mailing of credit cards like Chargex or Master Charge was like "putting $1,000 in an envelope.

"I wouldn't, but that's what Chargex does. You can really go on a binge with one of those."

Mr. Mackasey said the post office had experimented by mailing 90,000 credit cards by registered mail between mid-November and mid-December.

Only four cards were lost, and three of these were found to have been fraudulently claimed at the post office after the registered-mail notice had been stolen from apartment mail boxes.

Guarantees Given For New Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has agreed to provide financial guarantees paving the way for construction of a long-delayed oil pipeline into Montreal, Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday.

The cabinet approved a proposal under which Ottawa will protect Interprovincial Pipeline Ltd. of Toronto against any loss if the pipeline is not fully used.

A financial guarantee against losses was the major stumbling block holding up construction of the 520-mile extension of the pipeline to Montreal from Sarnia, Ont.

Company president D. G. Waldon said in Toronto he will not comment until he receives official word from Ottawa on the agreement, negotiated with Energy Minister Donald Macdonald during the last three months.

A spokesman for Mr. Macdonald said meetings with the company probably will be held next week.

The prime minister said under the terms of the agreement the government will make up any losses incurred by Interprovincial if the flow of oil through the pipeline drops below its full capacity of 250,000 barrels a day.

He added that the cabinet has agreed to take whatever measures necessary to go ahead with the pipeline, which the government says is needed to provide a secure supply of oil to Montreal.

Most people who make small cars really want to sell you something else.

Have you noticed how many small cars are coming out today that bear no resemblance to anything small?

There's a good reason for this. Big cars make big profits. And simple, practical, unencumbered small cars make small profits.

At Fiat, we learned how to make a living out of small cars a long time ago. And we've spent the last 40 years making sense out of them.

The Fiat 128 below is about 4 feet shorter than the Skylark, the Fury, or the Monarch. But, it gives you just about the same kind of legroom.

Instead of making the 128 low and sleek like the others, we've given it more headroom than a Rolls-Royce.*

Instead of loading it down with all sorts of gadgetry, we've given it things that actually make it perform better.

Rack-and-pinion steering, front-wheel drive, and an all-independent suspension are standard equipment.

None of which are even available on the Skylark, Fury, or Monarch.

Last, the Fiat 128 costs hundreds of dollars less than they do.

You see, when the Big Three said these were small cars, they never said they had small prices.

211.1"

The small Buick Skylark: Can this be GM's idea of a small car?

Old Glasses Bring Sight to Others

A few months ago you read about Valerie Truax, District Director of Quinte area Victorian Order of Nurses, who volunteers her time and skill for a few weeks each year in the Dominican Republic.

As a member of a medical team, Miss Truax assists in eye examinations and surgery, and prior to each trip collects eye glasses which are distributed to needy people.

In the weeks before her November visit to Nagua, a town on the northeast tip of the Dominican Republic, Miss Truax collected more than 600 pairs of glasses, more than half of them from the Belleville district, and many donated by Madonna House in Combermere.

"The response was really heartening," she says. "People here were most generous. Altogether, the 60 of us who participated in the program took nearly 28,000 glasses. We dispensed 4,000 in less than two weeks."

Although Miss Truax and the others were delighted to have so many spectacles, they found that several pairs were so damaged, scratched or brittle that they were unfit for use.

"In that hot, humid sea air nothing stands up well, especially glasses that are already partially broken," she says.

The old gold frames of spectacles were sold to be melted down. It was more profitable than giving them to be worn, she explained, and even a small bag of gold-framed glasses would fetch as much as $140.

Fitting patients with correct lenses was only one small part of the expedition organized by Medical Group Missions Program, part of the Christian Medical Society based in Illinois. A mobile operating unit, as well as the operating facilities in a new hospital outside Nagua, were kept busy during the two-week stay. Altogether 112 eye operations were performed, 26 in one day.

Miss Truax's duties were varied as well. Her improved Spanish meant that she sometimes acted as translator in the clinic, as well as assisting with examinations and surgery.

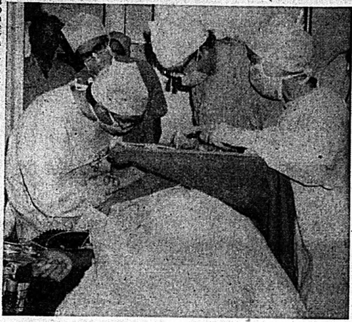
Her enthusiasm for the beauty of the Dominican Repubre was not lessened by daily deluges common to the rain forest area around Nagua. The benefits - lush foliage, brightly-colored flowers, sweet tropical fruits — far outweighed the disadvantage of, occasionally getting soaked to the skin, she says.

The luxurious natural surroundings are a contrast to the poverty visible in the villages Miss Truax photographed during her stay. However, even though the people are often poor, there is a small charge for eye examination (25 cents) and a further charge for new glasses or surgery (75 cents).

Paying for the medical service means that no one loses his dignity by accepting charity, although if some one can't pay, arrangements are made to help him.

"People feel better if they pay their way," Miss Truax explains.

The night before the mission members left, they were treated to a special musical evening by people from Nagua.



Surgery in Progress

Here Valerie Truax assists doctors repair a detached retina in the eye of one of 6,000 people screened by the medical mission staff. Corrective surgery was done all day long for eight days, by dedicated medical teams. outline two.

AN OLD HANDICRAFT: PAPER CRAFT

Paper cutting has a long history as a folk art. — Florence Temko.

During an enjoyable evening with friends after the holidays, our hostess showed us a most attractive, colorful waste-paper-basket, saying:

"This is a handicraft gift received from friends with whom we exchange gifts of handicrafts we each have done ourselves.

"Isn't this lovely. So creative. As you can see it is made from magazine pages. Each tightly rolled to the size of an ice-cream soda straw, then closely glued each to each to form the receptacle's covering . . ."

Later we began to recall instances having to do with paper-craft.

Those little chinese-lanterns of colored paper; the rows of hand-clasping paper dolls we'd all made in kindergarten.

The wondrous paper artist who made silhouettes of us as we sat dining in an elegant public diningroom. Created with just her scissors and black paper ...

How one salesman would casually begin folding a business card as he talked with customers which like magic turned into a jumping frog - and at once "broke the ice" so to speak, and sales resulted, continued.

Even remembering that Leonarda da Vinci made "the first paper air-plane.".

That none less than Hans Christian Anderson made paper cut outs to illustrate his fairy tales.

What's more a confirmed smoker upon deciding to quit smoking took up this action art which absorbed him so completely, he did so without difficulty

We've been boning up on paper craft a bit now, and learn that it falls into five categories:

1 - Paper folding, which is great fun. No tool is used. Known as origami by the Japanese.

2 - Paper cutting, called Kirigami. It calls for scissors, glue, staples for silhouettes, making patterns for embroidery or woodcarving.

3 - Paper sculpture. Any device fair to use; glue, staples, weaving, crushing. Produce geometric creations, even greeting cards..,

4 - Paper-mache; a mastic pulp of shredded paper mixed with flour and water, which may be molded and sculpted like clay.

5 - Decoupage. Very popular. Paper cut outs used to decorate wood, metal etc., which is then varnished.

We become enthusiastic over paper craft.

A craft that turns you into a paper saver, paper of all and every kind. A craft now used by housewives, teachers, students. A craft which gathers devotees from eight to eighty in a class, where ideas are shared. A craft now displayed in gift shops that feature folk art.

AROUND TOWN
with
LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

The Real Story

As I mentioned in yesterday's column, I've made some new friends getting ready for this second edition of Around The Town. Two new friends are Mr. Gibbs and his son Michael, of Gibbs and Son, 37 Albion St. This little company fixes vacuum cleaners, though they'll also sell you one too. And they carry a complete line of Proctor-Lewyt products. What these two don't know about vacuum cleaners! But it was the conviction and principles which these men give to their trade which impressed me. They guarantee all work; there is a 1 year warrantee on all motors if your machine is overhauled and all over-hauled machines are painted too. Lamb motors are the only motors used by Gibbs and Son. But I think their greatest asset is their honesty. They'd rather not see you again because they'd fixed your vacuum once — and well. Call them at 968-5384.

County Treasure

Prince Edward County harbors treasures; the Cameron Art Gallery, 1½ miles west of Rednersville is one of them. The gallery in the Cameron home boasts oils, water colors and prints of this very talented family three-some — Donnah, her husband Allan, and their daughter Donnah Cameron Finnegan. You can choose a painting or have one commissioned. Special calling cards and personal stationery can also bear the Cameron distinctiveness — and yours too, if you have them. The gallery hours are Friday, Saturday, and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. but Mrs. Cameron will be glad to see you during the week. All you need do is call her at 962-1606. Happy treasure hunting.

Home Improvement Centre

Highland Construction has a Home Improvement Centre located at 237 North Front St. You enter via the laundry mat, go to the rear of the laundry, down the stairs and you'll see the showroom sign. And this is a showroom! You'll see kitchen cupboards set up, barnwood bars set up, tile choice installed in the ceiling, vinyl siding and vinyl shutters set up on the exterior of a house, panelling choices actually on the walls and marble panels installed in a bathroom. Colors and fabrics are easily accessible to sight and touch. But here you don't just make choices out of catalogues, and then hope for the best. You see what you're getting. For any home improvement need — remodelling, siding, roofing, or just a new range hood, Highland's Home Improvement Centre is the place. Drop in after 10 a.m. or call 962-1184.

Pre-Inventory Sale

Ruddy Electric Consumer Division, 291 Pinnacle St. is having a pre-inventory sale on hanging lamps, swag lamps, table lamps — some beautiful lantern table lamps — and outdoor lighting too. There is a good selection of styles — both contemporary and traditional. Ruddy Electric also sells Philco-Ford televisions and these two are on sale as are snow-throwers, baseboard heaters, and Philco and Westinghouse stereo equipment. Now I didn't know Ruddy Electric sold all those things, did you? They sell a lot more things too but you'll have to wait 'til subsequent columns to find out what — unless you go to the sale that is.

Convenience — All-Round

Holiday-Car Truck Rentals is an all-Canadian leasing company, very conveniently located at the corner of West Moira and North Front Sts. — 11 West Moira to be exact. This company can rent you any kind of Chrysler product as well as heavy industrial vehicles. Holiday has special weekend rates as well as special commercial rates. All Chrysler cars whether 4, 6, or 8 cylinder are replaced every six months and come with power steering, power brakes, and automatic transmission. When you call Holiday at 962-9114, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon. - Friday and 8 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, you can get help in estimating mileage and rates too. Long term leasing arrangements are also available.

Sale Still On

Jean Smith's sale at her West Wind Boutique at Actinolite on Hwy. 7 is still on and there are still many winter weeks for you to show off the style and quality of a Jean Smith coat — a coat you'll buy at savings too. If January has you down a bit after all the hustle and bustle of the holiday season, then a visit to the West Wind gift shop and Import Shop is just the remedy you seek. Pleasantness invokes pleasantness and you'll certainly find pleasantness in heavy doses — as well as good taste and good style and good quality, all at the West Wind Boutique.

A Complete Optic Service

962-9311 is a very important number for you if you wear glasses or contact lenses, or you suspect you might need glasses. If you call this number, you'll hear a pleasant voice answer back "Trenton Optical". Trenton Optical doesn't test your eyes, but they'll make an appoinment for you with an eye specialist. Then after your appointment you can visit Trenton Optical and choose your glasses from a selection of the best of many companies. Trenton Optical is an independent optician so your selection possibilities are increased. You'll find the prices a delightful surprise too. And you don't need an appointment either, don't forget.

New Product Idea

ServiceMaster, Pinnacle St. has a new product — Ice-Off, which, though I hate to say it, you're going to need many more times this year. That spring-like week in January has misled us I fear. Ice-off does what its name implies because it's in pellet form, won't track into your home as salt does. It won't kill shrubs and grass either, acting rather like a ferilizer. So you have two advantages of Ice-Off over salt plus the fact that it gets the job done. But that's ServiceMaster — they always get the job done.

Some Murray Predictions

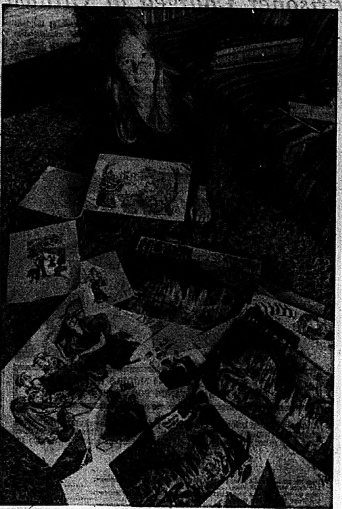
Murray Atkinson of Murray's Food Market, your Front St. grocer, made a few comments this week about food prices in 1975. He doesn't see them coming down much in particular but he does see some stabilization of prices, which will be some relief, for a fact. He also thinks there will be some decrease in the price of canned goods and though we all may have seen no end to our food price worries at the end of 1974, Murray thinks that things will not be as bad as we all thought they were going to be a month ago. Thanks for the encouragement Murray and we'll trust you to help us all out as best you can.

A Different Home Improvement

We've got some pretty good suggestions on how to improve your home in this column. And you'll be seeing a lot more too. But there's one solid home improvement idea you'll be reading about again in this series of Around The Town — and that's Aquafine Water Refiners. You might well ask how your water could possibly be improved? Well it can be — and inexpensively too. You'll get a softness you've never dreamed of, a safe softness too (special equipment can be used for bay and well water conditions) and your expenditures on detergents, shampoos, water softening agents and bath preparations won't be necessary at all. Good old ordinary soap will get you clean, with lots of suds too and leave you, your dishes and your clothes clean with the gentle, safe treatment of "Aquafined" water. Call Aquafine at 962-4504.

The Four Season Secret

There are two moods of the Terrace Bar of the Four Seasons: lunch from noon to 2 p.m. and the Terrace Bar after work. Both have something in common: a relaxing atmosphere in pleasant surrounding. Lunch in the Terrace Bar is simple, a hot pastrami or roast beef sandwich on a crusty French loaf, served with steamingly delicious hot consomme. After work, relaxation is simple too— just you, your friends, good service and later, the sounds of a very soothing piano. So that's it . . . the Terrace Bar for lunch or after work . . . pure and simple.



Secret World of Og

Patsy Berton, 21, shuns publicity. But, as the daughter of author and broadcaster Pierre Berton, it is sometimes hard to avoid. She has illustrated the second edition of her father's children's book, The Secret World of Og and is now back at art college in London and glad to escape potential charges of nepotism. Patsy had the necessary qualifications, she is the main character in the book first published in 1962. (CP Photo)

Doris Clark

Write Briefly, Clearly, Accurately

Joseph Pulitzer's advice to writers is applicable to anyone trying to communicate with others:

"Put it before them briefly so they will read it, clearly so they will remember it and, above all, accurately so they will be guided by its light."

—Carscope.

And this is something everyone should try to do — communicate in writing. When you put words down on paper, they help to clarify your own thoughts. And when the person reads them who needs to know them, they help to clarify an entire situation — without your emotions or the other fellow's getting in the way too much.

Dear Doris: There was a request for "The Great Judgment Morning" in your column.

I remember that hymn being printed in one of our older gospel song books, and found it in "Songs for Service" printed in the U.S.A. by The Rodeheaver.

You will probably receive many copies of this, but here's another. Mae.

Dear Mae and Many, Many Others: I have a whole pile of copies of that lovely hymn now, from lovely people like you. One thoughtful lady in Frederiction was even able to send the actual sheets out of the hymn book, musical notation and all. I'm sure "What's The Rest' will be thrilled.

Obviously it was a well-loved hymn, in many parts of Canada. Obviously, too, its publication was many long years ago. If anyone else wants "The Great Judgment Morning" we will be glad to make copies and send them. All we need is a request, 25 cents, and a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

(Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in, care of this newspaper, give Doris your right name and address. It will be kept confidential.)

Ann Landers

Divorcee Lures Doctor With Suicide Attempts

Dear Ann Landers: A love-starved divorcee attempted or, more accurately, pretended to attempt suicide to get attention from my husband, on whom she has a heavy crush. (He is an internist.) She swallowed a half bottle of sleeping pills and telephoned our home during dinner, told him what she had done and announced, "I have nothing to live for." I think if she had really meant to kill herself she would have taken twice as many pills and not telephoned anyone.

My husband rushed to this nut's home (not far from here) and drove her to the emergency room of the hospital and had her stomach pumped. Of course, she was delighted with the attention.

Last Friday she phoned at midnight with the same story, but my husband was out on an emergency so I called the Police Rescue Squad and asked them to go over and get her and take her to the hospital.

The next day, all hell broke loose. The woman threatened to sue me for humiliating her and embroiling her in "bad publicity." My husband says I should have phoned another physician. He feels sorry for the woman. Any advice—for anybody?—Muddled Min

Dear Min: That lady needs another doctor all right—a psychiatrist. And your husband should inform her that she is no longer his patient. A physician who permits such dependency is actually encouraging the patient, whether he realizes it or not. This is not ethical medicine.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for publishing the attorney's letter relating to the indifference of young kids today towards the elders in the family circle.

I'm in the same boat. I have an estate worth about $75,000 and no one to leave it to. Oh there are a flock of grandnieces and nephews, and when they were children their parents brought them over to visit regularly. But now that they are in their late teens and early 20s they don't even drop in to say hello.

I am retired, living on combined Social Security and company pension which comes to about $350 a month. My cash assets are mostly government E bonds and CDs and I have no need to draw on them. The house is worth about $20,000—paid for. So who gets the boodle? The Society for Blind Mice, as far as I'm concerned.

A year ago one of my nieces came in to borrow something. I jokingly asked, "Why don't you come more often and maybe wash some windows? The house will be yours one day." (I had her earmarked for $25,000 and tried to give her a hint.) She smiled and said nothing. I haven't seen her since. Incidentally, she lives six miles from here. Funny, isn't it?—Unk

Dear Unk: Yeah—but not very. If nobody shapes up soon, forget about the Blind Mice. I know of an organization called Dialogue Publications, Inc. It's for blind people. They do a marvelous job of distributing talking records and helping the sightless in a variety of ways. This organization desperately needs money. The address is: 3100 Oak Park Boulevard, Berwyn, Illinois 60402.

The saintly man who heads Dialogue is Don Nold. He'd be delighted to hear from you—or from anybody.

Child Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — The question of flammability of clothing has been taken under review by a special committee of the federal government, a spokesman for the consumer affairs department said after a child had been burned to death. The child, three-year-old Denise Holmstrom, died as her nightie caught fire while she was playing with matches.

Daughter Illustrates Dad's Book

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-one-year-old Patsy Berton shuns publicity. But, as the daughter of author and broadcaster Pierre Berton, it sometimes is hard to avoid.

Patsy also has risked attracting detested limelight by illustrating the second edition of her father's children's book, The Secret World of Og.

Now she is back in London, attending classes at Camberwell College of Art and glad to escape potential charges of nepotism.

"People might say I got to illustrate the book because of my father—and I wouldn't blame them," said Patsy.

"So I made my father promise that I wouldn't have to be interviewed when the book came out, or sign autographs.

"When I'm in England, I feel like everybody else. But in Canada I try not to mention my last name."

Patsy became a candidate for the illustration job on New Year's Eve, 1973, when publisher Jack McClelland saw a calendar she had made and illustrated as a Christmas gift to her mother.

Drawings on the calendar depicted members of the Berton family and were exactly the kind of illustrations wanted for her father's book.

Other illustrators tried out for the job but Patsy was chosen as the most suitable because she "was there when it all happened."

Og is an imaginary tale about five of Janet and Pierre's children — they now have seven. So, Patsy, then five years old, is one of the main characters in the book, first published in 1962.

"Some said I'd be chosen for the job anyway," Patsy said. "But I don't think that's fair. After all, I know the book so well and I also knew that my father wanted wacky pictures.

"I was hesitant at first and wondered if I was capable of doing the job. But I'm glad I went ahead and took the challenge. I learned a lot from it as an artist."

Status Council Criticizes Lack of Northern Schools

HAMILTON (CP) — A dearth of high schools in northern parts of the province is forcing Indian children to leave home to pursue secondary schooling, Nellie Faries, a member of the Ontario Status of Women Council, said Saturday during a weekend council meeting.

"Children from Grade 8 upwards have to leave their homes and go away to board near a school in the south if they want to continue their education," said Mrs. Faries, a resident of Moose Factory Island and president of the parent-teachers association there.

"For many of them, when the time comes for them to leave home, they simply give up their schooling altogether. Others go away and lose touch with their families and the community.

"I didn't like sending my children away to school. But I had no choice."

Mrs. Faries said the parent-teachers association has written to Education Minister Thomas Wells asking that Grades 9 and 10 be taught on the island.

"It will give our children a good start and a better chance to accept the challenge to continue in high schools in the south at a more mature age," says the letter.

Following Mrs. Faries' comments, the council agreed to urge the federal government to consider construction of a northern high school as a project for 1975, International Women's Year.

The council also discussed problems faced by single-parent families in finding rental accommodation.

A loophole in the Ontario human rights code which gives legal leeway to landlords to discriminate on the basis of marital status is adding to the difficulties of these familes, Martha Goodings of the Hamilton-Wentworth regional social services department told council members.

"This is hard on separated women with young children," she said.

"In some cases landlords won't rent to women with little boys because they say that little boys destroy everything," said Callie Bell, a Hamilton human rights officer.

Women with three or more children were having a particularly hard time.

The council also discussed the possibility of using Ontario's educational television network as a vehicle for reaching women in the province.

"If we can put on some good women's programs, like talk shows aimed at women, instead of all that soap opera trash, we might be able to reach the housewives,' ' said council chairman Laura Sabia.

She hoped to invite network authorities to the next council meeting to discuss ideas for more women's programming.

Job Exchange Successful

LONDON (Reuter) — Given equal chances, women can do almost any job as well as men, and men are capable of doing most women's jobs, a government report said Tuesday.

The report, published by the department of employment, said there is little evidence to suggest that men and woman cannot successfully carry out jobs usually regarded as the province of the other sex.

But women must be given equal opportunities if they are to compete successfully for jobs, it said

The number of married women at work in Britain has jumped by more than six times in the last 40 years, to 5.8 million from 935,000, the report noted, but their share of the more senior and skilled jobs is still small

More than half of them are employed in the distributive trades and service industries, including nursing, teaching, catering and laundries.

Syncrude Needs Billion at Once

TORONTO (CP) — Unless $1 billion can be found by the end of this month, the Syncrude Canada Ltd. oil sands project in Alberta will shut down, a news conference was told Thursday.

Representatives of Syncrude's three remaining partners, Imperial Oil Ltd., Canada-Cities Service Ltd. and Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., said a number of conditions will have to be met if the $2-billion project is to proceed.

The companies also said they would need additional partners, federal tax concessions, guarantees that production would not be limited, and that Syncrude be allowed to sell the oil at world prices.

The project has been in jeopardy since a fourth partner, Atlantic Richfield Canada Ltd. left the consortium last December.

Jerry McAfee, Gulf Canada president, Jack Armstrong, Imperial Oil president' Frank Spragins who is also Syncrude president, and R. B. Galbreath, vice-president of Canada-Cities Service, attended the conference called "to set the record straight on the status of the project."

Mr. McAfee said the three partners could provide about $1 billion to the $2 billion cost of the project. "We'd like to get another billion," he said, otherwise the project would be terminated.

"Our ability to cope with the higher costs has been seriously eroded during the past year," Mr. McAfee said. "The three of us do not have the cash flow to build it."

If all conditions were met, Mr. McAfee said Gulf would be prepared to double its participation. Imperial Oil said it might contribute another $100 to $130 million but Cities Service said it may have to reduce its interest.

Originally, Imperial and Cities Service had a 30-per-cent share and Gulf a 10-per-cent share. But with the pullout of Atlantic Richfield and the likelihood of new partners, the arrangement no longer stands.

The new partner may well end up with majority interest, the companies said.

Civil suits are being filed against Atlantic Richfield for pulling out of the project. It had a 30 per cent interest.

Shell Canada Ltd., the federal government and the provinces of Alberta and Ontario have all shown interest in Syncrude.

Other proposed partners, Texaco Canada Ltd. and the Quebec government, have both indicated they will not become involved, the companies said.

The three companies have put up $5 million each towards the cost of finding new participants.

The money is almost gone and "by the end of the month we will have to make a go or no go decision," Mr. McAfee said.

Instant Terror

Fugitive Came to Dinner

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Citizen reporter John Honderich and a friend were "seized by instant terror" Thursday when an escaped convict came to dinner.

Mr. Honderich's story:

It started as a birthday party for the other guy who lives in the house.

I came home about six o'clock with a few things for the planned feast and headed straight for the kitchen. Eillen, another member of the household, was there with a stranger

She introduced him as Barry Forsyth "who had just very suddenly dropped in." He had about a two-day growth of beard, a swarthy complexion and short hair. He was wearing yellow tinted glasses, old clothes and seemed a little uptight and fidgety.

I saw the table set for six and just assumed he was staying for dinner.

He didn't say too much, and soon he and Eileen left the kitchen.

A few minutes later she returned, white-faced, grabbing for the edge of the table. I could hear the stranger chatting with someone in the living room

At first she couldn't talk. Then she whispered that "this guy" had just escaped from Kingston and "there was no way he was ever going back"

She first met him about a year ago when she worked as a volunteer visitor on a special program set up for Kingston-area prisoners.

Eileen was sure he wouldn't harm us "because he's really a sensitive and intelligent person."

"It's just that he can't stand prison any more."

After a short talk we both decided this guy has got to leave. And Eileen has got to ask him, because she's the only one he knows — and maybe trusts.

She left the kitchen, called him and some time later—the time just didn't seem important—returned to the kitchen.

He shook my hand and said: "Don't worry, I understand why you're doing this. Happy times."

Then he left, quietly and smiling. He'd been in the house a total of 40 minutes.

We called the police and within 20 minutes they arrived to take our story. We figured that would be the end of it.

We even ate some dinner.

Then two hours later we received a telephone call that three people, including two policemen, had been shot. And someone called Barry Forsyth had been arrested.

Escaped Prisoner Charged at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Escaped prisoner Barry Forsyth, 31, of Toronto, was charged Thursday with attempted murder, armed robbery and attempted abduction after two Ottawa policemen and a civilian were shot in a downtown chase the previous night.

Police said Forsyth, who fled Collins Bay penetentiary Wednesday by forcing a prison bus to drive to Ottawa, is also charged with possession of a gun stolen in a Bath, Ont., burglary last October.

He appeared briefly in provincial court Thursday afternoon and was remanded in custody to this morning.

Constable Robert Proulx, 30, a nine-year veteran of the Ottawa police force, was reported in serious condition in Ottawa General Hospital after surgery to remove bullets in his shoulder, stomach and thigh.

Constable William Mason, 22, was in good condition with bullet wounds in his back. Robert Jordan, 29, of Touraine, Que., was released from hospital after treatment of an arm wound.

Forsyth was serving 29 years, seven months and 21 days on three charges of armed robbery arising out of a 1971 shootout at Cobden, Ont., and parole forfeiture, police said.

The wounding of the two policemen roused other police officers in Ottawa and other cities across the country.

Supt. Thomas Flanagan said messages of concern about the shootings poured in from other police forces.

And Meryle Cameron, a director of the Canadian Police Association, said further demands for execution of police killers will be made at an association meeting next month. Ottawa Ald. Don Lockhart said he will ask city council to make a similar demand.

Mayor Rorry Greenberg expressed shock at the shootings and said his administration will try to stamp out crime in the city.

Supt. Flanagan praised his men for showing restraint in capturing Forsyth. He said officers had several chances to shoot him but did not. He did not know whether warning shots were fired by pursuing policemen.

Two Cars Collide

WELLINGTON — A Grafton woman was treated for neck injuries and released from Prince Edward Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon following a two-car collision on Main St., Wellington.

Injured was Esther Krawesky, 22, driver of one of the vehicle.

Driven of the other car, Kenneth Hardy, 19, of Wellington was not injured.

Total damage to both vehicles amounted to $600. The accident occurred shortly before 1 p.m.

Little Demand For Stickers

PICTON — Licence plate renewal stickers are on sale but the Picton licence bureau this week reports only about 450 of a probable 5,000 have been sold.

Validation stickers for cars this year are green and for trailer, black. Fees are unchanged with a charge of $23. for a 4-cylinder car, $32. for a six-cylinder car and $40. for an eight-cylinder car.

Cheese Workers Recalled

Belleville's Black Diamond plant is gearing up its operation — re-calling staff laid off in early December.

At that time, approximately 70 company union and non-union employees were laid off.

General manager J.G. Rigg said Thursday "the vast majority" of the employees have returned to work. He said 14 are still to return but that a number of these have found other employment.

Mr. Rigg said employment prospects in the next two months look "fairly good .... predictions beyond this point are extremely difficult to make."

He said predictions are difficults due "an uncertain business climate and inflationary pressures."

Scouts Report Successful Year

By JIM SMELLE

Staff Reporter

The scouting movement in Belleville flourished in the city during 1974. This healthy report was given during the annual meeting of the Belleville District Council of Boy Scouts of Canada this week.

Among the changes for the new year was the selection of Ken Bartlett to succeed Len Rodgers as president of the council.

Ross Taylor and Harold Bankier will serve as vice-presidents, on the new executive. Bill Williams becomes district commissioner taking over from Arnold Welch.

In the annual report, it was revealed that Camp Sagonaska in Vanderwater Park north of the city had a record combined total of 3,590 camping days in 1974. Also the camp, it was reported was used frequently during the winter months by various groups.

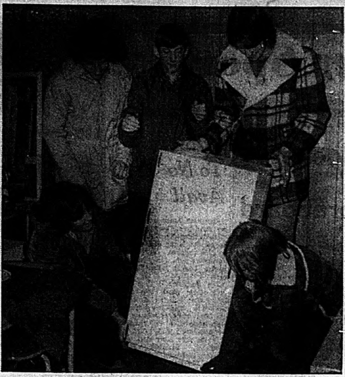
Apple Week in late October was also successful, according to the report, with $2,500 collected.

For Christmas Sharing scouting played its part by preparing and delivering 12 baskets, six for families larger than four and six for senior citizens.

A progress report was submitted by Bette Forte on the newest venture in scouting, Beavers .. It was noted that in May 1974, Belleville District Council received provincial approval to actively particpate in the Beaver program and that information and organizing meetings have been held.

Following the successful pilot beaver program at Sir Jame Whitney School (OSD) in 1973, colonies were set up at the 8th and 18th Belleville Groups and the point has been reached where it is necessary to organize another colony because of the success of the movement the report adds.

Total strength of scouts in Belleville is 675, made up of 15 groups.



Tech Club to the Rescue

Moira Tech Club, a group of five Grade 9 students, Thursday delivered the first of three items of furniture to the special nursery on John St. The students have banded together to make special equipment for non-profit organizations and the handicapped. Members of the club who delivered a refrigerator to the school are Ken McRae, John Smit, Mike Lemmermeyer, Greg Gainer, and John Bennett.

Student Tech Project Aids Nursery School

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Staff Reporter

Youngsters at the special nursery school for emotionally disturbed children operated by Belleville General Hospital will soon have a new set of play-time kitchen equipment.

The child-sized model refrigerator, stove and sink, are being made by the Moira Tech Club, a group of five students who banded together to share their technical skills with the community.

Thursday, the students and their teachers, Elmer Voteary, delivered the small refrigerator to the school. The other two pieces are still under construction.

Nursery school director, Mary Sutherland, was delighted with the furniture.

"You should have seen the furniture the supplier sent," she told the students. "The doors fell off the first time we opened them and the finish was just a primer coat of paint."

Mrs. Sutherland turned to the students to help, in response to a letter Mr. Voteary sent to all non-profit and service agencies in the community.

Goal of the club, he says, is to supply organizations such as nursing homes, hospitals and schools, with equipment they are unable to buy. All the resources of Moira's technical department are available to the students in making whatever speciallized equipment is desired.

Mr. Voteary said he first thought the need would be for special equipment for the handicapped — such items as modified wheel chairs and therapy devices. The students were also ready to construct flats for theatre productions.

However, for their first ventures, the five students in the Tech Club chose play equipment. When they finish the project for the special nursery school in the former school for retarded children on John St., they will start on toys for the toy lending library being started at Queen Mary School. The library, financed by a LIP grant, will made toys available to underprivileged children. The students have also had a call to construct bookcases for another organization.

All labor is voluntary. The club is an after-school organization, supposed to meet one night a week. However, says Mr. Voteary, the five Grade 9 students want to work on their project after school every night.

Cost of the products they turn out is low, since the club charges only for the cost of the materials.

Members of the club are Ken McRae, John Smit, Mike Lemmermeyer, Greg Gainer and John Bennett.

Jaycees Bringing Circus to Town

Belleville Jaycees are again bringing the Garden Brothers circus to town. It will play May 26, with an afternoon performance for children at 1 p.m. and regular performances at 4:15 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Sale of tickets by telephone solicitation began Wednesday.

Garden Brothers procedure is to find a sponsoring group and use its facilities to conduct the telephon solicitation. A promoter from the circus organizes the solicitation, and tries to sell blocks to tickets to businessmen These tickets are then given to underprivileged children. The sponsoring body arrange transportation for the children to the Memorial Arena where the circus is held.

Bob Matheson, Chairman of the Jaycees' circus committee this year, said the promoter gets 40 per cent of the advance sales and the circus 10 per cent. The remaining 50 cent is put into a bank account to be used to pay expenses. The circus and the sponsoring body split the profits after the performances. Last year the Jaycees made about $500 from its circus sponsorship.

Mr. Matheson said the Jaycees will conduct their own sale of tickets during the two weeks preceeding the performances here.

A Hearty Welcome

Belleville's Mayor Robin Jeffrey welcomes Jack Loewen, a principal of Harwest Developments, to the city. Mr. Loewen's firm is the owner of the Royal Bank Building at the intersection of Applewood Dr. and Dundas St. east. The building was officially opened Thursday. The federal income tax department is the second major tenant in the centre, designed by Paul Wiegand and built by Maurice Rollins (centre).

Seminar Concludes

Dever Defends Learning Approach

By SHARON AIRHART

Staff Reporter

Education for the mentally retarded in a protected atmosphere versus their education in "regular" schools was debated Thursday night at a seminar on the mentally retarded and the community.

Held at Loyalist College and sponsored by the social planning council of United Community Services, the Association for the Mentally Retarded and the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services, the two-evening seminary concluded with panel discussions following Wednesday evening's workshops.

In debating the merits of segregation in schools like William R. Kirk or inclusion of the mentally retarded within normal schools, keynote speaker Betty Anglin said "Schools like William R. Kirk are a little better than ordinary schools because the students get individual attention.

"And parents think they're nice because it's a protected environment for their children.

"But segregated day school promote a pattern of isolation and protection."

Mrs. Anglin, editor of the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded quarterly journal, told the audience that the mentally retarded must be allowed "the dignity of risk" away from protected environments.

William R. Kirk principal Wally Dever, a panel member, disagreed.

"I don't see how some of our students can be totally integrated. Putting mentally retarded students into the same building with normal children isn't integration at all. And there are some areas where integration can't and won't occur."

Mrs. Anglin argued that until now no children of elementary school age had been trained and educated from infancy.

"We've got to have some demonstrations before we can say it won't work."

Mr. Dever said he believes that integration is eventually desirable but that it must be approached cautiously and slowly.

Campbell Stresses Need For Housing Priority

Low-rental housing may be phased out in Ontario where the accommodation shortage is approaching a state of "homelessness," Margaret Campbell, Toronto Liberal MPP charged Thursday night.

The number of people in the province who can't afford housing has doubled in recent years, she said. Meantime, spiralling rents are having "devastating effects" on urban dwellers.

The woman politician — who became a symbol of Ontario Liberal revival for her party with an upset by-election win in St. George's riding two years ago — was keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the Quinte riding Liberal Association at the Canadian Legion hall.

"There have been reports in the last year," said Mrs. Campbell, "which have indicated, beyond a shadow of a doubt, in this province we're reaching a stage of homelessness.'

Some years ago a housing crisis meant the lower 20 per cent of the province's population. This has now risen to 40 per cent, she said.

The provincial government last spring promised 12,000 new housing starts under its Ontario Home Assistance Plan (OHAP), said Mrs. Campbell.

By last October this was down to 3,033. Some of these were not new starts but houses already completed or being built already, she claimed.

With the exception of senior-citizen accommodation "it would appear that low rental housing is being phased out," she said.

And "in every major city across this province, you have the devastating effects of the rapid increase in rents," she added.

Attempts to persuade the government to establish rent review boards in cities over 50,000 — to benefit both landlord and tenant — have been unsuccessful she said.

The housing situation was one instance where the government's "public relations" apparatus breaks down when dealing with the concerns of people, claimed the MPP.

In the Conservative government "what we have seen is patronage on a scale which is unbelieveable and ineptitude which is terrifying — particularly as most people had a certain confidence prior to this time that the Tories had at least a degree of efficiency," she said.

Among other issues she discussed:

— Decentralization: Sophistication of modern communications, computerization, makes such a move by government departments more appropriate than ever. This would also create a spinoff settlement of services and businesses dealing with such ministries, taking them out of large urban areas.

— Regional government: Without the proper impact data, this can mean determining the future of affected areas on "very limited facts. Local autonomy must play a role in such decisions — based on "adequate information."

A Happy Speaker

Margaret Campbell, Liberal MPP for Toronto's St. George's, obviously was pleasantly surprised with gift following speech in Belleville Thursday night. Present of local pottery came at Quinte riding Liberal's annual meeting where she was guest speaker.

CGE Reports Minor Layoff

TRENTON — There is no substance to rumors of a major layoff at the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. plant in Trenton, a company spokesman said Thursday.

To date, only 14 of the company's 240 employees have been laid off. All were workers ranked near the bottom of the seniority ladder at the plant, the spokesman said.

If business stays firm, "there are no mass layoffs foreseen in the future," he said. A drop in business is not anticipated, he added.

The West St. plant manufactures electrical motors for household appliances and sump pumps.

The latest layoff of nine workers last week may have touched off rumors a bigger layoff is in the offing, said the spokesman.

All 14 workers are classed as belonging to miscellaneous production jobs. The nine laid off last week had worked at the plant since August, 1974.

It's Cold

The Quinte district got its first taste of subzero weather today as the thermometer plunged to a low to 22 below zero at Bon Echo.

Belleville was in the banana belt, with a low of zero at 8 a.m.

Tweed was 18 below at 6 a.m., and Plevna and Palmer Rapids registered 20 below.

The ministry of natural resources in Tweed reported that Mazinaw Lake is ice-covered for the first time this year and all lakes in north Hastings can carry a pedestrian, provided he uses caution.

Cities Not For Cars

If you live in a city, what do you like about it?

What do you hate?

Put the two together, eliminate the bad and incorporate the good and you have a fine model of what a city should be.

Dr. John N. Jackson of the geography department of Brock University used this simple guideline to wrap up all the philosophy of urban planning for students at Central Hastings Secondary School this week.

He said cities should be developed with a city centre for people, with cars confined to parking lots outside the pedestrian areas.

Dr. Jackson told students all beaches should be public, and no beaches should be privately owned. He deplored American ownership of much prime beach land and said Canadians are being deprived of their heritage.

New Senior Citizen Home Ready Within 3 Months

With delays caused by construction supply shortages, the city's newest senior citizen apartment complex should be completed within three months.

The 80-unit block on West Bridge St. — adjacent to Quinte Court, another senior-citizen building — should he hopefully be ready for tenants by April, an Ontario Housing Corporation official in Belleville said Thursday.

The building was first scheduled for completion last fall. But shortages frustrated the original occupancy deadline, he said. Supplies now still awaited are mainly minor items, such as fixtures.

Meantime, construction continues on the 80-apartment unit on Wellington Cres. for elderly resident. Started late last fall, it is expected to be ready by early summer, said the OHC official.

A third 80-unit centre is planned for East Bridge St. near the Belleville Plaza shopping centre.

At present there are 160 apartments for senior citizens in Belleville. Completion of the three new projects will bring the total to 400.

Officials Agree:

Classroom Use of Calculators Okay

By ROBIN CHASE

Staff Reporter

Officials of the Loyalist College School of Technology endorse the use of pocket-size electronic calculators in post-secondary institutions and high schools, but are uncertain of the grade level at which they should be allowed into students' hands.

School director R.J.A. Turner explained students using calculators accomplish more work and better accuracy, in an interview this week.

But Mr. Turner emphasized calculators are useful only in what he termed "number crunching," or the addition, subtraction, division and multiplication of numbers.

He pointed out in mathematical analysis, "the calculator doesn't help one bit."

Tony Knowles, co-ordinator of the technical resouce centre, warped, however, students must be well-versed in the manipulation of numbers to determine if their answer obtained from a calcultor is "in the right ball park" in case a wrong button has been pressed or any other mechanical mistake made.

Neither Mr. Turner or Mr. Knowles could advise on the lowest grade level at which to limit the use of calculators, but predicted they would eventually wind up in elementary schools. "I think it will come," remarked Mr. Knowles.

Both men noted alulators

Both men noted calculators are merly a faster version of the slide-rule, which has been recommended by education officials for years. "All you're doing is replacing one mechanical device with another," said Mr. Knowles.

Mr. Turner was asked if the increasing use of calculators would destroy the ability of the student to use his mind for easy functions in arithmetic. He replied losing the necessity of mental calculation "is one of the penalties of this society."

He said the Loyalist school would eventually recommend each student have a calculator as part of his equipment. At present, almost two-third's of the technology students have calculators, he said.

"I suspect in two or three years, along with his books, a student will spend 50 to $60 on a calculator," said Mr. Knowles.

Vachon — Strong Performance

Boston Falls Before Kings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Los Angeles Kings, contrary to sports tradition, continue to win most of their National Hockey League road games.

The Kings got two goals from Don Kozak and good goaltending from Rogetien Vachon to beat Boston Bruins 4-1 Thursday night and extended their road-victory streak to eight.

They repaid the Bruins who knocked them out of first place in the Norris Division with an 8-1 setback in their previous encounter, Dec. 12. The Kings have been scrambling to catch division-leading Montreal Canadiens since and now are one point behind.

In other games, Philadelphia Flyers blanked Washington Capitals 4-0 and Detroit Red Wings defeated Kansas City Scouts 7-4.

The Kings now have 14 road wins, two losses and six ties, best in the league. It was Boston's first loss in 10 home games.

Butch Goring and Frank St. Marseille were the other Los Angeles scorers.

Vachon made 33 saves. Ken Hodge ruined his shutout with a third-period power-play goal.

At Philadelphia, defenceman Ted Harris got his first goal since 1973 and Reg Leach picked up his 21st of the season for the Flyers.

Bernie Parent picked up his eighth shutout of the season, stopping 20 shots as the Flyers boosted their Patrick Division lead over second-place New York Rangers to 10 points. Parent had to stop just one shot in the first period.

Rick MacLeish and Bill Clement had the other goals.

The Flyers played without forward Dave Schultz, benched by coach Fred Shero for taking too many misconduct penalties in recent games.

It was Washington's 37th loss in 45 games. They have eight wins.

Danny Grant scored his 24th and 25th goals of the season and Marcel Dionne scored once and set up three others to lead Detroit to its home-ice victory.

The Scouts, who had won three of their last five games, scored four goals in the first period, three on power plays, to take a 4-1 lead.

Guy Charron, traded to Kansas City from Detroit a month ago, got two of the goals and Wilf Palement and Ed Gilbert had the others.

Then it was Grant with his two goals, Dionne, Pierre Jarry, Phil Roberto, Nick Libett and Jean Hamel, replying for the Red Wings.

Barrie Trio Hot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Paul Regan of Barrie Flyers holds a 10-point lead in scoring in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A hockey league this week. Team-mates Bob Baird and Phil Branston are in second and third place.

Regan has 60 points on 25 goals and 35 assists. Baird has 50 points on 25 goals and 25 assists and Branston, 48 points on 14 goals and 34 assists.

The three players make up Barrie's top attacking trio and together have combined for 64 goals.

Top goalie is Flyer Grant Cole with a goals-against average of 2.53. He also recorded the only shutout this year.

Nepean Earns Tie

OTTAWA (CP) — Randy Dorkin scored at 19:11 of the third period Thursday to give Nepean Raiders a 5-5 Central Junior Hockey League tie with Gloucester Rangers.

Mike Meeker, with two goals, Sid Tanchak and John Nazar also scored for the Raiders in the fast, rough, entertaining game.

Outshooting the Raiders 32-27 and holding period leads of 4-2 and 4-3, the Rangers got their goals from Louis Lortie, Mike Eagen, Dan MacKay, Steve Dawe and Steve Lester.

The home Rangers also picked up a game misconduct when Scott Duego refused to stop fighting with Nepean's John Jessop in the second. Both took five-minute fighting majors, but Duego picked up the heavier sentence as the aggressor.

Petes Secure In Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes consolidated their hold on second place Thursday and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds moved into sixth spot in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A standings.

At Peterborough, the Petes scored three goals in less than five minutes of the third period and downed Hamilton Fincups 4-1.

At Sault Ste. Marie, the Greyhounds overcame an early 3-0 deficit and defeated Kingston Canadians 6-4.

Pete Scamurra, Gary McMonagle, Mike Fryia and Stan Jonathan scored for the Petes. Dale McCourt replied for the Fincups, who were outshot 31-23.

The game was marred by fights as referee Jim Lever assessed 120 minutes in penalties including 11 five-minute majors, three 10-minute fighting majors and a game misconduct to Hamilton's Dave Norris.

Norris twice waged fights with Jonathan, including a first-period melee that continued in the penalty box.

Gary Farelli scored the winning goal for the Greyhounds at the 14-minute mark of the third period. Paul Woods, Randy Borbely, Tony Cuomo, Mike Hordy and Bruce O'Grady added one goal each.

Alex Forsythe scored twice and Mike Crombeen and Bob Street had one each for Canadians. Greyhounds had a 50-37 advantage in shots on goal.

In tonight's games, Kingston is at Sudbury, Ottawa 67s meet the Knights in London, Kitchener Rangers play host to St. Catharines Black Hawks, Oshawa Generals and Toronto Marlboros meet in Brantford and the Greyhounds travel to Hamilton.

Nicholishen Debut Success

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Dave Nicholishen made his debut as player-coach a success Thursday as his Whitby McDonald's downed Brantford Foresters 3-1 in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game scheduled.

Nicholishen came to the McDonald's from Barrie Flyers where he had seen limited action this season because of a hand injury. He replaced Jim Cherry who was fired two weeks ago after the McDonald's had managed only eight victories and two ties in 21 outings. Mike Keenan had served as interim coach.

The victory, which snapped a five-game home-ice winless streak for the McDonald's, was in doubt until 17:27 of the final period when Carl Ahlsten fired the winner.

Bob Munro added an empty-net goal with 30 seconds remaining. Calvin Pettit got Whitby's first goal early in the opening period.

Bob Thompson got the lone Brantford goal midway through the second period.

Brantford goalie Stan Worsz stopped 28 shots while Bruce Durno handled 19 in the Whitby net.

Only two minor penalties were assessed, one to each team.

League play resumes tonight with Cambridge Hornets in Barrie and Orillia Terriers playing host to Napanee Comets.

23-to-1 Takes Feature

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Ester B Soo, off at 23-to-1 odds, charged up the stretch Thursday to capture the featured $1,800 ninth race at Windsor Raceway.

Handled by provisional driver George Ward for owner Bart Ciferri of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the six-year-old mare trailed the field for most of the mile. But Ward took her to the extreme outside and as the favorites, Hilltop Red and Derby Darwin, faltered in the stiff wind, Ester B Soo closed with a rush.

Ester B Soo covered the distance in 2:07 4-5 and paid $48.40, $9.90 and $4.20.

The daily double of Donevan's Time in the first and Wil Loc Doc in the second returned $17.80.

The fourth-race triactor of Dardick Adios, My Scotch Song and Lord Duncan paid $1,278.20 Baron K, Rob Ron Comet and Eva Johnston combined in the seventh for a $62.20 triactor with Sara J Go and Baron's Streak producing a 10th-race exactor of $16.40.

The crowd of 4,324 wagered $405,331.

Effort To No Avail

Rochester Americans goaltender Dave Reese stopped 52 of 55 shots directed his way but came up on the losing end of a 3-2 decision against Nova Scotia Voyageurs in an American Hockey League game Thursday night.

The Rochester defence didn't give Reese much help during the game, but the Americans goaltender held the Voyageurs scoreless while team-mate Ron Garwasiuk gave the visitors a 1-0 first-period lead.

In the only other AHL game Thursday, Syracuse Eagles downed Richmond Robins 6-4.

Rick Chartraw tied the game for the Voyageur's in the second period to send the teams into the third period tied 1-1.

Peter Sullivan scored the winner at 14:26 of the third period after Rochester had gone ahead early in the period on Doug Gibson's goal. Don Howse had tied the game for Nova Scotia at 8:05.

Nova Scotia goalie Ed Walsh had an easy night compared with Reese, stopping 26 shots, 12 of them in the first period.

At Richmond, Va., Dick Sarrazin, a former player with the Robins, scored two goals to lead the Eagles to victory.

Billy Orr added two goals for the winners, while Al Rycroft and Cal Swinson added single goals.

Ron Anderson scored two goals for Richmond—both in the first period—and John Paddock and Bob Gryp scored single goals.

In games tonight, Hershey is at altimore, Nova Scotia travels to Providence, New Haven is at Rochester, Springfield hosts Richmond, and Virginia plays at home against Syracuse.

Montreal Ties Down Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Juniors moved into sole possession of third place in the West Division of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League on Thursday night and at the same time, prevented Trois-Rivieres Draveurs from moving into a first-place tie in the East Division.

The Juniors trampled Trois-Rivieres 11-4 to move two points ahead of Hull Festivals, who dropped a 5-2 verdict to Cornwall Royals in the only other action Thursday.

Jean-Luc Phaneuf scored a goal in each period to pace Montreal's attack.

The loss kept the Draveurs two points behind first-place Quebec Remparts in the East.

At Cornwall, Dan Geoffrion, Pierre Brassard, Marc Brazeau, Yvon Disotell and Ron Davison scored for the Royals with Jim Vanni and Ted Bulley replying for Hull.

Tonight, Montreal travels to Quebec, Sherbrooke is at home to Cornwall and Chicoutimi visits Shawinigan.

METS SIGN FOUR

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets announced the signing Thursday of four players to 1975 contracts, including veterans Joe Torre and Olean Jones. Torre, acquired during baseball's off-season from St. Louis Cardinals, signed for an estimated $135,000, which is a slight reduction.

Racers Stunt Pays Off Big

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Indianapolis Racers and a local radio station promoted the Racers' World Hockey Association game with Cleveland as a "guaranteed win," and promised everyone who attended a free ticket to the next home game, if Indianapolis lost.

The promotion worked in a big way Thursday night. The Racers put together consecutive victories on home ice for the first time this season to defeat the Crusaders 4-2.

And the crowd, 10,785, was the biggest of the season in Market Square Arena since the Oct. 17 opener drew more than 12,000.

In the only other game, San Diego Mariners downed Edmonton Oilers 3-2. A game between Michigan Stags and Chicago Cougars at Detroit was postponed due to the Stags' continuing financial problems.

Bob Sicinski, John Sheridan, Brian McDonald and Jim Johnson scored for the Racers.

"I think it was a great promotion," said Crusaders coach Jack Vivian, who lost for the first time in three meetings with the first-year Racers.

"The Racers are not the most talented team in the league, but they really worked and hustled."

At San Diego, Andre Lacroix scored with 3:58 left in the game on a power play to give the Mariners the win.

The Mariners built a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Gene Peacosh and Rick Sentes.

Goalie Ken Brown kept the Oilers in the game with 21 saves in the first two periods. The Oilers came back to tie the game on Bob Sheehan's goal at 18:34 in the second period on a power play and Blair MacDonald's goal at 10:59 of the third period.

Lacroix's goal was the 100th of his three-season WHA career.

Edmonton travels to Phoenix tonight and Toronto plays at New England.

Burns Gets Another Photographic Award

SLICES — Long an admirer of photographer Michael Burns' work with a camera, I was glad to hear the Toronto craftsman recently won an Eclipse Award for the best photograph in Thoroughbred racing in 1974.

Over the years, if one saw a particularly good sports photo adorning the pages of Toronto dailies, it was a good bet the picture appeared above a Michael Burns credit line.

Burns is now the official photographer for the Ontario Jockey Club.

His prize-winner, "showing a colt snorting steam from his nostrils, framed in the bridle of another horse", was chosen from among thousands submitted.

It's the second Eclipse Award (presented annually by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations) for Burns. He first won in 1968.

Four times, Burns won the Telegram Trophy, awarded for the best sports picture in Canada.

Michael Burns has earned the title Craftsman of Photographic Arts.

He's the Canadian government's official photographer at the Summer and Winter Olympic Games, the Commonwealth Games and the Pan-Am Games.

Some excellent young five-pinners are off and rolling in the annual Four Steps to Stardom event.

Youth Bowling Council members at Belleville Bowl-O-Drome are involved in the eight-game rolloff for the right to advance to zone finals.

Six top girls and boys in each division, senior, junior, bantam, will move to Step 2.

How's this for openers?

Steve Levick's whopping 873 triple (320-296-257) was tops for senior boys.

And leading the senior girls was Jo-Anne Gibeault with a sparkling 761 (286-219-256).

Winners in the zone competition go to Step 3, the Provincial finals, February 16 and 23. Step 4 is the ultimate aim of all the youngsters involved. That's the National Championships, April 20-22, in Calgary, Alberta.

I can remember when hockey fans referred to George Ferguson as Al's brother.

Now, I think Al will agree, it's the other way around.

But while George is a regular with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League (he's out of the lineup right now, suffering from back problems) Al is going great guns with the Picton entry in the Trent Valley Intermediate League.

In 10 games with the second place Picton squad, Al, a former top notch performer with Belleville senior teams, had 10 goals and 20 assists for a league leading point total of 30.

Doug Senior is another player who saw action with senior teams here and is with the Picton squad this season. Doug has nine goals and 11 assists in eight games.

Top team in the league is Campbellford with 26 points. Picton has 18; Brighton, 15; Tweed, 11; Tamworth, 11 and Madoc, nine.

An All-star team from the Belleville Broomball League is one of eight entries in a tournament scheduled for Saturday at the Brighton Arena.

Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, is the host team with other squads entered from Grafton, Kingston, Toronto, CFB Borden, Smiths Falls and Ottawa.

Action gets started at 8.30 a.m.

The Belleville League representative makes its first start at 10.30, hooking up with CFB, Borden.

Golden Mile's John Paul is the all-stars' playing coach. Other Milers on the select team are Art McKay, Joe Iasenza, Jack Walsh and Gary Conovan.

From Northern Electric come goalie Dave Casselman, Bob Brownlee, Bill Dudgeon and Ron McFarlane.

Art's Esso is represented by Andy Prudden and Jim Parks.

League leading A and J Restaurant players with the Stars are Larry Wannamaker, Ron Cannons and Paul Genereaux.

John O'Neill is the club's manager.

The Tournament A final is set for 6 p.m., Saturday, following the B showdown at 4.30.

Trenton Club Holds District

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Curling Club will host the 1975 district playoffs for the Men's Provincial Curling Championships beginning Saturday morning at 9.

Rinks from Ajax, Oshawa, Cannington, Woodville, Peterborough, Lakfield and a pair from the host club will take part.

The over-all winner of the two day event will take part in the Ontario Curling Association's Provincial final, February 7,8 and 9 at the Trenton Club.

Dairymen, Builders In First

Last place Stinson Construction isn't a total write-off. They have the top scorer in the league. High-flying Rick Rosebush added an assist to his points total Thursday night bringing it to 30 on 12 goals and 18 helpers. Despite his efforts though, his club dropped a 3-2 decision to first place Cornerstone Builders.

Stinson only has one other scorer in the league's top 10. He is Dave Horwood. His four goals and 10 assists rank him ninth. Their goaltending can't be faulted for their lastp lace stand. Ron Jury ranks third in the goalies race with a 3.9 goals against average. That mark is just .2 off second place Bob Harrison and Mike Caine, of Belvedere Hotel, and .4 off the pace of the top two netminders in the league — Warren Hay and Jim Bull, of Reid's Dairy. The number four spot in the goalies race is held down by Cornerstone's Casey Soden with a 4.2 average.

Thursday night, Bill Goodfellow and Andy Prudden scored for Stinson and Norm Pope, Phil Meeks and Barry Pyear replied for Cornerstone.

Meeks and Pope hold down the number seven and eight spots in the league's scoring race. They now have 16 and 15 points, respectively. Tied with Meeks, but in sixth place because of his goals, teammate is Doug Joidan. He has eight goals and eight assists.

Reid's scorers occupy four of the top 10 spots in the standings. Second place Moe Hunter had a goal and three assists, third place Ralph Plane had two goals and two assists, fifth place Carl Boomhower had two assists and tenth place Bob Boyle had a goal and two assists. Thursday night Hunter leads the league in goals with 15. Other Reid's scorers were Ralph Boomhower, Jim McKay and Brian Smith in the 7-2 win over the Hotelmen.

Ted Waite and Erron Johnston replied for Belvedere. Waite is number four in the scoring race. He has 19 points. Add 6-point standings and scorers.

Winter Games Torch Stops Here

If this weekend you happen to look up to the Belleville City Hall clock for the time and you notice that at the top of the tower is a different kind of flag, don't worry: we haven't been taken over by a foreign country.

It is all part of the ceremonies the municipal government has arranged to honor the arrival of the Canada Winter Games Torch on its way to the Games site in Lethbridge, Alberta.

Sunday night, the main ceremony will take place just prior to the Belleville Bobcats home game against Markham Royals. A mobile unit will be led into the city by police escort from the Sun Valley Motor Hotel and taken directly to the Memorial Arena. At 7.45 p.m., half an hour after leaving the Sun Valley, the caravan will arrive at the Arena and the official, but brief ceremony will commence.

Very few cities are scheduled to get a look at the Winter Games Torch before it finishes its provincial-wide hopscotch. Only Ottawa, Toronto, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and Belleville are on its stop-over list for Ontario.

Included in the Sunday night ceremony is a presentation by her worship, Mayor Robin Jeffrey, and Arena Committee Chairman, George Zegouras, to Federal Government representative Gerry Beaudry, the General Secretary of the Canada Games Council.

After reaching the Memorial, the torch will be carried into the Arena by Ron Hayes, a member of the Apollo Weightlifting Club and part of the nine-man weightlifting team which will represent Ontario at Lethbridge. When Hayes reaches the edge of the ice surface, the torch will be turned over to Belleville Bobcat team captain, Rob Foster, who will make a turn around the ice.

Upon completion of the speeches and signing of the city's guest book by Beaudry and the presentation of the memento by the Mayor, the torch will be returned to the mobile unit. The memento is to be taken to Lethbridge on behalf of the citizens of Belleville.

The Mobile Torch Parade is then, in fact, a tri-level governmental production. The Federal Government is supporting the initial Mobile Unit costs, the Provincial Governments are supporting certain expenses, as the Unit travels through their respective provinces and the municipal governments are putting together certain program ceremonies at stop-overs.

Belleville Man New Lancer Coach

Loyalist College's newest addition to the physical education department, 21-year-old Dave Simonds is not only studying for his Bachelor of Science in Kinesiology, he also hails from Belleville.

Dave is currently enrolled at Waterloo University in the co-operative system, which means he is out in the working world for half of his eight month school term and hard at the books for the other four months.

"Kinesiology," Dave explains "is simply the study of human movement."

The course will take him a total of five years to complete and he hopes to graduate in 1976.

Dave was born in Sudbury, Ontario and moved to the "Friendly City" with his parents when he was still in early public school.

He attended Belleville Collegiate High School (BCI) and while there was involved in such sports as: basketball, volleyball and track and field. He favored the latter and became proficient enough to four times make the trip to the Canadian Championships.

Dave had his best year at the championships in Winnipeg when he was 18, placing third over all.

"Bruce left me notes on all the teams and sports and already had the intermurals set up for the year," said Dave.

"I like working with kids," smiles Dave. He has no lack of experience already having worked at the West Scarborough Boy's club in Toronto along with spending time as track and field co-ordinator for Sport Ontario and locally managing the Belleville Squash Club.

He found out about the job from a friend and, as it turned out, Rob Stinson and he had met when Rob was teaching track and field at Quinte. Things fell into place from there.

When he graduates Dave isn't quite sure just what he'd like to do.

"I would like to go into either sports, medicine or the designing of sports equipment," he said.

Cats Need Win Tonight For Hold on Third

By MIKE BRADSHAW

Sports Staff

When the Belleville Bobcats take on the Kingston Voyageurs tonight at the Memorial Arena you can bet you're going to be in for a good game. The two clubs have battled through two regular season matches this year and have come out with a win each.

When they clash at 9 tonight it will be the rubber match and it could very well be a prelude to the opening round of the playoffs.

In their first regular season meeting Kingston beat Belleville at home 6-4. When Belleville travelled to the Limestone City the tables were turned and the Cats won 6-5.

"It should be a hell of a game," said Cats General Manager, Jim 'Snipe' Matthews, "but I think we can beat them."

The two clubs are presently tied for third place in the Metro Junior B standings with 30 points each. Kingston has 13 wins, 12 losses and four ties and Belleville is 14-13-2.

"If we can win this one tonight we can put a little daylight between us," said Matthews. The Bobcats had a chance to put a few points between them and the Voyageurs last weekend, but lost a game to Peterborough and blew the chance.

At the same time, Kingston was tying Pickering Panthers 7-7 and earlier this week beat Whitby Bruins 9-3 in Whitby.

If Belleville winds up in third they will likely face fourth place Kingston and have the extra home game advantage in the best-of-five series. If the Cats fall into fourth the outcome would be just the opposite.

Both teams have nine games left. Belleville has five of those at home, but two of the four road games are back-to-back. One is on the road in Markham on a Friday night and then the locals go to Oshawa for a Saturday afternoon game.

Neither of the two clubs can catch first place Markham Royals or second place Pickering, but both the Voyageurs and the Cats have to look over their shoulders and watch out for the Peterborough Lions. The Lions are just three points off their pace.

The playoff system this year gives the top two clubs choices of who they want to face in the first round of competition. With this being the case, the playoffs should have Markham meeting sixth place Whitby, Pickering meeting fifth place Peterborough and the third and fourth place clubs — Belleville and Kingston — facing off against each other.

This system is devised to counter-act any end of the season jockeying that might take place. (Jockeying-teams losing games on purpose just so they don't have to face tough competition in the first round.)

The series between the first place club and their choice of opponent will be a best-of-seven. The others are best-of-five. That way the first place club gets a bye in the second round while the winners of the other two series are playing off.

The deadline date for playoffs is March 22. (That means an over-all Metro Junior B Champion must be decided by that date.)

Shells Begin Playoffs

The Belleville Shell Juveniles begin their Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoff series with Oshawa Saturday night at the Dick Ellis Rink at 8:15.

The series was to begin in Oshawa on Wednesday night, but that contest was called off because of inclement travel conditions. The second game in the best-of-five, first round series will be played in Oshawa on Monday at 8:45 p.m. with the third game back in Belleville at 9 p.m. at the Dick Ellis next Saturday.

Forbes Serves 10-Game Suspension Quietly

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Forbes of Boston Bruins is remaining silent in the wake of his 10-game suspension by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell.

The 26-year-old player has been told by his lawyer, Joseph Keough, not to discuss the case because of possible court litigation.

Forbes and Henry Boucha of Minnesota North Stars tangled Jan. 4 in a game at Bloomington, Minn. They served penalties. Then Boucha suffered a cut requiring 25 stitches when struck in the right eye area, apparently by Forbes' stick, in another incident.

A Hennepin County, Minn. grand jury heard testimony in the case Monday, but no indictment has been announced.

Campbell conducted a seven-hour closed hearing Tuesday in Minnesota and 24 hours later handed down the suspension in Montreal. The announcement was made in a news release.

The suspension has been denounced as too harsh by the Bruins and as too light by many of the North Stars.

Forbes, Keough and Bruins' managing director Harry Sinden appeared at a news conference Thursday night in Boston Garden. Keough criticized Campbell for issuing what he called a news release "loaded with inaccuracies and innuendo."

"I'm shocked that a person of Mr. Campbell's stature, particularly one who is a lawyer, would issue such a statement knowing action is pending in the Minnesota courts,' Keough said.

"No admissions were made by Mr. Forbes." Keough said. "Statements by Mr. Forbes were taken out of context."

Keough said Campbell had assured him that the hearing would be private, with no tape recorders and with the league president merely taking notes. Keough said he was told "rules of evidence would not apply."

The lawyer said that in the news release Campbell called the assault on Boucha "unprovoked" and "vicious.'

"This is not the case, nor was the attack proved," Keough said. "The only viciousness I can see is on the part of Mr. Campbell in his release.

"This was supposed to be a private hearing. Then he gives his version, loaded with inaccuracies and innuendo. I think Mr. Forbes rights to a fair trial have been damaged."

Keough said that neither he nor Forbes have received any notice of an indictment from Minnesota.

Shortly before the news conference, Forbes talked teammates Bobby Orr, Phil Esposito, Johnny Bucyk and Carol Vadnais out of boycotting the all-star game in Montreal next Tuesday. The four had planned to boycott the game to protest Forbes' suspension and Campbell's handling of the case.

"It's got to make you feel good when guys think enough of you to want to do something like that," Forbes said. "However, the National Hockey League cannot afford to have four guys of that quality not play in the all-star game.'

West German Girl Astounds Skiers

SCHRUNS, Austria (CP) — Two Canadian girls finished among the top 10 in a World Cup slalom ski race Thursday, but all the talk was about the two sensational runs turned in by Christa Zechmeister.

The West German girl turned in the fastest times on both runs at the 4,500-foot Vorarlberg slope to defeat Austrian ace Annemarie Proell-Moser.

Mrs. Proell-Moser's performance, combined with her fifth-place showing in Wednesday's downhill, gave her a maximum 175 points in the women's World Cup standings, 66 ahead of runner-up Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany.

Miss Zerhmeister's time for the two runs was one minute 21.49 seconds. Mrs. Proell-Moser posted a time of 1:22.28 while third place went to world champion Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein in 1:22.35.

Betsy Clifford of Old Chelsea, Que., topped the Canadian entries, finishing eighth in 1:24.55. In ninth place was Kathy Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., in 1:24.77.

Susan Clifford, Betsy's younger sister, was 25th in 1:27.68 while Toria Moser, a 14-year-old from Toronto now living in Austria and in only her second World Cup race, was 40th in 1:32.21.

Karen Cloutier of Lorraine, Que., fell on her first run and was disqualified.

"One of the best this year," replied Lynn McIntosh, Canada's national team coach, when asked what he thought of the girls' performance. The girls had been down on their efforts this year, particularly Betsy who finished well down in the field in Wednesday's downhill race here.

The high placings by Kathy and Betsy in Thursday's race increased Canada's World Cup point total to 50, 10th over all. The girls team has been credited with all but two points. These were picked up by Calgary's Jim Hunter at Madonna di Campiglio in the men's downhill.

Kathy's effort also moved her into fifth place in the over-all women's standings here with her eighth-place finish Wednesday. The Schruns stop on the tour is one of three where combined points count for World Cup points, an innovation this year.

Kathy, 17, whose older sister, Laurie, returned home Wednesday to join the North American Can-Am series after poor showings in Europe, was 17th after her first run Thursday but turned in the seventh fastest time of the day in her second run through the 54-gate layout.

Six Players Repeats On Writers All-pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Only six players including Super Bowlers Joe Greene, Alan Page and Ron Yary, were repeat selections among the top 24 offensive and defensive players on the 1974 Pro Football Writers of America all-pro team announced today.

Miami guard Larry Little, Buffalo running back O.J. Simpson and Oakland punter Ray Guy also were repeaters on the team, determined by vote of writers in the various National Football League cities. It was Little's fourth consecutive year on the squad.

Greene, the defensive tackle who helped lead Pittsburgh over Minnesota 16-6 in the Super Bowl, was one of three Steelers on the all-pro team. The others, both selected for the first time, were defensive end L.C. Greenwood and linebacker Jack Ham.

Among other new faces were Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler and wide receiver Cliff Branch, and Denver running back Otis Armstrong.

Oekland placed four men on the two teams, with Pittsburgh and Buffalo each landing three.

Page, Minnesota's standout defensive tackle, and offensive tackle Yary were the only two Vikings selected.

Miller Leads Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller is leading another golf tournament, this time the $200,000 Tucson Open.

Miller had a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round and took a one-stroke lead.

One stroke back at 67 were John Mahaffey and a couple of longshots, Don Iverson and Ralph Johnston, neither of whom ever has won.

Lee Trevino, weakened by the flu, Mike Hill, Miller Barber, Lou Graham, Leonard Thompson and Lee Elder had 68s.

Arnold Palmer, making his first start of the season, had a 72 and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin had a 73.

Danny Halldorson of Brandon, Man., also had a 73 for top Canadian after the first round. Ben Kern of London, Ont., and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg finished the day at 74, while George Knudson of Toronto was one stroke back at 75.

Miller has set a flock of records the last 12 months. He scored eight U.S. victories in 1974, won player-of-the-year honors and collected a record $353,000.

Last week he had a 72-hole total of 260 at Phoneix, the lowest score in 20 years.

IOC Will Mediate Television Dispute

GENEVA (Reuter) — The International Olympic Committee (IOC) will mediate a long-standing dispute which threatens to deprive European television viewers of coverage of the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal, a spokesman for the European Broadcasting Union EBU) said Thursday.

The Canadian organizers and the Geneva-based EBU will meet under the chairmanship of an IOC executive at the Olympic committee's headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland, Jan. 29 to try to solve a deadlock over payments for the European televising rights, he said.

Sources close to the 30-nation EBU said IOC President Lord Killanin would probably meet Sir Charles Curran, EBU president and director-general of the British Broadcasting Corporation, in London later this month for informal talks on the dispute.

The spokesman said the Canadian organizers had asked EBU members to pay $20 million for the European screening rights and the use of facilities.

"This figure is not remotely discussable," he said.

The EBU paid $1.8 million for the rights to televise the 1972 Munich Olympics.

U.S. rights have been sold to the American Broadcasting Company for $25 million. The CBC owns Canadian rights.

Spitfires First

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Windsor Spitfires took over first place in the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League Thursday with a 6-3 win over Welland Sabres who held first place prior to the game.

The Spitfires scored four second-period goals to wipe out a 1-0 Sabre lead, then added two more in the third.

Windsor outshot Welland 32-27 before 4,100 fans.

Mo Carter Back For Endurance

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A faulty memory is an asset for auto-racing drivers and Mo Carter comes well-equipped.

He was running at 190 m.p.h. on Dec. 1 in a 250-mile race at the Daytona International Speedway in Florida when his car blew a tire and hit a retaining wall. He was not injured.

He hasn't exactly forgotten the incident m but if there was

He hasn't exactly forgotten the incident but if there was any fear he has let it slip into the haze of things he prefers not to remember too clearly.

"It doesn't bother me at all," he says. "I wouldn't even think about it—it wasn't serious."

And, thus prepared, he will be back Feb. 1-2 for the 24 Hours of Daytona endurance race. What's more he is making himself eligible to drive in either of his two cars, a bit of insurance.

In the Daytona 250, Carter qualified 16th in his Camaro despite a faulty engine—a blow cylinder-head gasket. With a fresh engine he passed 11 cars on the first lap and was fourth when the tire blew.

"It happened on the banking where the car ricochets and bounces around (against the retaining wall) and slows down. If it had happened on the flat it could have been different."

The crashed auto has been rebuilt at Carter's racing headquarters in Hamilton and will be co-driven by Carter and Gene Felton of Atlanta, Ga.

A second Carter Camaro will be entered in the name of Tony De Lorenzo of the U.S. and Dick Brown of Montreal, but Carter will be listed as a co-driver so that he can switch to the second car if his first has trouble.

That wouldn't bother him, either, since the No. 2 car is an old favorite, having carried him to victory at Watkins Glen, N.Y., and Pocono, Pa., in 1973 against top competition.

Carter's No. 1 has had its 600-horse-power, 454 - cubic-inch displacement V-8 engine replared by a smaller 550-h.p., 427-cubic-inch engine that is given a better chance of lasting the 24 hours.

The De Lorenzo-Brown car will have an even more reliable 480-h.p. V-8 with 350-cubic-inch displacement.

Although the race is a world championship points event, there are none of the high-powered sports prototype Ferraris, Matras and Alfa Romeos entered, leaving the field open to GT sports cars and sedans like Carter's.

The 24-hour race will put considerable pressure on Carter's Hamilton-based crew. In addition to routine stops for fuel every 90 minutes, the two Camaros will need a dozen fresh tires and three sets of front disc brake pads each during the contest.

Cosentino Steps Down As Mustangs Coach

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Frank Cosentino, who guided University of Western Ontario Mustangs to two Canadian intercollegiate football championships in the last five years, resigned as head coach Thursday.

Cosentino, 37, said he will remain at the university as a physical education teacher. He said he has also applied for administrative positions in physical education at universities in Victoria, Hamilton and Guelph.

"My goals when I came to Western were to give the university a winning football team and to restore the football tradition at the school," he said in announcing his decision. "These aims and goals are pretty well achieved."

Cosentino is a Western business administration graduate. He quarterbacked the Mustangs to two league championships in 1957 and 1959 before playing 10 seasons in the Canadian Football League. He obtained a master's degree in physical education from University of Alberta in 1969 and a doctor's degree from that university in 1974.

Hired for a five-year term in 1970 to replace John Metras, Cosentino had a winning record in all five seasons with an overall record of 34 wins, 13 losses and two ties. Mustangs won the Canadian title in 1971 and 1974.

Cosentino said he did not intend to take a coaching job at another university or in professional football.

Bucks Hit .500

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee Bucks slipped to the lowest depth in their history earlier this season when they were without Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Now, with their towering centre back, they have reached their season's peak.

The Bucks, losers of 13 of their first 14 games while Abdul-Jabbar was recuperating from a lacerated eye and a broken bone in his hand, squared their record at 21-21 Thursday night with a 119-100 victory over Golden State Warriors.

Kareem scored 40 points and hit 18 of 26 field goal attempts.

Rick Barry, the league's leading scorer, paced the Warriors with 26 points, but sank only 12 of 34 shots from the floor.

Meanwhile, Bill Walton of Portland, sidelined since Nov. 23 because of injuries, including a bone spur in his right ankle, scored only two points in a reserve role as Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Trail Blazers 89-81.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Atlanta Hawks defeated Washington Bulets 108-85, and Seattle SuperSonics outlasted Houston Rockets 127-125 in overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver Nuggets downed Utah Stars 115-104.

Barrie Would Rather Switch

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Barrie Raceway would rather switch than fight.

The harness-racing track has decided that, beginning next week, its Wednesday program will take place in the afternoon starting at 1:30 p.m. EST. The move was made to avoid a clash with Toronto Greenwood Raceway's evening card.

Attendance has been dwindling at Barrie since the Ontario Racing Commission last month granted the Ontario Jockey Club the right to add Wednesday nights to its winter meeting at Greenwood.

Barrie's attendance was 775 Wednesday night.

Before Greenwood began Wednesday night racing, the Barrie track averaged 1,600 to 1,800 fans on that night.

Night racing will continue Fridays and Saturdays at Barrie.

SMITH NAMED

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Lutz, Stan Smith, Dick Stockton and Roscoe Tanner have been named to the United States Davis Cup tennis team that will play Jan. 31 to Feb. 2 against Mexico in Palm Springs, Calif. The U.S. team defeated the Caribbean 5-0 in the 1975 opener.

Cutler Almost Breaks Record

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Cutler, Edmonton Eskimos field goal specialist, won the 1974 Canadian Football League scoring title with the third highest season point total ever recorded.

Official statistics released by CFL headquarters today show Cutler had 144 points on 34 field goals, 32 converts and 10 singles.

He fell four points short of the record of 148 set by Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1969 and was one behind the 145 scored by Jack Hill of Saskatchewan Roughriders in 1958.

The 1974 season was the eighth in a row and 17th in the last 18 years in which the scoring crown has gone to a kicker. The six players who scored more than 100 points didn't have a touchdown among them.

Ian Sunter of Hamilton was second with 141 points on 35 field goals, 22 converts and 14 singles, followed by Gerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders and Zenon Andrusyshyn of Toronto Argonauts with 134 each.

Don Sweet of the Grey Cup-champion Montreal Alouettes was fifth with 109 and Ivan MacMillan of British Columbia Lions sixth with 101.

BIRTHS

HARVEY — John and Carolyn (nee Doyle) are pleased to announce the arrival of their first child, John Phillip Sanford, weight 9 pounds, 1¼ ounces, on Saturday, January the 11th, 1975. Proud grandparents are Mr. John Harvey, Ameliasburg, Mrs. Phyllis Doyle, Belleville and Mr. Walter Doyle, Tamworth, Ontario. Special thanks to Dr. Birchard, Dr. Hayes and the staff at Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

BEAVIS — In loving memory of a dear mother Nina Beavis who passed away one year ago today Jan. 17, 1974.

It's lonely here without you mom,
For we miss you each day,
Life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
They say time heals our hearts,
And helps us to forget,
Your place on earth no one can fill,
We miss you now and always will.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Thelma, Dean and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Hugh Empey wish to thank the many friends and relatives for their floral tributes, messages of condolence and visitations during the recent passing of their dear husband, father and grandfather. Also a very special thank you to Rev. J. H. Thompson, officiating clergyman, for his inspirational message as well as his countless visits. To the nurses on sixth floor of Belleville General Hospital and to Dr. Lisowski, we extend our heartfelt gratitude for their care and extreme kindnesses during the past five weeks. Thank you.

Lillie Empey.

I would like to thank all my dear friends who were so kind to me during the recent bereavement of my dear friend George Frederick Lawton. The donations to the Ontario Heart Fund were deeply appreciated.

Doreen Burney.

I wish to thank my neighbors, friends and relatives for the lovely cards, gifts and kindness shown during my illness while in the hospital. A special thanks to Drs. Manderville and Dr. Hartt, and staff. Many thanks again.

Wilfred Short.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Phyllis Doyle, Belleville, is pleased to announce the marriage of her daughter, Beverly Jean, to Bruce Truman Sills, son of Mrs. Eileen Sills, Ameliasburg, and the late Mr. Otis Sills. The wedding took place at Mountain View United Church on November 29th.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Roach wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Susan, to Mr. Bill Ballas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stavros Ballas of Greece. The marriage will take place on Saturday, February 15, 1975 at Holloway Street United Church, Belleville at 7 p.m.

A friendly call is always welcomed by newcomers to your neighborhood. They'll be happy to meet you. Later, they'll want to know you better.

But right now, they need something more—directions to the nearest schools and shopping facilities and all the other information one needs on arriving in a strange city.

So make your welcome a little warmer with the help of a Welcome Wagon hostess. She'll provide all this and gifts as well.

When new neighbors move in, call Welcome Wagon. You'll be glad you did... and they will, too.

Anticosti Holiday Costs $2,200 a Week

ANTICOSTI ISLAND, Que. (CP) — History depicts this windswept, wilderness Gulf of St. Lawrence island as a playground of the rich and powerful and its new owners may inadvertently continue the tradition.

Since Jacques Cartier sighted its shores, the 135-by-35-mile land mass has been owned successively by Louis XIV, a French "chocolate king," Newfoundland, Canada, a paper giant and finally the province of Quebec.

Quebec's department of tourism, hunting and fishing recently purchased the island from Consolidated-Bathurst Ltd. for $23.8 million. The department then announced it will soon open it for hunting and fishing excursions—at prices ranging up to $2,200 for a seven-day trip.

That may seem exorbitant, but last year 1,800 sportsmen paid for packages priced from $400 to $1,800 a week for salmon-fishing and deer-hunting trips.

It has been estimated there are 75,000 deer on the island. There are 41 rivers, 21 which afford excellent salmon fishing. Other estimates say there are between 3,000 and 4,000 moose.

Whether the 250 inhabitants of Anticosti will profit by this scheme remains to be seen. The terms of Quebec's purchase are said to guarantee them employment in the tourist trade, but theirs has not been a history of plenty.

Geographical circumstances almost ensure hardship. The island lies 360 miles northeast of Quebec City, precisely in the region where most Atlantic storms blow themselves out with "ordinary" winds of 60 miles an hour—gusting to 85. Hurricane force is 74 miles an hour.

The average February temperature is 12 degrees—in July, 59 degrees.

Anticosti is a name given by the Montagnais Indians, who called the island "the hunting ground for bears." Cartier is given credit as its Old World discoverer. It was later deeded by Louis XIV to French explorer Louis Jolliet, who had flown France's flag on the Mississippi River, via Quebec governor Louis de Buade Frontenac.

In 1763 Anticosti was annexed to Newfoundland, then annexed back to Canada in 1774. A hundred years later a Quebec group formed a company to take possession and sold it in 1898 to Henri Menier, a French entrepreneur who had made a fortune in chocolate delicacies.

Under Menier, the islanders—about 800 of them—were to become serfs. Menier was rich but had never been accepted by European nobility because of his provincial beginnings. He made the islanders pay for Europe's snobbery.

Mennier built an exotic rococo-styled mansion, imported deer and ruled with an iron fist. Anyone caught poaching, stealing or even discussing democracy was summarily banished to the mainland.

Menier died in 1914 and his brother eventually sold the island to Consolidated-Bathurst for $6.5 million, in 1926.

The paper company did nothing to develop the lumbering potential of the island for 20 years, leaving the islanders to their simple occupations of boat-building, root crops, fishing and cattle raising. Trapping became an extensive winter business with rabbit, fox, bear, beaver, muskrat and even reindeer abounding on the island.

Then in 1947 the paper company put logging operations into gear and its employment rolls swelled to 3,600. The cattle were sold and slaughtered to supply the camps and the company took control of all hunting and fishing.

Just before the Second World War, a German syndicate struck up negotiations to buy the island.

In 1938 a party of 12 Germans visited, one of them claiming to be Adolf Hitler's "right-hand man." Their explorations—supposedly in search of timber—caused an uproar in Parliament and Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis vetoed any sale of lumber rights or land.

Anticostians complain they never were consulted about the island's future.

In 1961 Consolidated-Bathurst, citing soaring transport costs, served the islanders notice it would eventually close down logging operations. People began trickling away to the mainland in search of another life and in recent years less than 300 hardy people have inhabited the isle.

Quebec was prepared to buy Anticosti last spring but had dickered with Consolidated-Bathurst over hunting and fishing rights, controlled by the paper company for the last two decades.

If the recent sale guarantees full employment for the Anticostians, the proposed prices for excursion packages also seem to ensure no natives will return as paying customers but—as in the past—as servants of wealthier visitors.

Sculptor at Work On $360,000 Rock

MISSION, B.C. (CP) — The nine-ton boulder in sculptor Gunther Geyer's workshop is an exceptional piece of rock.

It is jade, and is not only special because of its estimated $360,000 value but also because it weighs more than the five-ton record for a jade find reported in the Guinness Book of Records.

The stone is also unique because it is destined to be fashioned into the form of a horse rearing up on its hind legs to a height of 6½ feet. Mr. Geyer estimated it will take about six months to complete the project.

With high-quality jade selling for about $20 to $25 a pound, the sculptor said he can sell the finished piece, probably to a buyer in the Orient, for about $400,000.

Mr. Geyer is one of three partners who filed 16 claims five years ago to property near Lillooet, B.C., near Texas Creek in the Fraser Plateau area. The area, which is about half a mile by 1¼ miles in size, is rich in jade and soapstone and Mr. Geyer said there is enough jade to last 20 years.

Prospectors Over Araleendal and Al Scheller mine the rock on the site and Mr. Geyer is seeking markets in China and Japan for their recently incorporated company, Texas Creek Jade Ltd.

A 350-pound piece of soapstone from the property, worth about $700, and another jade rock of comparable size were trucked south from the mine to Mission with the nine-ton boulder.

Mr. Geyer said British Columbia is the largest source of jade in Canada and that the best of B.C. jade compares favorably in quality with the finest of the limited supply remaining in China.

The three partners hope to be successful enough with their venture by next summer to bring men in to help mine the rock and to import Chinese and European carvers to train Canadians. They hope their company will be "a wholly Canadian company mining and producing jade products for export."

Mr. Geyer, who has been a carver in wood and stone for about 32 years, was trained in Germany at the state carving school at Oberammergau. Following the Second World War he emigrated to Canada where he finished his education at McGill University in 1950. He holds a doctorate in classical history.

Burt Reynolds' Path To Fame Well Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If he had it to do over, Burt Reynolds reflects, he wouldn't do it. The nude centrefold, that is.

Despite his flip image, Reynolds is a thoughtful person, especially where his career is concerned. His advent to stardom is all-important to him and the route he has taken appears as well-planned as the Allied invasion of Normandy.

"I was a pretty rotten actor when I started out," he said. "If you could learn to act in school, I would have done it. But the only way to learn is to act.

"That's why I've made so many pictures. And I'm learning. I'm better in At Long Last Love than I was in The Longest Yard. And I'll be better in Home Free than in At Long Last Love."

Having just finished the Cole Porter musical, At Long Last Love, Reynolds immediately began Home Free (tentative title) with producer-director Robert Aldrich.

He made The Longest Yard with Aldrich, who reported that the film may rack up between $20 million and $30 million in film rentals in the United States and Canada.

"Until now, I was the only star who made it in spite of his pictures," said Reynolds. And in spite of posing with a small cigar and hauteur—nothing else—in Cosmopolitan magazine.

He said that was a calculated risk. The first male nude (sort of) in the magazine was supposed to be James Coburn. But something happened between Coburn's posing and publication date, and Reynolds was enlisted.

"If I believed that they would put it on my tombstone that I was the first male nude, I'd blow my brains out," said Reynolds. "I thought the whole thing would be passed over lightly. I didn't realize that the shot would end up on key chains, bedspreads, licence plates and ironing boards.

"The only thing that has saved me is my sense of humor. Otherwise I would have been driven crazy by the people who say to me—thinking it is the first time that I've heard it—'I didn't recognize you with your clothes on.'"

Reynolds tried to defuse the centrefolds impact by going on the Tonight show on the day of publication to spoof himself.

He directed the writers: "Think of me as Don Rickles doing a put-down of Burt Reynolds."

But he still underestimated the currency his photo would get. Without his permission, United Artists borrowed the pose to push one of its films, Fuzz—"Not a bad picture in spite of that."

Why did the photo hit so big?

"I think the timing was right. American women were tired of going into the bar at home and having silicone shoved in their ears. At last they had something to combat all those female nudes and they hung it everywhere, even on the bedroom ceiling, in retaliation.

"Now lots of other actors have shown everything, and what has it done for their careers? Nothing. It shows you that it was all a matter of timing."

What did it do for Burt Reynolds' career? Not what he had wanted. He had expected to appear in his first really prestige film, Deliverance, long before the nude photo appeared. But director John Boorman spent 16 months editing the film, and it arrived afterward. Reynolds' impressive performance in Deliverance went unrecognized by the critics.

That still rankles—the tendency of film critics to view him as a publicity product and a talk-show clown. "But I'll win them over some day," he said.

Ex-announcer Burke Speculates On Country Run by Communicators

Written for CP
By DINA SUDLOW

What would happen if the media pundits, who advise their elected representatives how to run the country, staged a revolution and took it over themselves?

That's the idea behind The Day of the Glorious Revolution by Stanley Burke, a former CBC announcer, and illustrator Roy Peterson.

A sequel to the successful Frog Fables and Beaver Tales, the book is again set in The Great Swamp, which is inhabited by the Beavers, the Frogs at the Shallow End, the Gophers and the Otters.

All is not well in the Great Swamp. There is a shortage of food, inflation is rife and all the newly-elected government, led by Peter Waterhole, seems to do is give excuses.

Enter the Communicators, an elite group which is having problems of its own.

Pierre Bullion, the richest writer in The Great Swamp, is running out of ideas.

Gordon Carborundum, the acerbic broadcaster who has nothing good to say about anyone, has said something nice about the Eagles to the south and is in danger of being liked.

Rene Terrifique, who has turned to politics from being one of the top. Frog communicators, has failed to persuade the Shallow End to become independent.

Together with others like Jock McFearsome, Judy Le Swamp and Charles Grynch, they decide to revolt to save The Great Swamp and themselves as well.

With the help of that great soldier Maj.-Gen. Louis Quatorze Napoleon Jeanne d'Arc, Knight Commander of the Order of the Swamp, DSD, MC, VO and Bar, the revolt is planned and executed.

But The Day of the Glorious Revolution reads more like a Who's Who of media personalities than political satire. The names and ideas designed to garner guffaws generally elicit mild chuckles.

The Peterson illustrations, on the other hand, are acute and at times hilarious. They fill half the book.

The Day of the Glorious Revolution, by Stanley Burke, illustrations by Roy Peterson, 42 pages, James Lorimer and Company, $4.95.

Readers of Kenneth Clark's new book, Henry Moore Drawings, who are looking for clues as to the nature of the man who executed The Archer, Toronto's most famous bit of sculpture, will be disappointed. In his preface Clark writes "I have avoided deep psychological explanations, partly because I am not qualified to make them, partly because Moore himself dislikes them. . . However, the fact remains that the best of Moore's work comes from somewhere very far down in his being."

The best of Moore's drawings and photographs of some of his sculptures make up the new work of the author of the now-famous TV series Civilization.

Clark has divided his book into 10 categories, arranged more or less chronologically. He has written a short introduction to each section in which, by description or analogy, he has tried to help the reader understand what was in Moore's mind when he discovered certain forms or expressed certain emotions.

It is impossible, Clark said, to write about Henry Moore's drawings without also writing about his sculpture. With a life cycle of their own running from 1934 to 1948, the drawings are, in Clark's opinion, magnificent works of art in themselves.

Henry Moore drawings, by Kenneth Clark; $35; 325 pages; McClelland and Stewart.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, January 18

Aries (March 21-April 19) Be very selective of companions to pal around with. Avoid one who always causes problems and complications.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll be faced with limitations regarding freedom of action, due to things you've neglected to care for.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to buck the will of the majority. If you do, your dissatisfaction will spoil the fun for all.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Don't try to shift the blame today for your shortcomings. Should you err in some manner admit it, without excuses.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Bear in mind the fragile ears of your listeners when you expound on a topic you feel strongly about. They could care less!

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be wary—don't be drawn into a situation not of your making, or you'll have to make good another's obligations.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tact and logic are two of your greatest assets, yet today will not be all it should be. You'll fail to use either properly.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't take on any task alone today that's too strenuous for you physically. Wait till help is available.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be anxious to do something that's fun. Pick a place that's quiet and intimate. You won't enjoy a crowd.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're not likely to display the patience and consideration you're capable of in dealing with those in your charge today.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll have no trouble making promises today, but you will have trouble keeping them. Don't volunteer.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Proceed cautiously in commercial dealings with persons or firms you've not dealt with before. Insist upon receipts, etc.

Opening lead — K♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby.

Mr. John Fisher of Dallas is known to be a rather slow player. His partners don't mind this slowness because, after he gets through thinking, John has a habit of coming up with the right play.

Against the expected spade lead John would have had no real problem. He would simply draw trumps; discard one club loser on the king of hearts and eventually set up dummy's fifth heart for a second discard. All this while ruffing his last two spades with dummy's third and fourth trump.

The king of clubs lead was bothersome. He had to get rid of his two losing clubs before he could play a spade.

He played a heart to the ace, discarded one club on the king of hearts, ruffed a heart, thought for some time, led a low diamond and finessed dummy's nine. If the finesse had lost to the jack he would have been down two, but the finesse worked and East followed. Now John ruffed another heart with the ace of trumps, entered dummy with the queen, discarded his last club on the last heart and conceded a spade.

His special finesse was the correct play. We'll explain why tomorrow.

Salt Consumption Is Above Needs

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please settle a family row. My wife likes food a bit undersalted. That is her taste and there is nothing wrong with it, so I add some more (sometimes) when I get my food on my plate. So does our 13-year-old boy.

But when the boy reaches for the salt shaker, she grabs it away from him and will not let him salt his food to his taste. Her argument is that he is going to damage his health and kidneys in particular.

I am unable to convince her that table salt is harmless unless one has a heart or kidney problem, and that these anyway are not caused by salt.

But it is useless to argue. She won't listen, so in the end I have to hand the salt shaker to the boy. The next meal it's the same fighting again.

Is table salt detrimental to our health or any part of internal structure, specifically kidneys?

Believe me, doctor, your answer will bring peace to our house at mealtime. If I win a point my wife will have to reconcile herself to that. And if she wins, I will.—J.D.

I'm not sure I can settle the row but I'll try to moderate it.

It is a matter of taste and quibbling is concerned, you are not quite wrong and your wife may have a point.

We consume about twice as much sodium (salt) as we need. You like things a bit saltier, a matter of taste. Your son, age 13, also likes a bit more salt.

But youngsters enjoy shaking most kinds of shakers. Watch them snow down those french fries at the quick food eateries. There is no immediate harm from this.

But one of our chief health concerns is high blood pressure. There are many cases of this and whether salt is one is debatable. However, once hypertension (high blood pressure) develops, salt becomes a no no.

For salt users, restriction becomes a real problem, so mother is probably right in trying to discourage the salt habit early.

The same logic can be used with regard to the kidneys. Salt does not cause kidney disease. One of their functions is to eliminate it under normal circumstances. But if kidney disease occurs for other reasons, then salt becomes a restricted item.

So why not have peaceful mealtimes? Point out to your son that more salt is not always necessary. In fact those who eat their food unsalted are probably more sensitive to the taste of the food. Ask any chef.

Salt is plentiful naturally in most foods we eat and what extra is needed is best added in the cooking.

So, finally, both you and your wife are right and wrong, but I would say that she is a bit more right than you in discouraging the salting habit in your son.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any connection between pierced ears and diabetes? My nine-year-old niece has diabetes and she wants to have her ears pierced. I need an answer.—A.

Sounds like someone gave someone a pair of earrings for Christmas.

Piercing of the ears can cause infection of the ear lobe. Diabetics sometimes do have trouble handling infections well. Hence piercing of ears would carry some risk of infection. In this case the procedure, if done at all, should be done under a doctor's care.

Better still, why not exchange the earrings for the screw-on type?

Store Records

SASKATOON (CP) — All records of arbitration proceedings in the recent labor dispute involving Canada's railways will be stored at University of Saskatchewan. Emmett Hall, arbitrator in the dispute and a retired justice of the Supreme Court of Canada has donated the documents so they will be available to persons interested in the nature and conduct of arbitration proceedings.

Brezhnev Retires Says Indian Press

Jim Snelle

Snug Fit

Students in the science classes at Belleville Collegiate Institute had their lessons come to life, Friday. Bruce McBride, a blind guest lecturer, brought to the school some reptiles, one of which was this boa constrictor which Grade 9 student Louise Power has wrapped around her. For story see front page, second section.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Press Trust of India says that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev "has taken leave of his responsibilities on grounds of health."

The news agency, in a dispatch from Moscow on Friday night, quoted informed sources as saying Brezhnev "is resting and is undergoing treatment not far from Moscow and is available for advice to his colleagues who now carry on collectively.

"Exhaustion resulting from hectic activity in recent years, age and illness have forced Mr. Brezhnev, who also suffered emotional stress in the loss of his mother earlier this month, to take this step."

The dispatch said little is known about the nature of Brezhnev's illness.

The agency said its sources "summarily dismiss talk of a power struggle as the cause or the likely consequences of Brezhnev's withdrawal." The dispatch did not use the word "resigned."

But it did not specify whether Brezhnev had given up his party post or was away temporarily because of poor health.

Brezhnev has not been seen by Western reporters since Dec. 24.

The Soviet news agency Tass said he attended his mother's funeral Jan. 8, but Western reporters were not allowed to enter the cemetery.

Australian sources said Brezhnev did not meet with Australian Prime Minister Gough Whitlam during Whitlam's three-day visit to the Soviet Union which ended Thursday.

Agence France-Presse reports from Moscow that the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda today several times mentioned Brezhnev's name, an indication that Brezhnev was still in office.

Pravda also reported that Japanese Foreign Minister Kichi Miyazawa, currently in Moscow for talks, had handed to President Nikolai Podgorny Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki's message to Brezhnev.

Reuters News Agency quotes Miyazawa, who returned to Tokyo today, as saying that when he was in Moscow he had the impression Brezhnev was not in the Soviet capital.

It also quotes Ichitaro Ide, chief secretary of the Japanese cabinet, as having told reporters that Soviet officials had informed Miyazawa he would have met with the Soviet party leader had he visited Moscow two or three weeks later.

Brezhnev's name also appeared in a Pravda report about the Moscow workers' "socialist obligations" program.

Soviet sources said Brezhnev had indeed been ill but "he is getting better," Agence France-Presse reports.

Wm. Carr Heads New Command

OTTAWA (CP) Defence Minister James Richardson announced appointments Friday in connection with his new look for the armed forces.

Lt.-Gen. William Carr, now deputy chief of defence staff, will become commander of the new Air Command.

Maj.-Gen. Jacques Chouinard, now head of the reserves, will be promoted to lieutenant-general and take charge of Mobile Command.

Rear-Admiral Douglas Boyle will remain head of Maritime Command but will advance to vice-admiral.

Poisonous Hamburger Discovered

OTTAWA (CP) — Two more samples of hamburger contaminated with poisonous organisms have been uncovered in a federal health department survey, the department said Friday.

A total of 20 samples containing salmonella organisms have been found from 1,219 samples inspected since the survey began last November, following controversy regarding the safety of eating ground beef.

The salmonella-positive samples found since preliminary results of the survey were announced Dec. 17 were both obtained from I.G.A. Store, 1380 La Salle Blve., Sudbury, Ont.

The department said the national survey is continuing, and that stores from which salmonella-contaminated samples are found will be revisited.

The survey was originally undertaken because of reports of high levels of food-spoilage bacteria, as well as coliform and staphylococcus organisms in ground beef. However, salmonella organisms are considered potentially more dangerous as a source of food poisoning.

Anything Goes

Fingerpainting is the latest accomplishment of two 7-year-old gorillas at Toronto's Metro Zoo. Attendant Rene Mangold, 23, from Zurich looks on as the two gorillas use feet, noses and elbows to create. Zoo officials are so pleased with the gorillas' work after six weeks that they'll offer the paintings for sale to ease the financial situation facing the new zoo. (CP Photo).

Greek Cypriots Attack U.S. Embassy in Nicosia

NICOSIA (AP) — Five thousand demonstrators stormed the United States Embassy today, hurling stones, setting fire to cars, ransacking offices and setting one wing ablaze, but there were no immediate reports of casualties, embassy officials said.

A spokesman for the U.S. state department in Washington said that "most personnel" were evacuated from the embassy in armored personnel carriers provided by the UN peacekeeping force on Cyprus.

Greek-Cypriots have harbored anti-American feelings since the U.S. did not prevent the Turkish invasion of the island-nation last summer.

Thousands of other demonstrators attacked a British government office in Nicosia, and still others broke into the British Embassy in Athens, tossing fire bombs and destroying the offices, authorities said. Casualties were not immediately known.

In Cyprus, demonstrators attacked offices of the British Council, an educational and cultural organization funded by the British Parliament. The extent of damage there was not immediately known.

The demonstrations were against Britain's decision to let Turkish-Cypriot refugees evacuate British bases on Cyprus and eventually settle in the Turkish-occupied northern third of the island. The first group of Turkish-Cypriots left for Ankara earlier in the day.

The demonstrators at the U.S. Embassy threw furniture, typewriters and chairs out of windows and made bonfires of broken furniture, witnesses said. Four embassy cars were overturned and burned in the parking lot.

EMO Called 'Bloody Joke'

TORONTO (CP) — The state of Canadian preparedness against nuclear attack is "nothing but a bloody joke," says the head of the Emergency Measures Organization in Ontario.

Director N. W. Timmerman said in an interview that the basic foundation should be public shelters "yet in Canada we don't have a single one either marked or stocked."

"The guy on the street pays his taxes and assumes that somebody up there is doing something to protect him in case of attack," he said.

"But, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and the federal government have swept the whole issue under the carpet.

"Meanwhile, if a nuclear strike is launched on North America, the guy on the street is left to look after himself. It's one of the saddest things to me. It's nothing but a bloody joke."

May Keep Ships Out Of B.C. Seas

WASHINGTON (CP) — A proposal that would keep the huge Alaskan oil ships out of the stormy inland waters around Vancouver will be placed before the Washington state legislature next week.

Indications here are that it will find favor with the Canadian and United States federal governments and the provincial government of British Columbia.

Canadian delegates to a U.S.-Canada meeting called to discuss the environmental problems associated with the oil traffic of the future in the Juan de Fuca Strait and the Puget Sound areas, said Friday that while the plan is "not the best" it's an improvement on past proposals.

The plan, to be set forth at Olympia, Wash., by Gov. Daniel Evans, calls for building the tanker port on the northeast tip of the Olympic Peninsula, south of Victoria, instead of the refineries at Cherry Point or Ferndale, Wash.

The oil then would be transmitted by underwater pipeline to those refineries.

Experts estimated that by shortening the tanker route, enough money would be saved to pay for the pipeline within 20 years.

New Trial Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former United States Attorney-General John Mitchell asked the U.S. District Court Friday to reverse his conviction in the Watergate cover-up trial or grant him a new trial on grounds that pre-trial publicity was prejudicial and that the trial was conducted in an unfair manner.

Family Lives in Car

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — A Brampton man, who has lived in his car with his wife and baby for two weeks, pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of theft and a charge of fraud. He was remanded in custody to Jan. 24 for sentencing. Brenan Guy Cyr, 20, was charged Thursday after a service station credit card was stolen and used to buy gasoline and clothing.

Heirlooms Not Mailed

TORONTO (CP) — John Cassan, a real estate agent in Mississauga, who had complained of losing $2,000 worth of heirlooms in the mail said Thursday night he has discovered the articles were never mailed. They were given to a California cartage company.

Housing Talks Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal goverment will meet with the provinces in Ottawa Jan. 30 to discuss how to boost housing production, Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson said Friday. The minister said in an interview that the federal government has set a "realistic target" of about 200,000 to 210,000 housing starts this year.

Marijuana Stores Suggested

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Criminology and Corrections Association has called on the federal government to drive organized crime out of the marijuana business by selling it in government stores.

At its quarterly board meeting in Calgary this week, the association, which included judges, police, parole officers and other legal workers, discussed a plan to sell marijuana and hashish in stores similar to liquor control outlets.

Bill McGrath, association president, said after the meeting that instead of making possession of "soft drugs" a lesser offence, as the government now is considering, it should be decriminalized completely.

The profit made by the government in selling marijuana could be used to finance research, education and treatment in the area of alcohol abuse, he said.

"It's better than going into the coffers of organized crime," and there is no conclusive evidence that soft drugs are harmful, he said.

Arabs Offer Billion For Ontario Housing

OTTAWA (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson says Arab oil interests have offered him about $1 billion for housing at terms he finds acceptable.

But he said in an interview Friday the finance department must still decide whether Canada can afford to borrow such huge sums from foreign sources. This might have a serious impact on the country's balance of payments.

"It is a very important decision that John Turner has to make," he said.

Ottawa was not yet in the negotiation stage, but the minister indicated he is interested in foreign funds for Canadian housing providing it fits federal financial and investment guides.

Mr. Danson said he is never sure whether Arab governments or private groups are offering the money. All discussions were through intermediaries.

The money was being offered for repayment over a 20-year period, he said.

Kissinger Is Planning New Middle East Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Henry Kissinger is working this weekend on plans for a new Middle East trip he probably will undertake within the next few weeks.

Three days of talks with Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon served to convince Kissinger that his on-site diplomacy may bridge the narrowing gap between Egypt and Israel.

Allon told reporters Friday he had "a notion" that Egypt may be ready to negotiate another interim settlement with Israel. The foreign minister also announced Kissinger had accepted "in principle" an invitation to visit his country.

Other sources said Kissinger will stop in a number of Arab states as he did last year in arranging Israeli disengagement agreements with Egypt and Syria.

The talks with Allon were said to have maintained the momentum of Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy. Kissinger will have a final session over the weekend with Hermann Eilts, the knowledgeable U.S. ambassador to Cairo, before sending him back to report to President Anwar Sadat.

Ford Will Try to Sell Economic Program Directly to People

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Faced with mounting opposition from congressional Democrats, President Ford will try to sell his economic recovery program directly to the people in a series of speeches across the United States.

Meanwhile, Americans received more bad news about the economy Friday. The government reported that the number of housing units started last month dropped to the lowest level in eight years.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told of Ford's plans for the speaking trips.

"There are no dates and places nailed down," he said, adding that the series of trips might begin later this month.

In another part of the administration effort to gain support for Ford's economy and energy proposals, the White House plans a series of meetings outside Washington at which Cabinet officers will speak to leaders of various business, labor and educational groups.

Nessen said Ford has presented the only complete program to deal with the economic and energy problems.

He said the president also believes that "if Congress makes radical changes in parts of the program the other parts fall to pieces."

But two leading Democratic experts on energy legislation added their voices to those criticizing Ford's proposals.

Representative Morris Udall of Arizona, an announced candidate for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, said Ford's energy package "doesn't have a chance in the world of passage in the House (of Representatives)

"The tax increases and (natural gas) deregulation proposed by the president are punitive to the customers and to business, clumsily drawn, and absolutely wrong in their direction."

Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) announced he will try to block Ford's proposals for a tax on imported oil and the removal of price controls from domestic oil.

In other economic developments:

—Ford Motor Co. said it will recall about 40,000 hourly employees to their jobs Monday. "Eleven of the company's 14 U.S. passenger car assembly line systems and all nine of its truck systems will be in operation next week, compared with only four car and two truck systems this week," Donald Bastian, a Ford vice-president said.

—The commerce department said the U.S. appears headed for a 1975 trade deficit about equal to last year's imbalance, estimated at $2.2 billion.

—First National City Bank of New York, the second largest commercial bank in the U.S., lowered its prime lending rate ¼-point to 9¾ per cent.

—Texaco Inc. announced a one-cent-a-gallon increase in its wholesale price of gasoline.

—The governors of six New England states scheduled a meeting in Boston on Wednesday to discuss ways of blocking Ford's proposal for a $3 a barrel tariff increase on imported crude oil, with court action a possibility.

Education Beat

Expert Predicts Public Backlash

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Schools and teachers are in for trouble over the next five years, an expert on educational administration believes.

"We're in a period of backlash," says Dr. Tom Williams of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. He is chairman of the department of educational administration, with a special interest in urban school systems.

The public will increasingly hold each local school and its teachers accountable for the quality and quantity of learning. Business methods of measuring efficiency and productivity will be applied to schools and teachers.

However, schools, and all other service institutions, are not comparable in many ways with business and industry. The problem will be to determine what criteria used to measure efficiency in business are viable in education.

The public in Ottawa and Toronto is already demanding evaluation of the competency of teachers.

Dr. Williams gives several reason for this public concern with teaching.

In the 1960s, government and educators asserted that education was the panacea that would cure all ills in society.

It resulted in a credibility gap. The public just doesn't believe in education any more.

Teachers have mounted a high profile through the publicity given their demands by their federations during negotiations and strikes. The public is very aware of teachers today, and is asking what they give for what they get.

When teachers' salaries consume 75 to 80 per cent of a board's budget, the public wants accountability for all those tax collars.

Finally, in Dr. Williams opinion, teachers haven't changed their classroom behavior and style of teaching to meet educational changes. Individualized instruction was introduced by the ministry of education and the credit system but teachers didn't change their teaching behavior to meet the new needs.

Teachers are going to be weighted, measured, judged and evaluated in reponse to the public demand for accountability, Dr. Williams says. But he doesn't see a return to external exams, like the old departmentals, as a means of evaluation. Instead he expects principals and vice-principals to take over the old role of inspectors and he foresees teachers being evaluated on their competency every year.

Stirling to Hold Homecoming Weekend

By CHRIS ALMEY
Saff Correspondent

STIRLING — A few weeks away from now for Homecoming Weekend here, volunteer firefighters will tiptoe down to the firehall, get out their red and white fire engine, drive around to the homes of local residents and very gently rouse them to get out and enjoy the festivities.

Anybody hiding his head under the pillows March 1-2 will miss a lot of fun. The fun-filled weekend is designed to raise money for a new Stirling District Arena.

Festivities actually start Friday night, Feb. 28. There will be a curling bonspiel, a fish and chip supper, a torchlight parade, and a weiner roast complete with beans, plus a teen dance. Also, a $1,000 draw will take place.

Saturday morning, residents can breakfast served by St. Paul's AOTS. Through the day there will be senior citizen activities, a talent show, arts and craft show, a hard times dance and a hockey tournament.

Sunday morning Fire Chief Graham Mouck and his volunteers will once again persuade people to come out for the fun.

This time the firemen will serve breakfast. Church services will be held. In the afternoon there will be snowmobile races at the fairgrounds, a car draw and demolition, and a country jamboree in the evening at the community centre.

Ted Reid, president of the Stirling Rotary Club which is spearheading the event, told the arena finance committee this week that so far, 19 organizations have indicated they will be involved in the big event.

Mr. Reid said that summonses will be printed up so residents can send them out to invite people to come and participate in the fun. They will look exactly like an official document.

Election Could Be in Spring Quinte Liberals Are Told

Liberal organizers in Quinte riding should base their party work on the possibility of a provincial election by sprng, their new chief says.

Lyn Harrington, former vice-president of the constituency's Liberals, issued the advice after he was acclaimed president, Thursday night.

The young Bellevillian, who teaches history and economics at Trenton High School, succeeded Jack Bush, former Sidney township reeve, to the post.

The executive election came at the association's annual meeting at the Canadian Legion Hall.

"We're going on as if there is a May election," said Mr. Harrington. "We're going to have our executive plan on that basis."

Hugh O Neil defeated fellow Trenton Liberal Charles Hilton to become vice-president. Other executive members: Len Reid, Frankford, treasurer; Katrin Brady, Belleville, secretary. Directors — Douglas Boyle, Robert Ross, Russ Brady, Susan O'Brien, Don DeGenova, Paul Russell, Belleville; Gart Birt, Ron Price, John Foley, Trenton; Frank Fellwell, Doreen Reid, Evelyn Goyer, Reg McCurdy, Sidney; Frank Moran, John Pshebnicky, Frankford.

Delegates and alternates elected to attend the Ontario Libberal Party policy at Windsor Feb. 7-9 were Katrin Brady, Hugh O'Neil, Russs Brady, Jack Bush, Ann Cunningham, Ron Price, Robert Lanning, Norm Cairns, Nora Pukancik, Sharmaine Hohn.

Jaycees Seek Donors

The Belleville Jaycees are seeking community response when they sponsor a blood donor clinic Jan. 22 — 23 at the Masonic Temple.

This is the first such venture for the Jaycees. Harold Tompkins, chairman of the blood donor clinic committee is hoping that support will be quite favorable.

"Wednesday the opening day should be quite an exciting one," he said. "For one thing, Steve Rodgers, the pitcher for the Montreal Expos and Russ Taylor, Expos radio commentator will be on hand. Also, Milt Johnson will be doing his Radio Station CJBQ open-line show Why Not Call from the clinic."

The Wednesday clinic opens at 9:30 a.m. and closes at 4 p.m.On Thursday, hours are 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Mr. Tompkins said support of the Jaycee clinics has been good. He said even Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau sent the Jaycees a message wishing them well in their venture.

The Masonic Temple is at Foster and East Dundas St. Only persons who have not donated blood in the last three months are eligible. Those with contagious or communicable diseases are not permitted to donate blood. Donors must be over 18 years.

Militia Out in Cold

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will spend this weekend in cold weather training at Point Petrie.

About 60 members of the regiment, under command of Lieut.-Col. J. D. Inrig, are the first militiamen in the Toronto militia district to undertake cold weather training this year. The men will sleep in tents Saturday evening and use special Arctic equipment during the exercise. They will also try out a new ration pack designed for Arctic survival and mount night patrols. The unit will return about noon on Sunday.

The regiment is also conducting a junior non-commissioned officers training course at the armory during the weekend for men from Belleville and Peterborough.

Power Fails West of Rednersville

Residents of the Rednersville Road from Onderdonk's Hill west to the junction of Old Orchard Rd., in Ameliasburg township were without power Saturday morning, the result of a transformer burning out.

A resident of the area saw a tranformer arching and repeatedly flashing about 6 a.m. today and notified utilities authorities. The power failed at about 9:45 a.m.

Boom Putting queeze On Alberta's Farmland

CALGARY (CP) — A booming provincial economy, rising food prices and a safe home for foreign investment capital are being blamed for a new price squeeze on southern Alberta farmland.

Farmers, ranchers, politicians and a provincial land-use forum are asking questions about land ownership in the region south of Calgary to the United States border, but few answers are available.

Ralph Brown of Acme, Alta., a member of the Alberta Land Use Forum, said there are no figures available to show how much Alberta agricultural land is owned by foreign interests.

He said "foreign ownership is a big problem" but investor speculation is also a cause for the upward spiral in the price of farm property.

Newspaper advertisements in Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and a score of smaller communities surveyed all offer cash for farm land on a lease-back arrangement.

One farmer who sold his 1,200-acre grain ranch to an investment company said he was told the company was only interested in holding the property until prices increased.

The company was not interested in farming, he said, and allowed him to stay on the farm under "generous lease conditions."

An investment officer for Chase-Manhattan Bank of New York said American investors were "eager to put their money in land outside of the United States during the Watergate crisis."

The officer, who asked not to be identified, said "there was a considerable school of opinion that the country was going to hell in a hand cart and nobody was sure where the ride would stop."

Investment in Western Canada was drawn to Alberta, he said, rather than to other western provinces, because of the Conservative, free-enterprise government of Premier Peter Lougheed.

Real estate men throughout the south said they have had more inquiries about the purchase of farmland last year than in any recent year.

The inquiries ranged from Alberta families looking to return to the land to foreign investors and their representatives.

Real estate men are hesitant to divulge specific information concerning land purchases because of the confidential client relationship, but most of those questioned agreed farm prices are artifically inflated in southern Alberta.

Farm land around Lethbridge, where growing seasons are the longest on the Prairies, is selling for more than $1,000 an acre, said Tim Grisak, manager of the Block Brothers Real Estate office in Lethbridge.

Farmers in the region say the farm land is worth far less than its present price, if the land is intended only to produce food.

"This land couldn't earn a man $640,000 a section in a lifetime," said one 75-year-old farmer who works a section near Fort Macleod.

The rising price of food has generated an interest in farming among people who left the farm during years of poor prices.

The cost of land, which seldom includes the cost of buildings or farm equipment, scares most would-be farmers away.

Some young men who want to continue farming are leaving the south and looking for less desirable farm land in the northern areas of Alberta.

Prices in the Peace River country are high, because of investment pressures and high food prices, but land in the forest regions 100 to 200 miles north of Edmonton, where farming provides only a marginal living, still is within the price range of many investors.

Farmers in many regions are pressing the provincial government to enact legislation similar to that in Prince Edward Island to limit the extent of foreign ownership of land.

The Land Use Forum has asked the province to amend the land titles procedure to require that land buyers or their agents divulge their citizenship.

A spokesman for Attorney-General Marv Leitch said while the farm land situation is "being closely watched" no plans are being made to enact legislation to control land ownership.

Complicating the land situation in the south are communal Hutterite colonies and several sprawling Indian reserveh.

Standards Bylaw May Be Costly

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Council's passage of the minimum housing standards bylaw this week raises some question as to the ability of some people to afford repairs that may be ordered under its provisions.

It can be argued that it is not a needed document, both morally and politically. But potential adverse side effects also cannot be dismissed.

It is meant to create homes better fit for human habitation, both in terms of safety and health. Appearance of homes or properties must be judged a secondary issue.

An uneasiness persists. The bylaw releases a potential labyrinth of procedures to enforce itself. Its sheer weight — what with a committee for appeals, the courts and council — could be discouraging to appellants against an order to repair.

Can councillors understand that the money required to make ordered repairs may not be available to a lower-income property owner?

It is generally accepted here that the mean family income of Trenton households is below the provincial average. Additional expenses in a period of rising prices could end up being more than just a hardship.

Granted, the bylaw will not be swung into action immediately. And also granted is the need for some controls over landlords who might use the opportunity for unwarranted rent increases.

However, in putting such legislation in force, council cannot escape the responsibility of providing a "way out" for those property owners who may find it difficult to meet additional home costs. Whether this "way ou" be hrough Program (NIP) funds or other forms of urban renewal assistance is still in the future.

Council can place is trust in the "reasonable" implementation of its work. But its work must be interpreted reasonably — a term often difficult to define and carry into any form of action.

Council's structure, its bylaw-defined procedures, must be compassionate.

It sounds too much like a too tall order.

Once the wheels are set into motion and council has felt it has met the provisions of the official plan and NIP, the suspicion cannot be shaken that council will bury the bylaw in a corner of its unconcern.

Education of the public in what the bylaw hopes to accomplish, how it hopes to improve living conditions, will not be done.

What assistance — be it simply moral support or financial — the town will offer to homeowners will not be widely publicized, if at all.

Unless a radical shift in policy occurs, council will go on "guiding" the town, not informing it.

PICTON — Progressive Picton caught up in expensive projects to profit the now generation? Dead wrong. There are hundreds of neglected graves in Glenwood Cemetery to prove it.

The deplorable condition of the largest cemetery in Prince Edward County surfaced at the inaugural meeting of town council when a spokesman for the cemetery board, Judge George Inrig of Lindsay, reported the cemetery company is penniless.

The cemetery superintendent has been laid off because of financial problems and there is concern that bodies now entombed in the vault may not be properly buried by May 1.

The cemetery grounds have fallen into neglect and there is not enough money to hire labor to make the needed improvements.

Judge Inrig petitioned council on behalf of the cemetery board for an annual grant of $10,000.

Council has taken the request under study and wil hold detailed talks with the cemetery board.

The neglect of Glenwood cemetery points to scrambled community priorities and contradicts much of the purported interest in Prince Edward's past that is evidenced by many residents.

When the cemetery began to flounder financially, a pamphlet was published with pictures of toppled grave markers and notations of neglect of the grounds through insufficient funds. The pamphlet, seeking donations, raised $2,900.

Perhaps it's time Picton and district residents took a second look at the cemetery board's plight.

There is money in Prince Edward to help build a new arena, start a swimming pool fund or to support a museum.

There are men and women who are willing to get behind these projects and push.

Students in the county have raised funds for the mentally retarded, UNICEF and the swimming pool fund.

Why not apply the drive that prompted success in all of these ventures to a campaign to restore Glenwood?

If service club members volunteered a spring clean-up of the cemetery assisted by concerned Picton residents, surely a start could be made in returning the cemetery to a show place.

Students might consider fund-raising projects such as a walk-a-thon, or car wash to contribute. Also, student volunteers might assist in a clean-up of the grounds.

A community brimming with youth projects at the front door and hiding a shabby cemetery at the rear exit lacks respect for the total life picture. Youth is not a chronic state. People do grow older and they do die.

Proper care of a cemetery is a show of respect and dignity from generation to generation. The condition of Glenwood suggests an indifference reflecting poorly on the town.

YOUR FUTURE IS HERE.

Farm Forum

The subjects were energy and machinery at one of this week's sessions of the three-day Quinte Farm Conference at the Four Seasons. An audience of more than 140 quizzed panelists, who agreed machinery costs would rise and fossil fuels would remain the major enegy source for the foreseeable future. Chairman John Cockburns of the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food, Peterborough, left, fielded questions for panelists Dave Joy, Wolfe Island; Prof. Ross Stevenson, University of Guelph and Hal Wright, secretary-manager of the Farm Machinery Board.

Wide-bottom Farm Plows Often Waste Energy

Choose your new plow system carefully. Look closely at the available sizes and buy the one best for your farm, advises Professor R.W. Irwin of the school of engineering at the Ontario agricultural college. "Avoid plow bottoms so wide they may waste energy and bring stones to the surface unnecessarily."

Ten years ago most plow bottoms were about 14 inches wide, explains Professor Irwin. Now, many are 16 inches, some are 18 inches and recently one manufacturer began offering a plow bottom 20 inches wide.

These wide plow bottoms are sometimes necessary because the wide tractor tires common today do not fit narrow furrows and the power of the large modern tractor can be fully utilized only by a plow with wide bottoms. Maufacturers prefer them because, for the same total width of cut, they can build plows with fewer parts. Farmers, especially those who grow corn, like wide-bottomed plows because they give greater trash clearance.

Foliage Plants Safest Bet

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

If you are insistent about trying your hand at flowering house plants, well and good. But may I suggest you don't follow the route of "one of this and one of that". Because the needs of various flowering house plants are usually so divergent that you'll likely become the jack of all shades and master of none.

Better that you stick with one species, learn anything and everything possible about its needs and wants, bring it into full bloom and then move on to master another. And be prepared in the process to dispense a lot of time and patience.

But if you haven't the time and patience to dispense, stick to foliage house plants. And you needn't sacrifice colour in the process.

Not too many years ago, you could obtain foliage plants in any colour as long as it was green. But today, the sky is the limit, with such contributors as the Copperleaf in red, copper or pink; the Peacock Plant in red, green and purple; the Croton in yellow, green, copper, redpink, orange brown and ivory; the Gold Dust Dracaena in green with yellow spots; the Freckle Face in green with pink spots; the Java Velvet Plant with purple or wine-red hairs; the Banded Arrowroot in yellow and red; the magnificent Burgundy Philodendrum; the Saffron Pepper in pink and purple and the Purple Heart in purple and plum. And of course, we can't forget the common Coleus and its thousand of varieties.

But if you are more interested in size rather than colourful foliage, then the choice is just as generous with the Cast-Iron Plant or Aspidistra, the Bird's Nest Fern, the Elephant Foot Tree, the scheffera or Australian Umbrella Tree, the European Fan Palm, the Butterfly Palm, the colourful Croton, the Tree Fern, the Dieffenbachia, the False Arabia, the Dracaena, the Japanese Fatsia, the Rubber Tree and its cousins, the Weeping Fig and Fiddle-Leaved Fig; the Sentry Palm, the Chinese Fan Palm, the Monstera (commonly and mistakenly called a Split-Leaf Philodendrum) and finally, the Saddle-Leaved Philodendrum.

And another advantage offered by foliage house plants is the variety in shapes and textures. Such as the Cactii family that includes such odd balls as the Rat-Tail, with its fountain of trailing bristly stems and the Old Man that closely resembles "Cousin It", or Pretty Pebbles that looks exactly like a mound of pebbles — grey-green and flecked with red; or the Jade Plant with its succulent oval leaves, often tinged with red and leathery like stems; or the Milk-Striped Euphorbia that resembles a green and white candelabra, or the Moonstone with thick, tongue-like greyish white leaves.

Not all of the foliage plants listed above are readily available. But if your florist hasn't got them in stock, he will likely be able to order them from his wholesaler.

New Way Is Opened To Produce Fertilizer

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — Researchers at University of Sussex here have carried out a chemical reaction which might have an important effect on the technology of fertilizer production around the world.

The workers, from the Agricultural Research Council (ARC), managed to combine nitrogen with molybdenum. When treated with hydrogen the substance released ammonia, one of the bases of fertilizer. London Press Service described the experiment as the first time a part of the basic process of life on earth has been reproduced in the laboratory.

The process involves the fixiaton of nitrogen from the air by bacteria. Growing plants depend on this for nitrogen supplies, and in the United Kingdom alone £150 million a year (345 million) is spent in nitrogen fertilizers to increase crop yields.

Prospects now are opened up of eventually producing new industrial processes for making fertilizers using less energy and cheaper equipment. At present such processes, combining nitrogen and hydrogen, need high temperatures and pressures.

The team is working on long-term research ranging from pure chemistry to the genetics of microbes. The scientstis now know that the bacteria use an enzyme called nitrogenase. This contains molybdenum and can extract or fix nitrogen from the air and then convert it to ammonia by treatment of hydrogen from water.

The yield of ammonia from the reaction is high, 30 to 40 per cent. But even higher yields— up to 90 per cent — have been obtained by using tungsten instead of molybdenum.

Prof. J. Chatt, leader of the team, said he hopes to find a compound related to the metals that can be recycled for use over and over again. That would make continuous production of nitrogen a possibility. He also said that he hopes to discover a process that works with water.

At the moment, commercial use is a long way ahead. But Dr. G. W. Cooke, deputy director of the world famous Rothamsted experimental station, also belonging to ARC, said the work was at the stage that radio was when the thermionic tube was invented. That led to great expansion and the amazing efficiency of the transistor. He said that the success could prove of enormous importance for poorer countries who could not afford the high technolgy of modern nitrogen fertilizer producing plant.

Services Strained

EDMONTON (CP) — Job seekers from other provinces are putting a heavy strain on Edmonton welfare and other social services. "There's a lot more pressure on social services down here than I've ever known before," said Alice Hanson, director of the Boyle Street Community Services Co-op. She said much of the pressure is caused by unskilled men coming here from other provinces because they have heard Alberta has so many jobs available. But there are few unskilled jobs.

Y Week

Next week is Y Week in Belleville and among the organization's services locally one which is showing much promise is the Outreach program for youngsters residing at a distance from the Family YMCA.

The program, which commenced early this month and will continue until mid-June, is being carried on in Hillcrest, in Quinte secondary school and in Prince Charles school.

Thus far 165 young people have registered and more than 200 are using the program which includes swimming and is free to all participants.

Y President Dr. Douglas Horne is the speaker at Monday's meeting of the Rotary Club and he will be able to point to some impressive statistics. In 1974 there were 3074 members and program participants for a total of 47,889 attendances.

In addition Moira secondary school students used the swimming facilities on about 50 occasions during the year. Students of the Mohawk public school attended every other week and King George and Batawa youngsters also participated.

During the year 731 persons passed various beginner and advanced swimming tests at the Y.

The Y's regular schedule offers programs of physical fitness, volunteer leadership and outdoor education, including community day camps. It also provides nursery facilities and an Under 8 program.

The record of the Y in Belleville speaks for itself — it has operated continuously in the city for 81 years — but these few examples of what it is doing here lend added significance to the organization's positive programming in the community:

Friendly Maynooth

A "Wild West" atmosphere in Maynooth? "Nonsense," residents say in effect, and some have written to The Peterborough Examiner refuting the suggestion — which was also carried in this newspaper.

"It is a small friendly village like hundreds more in Ontario," writes B. Bishop who questions an estimate of 200 snowmobiles in the community. With the busy main street, he says, it would be hard to imagine snowmobile tracks obliterating the marks of other traffic.

He disputes a suggestion of hefty snow drifts and roads left unplowed, noting that rarely do children miss school because of blocked roads.

Lorraine Fell of Bancroft also jumps to the defence of Maynooth. She acknowledges it is snowmobile country all right, but she says the majority of enthusiasts never make headlines while to suggest the main street of Maynooth was "unsafe" was irresponsible.

Well they say there is no smoke without fire and where snowmobiles are around there is invariably some incident or another. Let's hope though that Maynooth citizens and snowmobile fans and non-fans alike keep their heads and maintain a sense of proportion and their sense of humor. As for the OPP, may they do their thing too, without fear or favor where any such incidents involving citizens' rights and public safety are concerned.

Thin Ice

Perhaps it was a shade colder down Milford way on Sunday — there was a cold wind blowing for sure off Outlet beach the same day — but following the earlier balmy temperatures it was surprising to see youngsters skating on the ice seen from the bridge entering the community.

It is a time when youngsters, supported by alert parents, should be on the lookout for ice weakened by moderating temperatures. The tragedies that occur through failure to do so can be heartbreaking — such as the drowning death of three brothers in Montezuma, N.Y. on Saturday. First a six-year-old fell through the ice in a pond, followed by his eight and nine-year-old brothers in successive and futile rescue attempts.

The schools might join in too with a word of warning to youngsters. Alert them to these sometimes hidden winter dangers.

Some Applying It to Famine Situation

'Triage' — A Doomsday Word From Battlefields of 1939-45

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

A new word, "triage" is popping up in the growing crisis of world hunger and mass starvation.

I am told it's not a new word, but was used especially after major battles of the Second World War by the medical officers to determine who would live and who would die when casualties overwhelmed the available medical facilities.

A recent Sunday magazine section of The New York Times headed "Triage" in capital letters, went to great length to remind its readers that it comes from the French verb "trier" to select.

American economists and sociologists currently surfacing with "triage" as an answer for world hunger, are telling us "triage officers" in the U.S. armed forces were quite common during the Second World War.

I must say where our forces are concerned, I have never heard of such an officer, nor such ruthless battlefield medical decisions about who should die and who should live on a mass scale.

"Triage" applied to the world's growing famine crisis means that doomed human beings like the millions in Bangladesh would be let go, whereas smaller controllable famine situations would receive all the food and medicine required.

Going back to military terminology, abandoning the Bangladeshi dying would be like ignoring severely wounded in battle who would die without any medical attention.

The walking wounded would also receive no medical attention and live. It's the ones in-between on whom the medical care would be concentrated. And spread around among the largest number of needy, but not too needy.

If I go by a set of starvation "doomsday" figures in front of me, about 100 new babies will be born in the time it takes me to write a draft of this column.

The population increase in the so-called underdeveloped world is out of control say many managers or instigators of methods to alleviate world starvation.

In Bangladesh and Saharan Africa, population experts fear a trend to permanent famine is developing which could expand during the 1970s and 80s with little in the flow of food and aid sent in by the rich nations.

Lord Ritchie Calder, one of Britain's distinguished science and futurist writers, has predicted about 175 million human beings will be living at permanent starvation level by 1980.

We have heard a good deal about our inability to meet this crisis from our substantial food and technical resources. But there are just as severe problems in the hard-hit countries, the chief being an almost total incapability of organizing themselves and doing what they can to solve the problem.

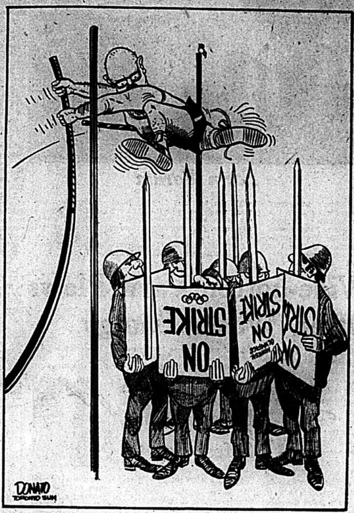
In Bangladesh, corruption in government and among the small private sector has sidetracked large quantities of famine relief food from the West.

India's ongoing problems with food shortages and over-population are about the same, with charges of corruption in food distribution reaching now to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi herself.

The Indians will readily give the nod to "population control" concepts from the West, but not "family birth control." On an individual basis, the average poor Indian family still wants children around to do the begging and bring in scraps of food.

By the way, if any reader has ever heard of "triage officers in our Royal Canadian Medical Corps in two world wars, please write and let me know.

Editor's Note: Lord Calder enlarged on the "triage" concept when it was mentioned by an American caller in the recent CBC Inter - Continent Checkup program. However, he did not condone it.



Auto Pact Overtaken by Events

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Just 10 years ago, Canada and the United States agreed to a limited form of free trade in North America's most important manufacturing industry.

It was Jan. 16, 1965, that then prime minister Lester B. Pearson and president Lyndon B. Johnson signed the celebrated auto pact.

Popular opinion in Canada a decade ago was that this would be the start of a new industrial era for Canada. Not only Canadian automotive products but other manufacturers would soon have access to the giant U.S. market.

In the United States, where news about Canada is routinely ignored, public reaction was confined to those areas where auto-making is the major industry—Michigan of course, as well as Indiana and certain other regions. There, opposition to free trade was strong because workers fears the loss of jobs.

Today, 10 years later, the auto pact has virtually been bypassed by the rush of events.

The industry is in a slump and thousands of jobs have indeed been lost—but for reasons that were undreamed of a decade ago, such as recession, two-figure inflation and sky-high gasoline prices.

From the dawn of the automotive age, the industry has been dominated by U.S. companies led by U.S. executives accustomed to thinking in U.S. terms.

In a nutshell, that meant that the United States would manufacture the cars and Canadians would buy them.

(That, in the same nutshell, still seemed to be the position of Vance Hartke, the U.S. senator from Indiana who has led the opposition to the auto pact, when I interviewed him recently.)

In 1962, Canada had a deficit of $711 million in its auto trade with the U.S. A North American car cost the Canadian purchaser an average of 16 per cent more than the same model sold for just across the invisible border in the U.S.

The Pearson government's goal was to balance the scales—not by keeping out U.S.-built cars and restricting Canadians to cars built here, but by rationalizing and expanding our auto industry, and giving it access to the 10-times-bigger U.S. market.

By and large, the goal was achieved. New plants to manufacture vehicles and parts were built in several Canadian cities as a result of the pact, some 40,000 new Canadian jobs were created, and our chronic auto-trade deficit was replaced with a $202-million surplus by 1972.

But price parity has never been achieved, despite the removal of customs duties on cars and trucks imported by the Canadian industry.

Canadians still pay about six per cent more, on average, than do U.S. buyers—even when the comparison is based on a car made in southern Ontario and sold in upstate New York.

Asked to explain the continuing price differential, auto executives note that Canadian taxes are heavier, and contend vaguely that other costs are higher here as well.

On balance, Canada has been satisfied with the results achieved by the pact signed 10 years ago. But U.S. opposition to the auto pact—on the undeniable ground that it has resulted in the elimination of some jobs in the U.S. industry—has never completely subsided.

During the Republican administration of Richard Nixon, the United States—under the pressure of a mounting over-all payments deficit—reverted to protectionist programs to encourage more U.S. industrial production and exports, and to discourage imports and the growth of U.S.-controlled subsidiaries abroad.

Any Canadian hopes that the 1966 auto pact would open up new, continental markets for our other industries—plagued by the inefficiencies of relatively short production runs—have faded.

For the next decade, Canada's concern will be to preserve the degree of industrialization that has already been achieved, in the face of growing protectionism in the United States and around the world.

Government and The Electorate

TORONTO — One day I was at the Windsor airport with John Robarts.

We had flown down for the funeral of Richard Graybiel, the young executive editor of the Windsor Star.

Out on the runway was the aircraft waiting to take us back.

In its dazzling yellow, with black trim and departmental crest, it proclaimed to anyone within sight that it was a government aircraft from lands and forests.

Robarts, who used the aircraft quite frequently, looked at it with worry on his face and said: "You know Don I should get that plane painted white."

In this little incident, I believe, is perhaps a good illustration of why the Davis administration has been slipping so badly.

The Ontario public has distinct characteristics.

A very pronounced one is that it doesn't like display or anything close to affectation.

Old Ontario is strong in deep Presbyterian and Baptist roots. New Ontario is comprised largely of immigrants who arrived here with a few dollars in their pockets and fought their way up.

In each case the dollar is sacred and waste profane.

Our Conservative premiers have been well aware of this.

Even George Drew, whose life-style tended to be flamboyant, appreciated it and was careful of his public presence. Leslie Frost certainly lived every minute with it (he had two suits, and would sew on his own buttons). And John Robarts well appreciated it.

But with Premier Davis there seems to be a blank.

When he took a government plane on a vacation to Vermont a few years ago he really didn't grasp why the public was annoyed.

When then provincial secretary for justice Bert Lawrence flew to Cuba in one, both Davis and Lawrence were mystified by the criticism they received.

One can make a good case that this lack of sensibility runs right through the government and is the prime cause of its failings.

Family and Children's Services

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Last May a meeting of concerned citizens was held at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School to discuss some problem that arose at the Family and Children Services of Hasting County. One of the main issues at that time was a bylaw which restricted members of the community from joining The Family and Children's Services membership roll.

At a subsequent meeting, an action committee was formed to make a proposal to the bylaw committee of the Family and Childrens Services Board to have this bylaw changed. In a recent newsletter published by the Board it stated that the bylaw has been changed and that membership is open to the community for a fee of one dollar per member.

I would like to inform the citizens who attended the first meeting as well as any other concerned citizens of the Hastings Community of this bylaw change and to encourage them to take out a membership and get involved with the affairs of the Family and Children's Services of Hastings. As the Chairman of the Action Committee, I would like to commend the Board for their receptiveness, innovativeness and action in meeting this need in the community.

LYLE SUTHERLAND.

Teachers As Trustee Candidates

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

It is with much regret that I read the December 13 column of Lenny Williamson entitled "Self-Interest Hurts the System." I should like to correct some of the misconceptions upon which she based her premise; namely that teachers, operating out of self-interest, became involved in municipal trustee elections in order to elect trustee candidates that were sympathetic to teachers.

Mrs. Williamson states that "When teachers go wading into the election struggles it is only a symptom — a symptom of a breakdown somewhere in the educational apparatus.'"

As president of the North York Elementary Teachers' Federation I can assure Mrs. Williamson that this is not the case in North York where my organization, after carefully interviewing twelve candidates in five wards, elected to endorse three of them. You should note that of the eight candidates that did not receive our endorsation, five were teachers. Of the three candidates that we did endorse only one was a teacher. The North York Board of Education is one of the best in Ontario. As a federation we have the kind of relationship with our trustees that is second to none in the province. Why then would teachers in such a setting wade into the election process?

The answer does, as Mrs. Williamson suggests, lie in a "breakdown," but it is a breakdown in the electoral process rather than in the relationship between teachers and trustees. Consider the following:

1. Most people vote blindly in trustee elections. They simply do not know the candidates. All candidate meetings are poorly attended and trustee candidates get last spot on the rostrum when most of the audience has either gone home or fallen asleep.

2. The media all but ignores trustee elections in favor of the more 'exciting' council races.

3. The majority of seats on school boards in many jurisdictions are filled by acclamation - a sure sign of voter apathy. In fact, averaged over the last three municipal elections, fewer than one-third of the voters in Ontario bothered to cast ballots..

4. Most trustee elections are non-races characterized by dull campaigns with many fringe or non-serious candidates. Elections are often determined by such frivolous factors as position on the ballot, the ring of a candidate's name or his occupational status.

Is it any wonder, then, that teachers feel they should wade into the election process? Yes, we have an interest in education and it might surprise Mrs. Williamson to know that many of us have children in school and are ratepayers too. Because we do feel a responsibility to our own children and to the children entrusted to our care, and because we are willing to take the time to carefully assess and evaluate the candidates that most electors are either unwilling or unable to take, we become objects of suspicion and derision.

Mrs. Williamson states that "The Toronto Press reneged in its responsibility by not reporting the questions asked on the quiz sent trustees. But you can be sure 'condition of work' was one of them." Could it be that the Toronto press was satisfied that the questions were directed towards educational rather than selfish issues? I wish to assure your readers that this was the case. In fact, the teacher interviewing teams were specifically directed to avoid all self-interest issues..

The topics covered by the interviewing teams included: The candidate's reasons for running; his first three educational priorities; the honorarium for trustees; communication with and input from the public and teachers; the family of schools concept; the relationship between parochial schools and public education; enrichment programs for the gifted; compensatory programs for disadvantaged children; the extension of the French instruction program to grade 3; local board autonomy; strategies that could be employed to cut educational costs; family life or sex education; and (perish the thought) even class size in the primary grades.

Candidates were evaluated according to six criteria: openmindedness; a sincere interest in education; basic knowledge about the school system; strength of convictions; interest in children and the degree to which the candidate seemed realistic. Following an interview session each of the ten evaluators independently rated the candidates on a scale from 0 to 10 on each of the criteria. Only after the scores were averaged and tabulated was discussion permitted. The ratings were then examined by a second team that had spent the past two years attending every Board and Board Standing Committee meeting and were thoroughly familiar with the records of each of the incumbents. Finally it should be noted that the North York Board does not negotiate salary or staffing. These are determined by the Metropolitan Toronto School Board and only one of the candidates interviewed was a potential Metro School Board candidate.

No, Mrs. Williamson, the successful election campaigns were not "rampant trade unionism at its worst," but rather the democratic process at its best. We don't pretend to be experts nor do we pretend to have any magical political insights. We are simply a group of people who have taken the time and trouble to find out about the candidates; something that every elector should feel a responsibility to do but alas does not. Newspapers often endorse slates of candidates, frequently on the basis of far less evidence than we had..

She states, "I would never vote for a teacher-endorsed trustee candidate . . . When teachers here start endorsing candidates I'll quit voting — unless I'm very sure of my facts." Herein lies the key. If Mrs. Williamson casts her ballot on the basis of as few facts as she used in preparing her column, I would suggest that she do just that; quit voting. The election of a Board of Education is too important to be trifled with. At the very best she owes it to her readers to adequately research before she formulates a position. At the very least she owes 3,000 elementary teachers in North York an apology.

HOWARD MOSCOE
President,
North York Elementary
Teachers' Federation.

Editor's note: Mrs. Williamson does not feel she owes the teachers of North York or anywhere else an apology for her observations of Dec. 13. As for the media and trustee elections, the latter subject was well covered in our news columns and through editorial comment.

40 YEARS AGO

January 18, 1935

A suitable memorial at the southeast corner of Front and Dundas Streets to commemorate a historical point in the city which includes the holding of the 1st Masonic Lodge meeting, the stopping place of the stage coach passing through Belleville and the place where the first municipal council was held whereby the name of Belleville was selected for this settlement, will be erected. The location of this proposed memorial and the design is to be approved by the City Engineer and sanctioned by this council.

CP News Roundup

PM Mum On Pay Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister's office refused to comment Friday on a proposal that Ontario cabinet ministers take a five-per-cent pay cut to show leadership in the fight against inflation.

The proposal by Eric Winkler, chairman of the provincial cabinet's management board, came as the federal government prepared to continue the fight for higher MP's salaries.

If the majority Liberals get approval for their latest salary proposal, cabinet salaries will rise to almost $60,000 a year from the present $43,000.

Plan Campaign

TORONTO (CP) — The governing body of the Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF) has approved spending up to $100,000 on an "issue-oriented" campaign for the next provincial election.

Blame Drugs

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Patricia Carol Mitchell, 44, of Toronto, whose body was found in a ditch Monday, died of a self-administered overdose of a barbituate, police said Friday.

The pathologist's report of an autopsy Monday also stated Mrs. Mitchell suffered physical abuse some hours before her death but it was not the cause, police said.

Reopen Plants

DETROIT (AP) — About 40,000 fewer auto workers will be out of work next Monday as Ford Motor Co. and General Motors reopen more than a dozen assembly plants that were closed this week.

Given Year

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Donald Edward Vinkle, 29, of Orillia Township, was sentenced Friday to 12 months in a correctional institute to be followed by one year probation when he appeared in provincial court on a charge of cultivation of a restricted plant.

About 7,431 marijuana plants, with an estimated street value of more than $1.4 million, were seized at a farm in a raid by seven RCMP and provincial police officers.

Lack Support

TORONTO (CP) — A York County jury said in a report made public Friday that Metropolitan police do not receive the public support they deserve.

News coverage of police activities is "one-sided," said the jury.

"For every bad report they receive, there are probably one hundred good reports to their credit."

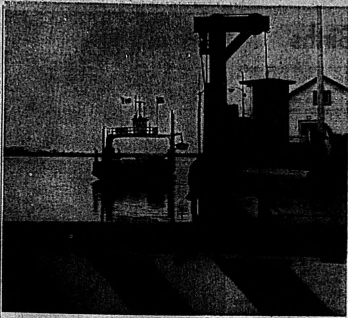
The jury also said that persons who repeatedly break the law do not receive stiff enough punishments.

Lose Appeals

TORONTO (CP) — Six persons, convicted in a $32-million heroin smuggling conspiracy, lost their appeals from sentence Friday.

The Ontario Appeal Court dismissed appeals from life sentences given Benedetto Zizzo, 59; Antonio Codispoti, 36; Vito Cutrona, 33; and Francesco Belliti, 23, all of Sicily.

The court also dismissed an appeal from a 10-year sentence given Gaetana Asaro, 54. Her husband Nicola died in Kingston penitentiary June, 1974. His sentence was dismissed as abandoned.



Clear Sailing

It's clear sailing in the Bay of Quinte for the Glenora ferry this winter. Unseasonable temperatures have cleared all ice from the channel temporarily eliminating the need for the underwater bubble system installed on both shores to keep the slips open by piping air to the surface.

Ontario Survey Reports OFY Charges Unjustified

TORONTO (CP) — The province's criticisms of the federal summer employment program Opportunities for Youth (OFY), do not stand up to scrutiny, says a review of the program in 1974 prepared for the Ontario government and made public Friday.

The report was prepared for the province's youth secretariat by John Hanna, a contract employee.

Mr. Hanna's review says that the provincial government should stop criticizing OFY for raising expectations in communities through its summer projects.

OFY never was intended to provide continuing community services, it says.

When projects provided through the federal summer program end each September, the province should take a good look at the services that were provided, it adds.

Services which fill a need might be incorporated into regular provincial programs, it said. But the province should not hesitate to turndown requests to take over financing of other projects.

The report also says that the provincial government should not complain if OFY projects raise political issues relating to services or needs in local communities.

Walter Coulthard, executive director of the youth secretariat, said Friday that "the statistical base of the study (is) very well done, but the analysis of OFY does not represent the province's officials views.

"Mr. Hanna's opinions have to go into the hopper with all kinds of other views," he said.

The federal government has slated $27.56 million for OFY in 1975 out of a total student summer employment and activities program of $87.1 million.

Accuser Accused

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto Jail guard testified Friday he had seen a fellow worker hit a prisoner—and that guard was the man who instigated a royal commission inquiry into alleged jail violence.

Dwight Sleigh told the royal commission that Gary Dassy hit a teen-age prisoner.

Mr. Dassy has testified that guards maintain order by beating prisoners.

In testimony last month, Mr. Dassy said that he and Mr. Sleigh took a 16-year-old prisoner into a broom closet, then slapped his face and judo chopped his neck to make the boy do extra floor cleaning.

Friday, Mr. Sleigh said he and the teen-ager were in a closet looking for scrub brushes when Mr. Dassy entered, hit the prisoner in the mid-section and then on the neck as he keeled over.'

He said the only thing he did was catch the boy as he fell and then return him to his cell.

Earlier, anoter guard said he had been injured four times in the last four years by prisoners.

Martin Doherty, 42, testified that he was bitten on the hand, hit on the head with a crutch, kicked in te legs and cut with a broken cup.

Reporter Escapes Charge of Contempt

TORONTO (CP) — Globe and Mail reporter Gerald McAuliffe will not have to face contempt proceedings for refusing to produce notes of an interview to a royal commission, Mr. Justice Donald Morand decided Friday.

McAuliffe refused Thursday to produce notes of his interview with psychiatrist Andrew Malleson which had a bearing on a story McAuliffe wrote about police brutality charges made by Ray Bonner, 61.

Mr. Justice Morand said he did not need McAuliffe's notes to make a decision on the allegations by Bonner, but he warned the reporter he would have no hesitation in moving for a contempt citation if McAuliffe took the same position again where the notes were essential to the inquiry.

He said he did not want to put taxpayers to the expense involved in a delay of the royal commission by taking time to state a case for contempt to division court.

Mr. Justice Morand said he did not think that McAuliffe was attempting to offer any affront to the commission, but was acting on principle.

Lucien Rivard Back in Town

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard is back in town.

The man whose name is welded to a scandal that seared the government of the late prime minister Lester B. Pearson in the mid-1960s arrived from New York Friday night after serving nine years of a 20-year sentence for narcotics smuggling.

"It wasn't a bad experience," the 59-year-old former resort operator said of his prison years in federal penitentiaries in Atlanta, Ga., and Lewisburg, Pa.

A mob of reporters and photographers pounced on him at his arrival at Montreal International Airport.

"No idea," was the terse reply he made when asked what his plans were.

Rivard said he intended to spend some time in the Laurentian hills north of here where his wife, Marie, was waiting.

"I never did anything wrong so how can I change my life?" the harried man, deported and barred for life from the United States, told reporters.

Rivard was accompanied on his flight from New York Friday by a host of Canadian reporters and photographers, prompting a reporter to call it the "Press Special."

Reporters were so numerous that Rivard, accompanied by two burly U.S. immigration officials, was moved from the front of the economy section to the first-class seats, a passenger said.

Reporters who tried to approach him were barred by a stewardess who told them they could not "upgrade" without a credit card.

Scurrying news crews moved en masse through the halls of the airports in New York and Montreal, dogging Rivard's every step. Several bystanders were jostled as the flock tripped over itself in efforts to persuade him to talk.

Multiple Births

If one baby is grand, are two twice as good? And three three-times better? These parents of twins and triplets have found their experiences exhilarating. You've seen both the twins and plets before; here's what they're like now and what it's like living with them.

Triplets

Patrick, Angela and Maureen Sammon play a lot together and that's nice for their mother Mary Lynne. For besides being the mother of these active 18-month-old triplets, she and her husband have four other children: Joe, 7, Marty, 5, Mike, 4 and Mary 2½.

The infants, born at Belleville General Hospital in July of 1973, have always been extremely good natured, Mrs. Sammon says and only the first month was hectic.

"The hardest thing is that you just can't pick up and go out like you can with one baby or even twins.

"Even to go for a walk is impossible. You just haven't enough arms."

In fact, Mrs. Sammon says, when you have triplets all the drawbacks are drawbacks to the kids, not the parents.

"You really have to make an effort to remember to get them out to see the world," she says.

Once it was established that then year-old Mary was going to sleep in the same room with other babies, family jealousies were kept to a minimum.

"There's whole bunch of other kids," Mrs. Sammon says so the babies don't get all that much extra attention."

Rarely, she adds, does she even think of them as "the triplets", they're just the babies.

The babies — and the ones that went before them — have created 4,000 loads of wash for Mary Lynne Sammon.

The family uses a 50 pound bag of dry powdered skim milk every month or so and dinner hour is actually 2½ hour long.

Husband Pat shares in the workload and the whole operation — dinner and baths for seven kids — goes relatively smoothly.

"The only thing we're watching out for now," Mrs. Sammon adds, "is that apparently twins and triplets develop a language of their own and have a hard time learning to talk to others."

Twins

Having twins is a breeze, according to Ruth Anne West — as long as they're tiny babies.

But now that Virginia and Julian are begining to get around, things are getting a little more hectic around the West home in Foxboro.

There's Brent and Landon — six and three and a half — as well as the twins, now nine months old.

"It was easy at the beginning, now it's more difficult. At least they're beginning to play together."

Twins were a surprise to Bill and Ruth Anne but the need for two of everything was quickly filled by friends and relatives.

In fact, the Wests don't find twins twice as expensive except when it comes to food. Mrs. West buys 42 jars of baby food every other week and the family drinks six quarts of milk a day.

White Mrs. West admits that free time is a little difficult to come by, she adds that so far her only worry has been trying to take the older two children out alone.

When the family is out together people notice the twins more than the two older boys and she's concerned they'll feel left out.

A bigger armful at 18 months of age!

Family Fun on Sunday At YMCA Open House

An Open House at the Belleville Family YMCA Sunday, January 19, marks the beginning of "Y Week" in the city.

From 2 to 5 p.m., the YMCA facilities will be available and free to the public. Besides free swim periods, there are a number of demonstrations planned.

"Y' instructors and members will exhibit their skills on the trampoline and in the pool, as well as their expertise in judo and "keep fit" gymnastics.

Members of the YMCA Board of Directors and the Y's Men's Club will serve as guides during the afternoon's activities. One of the highlights of the occasion will be the draw for three free YMCA annual memberships, open to non-members only.

D.G. Diamantides, Executive irector of the "Y", says that the day's events are arranged to interest and entertain all family members of every age. This Open House is a perfect opportunity for Belleville and area residents to see for themselves what recreational facilities are available at the YMCA.

Gliding Champ

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A South African pilot, Yvonne Leeman, has set a world gliding record for women at the Rhodesian National Gliding Championships. Officials of the Central African Soaring Association authenticated the record when Miss Leeman flew at an average speed of 113.9 kilometres (70 miles an hour) over a 500-kilometre (310.68 mile) triangle.

Girl Guide Cookies New Inflation Victim

For the first time in many years, Girl Guide cookies will be raised in price: when the girls begin their annual sale this year the cookie will cost 75 cents a box.

The manufacturer — Christie, Brown and Co. Ltd. — has informed the Girl Guide organization that the ingredients used to make the cookies have increased in price by 270 per cent since their 1971 agreement.

Formerly the cost of raw material per dozen boxes was $1.03; now it is $3.83.

The company, in spite of inflation, will provide the Girl Guides with cookies at a considerable loss; the guides will make a profit of $3.12 on every dozen boxes.

By now you've heard that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is offering first time home buyers a cash grant of $500. The grants came into effect November 1 and end October 31. You are eligible to receive the grant if the house is your principal place of residence, the house is a new unit, never occupied and it is at least 65 per cent completed. In the Belleville area, cost must not exceed $34,914. For more information write the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Ottawa, for their new pamphlet.

Post offices are one of the places you can pick up a copy of "How your tax dollar is spent". The guide, published by the Treasury Board, calls itself "a taxpayer's introduction to the spending plans of the Government of Canada for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1974."

It's an interesting and information booklet, and one that might surprise you. Did you know that only two cents of your dollar goes to Canada's foreign relations and aid program? But that 31 cents goes for health and welfare, the largest single chunk of the budget?

The public debt costs you 13 cents and economic development — money spent to stimulate the economy — costs 12 cents. Eleven cents is spent on defence. Transfer payments to provinces costs eight cents — that's monies spent on revenue equalization and estate tax sharing along with statutory subsidies. Transportation and communications services cost seven cents and general government services cost five cents. The rest of the dollar is spent on internal overhead expenses, four cents, education assistance, three cents and culture and recreation, three cents.

If you'd like a copy, try the post office or Information Canada.

If you buy margarine to avoid animal fats, be wary. At least one brand offered for sale in the area recently lists 50 per cent lard, 30 per cent marine oil and 20 per cent vegetable oil.

The Experts Say

Women Learn to Handle Power at School

VANCOUVER (CP) — People sometimes have to learn how to deal with power.

And a new course at Vancouver's Capilano College concentrates on teaching a particular kind of person how to deal with particular kinds of power.

The kind of person is a woman, and the power is the result of woman's rapid ascent into corporate power structures that sometimes present problems they are unable to cope with.

Wanda Tilley teaches the three-month study session, and says women sometimes must learn the skills of supervising both men and other women, while keeping the feathers of the others in the pecking order unruffled.

"Women struggle twice as hard for power as men do," said Mrs. Tilley in an interview. "When they get it, they sometimes forget the rules of the game. This course helps prepare them for administrative positions, among other things."

She said the course discusses strategies for office interpersonal situations, communications with others, identifying and applying appropriate grievance procedures, sensitivity to non-verbal cues, and applying psychological principles of office dynamics.

One issue discussed is the obstacle female administrators face in the person who will not work for a woman.

"Things are changing but it's still very difficult. I feel there still aren't equal opportunities.

"Women aren't trained to be managers. They aren't trained to plan their time effectively. Men are counselled to take math courses while women aren't. They aren't given the tools of logic," said Mrs. Tilley.

"Women tend to operate intuitively—which can be good—but if men have intuition that makes them even better managers with the definite skills they've learned."

The last course was filled with women but Mrs. Tilley stressed that men are welcome.

"I would think men would want to be aware of the politics within their office," she said.

Ann Landers

Mom and Daughter Need Frank Talk

Dear Ann Landers: I live alone. So does my grown daughter. Her place is 15 miles out of town. Last month she had the flu so I ran back and forth to take care of her.

Sunday after I had fixed her supper and cleaned her house I drove myself home. I realized I should have taken her washing to do the next day. I phoned and offered. She said, "Thanks, mom. Come on back and get it."

Well, Ann, I drove back, picked up her laundry and was just about to sit down and chat for a few minutes when she said:

"Don't sit down, mom. I have company coming in a few minutes—someone you don't get along with."

I was so hurt I cried all the way home. I couldn't for the life of me think of a friend of hers with whom I don't get along.

That was four weeks ago. We have talked on the phone often since then and she has been to my home several times, but I can't bring myself to go to her place. She has asked why but the words won't come. I am unable to tell her how badly she hurt my feelings. Am I getting senile, crazy or what? Please help me.—Tongue-Tied Mom

Dear Mom: Untie your tongue today. Write the words on a piece of paper and read them to your daughter on the phone—if you must. But get over this block at once.

Ask her point-blank which friend she was referring to the day you came back for her laundry and she asked you not to stay. Make it short and direct. Once you clear the air you will feel better. And so will she.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old girl and am very mature for my age. I am in love with a boy who is 19. Hal is very handsome and sweet, but he has some growing-up to do. We've been going together off and on for two years and have talked about getting married at least a dozen times. I'm sure he was sincere.

About five weeks ago Hal told me he met a girl who was "a few years older" than himself. (I later found out she was 23.) She is crazy about him. He lost his job three weeks ago and this girl has been helping him financially. She has a very fine position and a little inherited money from her grandmother. He told me yesterday that he is going to marry her and wants me to come to the wedding.

I nearly went into shock. He quieted me down and said, "This will probably be temporary. You and I will wind up together—if you are patient and really love me."

I do love this guy, Ann. Please tell me what should my next move be?—Shaken At The Roots

Dear Roots: Buy a pair of track shoes and run as fast as you can—in the opposite direction. Hal is very poor husband material, as his bride-to-be will soon find out. Consider yourself lucky she got him instead of you.

Dear Ann Landers: On occasion you print "rules" for parents on How To Break Up A Marriage.

I have an addition to your list which is guaranteed to work if all else should fail. It is this: If there are grandchildren, be sure to favor one over the others. This will create such havoc between the parents that they will be in a continual state of turmoil and a reasonably good marriage can be knocked to pieces. Sign me—Seen It Happen

Dear Seen: I'll take your word for it. Thanks for writing.

Doris Clark

Readers Encourage 'Sensitive'

Dear Doris: The letter signed "Sensitive" (about a month ago) in which she bemoans the fact that her family is looking forward to her death, is just sheer nonesense. I can't imagine children treating parents of 67 and 70 like that. Unless perhaps it is "Sensitive's" own attitude towards life and living that begets her family's attitude towards her and her husband.

My husband and I are only 10 years younger than they are. And we are looking forward to his retirement with pleasure, and making plans to build ourselves a beautiful new home complete with fireplace, laundry room off the kitchen (!) and lots of space for our five children to come to visit us.

The children themselves are encouraging us to retire early and get on with our new life, so they can bring their families to visit us often and get to know us better.

My husband's parents are 85 and 87, and I do believe that they are on the threshold of a new life. But they are sure getting the most out of this one as long as it is given them to enjoy. Why, they even bought themselves a color TV a few years ago! and are talking about a new couch right now!

Tell "Sensitive" to stop feeling sorry for herself and to get out and get a new interest in life — there's lots of it ahead of her and she'd better not waste it. She only passes this way once.

E.H.

Dear Doris: I am 18 years old and am writing in regard to the letter entitled "Sensitive", about the older woman who wrote in to you. I have a grandmother who is 92 years old and is always on the go.

She lived with our family for a couple of months several years ago and is presently living at our house.

I think you should start thinking young as you may have many more happy years of life. And what good is it being the richest man in the graveyard? So you may as well enjoy life!

Concerned and caring.

Dear E.H. And Concerned: You are both right. "Sensitive" is too sensitive. There is a big block of living for her to do; and that ought to be her answer when a (somewhat) younger generation appears to be pushing her over the edge.

Perhaps they would be surprised to discover how she thinks they think about her. Perhaps they need to be set back on their heels with some vital evidence that Sensitive considers she is still very much alive and kicking.

There Are Problems Already As 'Utopia' Nears Completion

NEW YORK (Reuter) — An island meant to be an urban Utopia is nearing completion off the coast of Manhattan. Yes, Manhattan.

It will contain high-rise homes for 5,000 families, experimental schools and a revolutionary way of disposing of garbage.

And two of the worst features of modern city life will be banned from its modern streets—cars and fear.

The project will give some of the richer residents a fine view of Manhattan's skyscrapers. But the poorer will have to be content with a modern version of William Blakes "dark, satanic mills."

The development on the island, in the middle of the East River is due to millions of government dollars.

Now called Roosevelt Island, it has gone through several name changes since New York's Indians sold it to the Dutch for more than they charged for Manhattan in the 17th century.

Roosevelt Island runs for two miles in the East River, roughly from the United Nations to East 86th Street.

New Yorkers have known it for years as Welfare Island and its main purpose in this century has been as a place with hospitals for the aged and infirm.

It also houses a giant laundry, a training school for firemen, the Revolutionary War farmhouse of one of its early owners and an octagonal-shaped building that was once part of the island's 19th-century mental hospital.

Although facing Manhattan and only minutes away by boat, the island has remained basically isolated.

But this has become one of its strongest features.

Many families with young children feel compelled to move out of the city because of the poor quality of its schools.

Roosevelt Island will offer open-structured schools in the buildings where the children live, free of the overcrowding and potential for violence that beset many city schools.

The island will ban cars and dogs. Garbage will be collected and delivered at 3 miles an hour through pneumatic tubes to a central compacting plant.

Residents with cars will have to park them in a garage, capable of holding 2,400 vehicles, located next to the island's one bridge, which connects it to the Long Island City section of the borough of Queens.

And visitors will have to be announced before they can leave the garage.

Spokesmen for the $375-million project say this will help make the island secure against the crime that plagues Manhattan.

By spring, they expect to have an aerial tramway connecting the island to Manhattan and sometime in the 1980s, a connection to New York's subway system.

The first apartments in the project, a group of 2,100, are nearing completion.

Several hundred of these, all in the upper-income bracket, located in a 20-floor building called Island House, will be rented in February. This group, with rents ranging from $295 to $805 a month, affords the best view of Manhattan.

Behind them, with a view of a power plant, desolate factories and barren blocks of city-owned flats, is the poor section of town—the subsidized housing section of the project.

It will also be born in controversy. For years critics have complained that the fortune spent in developing the island could have accomplished more in rebuilding and redeveloping slums.

Many complain about the project's school system because it sounds better than much that is available in the rest of the city.

Civil liberty proponents may find the restrictions on visitors intolerable.

And it is possible that future residents may find themselves cut off from easy access to the city by such irritants as waiting for electric buses to take them to the aerial tramway which in four minutes will get them to Manhattan's eastern tip.

Catholic Theologians Debate Characteristics of Football

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rehashing the game after it's over is a chronic habit of sports fans and sometimes the talwk becomes heated. But it would have to get pretty strong to match the verbal duel between two theologians about professional football.

The game mirrors "some of the worst characteristics of our culture," said Eugene C. Bianchi, a Roman Catholic scholar and professor of religion at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

"It interlinks four qualities that drive the violence machine: physical brutality, mercialism, an authoritarian-military mentally and sexism."

Taking an opposing view, another Catholic theologian, Michael Novak, extolled big-league playoff games as "almost perfect enactments of comradeship, team unity, split-second execution and most intense physical confrontation."

"They are as lovely a communal art as humans have ever invented, precise, difficult to achieve, thrilling both to exercise and to observe," he said.

The two theologians, both regarded as progressive in their approach to philosophical issues, aired their fued over football in different religious publications.

Bianchi, a former priest and now a PhD teaching at a Methodist university, led off the debate in the ecumenical weekly Christian Century, saying big-time football nurtures sexism, a "fundamental evil of our culture."

He pictured the game as bolstering characteristics instilled in American males as marks of manhood—to be tough, competitive, to win, and to take a domineering, protective attitude toward women.

Calling these attitudes a "prime source of exaggerated aggression" in personal lives and in the economic and political realms, he added:

"The weekend trek to the arena is . . . but a pilgrimage to the national shrines where the virtues of toughness and insensitivity can be renewed and the role of women is clearly defined against the masculine criteria of value.

"In the football spectacle the important action is male-dominated; women can share in it only at a distance. They can shout and squeal from afar for the pleasure and service of the male whose "bunnies" they are.

"Yet for all its chest-thumping bravado, the game also portrays the anxieties and contradictions of aggressive sexuality. Its calculated violence makes it hard for the player to become sensitively attuned to his own body."

Challenging that assessment, Novak, a former philosophy professor and now a consultant to the Rockefeller Foundation, wrote in the Catholic weekly Commonweal that football is among "the most humanizing institutions our society provides."

He said it is the "non-athletes of the intellectual class"—the scientists, engineers and other experts—"who have produced most of the destructive instruments, strategies and remote-control acts of violence of ourtime."

He noted that male aggression has been common in all sorts of cultures long before football was invented only 100 years ago and asked: "Are the Russians, who play chess, not aggressive? Should Hitler have favored football rather than gymnastics?"

Unlike the devious, indirect aggressions besetting the present age, he said, football "is face-to-face confrontation, highly personal, open, direct."

"In football, each player has responsibility for his every move. Excellence cannot be bluffed."

"Those who oppose football exhibit fear and hatred of the human body. . . .

"Football is not the whole truth about life. But as a corrective to emotional falsity of bureaucracies and women-dominated institutions, to false ideals that deny the physicality of human nature, and to lassitude of body and will, football is a humble saving grace, a joy to millions."

Godward Habit of Mind Established by Prayer

By Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Prayer is really an extraordinary thing. It brings into the conscious mind the Creator of that mind. No mortal is a creator in the real sense of the term. We never make something out of nothing. God alone can do that. He alone is a genuine primal creator.

Prayer establishes a Godward habit of mind. That is exceedingly important. What can we do when sorrow comes or disappointment or defeat? What we do depends on our habit of mind. The habit of prayer brings with it the habit of turning to God. Prayer is the supreme weapon with which to fight the battle of life.

Prayer unites us spiritually to our fellow men as well as to God. Some churches have been called meeting houses. The term is not bad at all. People who walk the "quiet aisles of prayer" together come to know each other in a measure as God knows them in fullness.

Prayer unites us in the still wider circle of eternity. When we pray for the departed, for those we have loved long since and lost awhile, the Church visible is united in God's presence with the Church invisible.

Prayer also unites us spiritually to nature all around us. We belong to nature; nature belongs to God. When we unite ourselves to God through prayer, we unite ourselves to God's creation and may exclaim, "God's world is robed in beauty; God's world is robed in light." Prayer makes us feel more at home in the universe.

We have the right to say anything to God that we can say in good conscience. No wise individual expects God to answer any prayer except in God's way. The Lord's Prayer was intended to be our model. God always answers prayer. Sometimes he says "Yes"; sometimes he says "No"; sometimes he says "Wait".

We are advised to use great religious books to help us meditate. They keep us from going stale. They enrich our thought. We have bibles, prayer books, service books and hymn books. They come out of the crucible of experience. They serve ordnary perience. They serve ordinary days, particular circumstances and special seasons. Whwy not use them as time-tested tools in cultivating the presence of God?

In prayer, as Dr. Alexis Carrel said, we link ourselves with the "Power that spins the universe". Suffice it to add that prayer enables us to follow the gleaming pathway of the stars to the very throne of the Eternal.

Hindu God Popular In Buddhist Bangkok

BANGKOK (AP) — A Hindu god on a busy Bangkok street corner is one of the most popular deities in this devoutly Buddhist country.

Good luck, an attractive spouse, success in business and lucky lottery numbers—Brahma is known for coming through.

Thousands of commuters flock daily to the ornate miniature pavilion where a four-headed, eight-armed image of Brahma overlooks a small courtyard.

Laden with incense, chains of garlands and elephant figurines, they take a moment to pray and unburden their problems. They buy gold leaf and candles to adorn the shrine and sparrows to free from cages to gain celestial favor.

Marble benches and colorful beach umbrellas surround the compound for weary workers to rest and contemplate their petitions. Incense overpowers the fragrance of jasmine, creating a solemn atmosphere for this religious oasis amid the rush-hour traffic.

Thousands of shrines and spirit houses adorn Bangkok, most of them Buddhist, but the tolerant Thais respect all gods. This shrine was built in 1956 during the construction of the government-owned Erawan Hotel.

After numerous accidents and delays in the building schedule, word spread that evil spirits were roaming the area. When a ship sailing from Italy with marble for the hotel sank, laborers refused to work.

Hotel officials called on a holy man. Build a shrine to Brahma on the hotel grounds, he advised, and the problem will be solved. They did and it was.

Since then, stories have spread throughout Bangkok of wishes granted by Brahma. Lulu Sukhabut, executive secretary of the Erawan Hotel, knows of one woman who won $2,000 in the lottery after praying to the god.

Another common story is that a young girl promised Brahma that if she won the lottery she would dance naked before him. She won but failed to return. She was then visited in a dream by Brahma who reminded her of her promise. Several nights later she stole to the temple in the dark, disrobed, and danced.

Since many of the worshippers who come to the shrine give money, the Erawan has set up a foundation which dispenses the donations to charities.

As for the hundreds of wooden, ceramic, and ivory elephants donated, the hotel collects them and gives them to a temple where they are sold. The proceeds go to charity.

Mrs. Sukhabut said that anyone who takes gifts donated to the god without asking her permission or offering compensation risks being visited by elephants in his dreams and taking sick.

"One guard at our hotel took a chain from Brahma's hand while he was cleaning the shrine and wore it on his own arm," she said. "Several days later he became very ill and was hospitalized.

"Doctors examined him but could find nothing wrong. Finally a monk spoke to him and advised him to return the bracelet. Once it was returned the guard recovered immediately."

Shrine Protector Welcomed

From AP-REUTER

About 50,000 Jordanians shouting "Save Jerusalem" gave King Faisal of Saudi Arabia a tumultuous welcome in Amman Friday. They slaughtered four camels outside the airport lounge in homage to the monarch, who also holds the title "Protector of Islam's Holy Shrines."

Faisal flew in from Damascus, where he prayed in an ancient mosque with President Hafez Assad. Thousands of Syrians cheered the Saudi monarch as he left the Syrian capital and threw slaughtered sheep in his path as a sign of tribute.

Faisal wearing a traditional white robe and headress, embraced King Hussein of Jordan, wearing a field marshal's uniform, as a 21-gun salute boomed a royal welcome at Amman airport.

Arab efforts to secure Israeli withdrawal from the occupied eastern sector of Jerusalem are expected to be the major topic of discussion between Faisal and Hussein during Faisal's three-day visit to Jordan.

The 71-year-old Faisal, ruler of the richest oil state, finances several Arab armies and has vowed he will pray in Jerusalem's Al Aqsa mosque before he dies, but only when an Arab flag flies over the Arab quarter.

The war along the Israeli-Lebanese border subsided into shelling exchanges today and a Beirut newspaper reported that Palestinian guerrillas trained in Syria have moved into the Arkoub region of southern Lebanon to defend their stronghold against Israeli attacks.

Deseronto: The Town's Downcast--But Not Out

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

DESERONTO — Last week this small town's biggest industry suddenly served notice it was closing out.

Next week, town officials have arranged for a replacement prospect to view the site.

There may be no results. But, the fast sequence of events seems to symbolize official reaction to the unexpected phaseout of Ideal Venders.

Losing the industry is a blow to his community — of about 1,800 — admits newly-elected Mayor Peter Dickinson.

But: "As far as the town is concerned it's not crippling. We intend to deal with it as best we can."

In other words, agrees Reeve George Lyons, Deseronto may be downcast — but it's not out.

To the moment, recovery operations have been in the hands of the town's three-man industrial committee. Both are members — under the chairmanship of Councillor Jack Mitchell.

The committee went to work last Thursday, immediately after the parent Eddy Match Co. Ltd. announced it was finally forced to close its industrial offspring — Ideal Venders. Launched in 1948 and employer of 220, in production of vending machines, it is the biggest of the town's three major manufacturing plants.

First fruits of the committee's labors were bringing together Ideal and the company which Tuesday will send representatives to assess the site — on 20 acres with about 156,000 square feet of floor space.

No committee member Friday would reveal the industrial visitor's identity.

Neither would they overplay any expectancy of promising results.

"It's very tenuous," said Mayor Dickinson. "We simply got the two together and they're coming down to look at the plant."

"It would be very nice if the first prospect coming along would see something come of it," he adds. "But I'm a pragmatist. I'm keeping my fingers crossed.'

"That's it," agrees Reeve Lyons. "For the moment we're keeping crossed-fingers. But, even if this falls through, we're very optimistic.'

He admits news of the shutdown — expected to be complete by mid-summer, says the reeve — was a "serious blow".

There is not only loss of jobs, but local taxes to the town treasury.

For the community, the impact is also softened by the fact that many workers come from surrounding areas — Napanee, Belleville, Selby, Picton, says Mayor Dickinson.

The fact there is several months' grace before shutdown, also enhances the scope of the search to find a new employer for workers and a replacement industry for the town, says Councillor Mitchell.

As yet, the committee has been a lone hunter. The in-depth resources of senior government industrial promotion agencies, for instance, have yet to be tapped, he says.

There already are stirrings in that direction. Local Canada Manpower officials have asked for a meeting soon, says Reeve Lyons.

"We'll make every effort to have another industry," promises Councillor Mitchell.

There is much in their favor, both men believe. Plant facilities are fairly new — there was a big addition as recently as two years ago.

"So it's suitable for any modern manufacturer to come into it," says Reeve Lyons, who also runs the town's biggest food store.

"So as a businessman also I'm concerned with this closing. But we won't have too much trouble in enticing industry to look at it," he predicts.

Adds Councillor Mitchell: "We all have the same feeling — that there will be somebody there to replace it."

Mohawk Verdict Appealed

TYENDINAGA — A court ruling which dismissed charges against six Mohawks in dissent against the elected council of this Indian reserve is being appealed by Crown prosectuion authorities.

Glenn Deline, Hastings County Crown Attorney, Friday night confirmed he was appealing the ruling of Provincial Judge J. L. Clendenning.

The charges against six Mohawks were dismissed Dec. 23. Those charged involved Cleil Maracle, a dissident member of the Reserve's local government. Others charged were Wilma Brant, Ada Maracle, Mildred Maracle, Margaret Jean Maracle and Mary Ann Sero.

The charges were a sequel to an alleged disturbance at a meeting of the council Oct. 9. A seventh Mohawk, Wes Bardy, was also charged with causing a disturbance by loitering in a public place.

Mr. Bardy was not involved in the appeal proceedings, confirmed the Crown Attorney.

Other defendants in the case have been served with appeal notices in the past two days.

The appeal now will be heard before a Hastings County court judge.

Meantime, Chief William Brant confirmed the reserve council earlier this month had passed a formal motion to appeal the ruling of Judge Clendenning.

However, the present proceedings were the decision of the Crown Attorney, he said.

"I wasn't even informed by the Crown that the appeal was going on," he said.

Chief Brant said council had passed its motion because the Clendenning decision involved its authority in the conduction of council meetings.

The motion did not mean that council was engaged in "some sort of vendetta", but rather wished to define whether or not it had "some sort of authority" in the conduct of its council meetings.

The court case followed an incident which was one of a series of confrontations later last year between the council and its opponents. Division among the Mohawks was touched off by establishment of an Indian-owned industrial corporation. Opponents claim they fear the business opens the reserve to taxation and provincial and municipal laws.

Sign Bylaw Before Council

A bylaw regulating commercial signs and other outdoor advertising facilities is among ordinances up before city council Monday.

Another bylaw, approved by the Ontario Municipal Board and involving construction of a $474,600 storm sewer into the Moira River in northeast Belleville is also scheduled for third reading.

Also on the agenda is a protest from 20 petitioners against a bylaw authorizing a sidewalk on Tracey St. from Sidney St. to North Front St. The petition is up for council's consideration.

Trail Lottery Is Decided

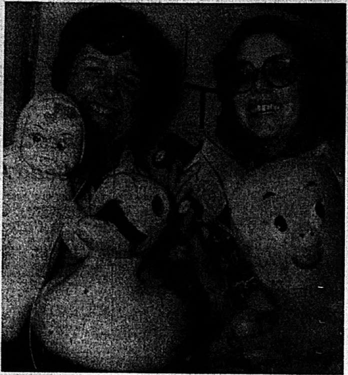
MADOC — A meeting of Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail directors here Friday decided to organize a lottery, said organization secretary-treasurer Grant Harvey.

A lottery was discussed as one method of raising funds during the group's first meeting of the year in Belleville Monday.

New Industry

PICTON — A new industry to be located at Loch Sloy industrial park here will be announced this month, says Prince Edward County economic and development director William Duggan.

It is expected the industry will produce plastic fixtures for the hotel and motel industries.



For the Young

Arms filled with donated playthings Joan Dixon (left) and Susan McConnell are readying a novel library ... without books. Under Local Initiatives Program(they're helping prepare project LEAP. Youngsters can borrow toys for up to two weeks, then turn them in for new ones.

Just Like a Library

They'll Put Toys on Loan

A small band of Belleville adults is involved in a toy project.

And it's no mere plaything.

Project LEAP not only won a $10,000 federal Local Initiatives Program grant for the grownups.

Hopefully, it also will enhance educational responses of youngsters.

LEAP stands for Lending Educational Aids to Preschoolers.

A basement room in Queen Mary public school on. Isobel street is the centre of the novel operation — still in its organizational stage.

LEAP got underway Jan. 6. By mid-February, it should be distributing to youngsters its stocks — toys.

The toys look familiar enough. But they also symbolize serious intent. For the developing mind toys also are constructive, reminds a prime mover of the project.

"Children learn through play" explains Mary Sutherland, head teacher at Belleville General Hospital's special nursery school on John St., and initiator of the project.

"And if youngsters don't have adequate materials to learp by, their playtime is less beneficial. Their learning is incomplete, in a way, they're starting off short-changed before they leave for school."

project worker, Susan McConnell, the program's basic premise is mostly educational. Through playthings, the young ones improve perceptions — their responses to colors, textures and shapes.

She is one of three adults assigned to the LIP LEAP program. Co-workers are Joan Dixon and Dennis MacCormack.

'Right now they are busy organizing the toy lending library in the school basement — cataloguing stock and organizing the card system that will permit a youngster to borrow a new toy every two weeks.

But they're not totally alone. High school students have also been busy repairing donated toys when necessary. Local merchants have helped with needed office equipment.

When the ditribution starts rolling the LEAP group plan moving further into the community — since not all families, or youngsters, are mobile, says Susan.

In such instances the toys will be delivered to the home. If obviously needed, the LEAP people might even perform a short spot of baby-sitting — engaging youngsters in playtime to give the parents a break.

The toy library blossomed from the inspirations of teachers and community

Therefore, adds LEAP volunteers involved in nursery education, says Mrs. Sutherland. That was some months ago.

But, while now finally a reality, the project is still in need of basic components — toys. She says she's even written manufaturers for any surplus stock they may have available.

Meantime, however, the project is open to donations from any local individuals or sources. Broken toys are as welcome as intact articles, — thanks to the highschoolers who are handy with repairs.

Any person who can help can contact LEAP by telephone in its school basement quarters — at 968-7772.

County Marine Museum Is in for Expansion

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

SOUTH MARYSBURG — Philip Dodds, Chairman of the Prince Edward Marine Society, says the organization has plans to expand and improve exhibits at its South Bay museum park in future seasons.

"We're investigating an extension," notes Mr. Dodds, speaking of a possible addition to a cement block building opened to house marine artifacts in 1974.

The addition would be built at the rear of the present structure but would not be heated as the main building is.

Mr. Dodds says a 50 per cent provincial government grant is available for construction costs of the addition.

"We want displays, not just a bunch of dull show cases," he explains, discussing future plans for exhibits.

He suggests a display of fishing nets might be arranged "to tell a story" in conjunction with a series of pictures depicting the history of the fishing industry in Prince Edward.

Mr. Dodds adds that the marine society has petitioned the transportation and communications ministry to obtain the ferry Quinte replaced this year at the Glenora—Adolphustown crossing by a larger boat.

He says James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward — Lennox has suggested the ferry probably will be put into service elsewhere in the province.

"But the society remains hopeful," comments the marine organization's chairman.

"We want the hull of the boat without the engine and have offered to move it ourselves,' says Mr. Dodds.

Bleak Winter Forces Up Social Services Cost

A winter of economic discontent will inevitably require stepped-up financing to offset social welfare needs.

The prediction comes from Reg Tucker, director of Hastings County social services department.

If recent statistics become a trend, 1975's first quarter will be bleak months, he indicated Friday.

The advancing recession in industrialized countries already may be showing up locally in his department's records.

In December, the number of employable persons seeking aid through his agency jumped 50 per cent in a month — to 292 from 193 in November.

The increase could be significant, said Mr. Tucker.

"If that's any indication of what we can expect for the next four months, my assessment, at least, of the situation, is that we're going to have a pretty rough winter," he said.

"I've already written off the first four months of this year as a time when we may expect a higher number of applications than last year."

The big increase in jobless applicants is underscored by statistics on the total general assistance caseload for the same months — 682 in December, compared to 655, a marginal increase of 27, noted Mr. Tucker.

Plant layoffs could aggravate the overall situation already plagued by a sluggish economy and unsuppressed inflation.

Work programs, initiated by senior governments as a winter jobs stimulant, now are no more.

While the situation may not be as grim as the recession winter of 1970-71 it "certainly" still indicates strain, he intimated.

(In December, 1970, there were 344 jobless seeking help, Mr. Tucker noted. The year before the figure was 338.)

But this winter is "going to be one of the tougher ones since 1970-71," he said.

His agency's budget which he now is pondering, will reflect anticipation of the twin economic troubles of slow business and soaring inflation as contributing financial factors.

Overall, he believes he must allow for a nine per cent caseload increase in 1975. On top of that he estimates the provincial government — which pays a major share of welfare distribution — will increase budget allowances by maybe up to 15 per cent to offset the cost-of-living spiral.

Last year, his department's budget — although actual expenditures by the year end are not yet available — was $1,485,000. (Belleville had the biggest allotment of the agencies' three participating municipalites — 624,700. The county's share $603,400 and Trenton's $254,500.) Net cost to the local governments, after senior government grants and other revenues, was $403,500 to the local governments.

Ponder Predictions, Trends, Before Budget

Winter Make-Work Programs Meant More than Just Money

Make-work programs to ease unemployment were more than a matter of money, believes the director of Hastings County's social services department.

They also were a personal psychological booster for many provided with jobs on the projects.

Senior governments no longer subsidize such programs, first introduced in 1970 across Canada to offset serious joblessness.

Not only municipalities reaped benefits in lessened welfare payments and increased public works, before the schemes finally ended, said Mr. Tucker.

"I think there's a psychological uplift that's missing," he said. "There are many in this county who'd much prefer to say the money they take home they've earned — rather than to sit at home and wait for the (social assistance) cheque to arrive.'

"Tnfortunately we don't have that to offer them now."

Local Five For Youth Orchestra

Five students from Hastings County have been chosen to participate in a youth orchestra and choir in London, Ont.

The Canadian Band Directors' Association has operated a youth band for four years at Fanshawe College, in London, but this is the first year local students have won auditions to play in the band. This year for the first time a choir, The Youth Singers of Ontario, has been organized and will perform with the band.

Those chosen for the choir are Jennifer Jaynes of Centennial Secondary School and Janet Loynes of Moira. Both are sopranos.

Chosen to play in the 80-piece band are Karen Clare of Centennial and Janice McKillican of North Hastings High School in Bancroft, who play clarinet and John Brillinger, also of North Hastings, who plays tuba.

The students leave for London Jan. 29, where they will rehearse for a concert Feb. 2. Orchestra will be conducted by Sir Vivian Dunn of London, Eng., and the choir by Deral Johnson and Gerald Fagan, also from England.

Reptiles Poor Image Wrong, Says Lecturer

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Bruce McBride thinks a lot of people are misinformed about such creatures as snakes, alligators and lizards.

And he's doing his best to clear things up. A former teacher, he goes into high school classrooms. During a guest lecture, he may bring out Fred, a four-foot alligator or What's Her-Name, his six-and-a-half foot boa constrictor.

McBride at BCI
Correcting an Image

Besides lecturing, he encourages students to touch and feel the creatures.

For Mr. McBride this is the only way he identifies with them. He has been blind for seven years.

The 32-year-old Toronto resident was in Belleville Friday, lecturing to biology classes at Belleville Collegiate.

It was his second trip to the school, and his third to Belleville.

The students were fascinated by Mr. McBride's lecture, especially his live exhibits — even to the point of not hesitating having a boa wrapped around the shoulders, like Grade 9 student Louise Power.

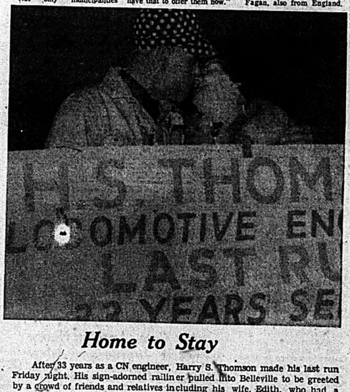
In his North York home he keeps 32 reptiles and eight amphibians.

He says his neighbors don't mind the strange menagerie he keeps.

Teaching young people comes easy as he was a teacher of Grade 9 and 10 biology and mathematics in Mitchell, near Stratford, Ont., for two years before he became blind in 1968.

He lectures in schools around the province and although he says he misses his teaching job, he enjoys his work which he says is hard to define. He says he attempts to introduce reptiles to the public and create a proper understanding of them.

"The ignorance of the public (of snakes and related creatures) is unbelievable. It's sad. In all the time I've had my reptiles and amphibians I've only had two who ever bit me."



Home to Stay

After 33 years as a CN engineer, Harry S. Thomson made his last run Friday night. His sign-adorned railiner pulled into Belleville to be greeted by a crowd of friends and relatives including his wife, Edith, who had a welcome-home kiss. Also Mrs. Jane Ming, Red Deer, Alta.; Mrs. Peggy Fedderson, Toronto and Jim Thomson, MacKenzie, B.C.

Los Angeles Road Show Sidelined

By DENNIS PASSA
The Canadian Press

Atlanta Flames have managed to derail—at least temporarily the Los Angeles Kings' road-show express of success.

The Kings, who have lost only three games on the road all season, ran into the hot goaltending of Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard and were shut out 5-0 in one of three National Hockey League games Friday.

The Kings had gone nine games in a row on the road without a loss, including a 4-1 decision Thursday night over Boston Bruins.

In the other league games, Buffalo Sabres downed Vancouver Canucks 4-2 and New York Rangers and California Seals tied 4-4.

Curt Bennett, Bobby Leiter and Tom Lysiak scored first-period goals in the Atlanta victory over Los Angeles.

Ray Comeau and Buster Harvey scored the other Atlanta goals as goalie Dan Bouchard earned his first shutout of the season, stopping 36 shots.

At Vancouver, the Sabres capitalized on defensive lapses by the Canucks to take a 3-0 lead early in the game.

Rick Dudley, Peter Mcab, Jim Lorentz and Danny Gare scored the Buffalo goals, while Garry Monahan and AB Demarco scored for Vancouver.

The Vancouver loss was its eighth in a row.

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith wasn't all that happy with the win.

"We did just enough to win,' Smith said. We did not play that great offensively," blaming the performance on late arrival and lack of practice time in Vancouver.

He said Buffalo missed injured Gil Perreault mostly on the power plays, and admitted the team was "digging a little more" with Perreault's absence.

The Sabres victory gave them 63 points in the Adams Division and an eight-point lead over second-place Boston. The loss left Vancouver in first place in the Smythe Division, but with only a five-point lead over second place Chicago Black Hawks.

California right-winger Al McAdam scored with less than six minutes remaining to gve the Seals their tie with the Rookie Dave Hrechkosy scored two goals for the Seals and Ron Huston had the other9

Jean Ratelle, Rod Gilbert, Pete Stemkowski and Steve Vickers scored the Ranger goals.

In games tonight, the Rangers are at Vancouver, Detroit plays New York Islanders, Atlanta travels to Philadelphia, Montreal hosts Toronto, Boston plays at Pittsburgh, Chicago is at Kansas City, and Minnesota travels to St. Louis.

Sudbury Wolves Devour Canadians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves had three goals from Ron Duguay to spark Sudbury Wolves to an 11-1 trouncing of Kingston Canadians in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A play Friday.

A home crowd of 2,500 watched Sudbury stretch its unbeaten streak to six games, including four consecutive wins and two ties.

The Wolves took period leads of 4-0 and 6-1 scored five unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes while outshooting the Canadians 60-30.

Bob Russell and Dave Farrish each scored twice for the winners. Reese Dobrick, John Walker, Paul Crowley and Rod Schutt added single goals. Mike Crombeen scored the Kingston goal in the second period.

The win put Sudbury in a tie for sixth place with St. Catharines Black Hawks and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. Kingston slipped to ninth spot.

In other league contests Friday, Toronto Marlboros and Oshawa Generals battled to a 4-4 tie, St. Catharines downed Kitchener Rangers 5-1, Hamilton Fincups edged Sault Ste. Marie 6-4 and London Knights downed Ottawa '67s 6-3.

Play resumes Sunday with Ottawa at Kitchener, Peterborough Petes at St. Catharines, Sudbury at Kingston, Sault Ste. Marie at London and Toronto at Oshawa.

Marlboros 4 Generals 4

John Anderson's second goal at 13:33 of the final period lifted Toronto to the tie and extended its unbeaten streak to 17 games.

Playing in Brantford before 1,655 fans, the teams were tied 1-1 after one period with the Marlboros taking a 3-2 lead into the final 20 minutes.

Mark Napier scored the other two goals for Toronto, to raise his season total to 49.

Brian Dillon, Greg Malone, Glen Kirkham and Tom Newton replied for Oshawa, outshot 45-31.

Hawks 5 Rangers 1

Kevin Kennery's two goals paced St. Catharines to the win before 3,031 spectators in Kitchener.

Doug Caines, Greg Craig, on a third-period penalty shot, and Ran Adduono scored the other goals for St. Catharines.

Dan Djakalovic scored the Kitchener goal in the first period.

Goaltender Bill Cheropita, playing his first game in more than two months after being suspended by coach Paul Emms after being charged with impaired driving, blocked 30 shots. Don Edwards handled 29 in the Kitchener net.

Fincups 6 Greyhounds 4

Hamilton scored four third-period goals after trailing 1-0 and 3-2 to hand Sault Ste. Marie their first loss in the last five starts.

Mike Keating scored twice for third-place Fincups while Ric Seiling, Archie King and Dale McCourt and Kam Brothers added singles before a home crowd of 1,459.

Cary Farelli, Ed Smith, Paul Woods and Romano Carlucci replied for the Greyhounds.

Knights 6 '67s 3

Ron Zanussi scored three goals in the final three minutes to clinch the win for London.

Ottawa trailed 2-0 and 4-0 but came within a goal in the third period with consecutive goals by Hal Pearson, Tim Higgins and Bruce Baker.

Zanusi's line-mate Terry Martin scored twice for London while Tom Rowe added a single.

Playing at home, the win was London's first in six contests with Ottawa this year.

Third Period Sinks Windsor Spitfires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers scored three unanswered goals in the second period en route to a 7-3 upset over first-place Windsor Spitfires Friday in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League play.

The teams were deadlocked 2-2 after the first period but Niagara Falls's second period scoring wrapped up the win.

Windsor's defeat and Welland Sabres 3-3 tie with Detroit Junior Wings left Welland and Windsor tied for first place.

Willie Plett scored twice for Niagara Falls. Single goals were by Murray Markle, Pete Aleo, Mark Dumesnil, Mark Melody and Gary Sobchak.

Mark Smith, with two goals, and John Tavella replied for the visitors.

In the other league game Friday, Chatham Maroons edged Guelph Biltmores 6-5.

Play resumes today with Chatham travelling to Detroit, On Sunday, Guelph visits Chatham and Niagara Falls is in Windsor.

Sabres 3 Wings 3

Wayne Forgere scored the tying goal for Welland early in the third period.

Welland led 2-1 after the first period but trailed 3-2 going into the final 20 minutes.

Ed Dobbs, Gary Gendrowski and Ken Morrow scored for Detroit, playing on home ice.

Norm Ethier and Kevin Strang scored the other goals for Welland, outshot 32-22.

Maroons 6 Biltmores 5

Doug Quinlan and Scott McKenzie each scored twice to lift Chatham into third spot in league standings.

It was the fourth consecutive win for the Maroons, who had been tied in fourth-spot with Guelph.

Steve Young and Doug Simpson scored the other Chatham goals.

Terry Gregory, Doug Bisson, Mitch Giroux, Jim Joy and Tim Holder replied for Guelph, playing at home.

Chatham outshot Guelph 49-32.

First All-star Sellout in WHA

EDMONTON (CP) — The first sellout in the three-year history of the World Hockey Association all-star game is guaranteed when East meets West here Tuesday night.

General Manager Bill Hunter of Edmonton Oilers said Thursday all 15,600 seats in the luxurious Edmonton Coliseum were gone by the weekend "but we delayed in announcing it because we wanted to make sure all out-of-town orders would be picked up."

Hunter considered the sellout a milestone in the development of the financially-troubled WHA, whose franchise in Michigan has been in limbo since last week as directors attempt to decide whether to liquidate the franchise, shift it to another centre or take it over until next year.

The first WHA all-star game, in Quebec City, drew only 5,500 fans — partly because it was televised locally. Last year, a crowd of 12,000 attended in St. Paul, Minn.

Hunter has announced that all members of Team Canada 74 will be honored Monday night at an all-star dinner. The WHA squad surprised most Canadians by dominating the early part of a series with Russia before losing three of four games with the Soviet national team in Moscow.

Serge Bernier of Quebec Nordiques and Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets, former National Hockey League stars who joined Team Canada this fall, were the only unanimous choices on the two teams.

Hull, who leads in scoring, will open at left wing for the Western squad and Bernier, in second place, will start at centre for the East.

Several injuries have forced changes in the lineups. Paul Shmyr of Cleveland Crusaders, who injured a shoulder, has been replaced on defence by Dale Hoganson of Quebec and Garry Veneruzzo of Michigan took over for team-mate Pierre Guite, who injured a knee.

On the western club, Doug Barrie of Edmonton was selected to replace team-mate Al Hamilton, who broke a knee-cap and will be out most of the season.

Named to the Eastern Division team were Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland, Al Smith of New England Whalers and Andy Brown of Indianapolis Racers in goal. On defence will be Jim Dorey of Toronto Toros, J. C. Tremblay and Hoganson of Quebec and Brad Selwood and Rick Ley of New England.

Forwards for the East include centres Wayne Dillon of Toronto and Ralph Backstrom of Chicago Cougars, left wingers Frank Mahovlich and Paul Henderson of Toronto and Veneruzzo and right wingers Tom Simpson of Toronto, Tom Webster of New England and Rejean Houle of Quebec.

Named by coach Ron Ryan of New England as supplementary choices were Larry Pleau of New England and Marc Tardif of Quebec.

In goal for the West will be Joe Daley of Winnipeg, Don McLeod of Vancouver Blazers and Wayne Rutledge of Houston Aeros. On defence will be Barrie and Barry Long of Edmonton, Lars Erik Sjoberg of Winnipeg, Paul Popiel and John Schella of Houston and Gerry Odrowski of Phoenix Roadrunners.

Listed for the West at centre are Larry Lund of Houston, Andre Lacroix of San Diego Mariners and Ulf Nilsson of Winnipeg. Joining Hull on left wing are Andre Hinse and Mark Howe of Houston, with Gordie Howe on the right side along with team-mate Frank Hughes and Mike Walton of Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Named as supplementary players were forwards Ted Taylor of Houston and Danny Lawson of Vancouver.

Nilsson and Sjoberg were standouts with the Swedish national team until they joined Winnipeg this season. They are the first European standouts to play in an all-star game in North America.

Ali Gets Another Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali received another honor Friday when he was named the 1974 performer of the year by the editors of Sport Magazine.

Ali was cited by the magazine for his regaining the heavyweight boxing championship by beating previously undefeated George Foreman in Zaire.

Hank Aaron of Atlanta Braves was presented with a special achievement award for surpassing Babe Ruth's long-standing career home run record in baseball.

Stars in other categories included Bernie Parent in hockey.

Ken Knapton Leads Barrie to Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two-goal performances by Phil Branston and Ken Knapton paced league-leading Barrie Flyers to a 6-3 win over last-place Cambridge Hornets in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Friday.

The win increased Barrie's first-place lead to 16 points over Brantford Foresters.

In the other game Friday, Orillia Terriers downed Napanee Comets 3-1 to move into a third-place tie with Whitby McDonald s.

At Barrie, Paul Regan and Corby Adams scored the other goals for Barrie.

Steve Ringler had two goals for the Hornets with Dennis Kraemer getting the other.

Barrie outshot Cambridge 37-30 before 438 spectators.

At Orillia, two goals by Barry Lutes proved to be the winning and insurance goals.

Napanee's Willy Wing scored the first goal of the game while Bob Kane tied the game 1-1 later in the first period. Lutes scored in the second and in the dying minutes of the third period.

Orillia outshot Napanee 33-23.

League play resumes tonight with Orillia at Cambridge and on Sunday Barrie visits Napanee.

Forbes Indictment Raises Eyebrows

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A county grand jury indictment of Boston Bruins left winger Dave Forbes already has stirred up a volatile reaction.

"We'd like to see our own problems kept within the confines of the National Hockey League and I think baseball, football and the other sports would feel the same way," Minnesota general manager Jack Gordon said Friday night.

"I see linemen whacking at each other all the time (in football) and pitchers throwing pitches where they shouldn't be in baseball. Will it have to go to court every time?"

Forbes, 26, was arraigned Friday in Hennepin District Court on a charge of aggravated assault for a sticking attack on Henry Boucha of Minnesota North Stars during a game at Bloomington, Minn. Jan. 4.

The assault charge, a felony, carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. County Attorney Gary Flakne said a conviction would carry a mandatory minimum of three years in prison under Minnesota law.

"I agree that hockey is a contact sport, but there seems to be a line, which the grand jury found and I agree with, beyond which something other than good-natured hard contact becomes assault."

Flakne also said NHL president Clarence Campbell agreed with him that civil authorities are pre-eminent in such cases.

However, the intervention by civil authorities is likely to draw heated opposition from players, coaches and owners.

"I don't think the court should intervene," said North Stars captain Bill Goldsworthy.

"This is why we have a president who gets paid a good dollar and he should be capable of handling the situation."

Goldsworthy, who saw the the sticking attack an unfortunate occurrence "in the heat of battle."

Campbell suspended Forbes for 10 games without pay while Boucha is out for an indefinite period to allow the injured area around his right eye to heal from stitches and surgery.

"That's what I don't understand," said Goldsworthy.

"We're going to lose Henry (Boucha) for a lot more than ten games and this is going to make it tough on us."

Boucha required 30 stitches to close the wounds suffered when he was struck in the eye with the butt end of Forbes stick. A week after the fight, Boucha underwent surgery to repair a tiny fracture in the bone below the eye and correct a double-vision problem which still bothers him.

Meanwhile, Forbes obtained a Minneapolis lawyer, Ronald Meshbesher, to represent him in the case as his present lawyer, Joseph Keough of Pantucket, R.I., is not licensed to practice law in Minnesota.

New Surroundings Make Whalers Hot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For New England Whalers, it's not who they play, but where.

Two weeks ago, the World Hockey Association team moved from an arena at West Springfield, Mass., to its new home at the Hartford Civic Centre in Hartford, Conn.

The Whalers have yet to suffer a loss in their new surroundings, winning three games in three tries, including a 2-1 decision Friday night over Toronto Toros in one of two league games.

In the other game, Edmonton Oilers downed Phoenix Roadrunners 7-1.

Centre Tom Webster's 21st goal of the season with 1:12 left in the game gave the Whalers the edge over Toronto. It was the eighth game in a row that Webster has scored.

The Toros had tied the game on Paul Henderson's 21st goal of the season midway through the final period after Mike Byers had given New England a 1-0 lead late in the second.

New England goalie Al Smith kicked out 30 Toronto shots while Toronto goalie Gilles Gratton had 23 saves.

At Phoenix, the Oilers piled up a 6-0 lead before Phoenix scored in the third period.

Ken Baird scored two goals for Edmonton, and Ed Joyal, Mike Rogers, Bob Sheehan, Bruce MacGregor and Blair MacDonald scored single goals.

Jim Boyd scored the Phoenix goal.

Edmonton goalie Jacques Plante shut out the Roadrunners for two periods, then left the game with a pulled hamstring muscle. Ken Brown finished in goal for Edmonton.

In off-ice action, the Roadrunners announced Friday night that they had traded veteran right-winger Howie Young to Winnipeg Jets for future considerations.

Young broke into professional hockey in 1958 and had been used sparingly this year by the Roadrunners.

Last season, when the team was in the Western Hockey League, Young scored a career-high 37 goals.

Hynes Scores Five To Lead Americans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Hynes, a 23-year-old left winger, scored five goals, one short of a league record, Friday night as Rochester Americans crushed New Haven Nighthawks 13-1 in American Hockey League play.

The victory margin was the biggest by a Rochester team in the 19-year history of the franchise and moved it to within two points of second-place Nova Scotia Voyageurs in the Northern Division.

The Voyageurs suffered a 4-1 setback at the hands of Providence Reds, who stretched their division-leading margin to seven points over Nova Scotia.

In other games, Hershey Bears edged Baltimore Clippers 5-4, Springfield Kings beat Richmond Robins 6-4 and Syracuse Eagles and Virginia Red Wings played to a 4-4 tie.

At Rochester, the Americans outshot the visiting Nighthawks 53-32 while extending their home ice unbeaten streak to nine games.

Ron Garwasuik and Doug Gibson each contributed two goals and Larry McKillop, Barry Merrill, Rick Pagnutti and Steve Stirling had the others as Rochester built a 13-0 lead.

Tom Colley spoiled Rochester goalie Bob Sneddon's hopes for a shutout at 5:58 of the third period.

At Providence, rookie Jerry Holland's 29th goal of the season sparked the Reds victory.

Holland's goal was his 10th game winner of the year. The Reds, 15-1-4 on home ice, also got goals from Pierre Laganiere, Boyd Anderson and Glen Burdon.

Greg Hubick scored for Nova Scotia just past the midway point in the first period.

Jack Surbey's second goal of the game at 6:53 of the third period gave Hershey the victory in Baltimore, bringing the Bears within a point of the third-place Clippers.

Harvey Bennett also had two goals for Hershey and Jacques Cossette had the other.

Jerry Kemp, Bob Rivard, Reg Bechtold and Hugh Harvey scored for Baltimore.

At Springfield, Mass., a third-period rally by Richmond wasn't enough to catch the hometown Kings, who scored four goals in the second period for a 4-0 lead.

Bob Sirois scored two goals and Andre Peloffy, Larry Fullan, Tom Cassidy and Paul Shakes had the others for Springfield.

Pete Haraysm, with two, and Dennis Abgrall and Bobby Poffenroth, with one apiece, scored for the losers.

At Norfolk, Va., Syracuse rallied from a three-goal deficit for the victory over Virginia.

Al Rycroft scored twice and Dick Sarrazin and Luc Simard had the others for Syracuse while Dennis Johnson had two goals for the Wings and Jim Nahrgang and Bob Krieger contributed one each.

National Minor Hockey Week Motto Applicable

Remember when you used to sit in the dressing room of the Memorial Arena skating up your laces and listening to the coach tell you how good your team was and that you could beat anybody in the league. And how you used to skate out on the ice and make a special point of scanning the seats while you were making a few turns before the game just so you could see exactly where your Dad or your Mom was sitting.

As soon as you saw them you somehow had the extra energy on those early Saturday mornings to dig in and skate faster than anybody else on the ice - or so you thought.

Back in those days the old saying used to be "Bring your son to the rink, don't take him." That was the motto for years for National Minor Hockey Week.

Recently things have changed. More parents are going to the arenas to watch their young Orrs and Hulls under game conditions, but now the kids are getting a few bum ideas about how the game should be played. And Mom and Dad aren't helping a bit.

It's nice to give encouragement, but it's a different story when you push. The kids need a little backing, but the right kind.

That's why the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has changed its motto for National Minor Hockey Week to January 18 - 25, to "Help make it fun, for them.'

Too many youngsters aren't informed that minor organizations, that is hockey at the local level such as the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, are available to them for one reason. To have FUN.

More often than not the children at the minor level are led to believe that they must play to win, win, win by their coach, while Mom and Dad are yelling be the best, best, best.

If a kid is that serious about the game let him go out and play all-star. Otherwise leave him alone to build his own skills at his own pace and have some FUN at the same time,

That's why the CAHA is saying "Help make it fun, for them."

SLICES — It seems there were quite a few changes and a lot of progress made at the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's meeting a couple of weeks ago. The organization got a firm foot planted on the ground through the near six hour debate.

As a result another meeting has been called for Tuesday. It is for "the express purpose of amending the constitution regarding the date of the annual meeting,' says Publicity Director, Ev Bryant. This is a general meeting so everyone is welcome. It is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street.

Back on December 20 we ran a little slice rooting the women's rinks from the Quinte Curling Club which were to compete in the upcoming District playoffs.

So far Betty Kelsey's rink has completed her Provincial district playdown in Napanee. That took place from the 6 - 8 of January. Wednesday, Hazel McNevin's rink finished playing off in the Em Wooley Seniors district competition in Brighton.

To date we have not heard a word on how these two have done. The woman who was looking after the publicity moved away and we don't have another contact. And no one has bothered to reveal one.

Don't worry though. The Tankard competition hasn't passed yet and there are two rinks in that one. Ann Acton and Lorna Bennett are skipping those two.

We don't mind a lack of communication gang, but the next time you figure you got "shafted' by the paper, make sure you've cleaned off your own doorstep.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE POWER PLAY

The power play should be a major weapon for all teams. Look around and you'll notice that teams, even in your league, are near the top of the standings because of a dangerous power play unit.

Unfortunately, coaches don't spend enough time instructing their youngsters on how to a) improve the power play and b) defend against the power play.

It's easier to operate a power play which centres on a player like Phil Esposito. Philadelphia Flyers have Bobby Clarke and Rick MacLeish. Montreal Canadiens have Yvan Cournoyer, Guy Lafleur and Pete Mahovlich. These players are examples of men who can help break the defensive box formation by working their way into the clear.

Esposito is the key to our power play. The idea behind the power play is to first gain possession of the puck and penetrate the defensive zone, as we're doing in the accompanying picture.

From there, the situation is four men against five and technically the offensive team is supposed to take advantage of this situation.

Of course, while a big player like Esposito is great to have, the power play has to be equipped with wingers who can dig for the puck and score if and when their chances arise.

Finally, one can't overlook the importance of the point men who must be good shooters and playmakers.

An excellent way of improving the power play can be done by getting five specialists (two wingers, a centre and two point men) and set into a zone just by passing the puck around. Later, get your team's penalty killers to work against you.

The drill isn't hard and it's something which can be easily done without supervision from a coach.

Watt Gets Hat Trick As Cats Battle Back

While things were looking pretty dim for the Bobcats Veteran Line — Jim Richardson, Grant Goegan and Rob Foster — by the end of Friday night's Metro Junior B contest, there couldn't have been anything brighter for the Cats third line — Steve Keech, Mike Watt and Andy Ricketts.

The third line produced two of the Cats four goals in their 4-4 tie with Kingston Voyageurs at the Memorial Arena and Mike Watt came up with his first hat trick of the season. To his three goals he also added an assist.

Bob Boyle, Belleville coach, was pleased that his club could manage the draw. "Any time you come from behind and tie a team like Kingston you're doing well," he said.

However, Boyle did have a few bones to pick about the game. "The refereeing was terrible and I'm getting sick and tired of it," he said. "Every game we seem to get more penalty minutes than the team we play.

"For some reason if there's a five or ten minute penalty to be handed out, we get it," he added.

Boyle was referring to a five minute major that referee Orval Gravelle assessed to Bobcat defenceman Dave Taylor, in the third period. It was a discretion call and Gravelle felt he was more than justified.

"He threw everything he had at that Kingston player," said Gravelle, "and I felt he deserved five for it."

Taylor was charged with boarding. The player he "threw everything" at chuckled about the whole incident after the game. "He hit more of the boards than anything else," said Kingston forward Roman Hrabowych, "everybody just told me to lay on the ice so I did. It was kind of hard to keep still though, because I was laughing so hard."

For that Taylor was assessed five minutes and during the time he was off Kingston scored their fourth goal.

On top of the refereeing Boyle was displeased with the performance of his Veteran Line. For most of the third period, Richardson and Goegan sat on the bench while Foster centred Wayne Calberry and Paul King.

MIKE WATT

"If they're not going to put an effort into it, they'll have to sit on the bench," said the Bobcat coach.

Something Boyle was pleased about, however, was the offensive display put forth by his third line. Especially the efforts of Watt.

"Watt is starting to get back into shape," said Boyle, "and it's starting to show."

The Cats winger had little to say about his three goal performance other than he felt he was definitely getting back into condition.

Belleville fell behind 3-0 early in the first period. By 8:55 Kingston's Tim Torrance, Brian Langille and Hrabowych had all put pucks past local goalie, Bob Moore.

"Bobby can't be faulted, on those goals," said Boyle. "He played a good game, but he didn't have any defence in front of him in the first period."

Scott Samis put the Cats on the scoreboard at 17:29 of the first. Watt drew one assist and Taylor got the other.

The Bobcats came right back at the beginning of the second period when Watt scored from Ricketts and Rick Langstaff. After that the two clubs battled through a scoreless, tight-checking, middle 20 minutes.

In the third Kingston went ahead 4-2 on Bruce Jennings marker. Belleville came back with an unassisted, shorthanded goal by Watt. The hustling forechecker, known as one of the more astute poke-checkers in the league, put his talents to work and stole the puck at his own blueline. He then went in on Kingston netminder Joe Myke, and abley sucked him out of his jock strap. That put the Cats back in the game.

At 15 56 the third line combined to do it again. This time on a power play. Ricketts fed the puck across the Kingston blueline to Keech. The stalky centre drew both defencemen towards him and flipped the puck over to the right wing to Watt. He made no mistake on this one, beating Myke for the third time in the game and evening the score at 4-4.

Belleville took nine of the game's 15 penalties — all minors except Taylor's. They outshot Kingston 42-41.

About 1,200 fans were on hand for this game and more are expected to turn out for the Markham game Sunday at 8 p.m. A win Sunday would give the Cats two points on Kingston in their battle for third place. Both clubs currently have 31 points in the Metro Junior B standings.

A special Winter Games Torch ceremony will take place prior to Sunday nights game and Metro action will return to the Memorial Arena Wednesday night with the league's annual all-star game.

Outreach Sport Nights Scheduled for Schools

Once again the YMCA has scheduled a series of sports and recreation programs known as the YMCA Outreach Sports Nights.

The program is for boys and girls 12-16 years-of-age and activities range from checkers to a makeshift kind of basketball.

Each night of the week the Y-group carries the program into a school from 7-9. Mondays is for junior boys, 12-16, at Hillcrest Community Public School and Tuesday is for boys over 16 at Hillcrest. Wednesday night the program is scheduled for junior boys and girls (12-16) at Quinte Secondary School. Thursday night the program returns to Hillcrest Public School for the use of junior girls. Also Thursday night it is at Nicholson Catholic College. On Fridays it locates itself at Prince Charles Public School for Teen Nights. This particular night is for boys and girls 12-16.

On Saturdays Outreach members may swim, free of charge, at the YMCA pool from 2.30-3.30 p.m. (No cutoffs and bathing caps are required.

To join the program simply visit one of the schools on a scheduled night of activity and register. The program is a public service and is absolutely free.

Snowmobile-a-thon Planned

ATHOL — The Athol Recreation Committee will sponsor a snowmobile-a-thon Sunday, February 2 over a 40-mile route with cash prizes offered for the highest totals of pledges.

Entrants are eligible to win $50, $30, and $20, in addition to other awards.

Entry forms for the outing are available from Clifford Fennell, Leland Ostrander, David Leavitt and Stan Hicks.

In th event of unfavorable weather conditions the snowmobile-a-thon will be postponed one week.

Big Blue Beats Lancers

KINGSTON (Special) — In Ontario College Athletics Association hockey action Friday night St. Lawrence College Big Blue of Kingston downed the visiting Loyalist Lancers 5-1.

In the words of Lancers' new coach Paul Zakos: "We weren't hungry enough.'

Kingston was hungry, despite being outshot by the Lancers 27-22 and taking 13 of the game's 22 penalties, still managed the impressive win.

Tim Muchmore counted a pair of goals for the winners with Rick Desilets, Roy Campsall and Rick Gray each adding singles.

John Follett knotched the only Loyalist goalf from Bernie Gannon and Paul Wartman.

The Lancer's next game will be Saturday, January 25, when they travel to Cornwall.

Get Out of Here

Kingston forward Gord Botting gets a rather rude welcome in Friday night's Metro Junior B contest at the Memorial Arena. Botting didn't spend too much time in front of the local's goal after he tried to on this occasion. First he was knocked by Bobcat defenceman, Rick Langstaff, into goalie Bob Moore's crease, and then he was sent flying to the ice by Moore. Belleville came from behind Friday night to earn a 4-4 tie with the Voyageurs.

The Frankford Huskies of the Ontario Hockey the Ontario C Hockey came up with their eighth straight victory Friday night, downng Port Perry 5-3.

Al McIntosh's second goal, with 56 seconds remaining in the game earned the Huskies the win.

The victory proved to be a costly one for the Frankford team, as they lost their leading scorer, Peter Crawford with a knee injury and he is expected to be out for the remainder of the season.

The Huskies were hot off a 6-5 win Thursday night over Port Hope.

Scott Poupart put the game out of reach, scoring the last Frankford goals with 50 seconds remaining. Ken Jackett and Gary Payne were the other marksmen for the winners.

Robin Kydd, Carlo Camazzoal and Andy Litt were the Port Perry scorers.

Lancers Win Second Straight

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

The Loyalist Lancer's basketball squad appear to have come up with a winning combination taking their second victory in as many games with a 77-60 win over Sir Sandford Fleming Knights at Loyalist Friday night.

The victory, the third of the season for the Lancers now moves them into the fourth and final playoff berth, two points ahead of Peterborough, and four ahead of Sir Sandford of Lindsay.

Lancer coach Bob Stinson, before the game felt the contest would be a "tough one", especially without the services of high scoring centre Peter Scott.

The Lancers were forced to play catch-up ball throughout the first half, twice having to come back from deficits of 10 points or more.

"We just weren't rebounding in the first half and we missed some easy lay-ups and that hurt us,' explained Stinson after the game.

Lanky forward, 6'1" Jim Sutton, came up with a superb effort for the winners throughout the game, shooting with extreme accuracy and quickly moving into the defensive position. Sutton counted 21 points for the Lancers, the highest on the team.

One thing that was highly unusual and quite uncommon in the game of basketball was the amount of deliberate body contact displayed by the visitors, which several times drew retaliation from the home squad.

The Loyalist team had managed a slim 34-33 half time lead after a great comeback effort led by Sutton and centre Dave Culmer, who had 14 points, 10 of those coming in the opening period.

The Lancers exploded in the second half, really putting it together, scoring 15 points before the Knights could manage a basket.

"Their shooting was unreal in the first half. Let's face it, it was bound to even out,' commented Sinson.

Even out it did, as Sir Sanford was unable to connect with their shooting for the first 10 minutes of the final half.

The Lancers, meanwhile had settled down and started to play the game they were capable of, literally clearing off the board in the rebounding department.

Loyalist had managed to compile a 56-38 lead before the mid-way mark of the final 20 minutes and just coasted from there on in.

The Knights lost two players in the last half, forward Steve Dinsdale and Randy Harris, due to fouls. Dinsdale had taken his maximum number of fouls and Harris was ejected from the game by the referee for deliberately charging into a Loyalist player and knocking him to the floor.

Bill Kyle, the second highest scorer for the Lancers, dropped 18 points into the visitors net, 14 of those in the final half as he took over the scoring duties keeping the Lancers out in front.

Don MacPherson led the losers with 24 points on shots, most from outside the key, proving to be deadly from a distance.

Loyalist will travel to Kingston on Thursday, January 23, in an important contest.

Lancer Gunner

Loyalist's Jim Sutton (3) goes up for two of his 21 points on this lay up. Sir Sanford Fleming defender, Lorne Wood, was unable to contain the nigh scoring forward as Sutton led the Lancers to a 77-60 win over S.S.F. College of Lindsay.

Over the Top

Lancers' John Smith gets two points the hard way on this attempt — from behind the net. Steve Dinsdale reaches in vain to try and prevent the basket but it's too late and two for Smith. Smith only scored four points but turned in a strong performance to help the Lancers to a 77-60 win over Sir Sanford Fleming College of Lindsay.

Look Out Miller-John Mahaffey

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — John Mahaffey considered his position one shot back of Johnny Miller, grinned and announced: "Look out, Johnny Miller, here I come."

Mahaffey, a $100,000 winner each of the last two seasons, actually had a share of Friday's second-round lead in the $200,000 Tucson Open until Miller stroked in a 15-birdie putt on the final hole.

It finished off a 69 for Miller and gave him a 36-hole total of 135, nine-under-par on the 7,200-yard Tucson National golf club course.

Mahaffey also had a 69 and remained just one shot off the pace at 136.

Tommy Aaron, a former Masters champion and place finisher last week in Phoenix, Mark Hayes and Joe Inman were two strokes back of the front-running Miller at 137. Aaron and Inman had 66, the best rounds of the mild, sunny day, and Hayes took a 67.

Lee Trevino, weakened by the flu, struggled to a 75 and 143.

U.S. Open title-holder Hale Irwin failed to qualify for the final two rounds with a 147 total. Tom Weiskopf was another casualty, shooting 41 on his last nine for 78 and 148.

Arnold Palmer, making his first start of the season, holed a monster putt of about 50 feet for an eagle three on the 15th hole but bogeyed the last for a 71 and 143.

Ben Kern of London, Ont., was the only Canadian to make the cut of 146. He had a 69 Friday after a first-round score of 74.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg finished at 148 (74-74). George Knudson of Toronto had rounds of 75 and 77 for a total of 152, and Danny Halldorson of Brandon, Man., making his first appearance on the PGA tour, blew to an 82 Friday after a first-round score of 73.

Miller has won his last three starts by margins of eight, seven and 14 strokes. He shot a 260 at Phoenix, the lowest 72-hole total in 20 years of tournament competition. He's led every round he's played this year.

In fact, the 69 is his high score for the year.

"Really a mediocre round,' be said. "I don't mean to imply that it's a bad score. It's not. It's just that I'm driving the ball so good I have an opportunity to shoot a really low round every time. Today I didn't take advantage of it.

WFL Will Be Back For Another Try in '75

HONOLTLU (AP) — The World Football League plans to complete its reorganization in March and open the season in July with at least eight teams, league president Chris Hemmeter said Friday.

Negotiations are underway with potential investors in 15 cities, Hemmeter said at a news conference.

Those cties are Honolulu, Los Angeles, Portland, Ore., Shreveport, La., Birmingham, Ala., Philadelphia, Syracuse, N.Y., Louisville, Ky., San Antonio, Tex., New York City, Jacksonville, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., and Chicago.

Hemmeter did not indicate which eight cities are the most likely candidates, but said the 1975 line-up will be announced in mid-March.

"We assume that the cities that will not be part of the 1975 program will be included in the 1976 season," he said.

"Most people around the country probably thought that it was impossible to reorganize this league, but we are confident it will be done," he said.

Hemmeter has been meeting here this week with league officials and potential investors.

The July opening date is subject to change, he said.

The first phase of the WFL reorganization, which includes the introduction of the reorganization plans to investors n major markets, has been successful, Hemmeter sad.

Phase two involves working with investors to document proceedings and to escrow funds. The league president said he hopes to announce the completion of this phase Feb. 15 in New York.

Hemmeter plans to complete phase three, the final legal documentation of the plan, by mid-March.

He said that league coaches will meet Wednesday in Birmingham to discuss the reorganization and to review rosters.

Pete Maravich Plays Fine New Orleans Tune

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The vagabond New Orleans Jazz have found a home of sorts and Pistol Pete Maravich is filling it with some sweet sounds.

Maravich did it all Friday night, scoring 42 points, dealing out 17 assists, grabbing 10 assists and picking off four steals in leading the Jazz to a 113-109 triumph over Seattle Super-Sonics.

It was the second consecutive victory for the Jazz, who are only 5-34 for the season.

Both victories came at Loyola University's gymnasium, which the Jazz is using as a home court after the Municipal Auditorium in New Orleans became unavailable due to Mardi Gras preparations.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston Celtics beat Detroit Pistons 96-90, Buffalo Braves defeated Golden State Warriors 121-116, Washington Bullets tripped Philadelphia '76ers 106-92, Portland Trail Blazers topped Houston Rockets 127-106, Phoenix Suns beat Chicago Bulls 115-105 and Kansas City-Omaha Kings downed New York Knicks 107-90.

In the American Basketball Association, Memphis downed Virginia 92-79, New York defeated Kentucky 108-93, San Antonio topped St. Louis 139-120, and Indiana edged San Diego 108-107.

Cook, Cranston Selected

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sports Federation of Canada has named a swimmer and a figure skater Canada's outstanding female and male athletes of 1974.

Wendy Cook of Vancouver, who established a world record for the 100-metre backstroke during the 1974 Commonwealth Games in New Zealand, was awarded the Velma Springsted Trophy Friday as top female athlete.

Toller Cranston of Toronto, third-place finisher in men's singles at the 1974 world figure skating championships in Munich, Germany, received the Norton Crowe Trophy as top male athlete.

Swimmer Stephen Pickell of West Vancouver won the Viscount Alexander Trophy as top junior male athlete. Archery's Lucille Lessard of Quebec won the Elaine Tanner Trophy as top junior female athlete.

The Tom Longboat Trophy for Canada's top Indian athlete was won by Wilton Littlechild of Edmonton.

Burke Disgusted

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Burke, owner of Sudbury Wolves of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series, says he has nothing but disgust for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's "inability to stand on its own feet."

He also believes that if "the OHA had any guts" it would follow the move of the Western Canada Hockey League and pull out of the CAHA.

Burke agrees with the WCHL's major complaint with the CAHA. The national body, acting as a collection agency for major junior clubs, has yet to receive $640,000 from the National Hockey League and World Hockey Association as payment for players who have turned professional.

The Wolves say Washington Capitals of the NHL owe them $40,000 for Mike Marson, taken as an exceptional underage junior in last year's amateur draft.

"All the executives in the CAHA and OHA don't have a dime invested in junior hockey but they insist on calling the shots," Burke said in a telephone interview from Sudbury. "The OHA is an absolute farce the way it's being run."

However, Frank Bonello, general manager of Toronto Marlboros, is happy with the CAHA.

"I don't think I'm interested in venturing out on my own. I think we have a stronger feeling towards the CAHA than the westerners do. We don't quarrel often. In fact, I think we've got the feeling of running our own show already. We've even got our own commissioner."

Cliff Phillips, president of the OHA, says:

"We're not as professional oriented as the WCHL so I can't see the same thing happening to us. I don't think we should blame the CAHA for the slowdown in payment for amateur players.

"The alternative is to take the NHL and WHA to court, and that puts you in an awkward position. It could take as long to settle things through the courts as it does waiting on payment through the CAHA."

National League Opens April 7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National League's traditional opening game in Cincinnati is scheduled for April 7 with the Reds against defending champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

The two baseball teams, which battled to the final week of the 1974 season before the Western Division race was settled, will meet seven times in the first 11 days of this season, the league announced Saturday in releasing its 972-game schedule.

They will play a three-game series in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium to open the season. The Dodgers will open their home schedule with a four-game series April 14-17 against the Reds.

Both teams drew more than two million fans at home last season, helping the league approach the 500-million attendance mark for the century. Since 1901, when attendance records were first kept, the league has drawn 489,484,581 fans.

The Dodgers-Reds opener will be a day game. That night, Atlanta will play at Houston, while Montreal will play at St. Louis.

Tuesday, April 8, Pittsburgh will be at Chicago, San Francisco at San Diego and Philadelphia at New York in other openers.

The final regular-season games are scheduled Sept. 28. There will be the usual brief break for the all-star game, July 15 in Milwaukee.

Verdun to Defend Wrigley Title

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Verdun Leafs are back to defend their laurels in the Wm. Wrigley midget hockey tournament starting Monday at the Civic Centre arena.

The Leafs, playing in Division II, who won the inaugural Canadian midget championship here last year, begin their hunt for another one at 5 p.m. against Edmonton Canadians representing Alberta.

Thirteen teams are in the running for the title, one more than in 1974, with first prize being a trip for the team to play a series of exhibition games in the Soviet Union.

Six games are scheduled each day in the round-robin event which concludes Saturday. The two top teams in each of the two divisions meet Sunday in the grand championship. The two second place teams will determine the bronze medallist in a consolation game preceding the final.

The Quebec representatives from Verdun had no easy time a year ago before turning back Kingston, Ont., 5-3 to win the gold medal.

Adding to the usual pressures producing winning hockey during the week-long tournament is the realization by most of the 15-and 16-year-olds that countless numbers of scouts from professional teams are watching their performance.

Making up Division I are Sydney (N.S.) Legionaires, Quesnel (B.C.) Midget Macks; Corner Brook (Nfld.) Knights, Barrie (Cent.) Co-op Yorkton (Sask.), Parkland, Thunder Bay (Ont.) Miners and the host Oshawa Parkway.

With Verdun in Division II are Fort Garry-Fort Rouge Twins from Manitoba, Charlottetown Golden Eagles representing the Maritime association, Dalhousie (N.B.) Legionaires, South Ottawa Canadians and Edmonton.

Move Pontiac Cup

TORONTO (CP) — The eastern portion of the Pontiac Cup ski race scheduled to open next Thursday at Mount Orford, Que., has been rescheduled for March 6-7 due to lack of snow. Officials said Friday that warm weather earlier this month forced race organizers to postpone the event.

IN MEMORIAM

THORN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Charles Edward who passed away seven years ago today.

A widow's life is a lonely one,
And sometimes hard to bear,
But someday at the end of the road,
We will meet our loved one there.
We used to watch and wait for you,
And worry if you were late,
But now in peace you wait for us,
By Heaven's open gate.

—Remembered by wife Marjorie, son Douglas and daughter Janet.

THORN — In fond and loving memory of the dearest father and grandfather Charles Edward who passed away seven years ago today.

Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond and loving memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Always loved and thought of deeply by daughter Virginia (Jennie), son-in-law Everett and grandson Everett Jr. All our love Dad.

THORN — In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather and father-in-law, Charles Thorn who passed away Jan. 18th, 1968.

Seven years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took him home, — it was His will,
Within our heart he liveth still.

—Daughter Sharon, son-in-law Bob, and grandchildren Angel, Robert and Stewart.

THORN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Charles Edward who passed away Jan. 18th, 1968.

As long as life my heart shall hold,
Thy memory ever dear,
And o'er thy grave in loving grief,
Shall fall a silent tear.

—Ever remembered by daughter Sheila, son-in-law Mike and grandson Mike Jr., granddaughter Tracey Lynn and Billy Arsenault.

LESLIE — In loving memory of our dear grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Leslie who passed away Jan. 19, 1972.

Sunshine fades and shadows fall,
But sweet remembrance outlasts all.

—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Alex and Timothy Leslie, Leslie, Fern, Theodore and Beverley Haight; John, Joan, Sherrie and Michele Anderson.

LESLIE — In memory of our parents Thos. H. Leslie who passed away January 1st, 1951 and Elizabeth J. Leslie who passed away January 19, 1972.

—Fondly remembered, their family.

RASMUSSEN — In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away Jan. 18th, 1973.

Two sad and lonely years have passed,
Since our great sorrow fell,
The grief we received that night,
No one will never know,
You hadn't time to bid farewell,
Or even say goodbye,
You were gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.

—Always remembered and sadly missed by Mum and Dad and sisters Elaine and Shirley.

RASMUSSEN — In loving memory of Allan Norman Rasmussen who passed away Jan. 18, 1973.

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near me,
Though you died two years ago.

—Sadly missed by Wannietta.

SMITH, Lloyd Dawson — who passed away January 18, 1974, 28 years.

Looking back with memories,
Upon the path you trod,
We bless the years we had with you,
And leave the rest to God.

—Lovingly remembered by Mum (Mrs. Helen Smith) and sister Mrs. Gail Lohnes.

HURST — In loving memory of my dear sister Agnes Hurst who passed away January 19, 1960.

You are not forgotten sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.

—Lovingly remembered by sister Theresa and brother-in-law Al.

HOW WILL YOU TELL YOUR FAMILY "I'VE BEEN LAID OFF"? HOW WILL YOU KEEP AHEAD OF INFLATION IN 1975?

Before more jobs disappear, shouldn't you at least investigate how you can start in your spare time as a representative of the Ontario Automobile Association. You'll earn extra money and be prepared for a fulltime career that is not dependent upon bosses, strikes, layoffs, recession or inflation. We have two full-time positions open in this area now! Salary, plus commission plus bonus if you qualify. Training provided. Car required. Apply now giving your phone number. Write Mr. Biedell, Ontario Automobile Association, Box 307, London, Ontario. Your Horoscope

Sunday, January 19

Aries (March 21-April 19) The best of your leadership qualities are very pronounced now. Those with whom you come in contact will be aware of this.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Innately you will know what to do and say today. You will do this without appearing to be selfish or demancing.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You will be picking up a good idea to file away fop future use. It will come in two parts from two sources.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Take a more commanding role in a situation where you share a vested interest. It needs momentum you can generate.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You will be receiving news from a distance. It will please you considerably. It will be from one with whom you had close ties.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are much sharper in business today than you were yesterday. Set to right mistakes you may have made then.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Cupid has his eye on you. He'll make sure that everything goes smoothly in the romance department for you and yours today.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Utilize at least part of today by doing something productive that's more fun than work. Just be sure it's creative.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your bright, cheerful personality will be a welcome addition to any gathering. You are the spark that will get things humming.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be fortunate today in some material manner in any dealings you have where members of your family or relatives are involved.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will be surprised if you really try, how easy it wil be for you to sway others to your way of thinking. Use the old soft sell.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Your material prospects look very promising at this point. Be alert for something going on behind the scenes that will mean financial gain for you.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Monday, Jan. 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful or you'll pay more than is reasonable for what you want at present in order to satisfy your aims.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're likely to make too many last minute-changes in your plans to be effective. Stick with well-thought-out ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It makes you a more worthy person to help others, but draw the line with one who takes advantage of your good nature.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) A pal who is a pretty good salesman may talk you into something where risks are greater than returns. Be careful.

LEO (uly 23-Aug. 22) Be extra-mindful the next few days of conditions that have a direct effect upon your work or career. Face responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't go out on a limb now by making changes just for the sake of change. Continue to follow proven procedures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't involve yourself at present in situations that put an additional strain on your resources. Be prudent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure your mate or partner has a hand in making decisions affecting you jointly. Not a good day to spring surprises.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Give your full and complete attention to anything that you work on today. A mistake could prove costly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Socially, if you find yourself in the company of one who is rude or outlandish today, excuse yourself. Exit quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In eagerness to wrap things up, you'll be willing to settle for second-best instead of allowing matters to develop properly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let others do your thinking for you today, if you feel their ideas don't serve to your best advantage.

Should Raise Status

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Services available to transient men in Alberta should be incorporated into the social assistance program instead of having third-class status, says the department of health and social development administrator for Lethbridge. Bob Rechner said officials should be thinking of alternatives and focusing more attention on the handling of single transient men. "We have matured in our other areas of social assistance, but services to transient men still reflect somewhat negative social attitudes."

Caraway

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway became the first woman elected to Congress from Arkansas on Nov. 9, 1932.

Opening lead — K♣

In yesterday's article Dr. John Fisher needed two quick trump entries to dummy to bring home his slam.

He could get the second entry by leading a trump toward dummy, going up with the queen and dropping a singleton jack. Or he could finesse dummy's nine and play West for holding jack-small. He made the latter play and it worked. It wasn't a sure thing, but it was the best play from the mathematical standpoint.

The reason lies in something called the principle of restricted choice.

When the low diamond was led, West followed with the four spot. That left the five and jack unaccounted for and at first glance you would say that it was even money to which defender held the jack.

It wasn't. It was 2 to 1 that West would hold the jack.

The reason is that if West held five-four he might well elect to play the five instead of the four. If he held jack-four he would automatically play the four. Roughly, he would play the four from five-four about half the time so it was twice as likely that the actually played four came from jack-four and that the jack was left in the West hand.

We didn't bother with the possibility that West held all three trumps because there was no way to make the slam against that combination.

Shoes, Hose Cause Of Burning Feet

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Doctor: My feet get a burning feeling. They want to go to sleep, or lose their strength. I am active and enjoy working.—Mrs. C.T.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 67 and am having trouble with my legs. They are burning me from my knees to my toes. They wake me a lot with cramps in the calves.—L.S.

There is no single answer for this common complaint.

Two common causes are footwear—shoes and hose. Shoes that are too tight or short can pinch nerves and bring trouble. Nylon hose is a factor in some cases. Faulty foot structure, too, can cause body weight to be borne on improper parts of the feet. Obesity can be a contributing factor.

One of the first accounts of the burning foot syndrome appeared in 1946, and was traced to nutritional deficiencies, a lack of vitamins and inadequate protein.

Burning feet is usually a complaint of the elderly, many of whom could well have dietary insufficiencies. In such cases vitamin B is recommended as a treatment. Diabetes must also be considered a possibility.

Circulatory problems can be a cause, including varicose veins and arterial hardening. This latter can account for color changes in the feet and for the cramping of the calf muscles with walking.

Both letter writers might be helped by such therapy as contrast foot baths, alternately warm and cold water for periods of two minutes each. This, along with massaging, can help.

Ultimately, examination by a physician to evaluate the various possible causes is the answer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a healthy 53-year-old woman. In the last six months I find I bruise easily, so much so that at present I have 12 large, ugly bruises over various parts of my body.

Could this be due to a vitamin deficiency? I'm tired of wearing slacks and long sleeved blouses.—B.B.

You could have a deficiency of blood platelets which are essential for clotting. The bruising may also be caused by fragile capillary walls.

Vitamin deficiency is a possibility. Vitamin K, for example, is prescribed in some bleeding problems, and vitamin C is also an important factor in this.

But before resorting to vitamin therapy I suggest you have blood studies done. The general condition (the blood platelet deficiency) is called thrombocytopenia.

Dear Doctor: I have been unable to find an answer to this anywhere.

Does syphilis or gonorrhea show up in Pap smears? I am sure this would save a lot of people from being embarrassed. Instead of asking for a VD test, they could ask for a Pap smear if this is so.—Curious and Embarrassed.

It is not so. Syphilis will only show up in an appropriate blood test or by finding the germ in the sore. This latter is called dark-field examination.

Gonorrhea will not be revealed by the usual Pap test because a special stain is necessary to reveal the gonococcus. The most accurate method is culturing—placing the suspect material in a special solution to see if the germ propagates.

This is entirely different from the Pap test.

Since you sign your name Curious and Embarrassed, why not satisfy your curiosity and forget the embarrassment? The only ones who'd have to know would be those who see you at the clinic.

Pheasants Released

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Government wildlife officials released another 229 Korean ring-necked pheasants in Prince Edward Island in 1974 under a program started in 1972 to provide a hardier bird in severe winters than the common ring-neck, hard hit whenever the province experiences a bad winter.

Olympic Construction Will Resume Monday

MONTREAL (CP) — Construction at the 1976 Summer Olympics' site is due to resume Monday, but with signs that finished facilities may differ from the original plans.

An illegal six-week strike by 1,200 Quebec iron workers was settled Friday when less than 350 union members voted overwhelmingly in favor of accepting the government's imposed settlement of an 85 cent-an-hour wage increase.

Even if the workers' return eases the immediate pressure on Mayor Jean Drapeau and the Olympics Organizing Committee (COJO), there are other hurdles to be overcome.

Mayor Drapeau and Roger Rousseau, commissioner-general of the Games, must appear before a special Quebec national assembly committee Tuesday to explain the soaring costs of the Olympics.

The costs were recently reported to have more than doubled, to $653 million from $310 million. Now, the government wage settlement could present problems in other ways.

Broadbent Won't Run As Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — Ed Broadbent, the odds-on favorite to replace David Lewis as national New Democratic leader, disqualified himself as a candidate Friday, throwing the race wide open.

The surprise announcement came at a federal NDP council meeting in Montreal where Mr. Broadbent told senior party members he would not offer because of family reasons.

Staying out of the race, which will be decided at a July convention in Winnipeg, will allow him to spend more time with his wife and children, he said.

He had been regarded as a heavy favorite to succeed Mr. Lewis who went down to personal defeat in Toronto York South in the July 8 general election.

Among those considered likely to enter are three MPs in the 16-member NDP caucus: Max Saltsman (Waterloo-Cambridge) Stewart Leggatt (New Westminster) and Lorne Nystrom (Yorkton-Melville). Mr. Nystrom is the party's Commons whip.

Mr. Broadbent, who will continue as parliamentary leader until after the Winnipeg Convention, said others outside the federal caucus, including Premiers Ed Schreyer of Manitoba, Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan and Dave Barrett of British Columbia may be interested.

EDMONTON (CP) — A survey commissioned by the provincial government has shown that more than one-third of adult Albertans are willing to become foster parents. The survey also showed that the most effective way to recruit foster parents is through other foster parents. The department of health and social development has been having a difficult time attracting foster parents.

Two young members of Jim Driscoll's judo class demonstrate their throwing prowess Sunday at the YMCA Open House, which marked the start of YMCA Week in Belleville. Brian and Mark Moynes, Billy Boratski, John Cunningham, Ray Gaudet, David Lepore and David Lufman went through judo throws and exercises for the crowd of spectators who spent the afternoon viewing various sports displays. Free public swimming and refreshments were also available for the families who came to see what the 'Y' has to offer.

U.S. Centre Attacked

Makarios Quiets Nicosia Rioters

NICOSIA (Reuter) — President Makarios persuaded angry young rioters to end demonstrations outside the United States Information Centre here today and appealed for an end to violence.

The archbishop climbed on a stone wall outside the U.S. library to appeal to the demonstrators, who earlier tore down iron railings outside the building.

He led the demonstrators away to the Greek embassy where he again addressed them from a balcony.

He said Greek Cypriots were understandably angry at the tragedy now taking place in the island. "But I beg of you not to commit acts of violence or attack any embassies," he said.

Demonstrators damaged the British consulate and U.S. Embassy in earlier protests at British action in allowing 8,000 Turksh Cyprot refugees to fly from a British base here to Turkey, from which they will return to resettle in the Turkish-occupied part of the Mediterranean island.

Police used batons and tear gas on the demonstrators before the archbishop arrived in his Cadillac.

At the Greek embassy, Makarios declared: "We will not accept any faits accomplis. We will not accept any solution that means a forcible exchange of populations."

He said Greek Cypriot refugees must be allowed to return to their homes on Turkish-occupied sections of the island.

Answering cries from the crowd of "Makarios to Moscow,' he said: "I am willing to go anywhere if the just cause of the Greek Cypriots can be served.

"We ask for help and accept help from any country."

In response to the president's appeal, the crowd dispersed peacefully.

Police were also guarding the British consulate which was ransacked several days ago by similar demonstrators.

An airlift to transfer the Turkish-Cypriot refugees to Turkey began Saturday, infuriating the Greek Cypriots—200,000 of whom are refugees from the northern half of the island, occupied by Turkish forces after their invasion of Cyprus last July.

The evacuated Turkish Cypriots, who had taken shelter in British bases in southern Cyprus during the invasion, are to return to northern Cyprus from Turkey for resettlement on mainly Greek-owned properties.

Greek Cypriots are demanding the restoration of the occupied lands and Sunday night a crowd of demonstrators gathered outside the Hilton Hotel in Nicosia where many Britons and Americans live.

Guerrillas Reach Baghdad

Arab Terrorists Swap Hostages For Boeing Plane

BEIRUT (Reuter) — Three Arab guerrillas who swapped 10 hostages for a Boeing 707 in Paris landed today at Baghdad airport at (8:30 a.m. EST).

The arrival of the French Boeing 707 in Baghdad was announced by Air France in Paris, which said the plane was still on the ground two hours after touchdown.

The terrorists released the hosages they had held more than 17 hours in an Orly Airport washroom and then boarded an Air France jetliner for an unknown destination.

Te hostages, apparently unhurt, were released in three groups after Naguib Kadry, the Egyptian ambassador to France, began negotiating with the guerrillas shortly before 2 a.m. EST.

A woman and her young child were the first to be released. Three more were released in the airport building and the remaining five were freed at the foot of the plane.

Officials said 21 persons, including one of the terrorists, were wounded in a gunfight between the Arabs and police at the airport before the terrorists herded their hostages into the restroom.

Eight of the wounded were reported in serious condition.

Officials later told reporters the flight path of the Boeing 707 included Milan and Athens. The plane was manned by a volunteer crew.

They said France had refused to allow any hostages to leave with the gunmen.

A French government spokesman said Kadry agreed to negotiate with the terrorists at the request of French Interior Minister Michel Poniatowski.

The hostages were taken following an abortive guerrilla attack on an Israeli airliner that ended with the attackers tossing hand grenades across the airport departure lounge, causing the injuries.

A scheme to drill a hole noiselessly through the wall of the washroom with a laser beam was rejected as unworkable. The aim would have been to flood the washroom with sleeping gas.

A frontal attack on the guerrillas also was ruled out, not only for the sake of the hostages, but to avoid risks for police raiders, police sources said.

The only access to the washroom was by a corrider and the guerrillas already had raked this with gunfire to shatter mirrors which police had installed to improve their view.

The attack was an embarrassment to the French government which maintains a Middle East policy regarded as pro-Arab.

It marked the first time that members of the public had been wounded in a Palestine-linked incident on French soil, and the French press predicted today it would help destroy sympathy here for the Arab cause.

Communist Party's Control Of China's Regime Tightened

PEKING (Reuter) — A major revision of China's 20-year-old constitution has abolished the post of head of state and tightened Communist party control of the government.

Under the changes, approved at a secret session of the fourth National Peoples Congress, Chairman Mao Tse-tung retained his position of supreme authority and was made commander of the Chinese armed forces.

The new constitution, published Sunday night, also gave legal status to the changes which have taken place here during the last two decades, such as communes and the revolutionary committees which run local government.

"The Communist party of China is the core of leadership of the whole Chinese people," the new constitution proclaimed, adding legal force to the long-established fact that the party effectively dominates every important aspect of life in China.

One significant proof of this, also enshrined in the new constitution, was the appointment of the chairman of the party's central committee—currently 81-year-old Mao Tse-tung—as commander of China's armed forces, in place of the head of state.

By simultaneously abolishing the post of head of state—vacant since Liu Shao-chi, the principal target of the cultural revolution, was removed for allegedly "taking the capitalist road"—the Communist party has deprived any future opposition movement of a legal basis for its actions.

In line with this, another new piece of legislation places the congress itself—nominally free of party control until now—under the party leadership.

The new document also declared that "Marxism - Leninism-Mao Tse-tung thought is the theoretical basis guiding the thinking of our nation," ensuring that even when Mao is gone, his theories will live on as China's state philosophy.

Hope Raised Truce May Be Restored

BELFAST (AP) — Hopes rose today for restoration of a ceasefire in Northern Ireland following the start of negotiations between British officials and political representatives of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

However, Protestant militants denounced the peace talks and vowed to "destroy" the IRA and its Roman Catholic supporters.

"The process of salvaging the ceasefire has now begun, but much more groundwork has to be done," said Rev. William Arlow of the Church of Ireland, who sat in as an observer at the first peace parley Sunday.

Rev. Stanley Worrall, a Methodist with access to IRA leaders, said: "We are fairly convinced that the ceasefire ended by accident rather than by design. We think it was through lack of communication and we believe that both sides wanted to keep it going."

They were among the Protestant clergymen who helped negotiate the IRA's Christmas ceasefire that ended last Thursday.

The meeting Sunday brought together high-ranking British civil servants and two members of Sinn Fein, the political arm of the IRA's Provisional faction. The meeting was held in a house in a Belfast suburb and the Sinn Feiners were Maire Drumm and Billy McKee.

As they talked, more than 25,000 Irishmen on both sides of the border prayed publicly for peace. An estimated 12,000 attended a service at Belfast city hall led by Protestant and Roman Catholic clergymen. In the Irish Republic, about 15,000 persons gathered around the main Dublin post office for prayers.

The Ulster Defence Association and other private Protestant armies in Northern Ireland accused the British of betraying the Protestant majority there.

"We have now reached the point of survival or extinction," the UDA said in a statement. "We intend to survive. We intend to destroy the enemy and all those who support it."

Gunmen Attack Jews At Two London Hotels

LONDON (Reuter) — Gunmen sprayed bullets into two luxury hotels in central London Sunday night, injuring seven persons as Jewish functions were ending in both places.

Police said it was too early to establish motives for the shots, fired from passing cars. It appeared to have nothing to do with the Irish Republican Army and the trouble in Northern Ireland, however, and indications were the Jewish functions may have been the cause.

Flying glass caused most of the injuries, but no one was seriously hurt.

The two attacks came within three hours of each other. First to be hit was the Portman Hotel in London's West End, where a Jewish dance was taking place. Witnesses said 15 to 20 shots were fired in two bursts from a car. Five were injured, four of them women.

Then gunmen struck at the Carlton Towers Hotel about one mile away in Belgravia, injuring two women. A number of Jewish guests were attending a wedding reception at the hotel.

In a similar attack last month on a hotel opposite the Portman, the Churchill, three were hurt by flying glass.

Fire Bomb Hits Home In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto family narrowly escaped from their home early Saturday when a Molotov cocktail was thrown through a bedroom window.

"It happened so fast," said Gabriel Romano, who escaped with his wife and two children who were at home at the time.

"The crash. The fire. I couldn't see anything. The house was filled with black smoke. The side door was on fire."

The firebomb was thrown into the bedroom about 4:30 a.m., spreading gasoline across the floor and engulfing a bed in flames.

Mr. Romano, a sheet metal worker who had just got up to go to work, alerted the family and they tried to escape through a side door but found a second fire there.

They left the house through the front door.

Multi-million Egg Surplus Said Eliminated

OTTAWA (CP) — A spokesman for the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) said Saturday that a multi-million egg surplus accumulated by the producer-run agency virtually has been eliminated.

"Our board managers, yesterday I believe it was, assured us that they were on the move and in reality there just virtually weren't any (eggs) left," said Harold Crossman of Stoughton, Sask., a member of the CEMA management committee.

He was commenting after a 1½-day meeting of the agency and other agriculture marketing groups.

The meeting apparently was called to discuss a 40-million egg surplus, which another CEMA official confirmed last week and which was reported to be increasing by 15-million eggs weekly.

"So while they may have been in storage last week, it's our assumption . . . they're gone," said Mr. Crossman.

"Now, you'll have to check with the individual managers whether this is so or not, but at any rate . . . I would say that by the end of next week there won't be any real surplus eggs—if that's what you call them."

Mr. Crossman emphasized that eggs are a storable product "for some weeks" as long as they are handled properly.

But improper storage was the main reason 28 million eggs had to be destroyed by the agency in 1974.

The blame for the 1975 surplus, which was higher than CEMA expected, was laid squarely with the Quebec egg marketing board.

Under the present arrangement, CEMA, established in mid-1973, purchases surplus eggs from the provincial boards. In turn, the provinces are responsible for ensuring producers do not exceed quotas.

The 1975 national quota was 475 million dozen eggs, the same as 1974, and although provincial quotas were unavailable, Quebec was producing "in excess of 100 per cent" of its share, Mr. Crossman said.

He said there would be a 10-per-cent reduction in the 1975 quota but not because the previous quota was incorrect. Rather, he said, it was Canadians were eating fewer eggs this year than last year.

He also said it was not necessary for CEMA to police its provincial counterparts against such surpluses.

Seminar to Clarify Administration Control

A working seminar, sponsored by the Ontario Institute in Studies for Education (OISE) designed to develop better liaison between appointed boards and administrative bodies, will be held Feb. 8 at the Four Seasons and Mar. 1 at Loyalist College.

Ernst Kneisel, college public relations director, said today the seminar will show "how boards should operate .... where policy stop and administration begins."

He explained the seminar will help appointive non-professional boards to cope with their administrators — "where you have unpaid policymakers over paid administrators. There's terrible gray area there."

Invitations will be sent to eight area municipalities, five community colleges, five boards of education and hospital board. Following an opening dinner meeting, the seminar will be "split up into small groups of like interest," outlined Mr. Kneisel.

He said OISE is a "graduate school attached to the University of Toronto,' set up by Ontario Premier William Davis when he was minister of education. It is composed of statisticians and experts in various areas of education, said Mr. Kneisel.

Workshop Tackles Musical Problems

By EUGENE LANG

Approximately 100 persons of musical intent were present Sunday at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel as members of the Canadian Opera Company were on hand to bring to local musicians, especially vocal enthusiasts, the first of several workshops the company plans to give in many localities during their Canadian tour to smaller centres.

Informality was the key note of the session as the members of the company explained their ideas and theories in connection with various vocal values that they have learned and put into practice in their many years of professional activities.

Such problems as breath control, intonation, diction, unison of approach, blending and balancing of choral groups, choice of selections to be performed, sight reading, and its comcomitant (memorization for the non sight reader), phrasing, the art of successful practising, the degree of difficulty that one should attempt and not attempt, the molding of youthful voices, the sincerity of approach to a given composition, the pros and cons of new music as opposed to the traditional works of the past, and many other subjects were discussed.

Robins Still Here

BIG ISLAND — This weekend's stormy weather seems to have had little effect on a small flock of robins which is spending the winter at Big Island's east end. Residents say the birds are wintering in the dense growth of red cedars where there is adequate shelter and an abundance of wild fruit on which to feed.

The birds were first noticed during a mild spell. One Big Island resident in the vicinity also reported woodchucks and garter snakes active during the recent break in the weather.

Singers Join in Church Service

An ecumenical service sponsored by the Belleville Ministerial Assocation in St. Michael's Church Sunday was enhanced by the solo performances of nine singers from the Canadian Opera Company, in Hastings county for three days of performances and workshops. Leaving the church following the service are some of the members of the clergy who conducted the service or were present in the sanctuary.

Opera Singers Add Depth To Church Unity Service

By EUGENE LANG

The glowing transept of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel looked down upon a full congregation Sunday as hundreds gathered from all Christian faiths to take part in an Ecumenical Service of Christian Unity. The spoken words of liturgical beliefs were enhanced by songs from nine members of the Canadian Opera Company, who were on hand to add to the religious expressions that enveloped everyone.

A message of welcome was given by Rev. Father K. Stitt of the host Church, following which the Inovocation was declaimed by Rev. Jack Morrison of St. Mark's United Church, Cannifton. Scripture reading was delivered by Rev. J. C. MacFarlane of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church.

The musical portion of the service got underway with Baritone Peter Barcza singing a robust interpretation of the virile aria Come Ye Brave from Handel's oratorio Judas Maccabeus. The deeply-hued tones of the alto voice of Kathleen Ruddell brought forth an inspired rendition of the serene All Rest in the Lord from Mendelssohn's Elijah.

Rev. Rex Norman of the Canadian Bible Society chose as the theme of his sermon Freedom in Christ. He exhorted his listeners to continue with more unity of the various churches, thus pushing the divisiveness of the past into obscurity.

Soprano Barbara Collier gave a vibrant rendition of the aria Jauchzet Gott in Allen Landen. Basso Jan Rubes sang in Czech a Biblical song of Dvorak titled God is My Shepherd, in a moving manner, although not typical of this composer's musical speech.

The Ecumenical Litany Rev. Henry Katerburg of Marantha Christian Reformed Church, following which Ecumenical Reflections were invoked by Rev. Virgil Earle of St. Margaret's Anglican Church.

The familiar It is Enough from Mendelssohn's Elijah was voiced in a reading of intense feeling by Baritone Avo Kittask while from the contemporary religious musical scene Soprano Deborah Jeans infused tender fervency in the melodic I Don't Know How to Love Him from the controversial Jesus Christ, Super Star.

The Jewish sacred song Grant Us Peace by Zerchon Kingsley was sung by Glen Evan's ringing tenor voice.

Soprano Carrol Anne Curry negotiated the floundering phrases of Hindemith's Latin Motette Cum Natus Esset with apparent ease in her realization of this unusual opus.

During the Offeratory the well-known Panis Angelicus of Cesar Franck was proclaimed by Tenor John Arab.

Following the closing prayer and benediction by Rev. Laurie Sutherland of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the nine voices previously heard in solo selections sang the soulful Ave Verum Corpus of Mozart.

The piano accompaniments were underlined by Stuart Hamilton while the organ sustainings were played by Ann Cooper.

Preludial organ music as well as the accompanying of the three stirring hymns that the congregation joined in were performed by George Shaw.

Regardless of the variance of beliefs a service such as was held Sunday provided a spiritual Christian uplift to everyone who attended.

Explosives Missing

TRENTON — Police today issued a warning of the danger posed by signalling flares and explosive torpedoes stolen from a caboose at the Canadian Pacific Railway yards near Reid St. during the weekend.

Staff Sgt. Gord Steenburg said the torpedoes "are capable of blowing a hand or a head off. The flares are capable of setting a house on fire if lit inside."

Anyone with any information is asked to call Trenton police at 392-3535.

It is unknown what quantity of flares and torpedoes were stolen. Entry was gained through a window on the roof of the caboose. The theft was discovered early today.

Police say the torpedoes are box-like devices that are fastened to a railway track by means of two clips. Painted on each is a yellow warning strip.

The torpedoe explodes when a train runs over it.

It is used to signal a train to stop, police say.

New Van For Firefighters

TWEED — A 1972 Econoline salvage van has been added to the equipment available to the members of Tweed's volunteer fire department.

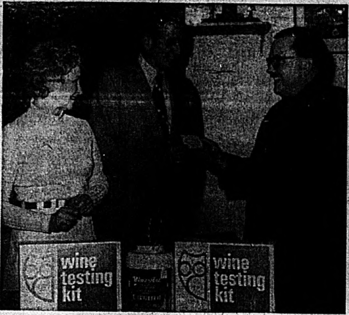
The van is radio equipped and carries breathing equipment that permits the firemen to enter smokefilled areas, a power saw, portable pump, electric generating plant with flood lights; hand lanters; fire extinguishers; guide line; blankets, first aid equipment and resuscitator. More equipment will be added as funds become available.

Car Rolls, Family Unhurt

TWEED — An Agincourt family escaped injury when their car rolled in a ditch on Highway 37, two miles south of Tweed, during Saturday's storm.

James Gibson was accompanied by his wife, three children and a dog at the time of the accident. The car landed on its right side. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $650. A mail box valued at $15, belonging to Mitchell Rannie, was destroyed.

Recently, the Township of Hungerford and the Township of Elzevir each made a donation towards the cost of equipping the salvage van.



Winemakers Gather

Frances and Buzz Arthurs, owners of chain stores selling wine-making supplies, were in Belleville Friday night to visit Belleville Winemakers' Guild. They were given a membership in the guild by president Ian Reilly. The Quinte district, said Mr. Arthurs, is known as a major amateur winemaking centre in Ontario.

Broken Windows, Minor Accidents Plague Police

City police report four incidents investigated over the weekend, two cases of broken windows, a minor automobile accident and damage done to a parked car.

Police said that sometime Saturday night, the distributor wires were pulled out a car parked on Front St. and damage done to the left front. Police set total damage at $35.

Police added that the owner of the car, Donald Whiteman of West St. Belleville was at a downtown movie at the time.

Shortly before 6:30 a.m. Sunday, police said a plate glass window at Doug Rollins Shell station on Herchimer and Bridge Street was apparently kicked in. Damage to the window amounted to $150 police said but no entry was made.

Police investigated a broken window at Belleville Collegiate Institute on the south door but no entry was made.

About 7:30 a.m. Sunday, a two-car collision at the intersection of Herchimer St. and Southview Ave. resulted in $900 to the two vehicles involved A passenger Phyllis Diamond, in a car driven by Bruce Diamond, both of 47 Southview Ave. received bruises.

The driver of the other car, Albert Turgeon of Marsh Dr. was unhurt.

TWEED — Madoc provincial police officers are investigating a break-in in an unoccupied house belonging to Ivan Sarles, RR 1, Stirling. A neighbor observed a car at the house and saw men removing an antique couch and putting it in the vehicle. He took the licence number and called police. Police say there have been other break-in at the Rawdon Township house.

Loyalist Takes Steps to Upgrade Basic Skills Among New Students

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Loyalist College School of Technology, in conjunction with school boards in the four-county system which the college serves, are developing a program to raise the level of basic mathematical skills in high school graduates.

R. J. A. Turner, school director, said recently the project has been spurred by a directive sent out about a year ago from the ministry of education and ministry colleges and universities, telling Ontario's colleges and school boards to co-operate with each other on this venture.

It is also in relation to a letter received from the colleges and universities ministry in 1974 "which gives a college the right to specify pre-requisite courses for some programs," reported Mr. Turner.

"First step is to get common numbering systems," he said. This will mean standardizing mathematics courses in all school board systems, he explained.

At present, math courses are identified by numbers, such as math 123 or math 234, depending on the level of study. These number codes are different in each school board system, and in some cases, in each school.

The proposed system will make these number codes identical in each secondary school. The college will then be able to spell out its pre-requisites for each student in the four counties, ensuring adequate preparation for its technological courses.

Mr. Turner emphasized the project is designed not to exclude students, "but to keep them out of college courses where they won't have a chance to succeed."

He said since 1967, when the government introduced HS 1, the guideline for secondary school curricula which gave students a free choice of options in four areas of study, basic mathematical skills in first-year college students have eroded.

He said this has resulted from students selecting the easiest options, even if they have set a goal for a career in technology. Colleges were powerless to prevent this, since they were ordered by their ministry to accept students with 27 high school credits, regardless of the level of study area.

"It is not unusual to find a student coming in with only Grade 9 or 10 mathematics, but who has accumulated 27 credits," said Mr. Turner.

He commented in his opinion, "13-or-14-year-olds are not capable of making a wise decision." A student entering a three-year college technology course "would die on the vine," he added.

Mr. Turner noted the fault does not lie with guidance counsellers. In some schools, there is one guidance counsellor for every 1,000 students, he said.

Those post-secondary students ill-prepared for college technological study are "generally weak in algebra," or basic arithmetic, said Mr. Turner. To discover those who require upgrading in basic skills, the college "pre-test" first-year students in several areas, and places them in remedial math courses.

"Sometimes the students themselves don't know their capabilities, he remarked.

Mr. Turner said he does not foresee the problem solved overnight, even with the implementation of the joint college-school board project.

"I imagine we'll be going through this same situation for the next three or four years before there is any improvement," he said.

OPP Report Fewer Traffic Fatalities

Ontario Provincial Police Commissioner H. H. Graham says that traffic deaths and injuries were down in 1974 across the province. He said that although the total number of motor vehicle collisions within OPP jurisdiction increased by six per cent to about 76,000 in 1974, injuries and fatalities were down compared to 1973.

Commissioner Graham said fatal accidents were reduced last year by seven per cent and personal injury accidents by 10 per cent despite the fact there were more licensed drivers on Ontario's highways.

The commissioner said: "The Ontario Provincial Police has always strived to reduce the number of traffic deaths and injuries and it is gratifying to see such a definite improvement."

Wine Championship For Local Exhibition

The Belleville Winemakers' Guild has been granted permission to institute an Eastern Ontario amateur winemakers' championship. It will be held in conjunction with Quinte Exhibition in June.

New executive of the guild, elected Friday night, comprises president Ian Reilly; vice-president Earl Kearns; secretary Iris Downing; treasurer Robert Debling of Trenton; representative to the Amateur Winemakers of Ontario, Gordon Davies; chief steward, Douglas Fort and stewards, clyde Pope, Audrey Davies, Bill Downing, Don Wilson, Norman Grieves and Earl Kearns.

Ice Still Unsafe

Ministry of natural resources officials are warning snowmobilers to stay off lakes in Hastings County. Ice on northern lakes is thick enough to support a pedestrian if he uses caution, they say, but is not yet thick enough for snow machines.

The 35-mile snowmobile trail at Bon Echo Provincial Park now is open. It is passable but rough in spots.

Snow on the ground in Sharbot Lake, Plevna, Bon Echo and Tweed varied from 6.3 to 7.7 inches, three inches of it new snow that fell during the weekend.

More sub-zero weather moved into the area Sunday night, with a low of 28 below zero reported at Plevna. Temperatures in other areas were: Sharbot Lake and Bon Echo, —23, and Tweed, —20.

Belleville hit 12 below zero at 8 a.m. Monday.

Waiting Game

The element of immediacy, if it ever existed, has been taken out of the Bay Bridge project.

Rome was not built in a day, and applying that axiom to this major bridge project is to realize that a great deal of preparatory work is necessary.

At least the government has not been letting the idea just slide — as the lengthy silence since the visit of Transportation Minister Rhodes last August rather suggested.

Ministry planners have been at work and the fruits of their labors were apparent as a result of their visit last week.

Still, the prospect of having to wait another six years, with the area of study covering a 15-mile reach of the bay (reportedly to cover all possibilities), is disappointing.

By then of course costs will have blown still farther into outer economic space. The existing structure will have groaned through its daily summer ritual countless more times, punctuated with further repair sessions and hindrances to the sort of link Hastings and Prince Edward should be enjoying at this stage of their history.

In six years a lot of local history will have been made, most of it no doubt of a routine nature, but including the Centennial of this city. Yes it is a long enough time to wait.

The Work Ethic

All across this great land there is a continuing and mass rejection of the work ethic.

Oh yes, Canadians are going through the motions to some extent, but only when it suits them. More particularly they are using shortages and an artificially-created inflation to which they are also prime contributors, as an excuse to lie down on the job.

From grain handlers on the west coast to teachers and civil servants and hospital workers hither and yon to construction men in Quebec, there is this preoccupation with money rather than with the performance of a day's work.

Even members of parliament are not immune from seeking a larger handout from the public purse.

But nobody can say the politicians are not giving an honest day's work. We may disagree at times with what they are doing, with their policymaking, but the kind of schedules they must follow are scarcely for the good of their health.

Where the Olympics in Quebec are concerned, there is evidence both the provincial and federal governments may step in to guarantee they go on as scheduled. But what of the labor situation? Is there any guarantee the necessary construction will be completed in time, or the work force stay in there and do the job?

Inflation or not, there is too much flabbiness, too much comfort, too much of beer and television and sedentary living, and too much "taking" rather than "giving," for the overall national good these days.

North Bay Tragedy

Reflecting on the recent downtown tragedy in North Bay, when an explosion believed caused by escaping gas destroyed a downtown building, is to be reminded of the sudden and awesome forces that can wreak unpremeditated disaster.

So far as the consequences were concerned the closest parallel is the kind of thing Canadians have been accustomed to hearing about from Britain, as guerrilla elements went about their dreadful work.

Except that in North Bay the explosion appeared to have been more deadly and destructive than any guerrilla bomb.

A few years ago something of the kind, only of a mercifully lighter character, occurred at a building site here in Belleville. There was fire as we recall and gas was involved, but there were no casualties and the emergency was of brief duration.

How infinitely worse was the North Bay explosion — a gruesome event that will be forever a searing memory in the annals of the community, as harrowing locally as was the great dockyard explosion in Halifax in an earlier time.

It is a reminder also to utilities people of the need for proper care and maintenance of services. (What happened in North Bay in a sense happened to us all.

Acupuncture

Government Introduces Controls

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Health Minister Frank Miller would seem to have acted with good sense in his position on acupuncture.

What Miller has done is direct that control of acupuncture would be under the College of Physicians and Surgeons, that all treatment must be under the order of a physician, and that all acupuncturists, except doctors, must pass examinations and be licensed.

In setting out this program the health minister went in the face of the Ontario Medical Association.

The OMA just a few days before he had announced his policy had categorized acupuncture as more or less quackery and indicated that it felt the practice of it should be banned.

This was not one of the association's more glorious moments.

Acupuncture now has had enough investigation so that more mature medical men can say there undoubtedly is good in it, though just how much and just how it works they can't say.

There was some urgency for Miller to get out his policy.

Ontario was being invaded by amateur acupuncturists.

They were swarming in from other jurisdictions where they had been banned—New York state, Quebec and Michigan.

Just how one can be an amateur acupuncturist, a form of treatment in which one injects a needle between the first and second toes to relieve a migraine, defies imagination. But they started up in these jurisdictions in their dozens and hundreds, usually in store-front offices.

And when kicked out of these they were coming here, and we had absolutely no control over them.

There has been some criticism of the new policy in that it leaves qualified doctors free to practice acupuncture relatively free of control.

However it would seem that we can safely leave this with the college. And there should be nothing too dangerous in sticking a few needles in a body providing it is a medical man, who knows the body, that is doing it.

And probably the most important part of the Miller program is the requirement that it be under medical direction.

Acupuncture is essentially a pain reliever.

Its great danger is that by quickly relieving pain it may sidetrack complete diagnosis which could uncover serious conditions such as cancer.

In the hands of medical men this diagnosis presumably will be done first before any treatment is started.

Abortion Issue

CMA's President Lashes Ottawa

Ottawa Journal

What Dr. Bette Stevenson, the President of the Canadian Medical Association is really doing is asking for the resignation of Justice Minister Lang because his bias on abortion is not the same as her bias. That, of course, is no reason at all, and it is surprising that anyone holding that position which Dr. Stevenson does would talk so shrilly and so superficially. Whether she sounded unladylike in her speech to the Empire Club of Toronto - a criticism to which she admitted some vulnerability - is really quite irrelevant.

What is significant, and somewhat demogogic, is that she should have the intellectual arrongence to consider her principles and her integrity to be superior to Mr. Lang's principles and integrity; or to suggest that Mr. Lang should abandon his principles because they do not happen to agree with her principles.

As Minister of Justice, Mr. Lang has the duty of seeing that the will of Parliament as expressed by the amendment to the Criminal Code on abortion is carried out. Dr. Stevenson's own views or perception of what the public or doctor's opinion happens to be at the moment have no bearing on the law as it is written. Nor should Mr. Lang's own point of view on abortion have any bearing on how the law is enforced.

The whole question of abortion is of course difficult and complicated. It is an issue on which persons of equal good will, humanity and intelligence can have profoundly different views. Dr. Stevenson certainly should know that from having observed the depth of the division of opinion on the issue with her own medical association. Her remarks wil in fact undoubtedly embarrass many of her colleagues and her effectiveness as president may be now greatly diminished. It certainly deserves to be.

Feminists Lay Claim To New Year

Bruce West
in
The Globe and Mail

— Was interested to see in the Letters to the Editor columns of this newspaper the other day a brief note from a nettled Ms. complaining about a cartoon published on New Year's Day depicting an encounter between young 1975 and old 1974. The correspondent thought that, inasmuch as 1975 had been declared International Women's Year, the cartoon should have featured a couple of females instead of those male chauvinist pigs.

The more I thought about it the more I became inclined to agree with her that we males should bow to the wishes of Women's Lib in the matter of giving up our selfish hold on the New - Year - Old - Year business Not only during International Women's Year, but every year, from now on.

Anyway, we males are becoming quite tired of seeing our sex being used as models for the poor, old, beaten-up, character who goes doddering off into oblivion at the end of every year. It is, for one thing, rank discrimination to suggest that we dashing blades age all that much in a mere 365 days. During Leap Year, maybe, but not at other times.

Voluntary Restraint In Spending Is Conspicuous By Its Absence

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Canada's inflationary spiral continues to move higher, despite Ottawa's pleading for—and promises of—self-restraint.

The current annual rate of consumer price increases, 12.4 per cent, is the highest in memory of most Canadians.

One thing is clear: The appeals by Messrs. Trudeau and Turner, urging all groups in Canadian society to work together to check inflation, have done nothing constructive.

Even worse, those appeals seem to have heightened the determination of the stronger elements in society to grab a bigger slice of the pie for themselves, at the expense of others.

Nor do governments believe that restraint should apply to public spending programs.

According to Finance Minister John Turner's estimates, the federal government's expenditures will rise 24 per cent in the current fiscal year—or a net increase of 18 per cent when revenues from the oil-export tax are offset against nearly $12-billion in oil subsidies for Eastern Canada.

Mr. Turner's concept of restraint in federal government spending is to promise a limit of 15 per cent on next fiscal year's increase.

(While that is higher than the current rate of inflation, it could end up as less than the 1975-76 inflation if the spiral continues unbroken).

The government says, in effect, that the growth of its spending cannot be restrained any more than that, because commitments already made will account for a rise of 10 to 12 per cent in expenditures, and because the "indexing" of an ever-expanding number of government obligations—pensions, allowances, agricultural subsidies and so on—will boost such outlays in proportion to the advance in the cost of living.

All such commitments, however, were political decisions in the first place—and the government can always change its mind about political decisions.

"Inflation, while it works through the economic system, is a social problem that can only be overcome by political means," said economist J. Douglas Gibson in a thoughtful speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto recently.

"We are caught by social and political forces that are highly favorable to inflation," said Mr. Gibson, who was a member of Canada's royal commission on banking and finance a decade ago.

"We want more soon, we think we can get it through our political system, and we don't want to work as hard."

Economists often have a glib solution to inflation: Restrain the increase in the money supply. Unfortunately governments won't support such a policy.

Nor will the public give its votes and support to a government that would curb the growth of welfare programs, housing subsidies and the like.

In Mr. Gibson's view, federal policy is committed to a concept developed by the Economic Council of Canada some years ago—a smooth, gradual trajectory to eliminate inflation gently and with no major political risks.

As each month's cost-of-living figures emphasize, such a policy makes no sense whatever.

The key to a serious anti-inflation policy would be to stop the growth of government spending, which accounts for two-fifths of Canada's gross national expenditures.

Such restraint on government's part would be the most effective incentive to a badly needed revival of job-creating new capital investment in industrial construction, machinery and housing.

Sharp In Doghouse Over Pay Hike As Electorate Vents Its Anger

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA - Maritime Conservative MP Gordon Fairweather, back on Parliament Hill, reports he has been facing what he called "a real firestorm" back home over the parliamentary pay raise.

Fairweather is no Johnny-come-last-election, having represented the New Brunswick riding of Fundy-Royal for going on 15 years, and so must command in his own constituency much of the respect accorded him in the Commons.

And this despite his often small "l" liberal and sometimes slightly leftish views being at variance with those of what he suspects could be a majority of his ultra-Conservative constituents.

He himself has been heard to wonder about it, and likes to think that while many of his constituents may differ with him in their degree of conservatism, they continue re-electing him because they consider him an honest and earnest parliamentarian devoted to the public interest.

So if Fairweather, respected if not revered in his riding, felt the heat of what he calls this "fire-storm" of public rage over the pay raise, what fury there must be in the backlashing that less secure MPs endured.

Which is too bad, because the blame for what almost instantly was conceded to be the debacle of the proposed 50 percent pay raise – with a quick retreat to 33 percent – rests elsewhere.

There is no evidence that the parliamentarians were not deceived by Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp and his Windsor Liberal MP Mark MacGuigan, and Government Whip Tom Lefebvre of Quebec's Pontiac riding.

MacGuigan and Lefebvre were supposed to have been Sharp's "negotiators," assigned to making a deal with the Conservatives, the New Democrats and Social Credit, to slip the raise through the Commons before any taxpayer had time to yell "ripoff."

Sharp talked about a "consensus" in the Commons – his word for "agreement" – that 50 percent was no more than was well deserved.

There was no such thing.

No talks, formal or informal, were held with official representatives of the Opposition parties on the pay raise bill itself, nor even the amounts proposed.

There is no evidence – or even indication – that any MPs, except Sharp himself, and maybe MacGuigan, saw the bill before it was unveiled before the pop-eyed House.

Yes, there was lobby chatter and corridor gossip nad perhaps even discussions in some parliamentary offices that there ought to be an increase in pay.

But there was no talk of specifics, no hint of figures, no suggestion of an all-party sawoff to whip a raise through when the taxpayers were not looking.

So through obvious stupidity and suspected deceit, Sharp has landed all parliamentarians in the soup. And it is still boiling.

But more serious, says Gordon Fairweather, is the damage to Parliament itself, with the raising of the already high level of cynicism with which taxpayers view politicians and governments.

The House of Commons, like the Senate, is something of a club, and sensitive to its image.

Parliamentarians cringe at the charge they have heard often enough before that they look after themselves first and the interest of the taxpayers second.

Sharp has succeeded only in substantiating the accusation in the angry eyes of what Gordon Fairweather fears may be a majority of taxpayers.

The MPs resent this, insist it is unfair – and it is – and blame Sharp.

In the end, too, Sharp may have done even more damage to Parliament than its members now realize.

He has been in Britain with a Parliamentary Procedures Committee, studying how things are done at Westminster, with a view to "reform" of the Canadian Commons.

Any proposals Sharp offers for urgently-needed changes to increase Parliament's efficiency and sensitivity to the public interest, now will be suspect.

The MPs themselves, once burned, now will be twice shy of Sharp, and the taxpayers more suspicious than ever of his motives, not to mention his abilities.

Food Shortages In Bangladesh

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Richard Jackson in his column (Agriculture Minister says "We cannot Feed The World") November 23, 1974, mentioned that, "Bangladesh might be the author of its own misfortunes having fought for and won independence from Pakistan which is happily self-sufficient in food".

Food-deficit of the area now known as Bangladesh (since 1971) started from mid-fifties and has shown a rising trend. This deterioration in food situation has been the consequence of the policies pursued by the federal government of undivided Pakistan, whose well-entrenched bondage had been shaken off by means other than democratic and peaceful. It is really shocking to watch that the Government of Bangladesh proved so ineffective in attaining self-sufficiency in food in three years of their being in power.

Overall economic performance of the left-over Pakistan is to be applauded but that in no way enables us to remark (as Mr. Jackson did), 'Pakistan ... is happily self-sufficient in food'. Because, according to Economic Survey of Pakistan 1973-74 published by the Government of Pakistan, that country imported 1,464,000 tons of wheat during 72-73, while the wheat imports in the first nine months (July - March) of 1973-74 had already reached 1,168,000 tons. It may be added here that Pakistan exported 335 thousand tons of rice (mostly better quality) during 1972-73.

Canada has contributed considerably to reduce the food-deficit in both the countries, as she exported 6 million cwt. of wheat to Bangladesh and 4.1 million cwt. of wheat to Pakistan worth $30.2 million and $28.1 million respectively in 1973. Future economic policy of Canada should include the comparative economic promise her agriculture offers. And, this hopefully will serve the humanitarian cause as well.

Literacy And The Modern Student

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Parents were told by sitting members of the Hastings County Board of Education during the recent election that the three "R's" were alive and well in the county. In fact, one told us that they had never stopped teaching them and another advised, that in fact, children were getting some 20 hours more than they did in the old days when they were taught to read and write.

In light of the foregoing it is interesting to note that all over the province, groups of parents are banding together to try to do something about the appalling illiteracy of graduating students. Now, no less an authority than Mr. Ernst Kneisel, public relations director of Loyalist College is telling us that students need to read and write.

The great tragedy of all this is that we, the parents, know very well our kids cannot read and write as they should. We know, that in order to understand or communicate at all that they have to be proficient in this skill. But the educational mandarins disdainfully tell us we don't know what we are talking about. This attitude is backed up by school boards who are afraid of the so called militancy of a small segment of teachers who have discovered the art of playing politics.

I have talked with many teachers on the staff of Loyalist College and the fact that many students leaving our high schools to take courses there just cannot comprehend the material because they cannot read properly Now, everybody who is cognizant of this cannot all be wrong.

No child should advance from the public school system unless able to read, write and understand the written word well. How on earth is a child supposed to cope with the new-found freedom of being able to choose his or her own courses, attend classes on a basis of whenever he feels like it etc., unless he is able to understand what it is all about.

I don't know what we, the parents can do about it. The Bill Davis-inspired system has, in fact, driven a wedge between parent and teacher and parent and child. The "do as you like" attitudes encouraged in the school system is brought home by the child who is put out if his parents don't go along with the philosophy at home.

Eventually parents either give up or over-react as they are driven to a pitch of understandable frustration.

If a person such as Ernst Kneisel can see what is going on, surely our trustees, with "total objectivity" might have the same perception.

What a frightening situation when Mr. Kneisel advises that "the problem of declining literacy is apparent in every classroom". His message should be heeded.

Provincial 'Digesters' May Solve Trash Disposal Problem

The administration has been given to understand that by 1980 garbage picked up in the Ameliasburg Township will be hauled to the Kingston area where it will be processed under a provincial scheme to consolidate urban and rural waste collection services.

At present, clerk William Nightingale says the planners calculate six recycling plants (called digesters) will handle the waste disposal of all of Ontario. Kingston is deemed the favorable location for a digester to serve this region.

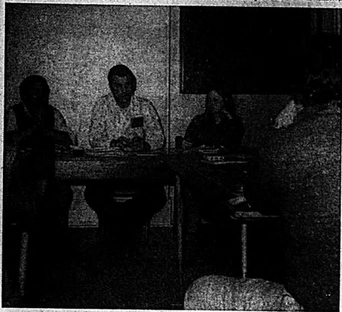
At the recycling plant, special sorting equipment separates glass, metal and other solids from the waste while the remainder becomes a fod derlike product similar to compost. The latter material is employed extensively by farmers and gardeners as a soil conditioner to encourage growth.

Mr. Nightingale says he is hopeful the provincial plan will take effect before the life of the present township dumpsite expires. Four years ago when the abandoned gravel pit on the third concession was designated a waste disposal site its life expectancy was estimated at 10 years.

Garbage collection, a thorn in the side of earlier councils, has turned out to be as effective, efficient and successful as any service the township renders, Mr. Nightingale asserts. The improvement resulted when the municipality took over the operation in 1972, earlier residents depended on independent truckers and for a time council called tenders to provide the service

In spite of those concerns for the longevity for the present disposal facility, the service as it is operated by the township meets the approval of most of the taxpayers. The annual charge of $14 per household has been the same since 1971.

An even rosier outlook prevails because the township has been able to run the garbage collection business well below budget and set aside a fund for the purchase of a future dumpsite in the event one is needed.



In the Swim

No time like the present to start thinking about swimming pools. Picton and Prince Edward County residents put their heads together Sunday to determine what fund-raising method would be the best for construction of a county swimming pool in Picton. At the head of table is Ed Rae coordinator of the fund drive.

Official Expects Upswing In Trenton-area Jobs

TRENTON — Wes Nesbitt, Canada Manpower Centre manager at Trenton, says he is "hopeful the employment picture will brighten" in this area in six to eight weeks.

Factories should start to recall workers as spring rekindles activities in industries hit by the winter slowdown period, he said. Demand for labor to prune orchards is expected to be one of the earliest opportunities for jobless to return to employed status, he reported.

As of the end of December, 2,500 from an area of 25,000 employable workers had registered for assistance at the Trenton Centre.

Not all of those who enrolled, however, could be considered out of work. A breakdown of the figures for December shows that 200 employed persons applied for change in occupation. Also, the list included 77 "in-training applicants" as well as 100 students seeking part-time jobs. Among the registration were 471 applications designated "classification unknown".

In December the centre found employment for 108 applicants.

In the same period a year ago, total registration numbered 1,800.

The Trenton Centre provides a service for workers in Trenton, Brighton, north to the outskirts of Campbellford, east to the Belleville city boundary and south to small portions of the village of Consecon and township of Ameliasburg.

Plans Under Way For Pool Funding

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

PICTON — The proposed community swimming pool for Prince Edward County, although still in its infancy, is already beginning to create "quite a stir", says committee co-ordinator, Ed Rae.

At a campaign meeting Sunday at Picton Legion Hall, he reported that Prince Edward County Warden, Clifford Walker, is "100 per cent in favor of the project".

The 12 members present at the meeting, representing many of the county's service clubs and other interested organizations, discussed publicity plans and proposed fund-raising projects

Among the fund-raising projects discussed were a box social, walk - a - thon, dances, strawberry social and an antique car show to be held at the Prince Edward Community Centre.

Take 2

Among the suggestions which received unanimous support was a "pool-corner column" in the local newspapers, featuring a question and answer section. This, said one committee member, would serve a two-fold purpose of additional publicity and answering the numerous questions that potential supporters may have to ask.

"Publishing the donors' names could very well spur other to donate to the swimming pool fund", stressed another member.

Concern was expressed at the meeting that no women's organizations have yet been contacted with the possibility of initiating fund - raising events.

"Many of these organizations are far more capable of raising money than are many male-oriented groups," stressed a member of the swimming pool committee.

Mr. Rae stated that efforts will commence immediately to contact additional organizations and groups. A meeting of these groups is tentatively scheduled to take place at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute on Feb. 3, 7.30 p.m

Delegates Selected

PICTON — Two Prince Edward County farmers will be among those attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association in Ottawa Jan. 22-23. The two delegates, Lyle Vanclief of RR 1, Ameliasburg and Burton Tice of RR 1, Wellington, were selected by the Prince Edward County branch of the association to attend the upcoming convention.

Snowmobiles Still Popular

PICTON — Old man winter returned to Prince Edward County with a vengeance this weekend, affording snowmobilers with renewed optimism.

The majority of snowmobile dealers in the county report sales so far this season are comparable to last winter, although down in number over the last two years due to a late snowfall.

Alan Vader, saleman at Morton's Sales and Service Bloomfield says that snowmobile sales are usually brisk during mid-November and December and dwindle after that period. However, Mr. Vader added many prospective buyers are somewhat reluctant to invest in a machine until they see snow of measurable quantity. Most snow machines of average size cost in the area of $900.

Mr. Vader said most buyers now are swinging to the larger, more powerful models.

By contrast, Bill Moore of Bill Moore Farm Equipment Cherry Valley, says the smaller models in his line of snow machines are gaining the most attention.

"Instead of the entire family purchasing one huge machine, they are now buying separate machines which are smaller."

Gary Nugent, Quinte Sport Centre, Picton, comments that his sales are either one extreme or the other. "Our sales are rather split — they either go to the small machines or to the big horsepower models — very little interest in between." Mr. Nugent explained.

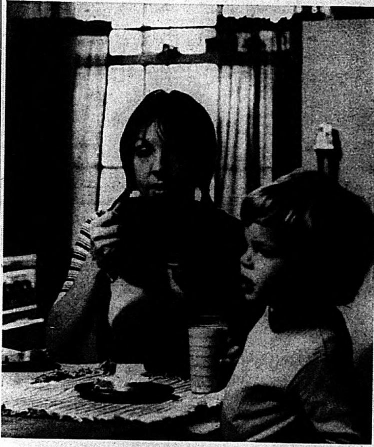
Wednesday: January 22, '75
at 7:30 p.m.

For the purpose of considering an application to rezone Lots 2 and 3, Registered Plan No. 812, City of Belleville (West side of First Street), from "A" to "B" to permit the development of a ground level parking lot. Plans of the area for which the rezoning is requested will be available for inspection. An opportunity will also be given to those concerned to present either oral or written comments on the proposal.



You preach it. Now read why you should practice it. Every day.

"Drink your milk." If you think this applies just to growing children, you are wrong. Nobody ever stops needing the good nutrients in milk.

YOU ARE CERTAINLY AWARE of your children's daily need for milk.

But did you know that you need it too? Every day, just as they do?

Well, you do. Milk is just as important to adults as it is to children. It contains more nutrients needed by all ages than any other food that Nature provides.

All by itself, milk is an excellent source of no less than five nutrients of major importance to adult health. Here they are:—

Calcium. Calcium is a factor in the maintenance, and repair, of bones and teeth. Milk is rated "excellent" as a source of this important mineral.

Protein. You think "meat"? Think "milk". Because milk is an excellent source of the same types of protein found in meat. (Bet you didn't know that!)

Riboflavin. One of the B Vitamins, Riboflavin is a factor in keeping you healthy. And what is an excellent, readily-available and economical source of it? Milk.

Vitamin A. Another basic factor in maintaining health in adults and children. Whole milk (although not skim) is an excellent source of this vitamin.

Phosphorus—of which milk is also an excellent source—works with calcium to maintain good bone condition throughout adulthood.

Wait. There's more to the story: milk is also considered a good source of Thiamine, another needed health factor. And, in Ontario, Vitamin D is almost always added as well.

In short, it's the deficiencies in milk that are hard to find! Just about the only important nutrients it cannot supply are iron and Vitamin C, both of which it has, but only in small amounts.

Now you know how much benefit milk can be for you, an adult. And, you will remember, you once drank it every single day ...through all of your childhood.

Maybe the time has come to start again.

"Every day is what it takes."

To get the most out of milk, make it a daily habit. Just the way you brush your teeth.

Fortunately, nothing could be much easier to make a habit of than milk. You don't have to mix, stir, cook. Just pour...and drink.

You don't have to revise your food habits, either. You can make room for milk in your daily diet simply by adding a glass to breakfast, lunch or dinner. If you have coffee-breaks during your day, you can do yourself a real favour by making one a milk-break instead.

Noonday soups can often be made with milk instead of water. Extra creamy as well as extra good!

And if you're counting calories, make your calories count—by drinking milk every day. It contains more nutrition per calorie than any other readily obtainable food!

Another benefit from milk.

There is one other aspect of your re-instating yourself as a daily milk drinker which deserves your very serious consideration.

It is this: if your children grow up seeing you, an adult, accepting milk as a fundamental part of your daily food intake, it will be a lot harder for them to get talked out of milk by their contemporaries who condemn it as "kid stuff". You're the daily proof that it isn't.

In this day of the junk-food explosion, that's a service that can be important.

And all the time you are setting an example for your children, you are doing a great big nutritional favour for yourself.

Two things to feel good about—with every glass of milk you drink!

Thank goodness for milk.

Over and above all its nutritional values—and no other single food outranks it—there's something uniquely satisfying about milk.

Perhaps this is because milk is such a basic food, so abundantly surrounded with associations of purity, wholesomeness, naturalness.

And, if you are like most Canadian women, you have already been away from milk for far too long.

Make friends with milk again. Every day. Starting now.

It isn't hard. And you won't regret it.

Steel Firm May Build In North

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A Sudbury region official confirmed Saturday that a steel manufacturing firm is negotiating to build a steel plant at Coniston, Ont.

"Yes, there is a company negotiating with Ottawa . . . right now," the spokesman said, "but nothing can be said officially because of the nature of the negotiations."

"The company is a pretty big concern and would be something the region could build upon in future years," said the official without identifying the firm by name. He said he was hopeful a formal announcement could be made within a month.

DREE holds the key to whether the steel firm opens in the Sudbury area.

Without financial aid from the federal department, the company will not go ahead with its plans, the official said.

Coniston is about two miles east of Sudbury.

UFO Seen

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Four Timmins residents reported seeing an unidentified flying object while on an ice-fishing trip to Scorch Lake, Ont., Sunday.

Terry McCormick, Leonard Simon, Ken MacNair and Con Pelletier said they saw a bright object in the sky, about three times the size of a star, travelling from west to east. They said it vanished after about one-and-a-half minutes.

Mr. MacNair, a mining engineer, said he had seen shooting stars before, but "never saw anything like this."

Success

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — John Rhodes, transportation and communications minister, said Saturday the experimental Kapuskasing-Timmins-Sudbury Norontair service has proved an "unqualified success" in its first two months of operation.

The number of passengers travelling between the three northern communities has doubled since the route was integrated into the government Northern Air Service system, Oct. 28, 1974, said Mr. Rhodes.

Three Rescued

MATAGAMI, Que. (CP) — Three persons were rescued by helicopter Saturday from the bush 70 miles to the north where they spent five days stranded aboard their light aircraft.

The three were identified as pilot Raymond Parker of Ste-Agathe, and passengers Michel Magnan and Denis Pouliot, both of Quebec City.

They left here Monday bound for Carbillet near Fort George. They were engaged in work for the Quebec department of natural resources.

Man Held

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — William Miller, 22, of Simcoe has been charged with attempted murder by Haldimand-Norfolk regional police.

Police said a man pointed a rifle at Miller's estranged wife, Janice, at her place of employment Friday.

Two fellow employees disarmed the man. During the struggle a shot was fired into the roof of the building. No one was injured.

Police Dogs Grab Gunman

CALGARY (CP) — A 16-year-old youth was overpowered by police dogs early Sunday, ending a 2½-hour shooting incident in downtown Calgary, the sixth such incident here in the last 30 days.

Police said the youth will be charged with breaking and entry, dangerous use of a firearm and arson. He was to appear in court here today.

The youth was grabbed by police dogs as he emerged from the Hudson Bay Company's downtown store about 5:30 a.m.

A police spokesman said officers received a telephone call that someone had broken into the store about 3 a.m.

Police sealed off the downtown core and entered the store.

A gunman who had barricaded himself in the second floor of the six-storey building opened fire, using a high-powered hunting rifle and ammunition stolen from the store's sporting goods department.

The gunman fired about 20 shots. Earlier reports had estimated the number of shots at 100.

Arab Deals Making Agnew Millionaire

NEW YORK (AP) — Former vice-president Spiro Agnew's real estate partner says Agnew is on his way to becoming a multi-millionaire by bringing foreign money, mostly Arab, into the business.

Two deals in Kentucky made with Kuwait and Saudi Arabian money were cited by Walter Dilbeck, an Evansville, Ind., real estate dealer, as evidence of the help Agnew is bringing to the Dilbeck empire.

Dilbeck said the deal with Agnew "called for me to pay him $100,000 a year for four years, plus one-third of the profits for the first year, and half of the profits of the other three.

"After four years Ted Agnew is free to go on his own," he said. "By that time . . . he should be a multi-millionaire."

John Eisenhower Says Nixon Not Innocent

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richard Nixon was not "an innocent man hounded out of office by a vitriolic press," says John Eisenhower, son of the late president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"He admitted his own complicity—at least I feel he did—in accepting the pardon, and in his resignation statement," Eisenhower, 52, said in a story published in the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin.

"I do feel that if he had been popular with the media and with the intellectual community he would have been treated with more charity.

"But I don't subscribe to all those cliches about his innocence and persecution.

"The basic thing was when he got on television and admitted he told a falsehood as president—looking right into the cameras with that earnest face, the presidential shield behind him and everything. That was it.

"There's no doubt that very bad mistakes were made in the White House. I'm quite sure it wouldn't have happened in my dad's time. The mistake Nixon made was to let these people run their own show—and they weren't equipped for it."

Eisenhower, whose father picked the then senator Nixon as his vice presidential running mate in 1952, is retired from the army and living in suburban Phoenixville.

Eisenhower's son David is married to Nixon's daughter Julie.

Lower Incomes Only Flaw In Farming Outlook for '75

OTTAWA (CP) — Lower farm incomes are the only negative aspect of the 1975 farming picture, which the agriculture department says is otherwise bright.

This is the gist of a summary of reports scheduled for discussion at the 1975 agriculture outlook conference here today and Tuesday.

"Canada's agriculture industry is in a pretty healthy state and the outlook for 1975 is for continued growth—higher production, expanded trade and improved gross but lower net farm incomes," the department says.

"The sensitive spot is the livestock industry where producers, caught by high input costs, will experience difficulty until a rationalization of feed prices and livestock populations takes place on a worldwide basis."

Preliminary Statistics Canada figures indicate that while gross farm income jumped 24 per cent last year over 1973, farmers' net incomes increased less than two per cent, held down by high operating costs.

Estimated gross income in 1974 totalled $9.2 billion, an increase of $1.8 billion over 1973. The estimated net, however, only rose to $3.39 billion from $3.34 billion.

"The outlook for 1975 is for a slight increase in gross income, but another substantial increase in operating expenses, leaving the farmer with a lower net income than in 1974," the agriculture department says.

This is expected to receive much of the attention of the dozens of federal and provincial government representatives at the conference as well as farm organization, business and economic spokesmen.

Declining world wheat stocks will keep prices high—at least until stocks are replenished. They are expected to decrease to 46.5 million metric tons from the 57.5 million on hand at the end of the 1973-74 crop year.

More beef is forecast to be on the market this year, farmers can expect to be paid more for their hogs and sheep and lamb prices should remain high.

Milk production is expected to increase to 16.9 billion pounds in 1975, up about 200 million over 1974. Cheese production should increase but butter production should remain about the same as last year.

Departmental economists say that the rapid price rise in fruits, vegetables and related products such as honey last year likely will not continue.

Your leisure years made easier.

First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan

First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan helps you plan for your leisure years.

Retirement can be the time of your life. But you have to plan for it now, while your earning power—and probably your expenses—are high. You can start by reading about First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan, and how it can make your leisure years, as well as your saving years, much, much easier.

Reduce your income tax while you save for your retirement.

By investing in First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan any time during and up to 60 days after a taxation year, you may reduce your taxable income by the amount of your investment, up to the lesser of: 20% of your earned income, $4000 if you have no pension plan, $2500 if you are a non-contributing member of a pension plan, or $2500 less the amount of your contributions to a company pension plan. Your tax reduction is not affected by payment into the Canada or Quebec Pension Plans. Income tax will have to be paid on your savings eventually—either when used as retirement income or if you withdraw your savings prior to retirement—but probably at a lower rate than during your peak earning years.

Choose from two options.

At present there are two options available. Both are eligible for registration with the tax authorities so that you can reduce your annual income tax.

Option I-First Canadian Mortgage Fund.

In today's financial market, investment in a quality mortgage fund is considered a good bet to produce a relatively secure high yield over the long term. At the same time, investors may realize an increase in value of their units in this Fund depending on prevailing mortgage interest rates. There is no load on the purchase or redemption of these units.

Option II-Firstbank Special Retirement Account. Your deposits in this special bank account will earn interest at the Bank's Five-Year-Term Deposit Receipt rate. This rate of interest will be fixed every January 1st and July 1st at the rate prevailing that day—and remain in effect for six months.

Interest is calculated and payable on your minimum monthly balance and credited semi-annually.

Over the long term, the yield will vary but always be tied to the upper end of the scale of bank interest rates.

Option I and Option II. If you wish, you may buy into both First Canadian Mortgage Fund and Firstbank Special Retirement Account. In fact, over the long term and as economic conditions fluctuate, one option may become more profitable and appropriate than the other. You may switch your savings contributions from one option to another without penalty or charge.

The cost of this plan is minimal.

Unlike many other registered retirement savings plans, there is no charge for opening or closing a plan.

There is an annual Trustee fee of 1/5 of 1% of your investment—maximum $25 per account, to cover registration and the expense of the Trustee of the plan. The amount will be deducted from your share of the income of the plan and will be indicated on your statement. The standard management fees will also be applicable.

You start by investing as little as $200.

The minimum initial contribution into First Canadian Mortgage Fund and Firstbank Special Retirement Account is $200. (If you invest in both, your first contribution is $400—$200 into each option). Contributions may be made at any time. However, the most effective method of participation is on a regular basis.

Ask your bank manager to help you work out a regular payment schedule and automatically transfer funds from your bank account to your R.R.S.P., as per your instructions.

The best time to start is right now.

Now is the time to arrange your saving program for the future with First Canadian Retirement Savings Plans.

For an independent analysis of types of plans, what to look for, costs, etc., ask for R.R.S.P. specialist, R. W. Wakefield's booklet, "Registered Retirement Savings Plans".

After-tax Take Key Oil Statistic

CALGARY (CP) — Oil industry officials say raising domestic oil and gas prices is important to Canada's energy self-sufficiency, but that is only part of their problem.

"It won't do us any good if domestic prices rise to world level but we cannot get our fair share because of government royalty and taxation policies," said Scotty Cameron, general manager of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada.

Which is why, said John Poyen, president of the Canadian Petroleum Association, he "can't see any real relationship at this time" between the increase in oil prices announced by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and oil prices in Canada.

Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta—which supplies most of the domestic oil west of the Ottawa Valley — announced earlier this month that the wellhead prices of Alberta crude oil will be increased after the winter.

Industry officials say the initial increase will likely be $2 a barrel, effective shortly after the domestic oil price agreement ends March 31.

Mr. Lougheed said after the Nov. 18 federal budget that Alberta was no longer bound to an agreement, reached at the first ministers' meeting earlier this year, freezing domestic oil at $6.50 a barrel.

Quebec and the Maritime provinces will also be affected by an increase in Alberta's wellhead prices, as Energy Minister Donald Macdonald has said the tax on crude oil exported to the United States, now $5.20 a barrel, would be reduced as domestic prices increase.

Eastern Canada is currently sheltered against the price difference between western oil and imported oil through subsidies paid by Ottawa out of the export tax, a major complaint by the industry and the producing provinces of the West.

Industry sources estimate that if domestic oil prices increase to $8.50 a barrel, gasoline prices will rise by six cents or more a gallon.

Mr. Cameron said there is a "myth" that each time domestic prices increase, the industry automatically adds to its profits.

While producers would get 68 cents more if the domestic oil price increased by $2 a barrel in Alberta—under the new Alberta Petroleum Exploration Plan—the industry would be better off if the prices were not increased in Saskatchewan, he said.

"Under existing federal and Saskatchewan policies—it may sound ridiculous but it is true—the higher the domestic price, the more money the industry would lose."

He said the industry would lose 84 cents if the price of oil were increased by $2 in Saskatchewan.

That is because the Saskatchewan government, with its 100-per-cent supplementary royalty rate, would take away the entire increase while Ottawa, by disallowing the deduction of provincial royalty payments in computing federal income tax, would still tax the industry 30 per cent of the "increase."

Charles Hetherington, president of Panarctic Oils Ltd. of Calgary, said frontier energy resources cannot be developed unless world prices prevail in Canada and government royalty and taxation policies are changed.

Private Clubs Still Report Waiting Lists

VANCOUVER (CP) — Inflation hasn't hurt one of the last vestiges of privileged society, the private club.

Clubs here still have waiting lists even though they are boosting their fees.

The oldest in the city, the Vancouver Club, founded in 1893, is restricted to 900 resident members. It has more than 30 applicants waiting to pay the $1,500 initiation fee and $396 annual dues, which have increased $55 in the last year.

The Arbutus Club, founded only in 1964, has between 4,800 and 6,000 members and a one-to-two-year waiting list. The initiation fee increased $500 to $2,000 in 1974 with dues remaining at $384 a year.

The Shaughnessy Golf Club, founded in 1911, has about 100 on its waiting list. Men pay an initiation fee of $3,500, while unattached women pay $1,250 and wives of members $500. Annual dues for men are $600 and for women $360. Dues increased 10 per cent Aug. 1, 1974, but the entrance fee has been unchanged for three years.

Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, founded in 1897, has an entrance fee of $2,000. Five years ago it was $600. Applicants must wait two to three years before joining the 900 playing family members and the 150 social members.

WELCOME THEM WARMLY

A friendly call is always welcomed by newcomers to your neighborhood. They'll be happy to meet you. Later, they'll want to know you better.

But right now, they need something more—directions to the nearest schools and shopping facilities and all the other information one needs on arriving in a strange city.

So make your welcome a little warmer with the help of a Welcome Wagon hostess. She'll provide all this and gifts as well.

When new neighbors move in, call Welcome Wagon. You'll be glad you did... and they will, too.

Solar Energy Use Gaining Ground

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The use of solar energy to heat and cool homes already is economically feasible and using the sun in place of energy obtained from oil and coal is not far off, experts say.

"I'll have to concede, however, that the rise in the cost of conventional energy has made (solar energy) feasible faster than our program has," said Raymond H. Fields, director of the National Science Foundation's office of public technology projects.

The foundation has granted $50 million for research into solar energy use.

Fields told a University of Miami conference some home solar heating systems already can justify their cost with fuel savings within three years. The systems were not being installed because mortgage lenders preferred to keep the original cost of a home as low as possible.

Featured attraction at the conference was Dr. Felix Trombe, a pioneer of solar energy research. Trombe is director of the solar furnace projects at Mont Louis and Odeillo in the French Pyrenees.

Trombe said harnessing the sun to make electricity and industrial heat is not far off.

He said domestic and low-temperature applications of solar energy are already practical and only need concentrated effort to make them competitive with conventional energy.

Howard Harrenstien, dean of the University of Miami school of engineering and environmental design, said use of solar water heaters will increase within the next two years and university research on solar cooling will start next year, with results possible as soon as 1979.

MOST PARENTS DON'T ENCOURAGE THEIR DAUGHTERS TO BECOME DOCTORS, LAWYERS, POLITICIANS.

WHY NOT?

Maybe you haven't thought about it much, but most little girls grow up to be typists or secretaries or housewives. Each can be a satisfying and rewarding career. To the girl who chooses it that way.

But too many of us let our children grow up believing that girls don't really have much choice. That medicine, law, politics, industry are all pretty much closed shops to women. That all the important decisions are made by men. That women don't have leadership qualities.

But women do have leadership qualities. Women do make vital decisions. And women are successful in industry and the professions.

Of 264 Federal Members of Parliament, nine are women and one of those nine is a Cabinet Minister. Ten per cent of Canada's doctors are women. And five per cent of our lawyers.

Now, if you compare these figures to those of ten years ago, you'd have to say they're encouraging. But they're just not good enough. We've simply got to stop thinking of successful women as being exceptions.

There is no federal or provincial law that says a woman cannot be Prime Minister or Premier. And yet there's never been one. No women sit on the Supreme Court of Canada. Of the top fifty companies in Canada, not one has a woman president. Very few even have women on the board of directors.

The fact that we've come as far as we have proves we have the abilities. So why aren't more of our elected representatives women? Why aren't more of our doctors women? More of our lawyers? Our butchers, our engineers, our accountants?

If it's not because we're less intelligent or less capable, maybe it's because we've been conditioned into lacking confidence. Maybe it's time we tried harder. Maybe it's time we started talking about it more. To our husbands, to our bosses. To our school teachers and counsellors. To our elected representatives. To our daughters and sons. To ourselves.

We have the right to fill whatever role in life we choose. At the very least, we have the right to try. And, if we're not doing it, why aren't we? We owe it to ourselves. And to society.

Quinte Cuisine

Varied interests have led David Lyon to post-graduate degrees, archeological digging in Israel, ordination as a minister in 1972, and to Albert College, where he is chaplain and his wife Paula is the headmaster's secretary. Although they eat noon meals with the students, the couple have a kitchen in their college apartment where they can pursue another of Rev. Lyon's interests — cooking.

Peasant Stock Soup

three quarts chicken stock
one cup dry light sherry three large potatoes peeled and diced into large cubes three or four stalks celery, diced roughly two or three medium onions, diced roughly three large carrots, diced roughly three-quarters cup barley one to 1½ pounds pre-cooked ham, diced into large cubes three tbsp. parsley dash garlic powder
one tsp. sweet basil one tsp. sage
one to two ounces butter
½ green pepper, diced roughly one cup fresh cream
Worcestershire sauce to taste

In a large, heavy pot, melt the butter over a medium heat, and add the potatoes, celery, carrots, onions, parsley and green pepper. Let the vegetables heat until they are limp. Then add the chicken stock, sherry, sweet basil, sage and garlic. Bring this mixture to a steady heat, but do not let the soup boil.

Add the barley and ham, and a dash or two of Worcestershire sauce. Let the soup simmer for two or three hours, or as long as five hours, but do not let it boil. If the soup begins to thicken, dilute with a little water.

Just before serving, add the cup of cream and stir in. Serve the soup in pre-heated bowls.

This soup is an ideal one for winter weekends. Once the ingredients are prepared and mixed, the cook can go off for an afternoon jaunt, leaving the soup on a low heat.

An excellent meal can be made of peasant stock soup accompanied by hot fresh bread, relishes, cheddar cheese and a dry white wine.

Mr. and Mrs. William Calbury

Golden Wedding

A bicycle jaunt to Deseronto, by a Belleville youth, led to a romance that has flourished for over 60 years, as Mr. and Mrs. William T. Calbury celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on Sunday January 12.

Mr. Calbury had journeyed to Deseronto to visit a boy friend and unexpectedly met Ina Maud Bowerman, who was on an errand at the village post office.

The couple were married in Belleville Tabernacle United Church by the late Rev. W.G. Clarke, moving into 142 Charles Street, a house built by the groom.

On Sunday the same Charles Street residence was the scene of a family surprise anniversary party. Honoring their parents were Bill Calbury, Belleville; Mrs. Grant (Rosella) Thompson, Markham; Mrs. Roy (Ruth) Boyce, Cannifton; and Mrs. Lloyd (Ruby) Greenfield also Belleville, with 12 grandchildren.

Belleville Senior Citizens presented an anniversary tray with matching cups and saucers, at the regular meeting that week.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Calbury enjoy good health and although well into retirement years Mr. Calbury occasionally helps his son Bill, who has carried on the family plumbing business, and Mrs. Calbury continues housekeeping duties.

ST. JULIEN IODE

On January 7 the St. Julien chapter of the IODE met with Regent Thelma Bailey in the chair.

Zetta Harris asked for volunteers to help in the serving of refreshments during the large blood donor clinics being held January 21, 22, and 23 in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Harris had many offers of assistance so that people giving blood will be adequately cared for.

Mrs. Bailey announced the foundation of a new primary chapter of the IODE in Charlottetown P.E.I. She also told the member that a new history of the IODE has recently been published, and it was agreed that the St. Julien chapter should purchase a copy.

Treasurer Vera Slade reported that a donation has been sent to provide gifts for mental health patients, and that various other donations, amounting $160 were given during December to charitable organization.

Barbara Lenk read a letter from the Foxe nursing station, thanking her for the gifts sent to the children there by the chapter.

After the business meeting, a social hour was spent by the members, with a lunch provided by Mrs. Lenk and Ann Gadjicar.

RAWDON UCW

At the January meeting Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church women celebrated the 50th anniversary of church union with special programs and displays of flowers.

A list of all presidents of the women's organizations told the story of growth since the Woman's Missonary Society was formed in 1901. The Women's Association was formed in 1945, and then in 1962 the United Church Women was formed to include both earlier groups in a new type of organization.

Marion Sharpe presided and Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal solo. Faye Dunham read the story of the church crests and Fern Weaver gave an outline of the past 50 years. Nellie Smith and seven member presented a dialogue entitled "Do You Remember?"

Florence MacMullen was in charge of the In Memoriam service and Edna Shaw was soloist for the program in memory of deceased members.

In the Swim, and Loving It!

During the Kinder Swim demonstration at the YMCA Sunday, Sandy Baillargeon, nine-month-old son of Paul and Anne Baillargeon of Picton, swims happily toward his mother. As though still relying on water wings for safety, young Sandy has no fear of the water, and has been paddling confidently since beginning the swim program two months ago. The Kinder Swim classes are taught by Anne Leverton, who has 36 children under eight years old enrolled, accompanied by their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Connell

O'Connell — Cook

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of the December 28 service uniting Ruth Elizabeth Cook and Timothy James O'Connell in marriage. Rev. L. A. Sutherland performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Cook and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. O'Connell.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore an A-line gown of imported batik white silk velvet, with an empire waist, high neck, long tapered sleeves closed with pearls, and a chapel train. A Queen Anne headpiece of velvet and pearls held a silk illusion finger-tip veil. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by white carnations and ivy.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister Janice Cook, who wore a gown of green silk velvet with a co-ordinated silk print bodice with a matching velvet bolero edged with silk ruffles.

Bridesmaids Leslie Morton, Penny Fort, and the bride's sister Cathy Weston, wore gowns the same as the maid of honor's. All the attendants carried green candles encircled by white daisy mums, holly, baby's breath and ivy.

Andrew Nerska of Candiac, Quebec, served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Ian Kroon of Scarborough, Brain Royle and Bruce Alexander.

A cocktail party at the Belleville Club followed the wedding.

After a honeymoon in Nassau, Bahamas, the newly-married couple have settled in Belleville.

Don't Let Retirement Kill You!

Someone said that before retirement one's main concern is with money; after retirement, with killing time.

Others have even gone farther; and there are some shocking statistics about time killing you, if you have nothing to do.

I talked to a commissionaire at Mohawk Community College (Hamilton, Ontario). He had retired from a factory job three years ago. Had been looking forward to freedom from the daily round.

Within seven weeks of his so-called freedom he had a heart attack. He asked the doctor what he should do and was told to get back to work!

Now, he could not go back to the heavy physical work he had done for many years; so his wise physician sent him to the Corps of Commissionaires.

He is now happy as a clam, working part time as receptionist, parking lot guard, guide, or anything else they ask him to do at the college. He loves the place.

If you have no plan about what happens after you walk out of your work place that last afternoon, get one and live!

Dear Doris: My daughter is getting confirmed this year. Is it possible to have a non-Catholic sponsor? For example, an Anglican, etc?

Being Confirmed.

Dear Being: Your parish priest will tell you that your daughter's sponsor should be a member of your church. This works either way and in both churches.

If you are at a loss to choose a Catholic relative or close friend, would there be a teacher, a Catholic one, with whom she is particularly friendly?

Invalid's Widow Opens Resort for Disabled

JERSEY, Channel Islands (CP) — A Toronto-born widow has turned her home into a holiday resort for disabled guests

When her husband died after years as a semi-invalid, Mrs. E. Michael Ashton Edwards decided to turn their 1890 house into a vacation spot offering special facilities to guests with physical handicaps.

Situated on a heath by the sea near the island capital of St. Helier, the house required some structural changes. Doorways had to be wide enough to accommodate wheelchairs and special bathrooms were needed with tubs in the middle of the floor and equipped with braces and straps to permit handicapped persons to get in and out of them.

Named the Maison des Landes Hotel, the resort offers plenty of entertainment.

Two buses, donated by the Variety Clubs of Great Britain, transport guests into St. Helier for sightseeing, shopping or visits to cabarets, bars or the opera. Entertainment is arranged in the hotel by the Variety Club of Jersey.

Local volunteers lend a hand. A young farmer drives one of the buses on Sunday when the regular driver is off duty and girl guides show up on Sundays to help prepare the evening meal.

There are few rules. Guests must be accompanied by someone capable of looking after their personal needs and visitors must book for a stay of 10 days to two weeks.

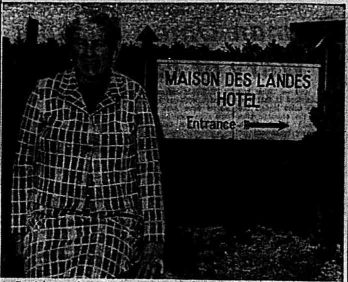
"I want to give as many people as possible the opportunity of coming," Mrs Ashton Edwards explained, adding that she prefers group bookings because the guests are likely to be congenial.

Seventeen groups have already made inquiries for bookings this year, including one from Belgium. So far, most of the guests have been English.

Mrs Ashton Edwards, born Elizabeth Greey, is descended from John Gamble, a surgeon who came to Canada with Governor John Graves Simcoe. The family later owned land in what now is the heart of Toronto.

A University of Toronto graduate, she was studying biochemistry at the Research University College in London when the Second World War broke out and met her future husband, an electric engineer, while doing YWCA work in Manchester.

They married in 1948 and moved to Jersey seven years later when Mr Ashton Edwards became ill.



Toronto-born, Mrs. E. Michael Ashton Edward sits near the entrance to her home she has converted into a resort for disabled guests on Jersey, Channel Islands. Guest must be accompanied by someone capable of looking after their personal needs and vistors must book for a stay of 10 days or more.(CP Photo)

Contraceptive Implant May Work for a Year

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Scientists say they have developed a self-dissolving birth control capsule expected to work for at least a year when implanted under a woman's skin.

Researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) say the capsules have so far proved 100 per cent effective in rats and dogs. They estimate that testing in human is three year away.

In addition to eliminating the need to take a pill daily, the scientists say their system may have fewer unpleasant side effects.

Older-style plastic capsules designed for long-term contraception must be removed after their contents are exhausted and sometimes cause irritation under the skin.

Dr. Paul Newberne, a professor of nutritional pathology at MIT who leads the capsule development team, said it is absorbed by the body in much the same way as internal sutures used in surgery.

The capsule is made of polymers - chemically restructed variations—of two naturally occuring body substances, which are imbedded with norgestrel, a steroid hormone safely used for years in oral contraceptives.

Dr. Newberne said the researchers use a device that looks like a giant hypodermic syringe to place the capsule under the skin in the lower back. It then softens and is hardly noticeable under the skin.

The Experts Say

Women's Lib Causes Stress, More Men Seek Counselling

TORONTO (CP) — More men are seeking professional counselling and women's liberation is a stress factor mentioned by these men, a counsellor says.

"There's a new trend; women are leaving men and they are talking openly about their love affairs," Rev. Don Gillies, director of the Institute of Human Relations, said in an interview. "The shoe is on the other foot, so to speak, and some men simply don't know how they should react."

Farrell Toombs, assistant director of the University of Toronto student advisory bureau, said the men with the real problems are those "who are aware of the situation, but who talk about women's new goals as being 'garbage.' "

Dr. Don McCulloch, psychiatrist and director of the bureau, said that while some men feel women's liberation threatens their masculinity, sometimes husbands showing the most distress are ones with the most positive attitude toward the women's movement.

A man is "tied down by economics, working for the labor force," Mr. Couchman

"For instance, one couple I heard about said they didn't want to confuse love and fidelity," he said. "They wished to be free, but when it came down to the nitty-gritty, the going was rough."

Dr. McCulloch said the husband had a mistress but his reaction was negative when his wife had other lovers.

Bob Couchman, executive director of the Family Service Association of Metropolitan Toronto, said it was unusual to find men initiating family counselling.

He said the peak periods for conflict are when women want to go back to work, or early in a marriage when the question of starting a family arises.

Many women fail to appreciate that men are less liberated than they would like to think, he said.

said, "He may be free to go outside the home, and meet people at work, but he's not truly liberated."

Dr. Sy Silverberg, director of education and growth opportunities at the centre for continuing education at York should try to understand men's feelings about women's liberation so that they can be less demanding and more sensitive.

It is often less easy for a man to put into practice than to accept intellectually the idea of giving up a "comfortable situation" and taking on some of the "joe jobs," he said.

"But I think these men have got to take responsibility for their own feelings of insecurity or fear, and not lay them back on their women," Dr. Silverberg said.

Mr. Couchman said the problem will only be resolved by talking about people liberation.

"Talking about the issue separately, only leads to polarization," he said.

Ann Landers

The Most Important Words

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I took a short course in human relations. Last night I went through some old notebooks and found this "lesson" which has been invaluable to me. I would like to share it with others.—Better For It In Massapequa

The six most important words: You did a good job.

The four most important words: What is your opinion?

The three most important words: If you please.

The two most important words: Thank you.

The one most important word: We.

The least important word: I.

—Anonymous

Dear Mass: Thank you. You did a good job. We appreciate your sharing. (I used eight of the most important words right here—also the least important).

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in regard to "Urgent and Waiting," the family whose young relative was diagnosed as having a brain tumor. Though my brain tumor was benign, surgery was necessary because of its location, size and rapid growth.

My neurosurgeon was very skilled and the operation was a complete success. I was warned that I would probably be blind in one eye, but I was very lucky. My vision in both eyes is nearly perfect.

Now, at age 18, I am in excellent health. The only reminder of that tumor is a thin scar and some pills I must take daily for a thyroid deficiency.

When I first learned of the tumor, I was scared to death, and so was my family, but our faith in God—and a wonderful surgeon—kept us strong.

Thank you, Ann, for telling your readers that "a brain tumor need not be a death sentence." I am living proof and there are thousands like me.—Alive and Well

Dear A and W: Thank you for the heartening testimonial. I received some letters from readers who had malignant brain tumors removed and made it. So, the word from here is: "Have faith—and a good doctor."

Dear Ann Landers: After 20 years of marriage and six kids, my husband decided he'd rather have a younger woman. We divorced nine months ago and he says he loves the children but he refuses to take them even for one night. (He and the younger woman are living together but not married).

I want to entertain a male friend of whom I have become very fond, but there is absolutely no privacy around here.

My bedroom is the only possibility. It has a TV, stereo—and bed. Would it be decent, nine months after their father left, to entertain a man in my bedroom?

Does being single and raising children mean I have to give up everything?—Cheated

Dear Cheated: If your husband says he loves the kids he'd better start proving it by taking them for weekends (sans girl friend until they marry if they do) — and on holidays. This would not only make them feel less abandoned but prevent total estrangement which may prove very painful for him in years to come. It would also provide the relief and periodic freedom to which you are certainly entitled.

Helen Reddy Heads 'Worst - Dressed' List

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Australian - born singer Heln Reddy tops the 1974 list of Ten Worst-Dressed Women, the list's creator, designer Earl Blackwell, said Tuesday.

"She simply isn't ready," Blackwell said of the pop singer, who recently became a United States citizen.

But he reserved the all-time "worst" for actrss Elizabeth Taylor, who he said has figured most prominently in the list during the 15 years he has been compiling it.

"There's too many yards of flesh for too few inches of fabric. She could be the most gorgeous woman in the world.

"There's no point in trying to make yourself smaller by pulling a zipper tighter. If you're large, you're large. Large women can look wonderful."

For the first time in years, the British Royal Family did not figure on the list.

"I just got bored with them," Blackwell said. "The whole family is just hopeless."

Others on his list were Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia; stripper Fanne Foxe, who figured in the recent scandal involving Congressman Wilbur Mills; New York Congresswoman Bella Abzug; television star Cher Bono; Latin singer Charo; the black singing group the Pointer Sisters; film actress Raquel Welch; television star Karen Valentine; and New York fashion designer Sonia Rykiel.

Role Switches in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Men are becoming increasingly interested in traditionally female jobs while women are more and more interested in traditionally male work, says a British Columbia human rights officer.

Hanne Jensen told a meeting of the Industrial Relations Management Association of B.C. that men often don't want a serious commitment to full-time work and a 20-year career.

"They want something that will enable them to make enough money but doesn't demand a lot of them," she said.

One such man applied for a part-time cashier's job in a grocery store and was turned down on the grounds that it was a woman's job because women are better at standing on their feet all day.

The manager of the store told an officer of the human rights branch of the provincial department of labor that this fact had been proven by experience.

Whenever a male management trainee was put on the cash register, he would give up in a couple of hours, complaining bitterly about his feet, the manager said.

"But women are happy doing it all day long."

The man finally got the job.

The human rights branch has also helped women get employment in traditionally male fields.

One woman went to the government for help because she wanted a job clearing hiking trails but was rejected because employers said they wanted to protect her from rape by her co-workers, "if she didn't have enough time to seduce them first."

Wintry Work

Worker stokes ready-made furnace to keep sand from freezing during winter work at senior citizens apartments project of Wellington Crescent in Belleville. The project, housing 80 apartments for elderly residents, is expected to be finished later this summer. Such projects, already in operation, being built or planned, will create a total of 400 accommodation units for older people in the city.

Lyon Holds Competition For City of Tomorrow

LYON (Reuter) — On a windswept and waterlogged hillside near Lyon, architects have a chance to realize their most grandiose dreams by planning a 21st-century city that will eventually have a population of 250,000.

A competition has been launched by local authorities to see who can produce the most imaginative plan for an urban community that will be a model for future town-planners.

About 200 architects have inquired about the competition, the first of its kind in France. Competition organizer Louis Maurel said: "The constant complain from architects was that they had never before had a competition to plan a whole town."

Now the field has been whittled down to six groups of architects, including one from Sweden and another from Holland.

Their imagination has been let loose on a chunk of bleak and sweeping countryside 15 miles east of Lyon.

Whoever wins—it will be decided in May—will be constructing a major section of the town.

Maurel said: "We have stressed that the competitors make the most of the landscape's attractions and that the quality of the environment should be one of their major preoccupations.

"There is nothing grandiose about the landscape. It is a delicate, almost modest site. The slightest mistake would destroy its charm. We must be very careful."

But the project itself could hardly be described as modest. The city, when complete, will stretch through a 10-mile-long valley with gently sloping hills on either side.

Its transport facilities will be superb—rail and road links will ensure that the inhabitants can reach many major central European cities within three hours.

The new city, aimed at absorbing the overflow population from the suburbs of Lyon, will be called L'isle d'Abeau.

Since the project was launched two years ago, 5,000 pioneers have taken up residence in rows of pink and cream houses lined up in open country like a collection of rabbit hutches.

Today they are surrounded by acres of rolling countryside. By the year 2000 they will be part of a vast city.

But Maurel, watching a pair of horses cavort in a field beside the new housing estate, was adamant.

"It is essential we maintain a pastoral element," he said. "A man-made lake, parks, woods and pedestrian precincts will all be included to ensure that town and country mix harmoniously."

German Union Member Is Wary of Extremism

BONN (CP) — "What you don't understand is that German trade union leaders are aware of the economic situation," said Hagen Frost, dapper young spokesman for the ministry of economics. "They know what is possible and what is not."

It seems an incredibly bland reply to why German loses comparatively few man-hours of work through strikes. But one hears variations on the same theme in dozens of conversations with German employers, politicians and even union representatives.

Across town, in the new Bundestag, which looks remarkably like a gleaming, white general hospital, Liberal member Ernst Achenbach asserted that "Hitler would never have come to power if there hadn't been seven million unemployed."

The link between economic disruption and political extremism, it seems, remains always in the forefront of the German mind.

Now, with unemployment inching toward the one-million mark—actually a paltry 3.6 per cent, but the highest in Germany for almost 20 years—the people are near-frantic. Inflation, too, is soaring but at a current annual rate of 6.5 per cent it still is the lowest in the Western industrial world.

The common belief abroad that German unions are placid, even "tame," seems to the outsider all the more remarkable in the face of the hard-nosed attitude of the Federation of German Industries. A top level association of industrialists, it is housed in a modern skyscraper beside the bustling Rhine in nearby Cologne, openly dedicated to the protection of free enterprise "against all attacks from socialist quarters."

There, silver-haired Wolfgang Baumann, wearing a black shirt and black suit, said economic problems are rooted in the high cost of oil, imported raw materials and labor.

"We cannot influence the price of oil or materials," he said firmly, "but we have the power to control wages."

He recalled that until 1969 West Germany hardly ever had a strike. Exports were up, profits were up, prices were stable—and so were wages.

"Everyone—unions and management—was asleep. We should have seen it coming and done something about it in time. But then the left groups entered the picture, talking about the 'profit explosion.'

"With all this socialist propaganda and agitation, we had our first strike in September, 1969.

"I remember it as clearly as the date of the founding of the republic. Things have never been the same since."

Germany has had only six major strikes since 1969. But there were only two in the previous decade.

In Duesseldorf, Hans-Detlev Kuller youthful spokesman for the German Trade Unions Federation, suggested that "the success of trade-union efforts does not mean only the number of strikes that are called.

"In Britain they have many strikes but the workers there are not as well off as German workers."

Also, since the Second World War Germany has developed a system of industry-wide unions. Of a work force of 24 million, 39 per cent are union members and 31 per cent of these come under the umbrella of the federation, made up of only 16 unions. There is one union for the auto industry, for instance, whereas in Britain there are 20-odd.

"Rivalries do not exist among unions as in Britain," said Kuller, a young economist with long hair and gold-rimmed glasses.

He agreed with Baumann, his opposite number on the employers' side, that there is something special about the German "work ethic," verging on patriotism, that sets the worker aside from his counterpart elsewhere.

The worst thing one can call a German worker is a worker. He has a "professional" air about him, enhanced by a considerable degree of participation in management. With this "spirit of co-determination" workers on the supervisory board of an auto firm recently were able to block a substantial investment in the United States, thus protecting jobs at home. When Chancellor Helmut Schmidt visited President Ford in Washington recently his entourage included two trade union leaders.

The worker's prosperous apearance is partly due to his penny-pinching ways. "A German thinks the French worker is almost sinful, the way he spends on food and wine," observed a union man. "A German puts his money into more durable things, like furniture or a car, which he washes and polishes every Sunday."

Reverting to the theme of Herr Frost at the economics ministry, Kuller said German workers realize that "their prosperity is based on exports—if a world crisis comes, German workers will be harder hit than anyone else."

But Kuller conceded that union militancy is getting stronger.

The next big test comes early this year when the vast metal-working, textile and service industries present demands of from 10 to 12 per cent in wage increases. Will they get what they want?

"Never," said one highly-placed union negotiator. "The agreement will be under 10 per cent."

On the employers' side, Baumann said: "We want a settlement of under eight per cent. It would be most beautiful to have six per cent."

But both sides are confident that, in the present economic climate, there will again be a settlement without strikes.

Union Man Says Tips Constitute Danger Pay

TORONTO (CP) — R. C. Huddart, an executive of the Canadian Restaurant Association, says half of all food and liquor personnel receive tips and they average, in total, 15 per cent of an establishment's sales.

If there were no tips, food and drink prices would have to rise because management would have to pay higher salaries, he said.

But Julius Troll, secretary of Local 280 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union, says tips are "overrated" and just a slight compensation for other occupational hazards such as alcoholism.

He said tips are not that large or the industry would not always be complaining about the difficulties in finding help.

"They pay right and I can get them all the help they need, right this minute," he said.

At the top dining rooms, the captain and waiters split the tip, give 10 per cent to their bus boy and under-the-table fee in some cases to the maitre d' if they want to hold their jobs. They will also pay him if they want big tippers directed to their tables.

Jane Howe, a former waitress and now an office worker, said she paid part of her tips to the service bartender, who "can either make you or break you." She said she made up to $15 on slow nights and up to $40 on Fridays and Saturdays.

A bartender-waiter at a large mid-Toronto beer parlor said tips range from $20 to $25 a day on the afternoon shift and from $40 to $50 at night.

Under Local 299, which covers all the major hotels, scale is $2.50 to $2.60 an hour for captains, $2.25 for waiters and $2.45 for bus boys. The bus boys' salary reflects the smaller amount he gets in tips. Service and stool bartenders receive $4 and $3.50 an hour, respectively.

Negotiations are under way for a new contract.

"Management used to talk tips at the bargaining table," Mr. Troll said. "Not any more."

Food and beverage personnel who receive tips have to declare them on their income tax form.

One waiter was caught for not reporting more than $14,000 in income and another for missing almost $10,000.

An income tax spokesman said their main information comes from hotel bills or credit-card accounts to which tips have been added. From these they work back to an individual's total volume of business and an estimate of tips.

He said they have also questioned tip income when they have noted bank interest or property deals out of proportion to the amount of income declared.

Streaking Divides Militants

BOMBAY (CP) — Streaking has invaded the troubled campus of Bombay University and the main beneficiaries appear to be the university authorities.

Ever since a group of masked streakers marched through the grounds of St. Xavier's College chanting "Down with naked repression," militant students have been debating whether the practice is a legitimate protest weapon.

A violent strike for more student rights was stopped cold while the controversy raged.

Streaking was denounced by many students, paritcularly women, as vulgar and un-Indian. Communists and other leftists termed it a bourgeois weapon. "A dirty capitalist trick designed to divide the ranks of militant youth," said Jimmy Bharucha, a Communist leader. "It is time to pause in our struggle for student rights and consider the means we are adopting."

A survey indicated that 80 per cent of the student body opposed the practice but the pro-streaking minority was equally vehement.

"There is nothing wrong with it," said Thomas Fernandez, a bearded science student. "Those who oppose streaking are hypocrites, for they secretly enjoyed the spectacle. I know of half a dozen so-called Maoists who cheered the streakers."

A girl who condemned streaking as an "insult to women," received a handwritten note saying. "Keep your mouth shut if you don't want to find yourself streaking against your wishes."

Fir Trees Flourish On Fungi

VANCOUVER (CP) — It's difficult to believe that the fungus encrusted around the base of a mighty Douglas fir is one of the main elements allowing the tree to survive and flourish.

Dr. James Trappe of the United States department of agriculture recently explained to a University of British Columbia audience just how important fungi are to a forest.

He showed slides of Douglas fir roots encrusted with nodules and fibres of one of 2,000 varieties of root fungus found in the Pacific Northwest.

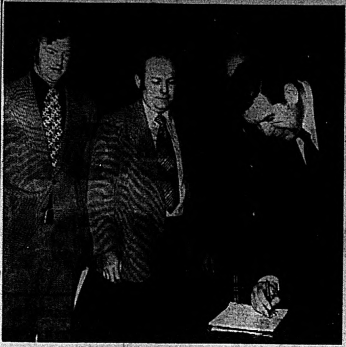
"It seems appalling if you think of something like athlete's foot,' said Dr. Trappe. "But the roots don't take this attitude.' He said rootlets kept free of the fungus die within a few months while those infected with the fungus live for many years.

Dr. Trappe said microscopic examination shows that the fungus repeatedly infect cells in the root, each time leaving behind minerals absorbed from the soil.

Root fungi also protect plants by providing a physical and chemical barrier against disease organisms.

Dr. Trappe, who is with the U.S. forestry sciences laboratory in Corvallis, Ore., said more than 95 per cent of the worlds plants depend on root fungi to get vital nutrients from the soil.

One variety of fungus, in fact, is the key to reforestation of large areas of Appalachia scarred by coal mining. Dr. Trappe said the fungus thrives in the extremely acid soil of coal mine banks and scientists have learned to 'inoculate the soil with spores of the fungus so that pine trees will grow in the barren hills.



Talking Business

The question of taxation, especially in regard to the land transfer tax act and the land speculation tax act, were dealt with during a meeting of Certified General Accountants recently Speaker at the meeting was Allan Jackson, right, a tax specialist, succession duty branch with the Ministry of Revenue, Queen's Park. Swiss Do Not Have an Army Because They Are an Army

BERN (Reuter) — Military experts have called Switzerland "the porcupine of Europe," and it's a fairly accurate description.

This small, land-locked Alpine republic has a population of just over six million, almost entirely civilians, and no full-time army.

It has never fought a war since the Swiss Confederation was formed in 1815 and it has no general in peacetime.

But the government estimates that, if necessary, it could put 650,000 citizens in the field within 48 hours.

Switzerland has drawn up a detailed plan for implementation in the event of war or other emergency, including the speedy mining of Alpine passes and other strategic installations, rationing, and the mobilization of the Swiss navy.

The Swiss navy: Yes, contrary to popular belief and tired jokes, a navy exists and it is larger than many people think.

Switzerland's defence system is based on its militia—civilians trained in their spare time for fighting. By law, every ctizen between 20 and 50 years of age must do a three-month term of military service and, until he is 32, attends annual 20-day refresher courses.

"The army is conceived on infantry principles and everyone in Switzerland is prepared to defend his country," said Dr. Ernest Moegeli, head of the federal military department's information section.

A senior military department official put it another way: "We don't have an army in Switzerland. We are an army."

Visitors to Swiss homes see tangible signs of this in the government - supplied machine-guns and ammunition kept by the men or in the emergency food piles stocked by the women.

Switzerland's concern with defence arises from its neutrality. Government officials remember the Second World War when the country was almost completely encircled by the Axis powers.

"An enemy coming into Switzerland would pay a high price," Moegeli said. "We would like to arrive at a point where a potential aggressor feels it just isn't worth it to attack us. Blackmail and force would then mean nothing to us."

Switzerland's 1974 military budget, which includes civil defence, amounted to 2.6 billion Swiss francs (about $920 million.) That is more than $2 a week per head of population but represents just 1.8 per cent of the country's gross national product.

In wartime, Switzerland could withdraw into a hedgehog-like ball, protected by the mountainous terrain on its perimeter.

An enemy would find its way blocked by frontier corps and troops specializing in mountain warfare. Its tanks would be slowed by huge concrete blocks known as "dragons' teeth," which criss-cross the countryside, and it would have difficulty traversing Alpine passes which, Moegeli said, "could be blown up in a very short time."

The importance of the individual in the defence system is all the greater since the Swiss armed forces are not equipped with the most sophisticated weapons.

They have British Bloodhound anti-aircraft missiles, British Centurion tanks and an assortment of elderly British Venom and Hunter and French-Swiss Mirage fighter jets.

Dr. Milan Bodi, secretary-general of the Geneva-based International Civil Defence Organization, said the country's arrangements for the contingency of a nuclear attack are "a model for the rest of the world."

About 50 per cent of the population have fallout shelters attached to their accommodation and the rest are served by public shelters in underground buildings like car parks and warehouses.

New buildings in Switzerland must include shelters built to government specifications and housewives are under instructions to lay in two months' supply of provisions.

Civilians who do not take part in civil defence exercises can be sent to prison and last year 450 people were jailed by military tribunals for three to seven months for refusing to do military service.

The government's emergency program also includes the Swiss navy.

Switzerland has a moderately - sized merchant navy which sails from the Rhine port of Basel, from where it has an outlet to the North Sea. Latest official statistics show that this navy totals 304,841 tons, placing it 50th of 111 seafaring nations, just ahead of the Republic of Ireland

These ships can be requisitioned in times of strife, together with pleasure steamers, small craft and military and police gunboats plying the country's lakes.

Latin America Enjoying Unprecedented Export Boom

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — While the Western developed nations are sliding into recession, Latin America is enjoying an unprecedented export boom.

Latin America pumps vital commodities into the industrialized world and, with their prices holding well over-all, the region's countries are being cushioned from the worst effects of the economic slowdown beyond their frontiers.

The outstanding exception to the general rule among commodity producers is Chile, and to a smaller extent Peru, which have been forced by falling world demand to cut copper shipments by 10 per cent.

Non-traditional exports, which in underdeveloped countries mean manufactured goods, are continuing to grow fast everywhere in the area, for example at an annual rate of about 40 per cent in Argentina and 65 per cent in Colombia.

"Unemployment long has been a staggering problem in these countries because they lack the industrial base to sustain significant levels of employment. Migration of country dwellers to the cities produces shanty towns where millions of unskilled workers try to earn their living by occasional jobs.

Official figures show that in Argentina unemployment fell to 4.2 per cent from six per cent in the 12 months ending in June, 1974.

What some of these countries are undergoing is inflation with growth. Venezuela and Ecuador, both boom countries, must invest large sums over the short term to promote growth to counter the inflationary effects of increased oil income on their domestic economies.

Inflation in industrialized countres has increased the cost of Latin American imports and is reflected on domestic inflation rates.

Argentina recently authorized price increases for a wide range of imported products averaging 40 to 50 per cent over prices a year ago and Venezuela estimated that imported inflation accounted for about four per cent of the 14-per-cent annual rate there. Investment in capital goods in Argentina is about 50 per cent up this year from 1973.

Growing costs of imports are contributing to accelerated imports-substitution in these countries, while their competitive edge abroad has not been affected in general because of relatively lower labor costs.

A typical example of the attitude of Latin American leaders in the current world economic circumstances is Colombian President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen, who recently went on a national radio and television network to thank his Venezuelan and Mexican counterparts, Carlos Andres Perez and Luis Echeverria, for their successful joint action in steadying world coffee prices.

At the same time, Lopez said Colombia would exploit its natural resources such as nickel, natural gas and copper with the help of foreign investors.

"I am optimistic about Colombia's economic future," he said.

Appollo Barbell weightlifter, Ron Hayes, hands the Canadian Winter Games Torch to Belleville Bobcat captain, Rob Foster. Hayes is part of the nine man weightlifting team that will represent Ontario at the Canada Winter Games in Lethbridge, Alberta, next monh. Foster took the torch and made a turn around the ice with it as part of a pre-game ceremony at the Memorial Arena on Sunday night.

Collins Leads Nicks To Peterborough Title

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Bruce Collins made his extra experience as a senior ball player pay off on the weekend as he led the Nicholson Catholic College Junior Nicks to the Grand Championship of the Adam Scott Green and White Junior Basketball Tournament.

Collins, who has been playing with the senior squad at Nicholson, scored four points in an overtime period to lead the Nicks to a 40-38 win over BCI juniors scored 16 points in the final game to give his squad a 51-50 vctory and the title.

Nicholson opened their tournament play with a 48-26 win over Oshawa Catholic. At the same time BCI was defeating Cobourg West 46-43.

The Nicks got 12 points from Steve Dolan and nine from Martin Seemungal. Ernie Rainbow was next with seven and Paul McAlpine got six in the opening victory.

BCI and the Nicks then squared off in the semi-final. With eight minutes remaining in the game Nicholson was down by 12 points. "We didn't panic," said Nicholson coach, John Valvasori, "we just hustled, passed the ball well and played very tight defence ."

The Nicks closed the gap to seven points with three minutes remaining and finally caught up to the BCI squad. "I think we were up a little more than they were," said Valvasori," especially since they beat us so handily a couple of weeks ago."

Collins scored 14 points in the game including the four that his team got in the overtime to earn the win. McAlpine was next on the scoring list with 12 and Rainbow got eight.

Mike Kirby had 14 for BCI and Mitch Hannah scored 10.

In the final contest of the tourney Kenner of Peterborough fell prey to the highflying Nicks. Collins had 16 in this one, McAlpine got 10, Dolan had nine and Dave Holland scored eight. Rainbow added four points to the Nicholson attack and Seemungal and Boyd Kainay rounded things out with two points each.

Maund Wins Pepsi 'Spiel

Wyn Maund's rink of Donna Kennedy, Marja Anderson and Mary Simons captured the inter-city Ladies Pepsi Cola Bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday.

Maund's rink came four points ahead of runners up Mary Lou Letersky's rink of Marion Salsbury, Lil Taylor and Marilyn Sager.

The winners held a 32-28 margin over the next closest team and six points ahead of second runner up Betty Ingram's rink. Marilyn Watton's rink finished up the 'spiel in the third runner up position with Betty Weynuck's rnk of Betty Sullivan, Mari Wormington and Lena Dearborn taking the one game high for the day.

Fred Smith was on hand to present the trophy donated by Misener Beverages Ltd. Mr. Smith is the general sales manager for the Pepsi-beverage plant in Belleville.

One Extreme To the Other

Things went from one extreme to the next in Northern Electric Hockey action on Sunday. The Bearcats squeezed out a 3-2 win over the Yankees and the Rebels trounced the Falcons 14-3.

Grant Sage, Larry Lupenette and Terry Casselman scored one each for the Bearcats and Bob Daitley and Paul McLellan got one apiece for the Yankees.

Rick Rosebush led the way for the Rebels as he fired five goals and drew two assists. Bruce Pascoe got three goals and an assist and Joe Scanlan scored twice. Singles went to Bill Dugeon, Phil Hayward, Dave Branigan and Tom MacDonald.

Barry Brownlee got a pair for the Falcons and Eric Tjugnette scored the other.

Cats Hang on for 4-3 Victory Over Markham

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

The Belleville Bobcats, of the Metro Junior B hockey loop, found the going extremely tough at times both from the visiting Markham Royals and referee Don Goodridge in Sundays game.

The Cats were able to contain their tempers and the Royals to come up with a 4-3 victory over the second place Markham club.

The win again moves the locals into a tie with the Kingston Voyaguers for the third place. Kingston won on Saturday.

Belleville throughout the course of the game were continually subjected to deliberate spearing attempts, elbows and every other type of infraction Markham could slip by Goodridge.

The Cats took a total of 35 minutes in penalties while their opponents received only 21 minutes. Each team had a major for fighting with Belleville also receiving their customary 10 minutes aggressor penalty.

Goodridge had the Royals chuckling on the ice, they started right into the dirty work as Frank Evans sent Al Jeffery to the ice in pain with a spear to the midsection — no penalty.

Belleville coach Bob Boyle had this to say after the game: "It's a big win, we let up after the first period, the same thing happened against Kingston on Friday night, sometimes you can get away with it, but usually you pay on the scoreboard."

Belleville held a commanding 3-0 lead after the end of the first 20 minutes of play on the strength of tough forechecking and sparkling plays around the Markham net.

December's player of the month presentation was made between the second and third periods and by that time the winner had more than proved himself.

Scott Samis scored two of the three goals in the opening period and put in an all-round great performance throughout the game, obviously worthy of the award. John Gossan of Labatt's was on hand to present Samis with the tote bag.

Cats' captain Robbie Foster scored the opening goal of the first period with a low back hand beating the Markham goalie to his stick side.

Royals coach, Bill Purcell offered several reasons for the loss; "We find it very had to play in this arena, it's so small and the corners are hard to work from. We are also playing with a lot of injuries and the double shifting really takes a lot out of the guys."

Things went sour from that point on for the locals as their inability to finish off plays left them clinging to a slim 3-2 lead by the end of the middle frame.

With a minute and 45 seconds gone in the period, Gary Dillow put the visitors on the scoresheet picking up a loose puck at centre-ice and walking in all alone on Bruce Clark.

Clark looked extremely sharp through the contest blocking many point blank shots and out-guessing the opposition on many close in trys.

In the latter stages of the period defenceman Neil Turner of the Cats, after being high-sticked by Dillon and no penalty, decided to take the law into his own hands. Dillon was administered a sound thumping by the local defenceman before leaving the game with an injured thumb. Justice served?

Turner payed a sound game on the blue line for the winners blocking numerous blasts from reaching the net.

Rick Vasko scored the visitors other goal of the period to round out the scoring, setting the stage for the final period of action.

In the final frame the referee appeared to be non-existent as the sticks flew without any intervention from anybody except the players.

Scott Samis, who took most of the Markham elbows and high sticks skated Bob Young of the Royals into the boards only to find the visitor with his gloves off and swinging. Samis took several blows to the face before he knew what was happening. Goodridge felt that the confrontation warranted only minor penalties, two minutes each for roughing and Young picked up an extra two minutes for holding Boyle had no comment other than "you saw the game" about Goodridge's performance.

Purcell said, "I've never complained about the refereeing and this is no time to start.' Although he later admitted that "Goodridge was rather weak and seemed to be behind the play at times."

The home team looked sharper in the final period and Wayne Calberry, a consistant performer for the Cats, banged in a rebound with less than three minutes gone which proved to be the winning goal.

At 19:18 of the period and Dave Taylor sitting off his 10 minutes major for fighting, Stelio Zupancich put the Royals within one goal.

With goalie, Doug Candy, out of the net in favor of an extra attacker, and the face-off in the Belleville end, the Royals appeared to have a good chance to tie things up. A high stick making contact with the puck sent the play into the Markham end however with time running out on the Royals.

LaRush Triple Winner

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Guy LaRush dominated the winners' circle at Kawartha Downs here Sunday, chalking up three wins in the 10-race card.

Opening with a convincing win with Lily O Valley in the first race, leading the field of trotters all the way, LaRush followed up by guiding Our Lad and Paddy O'Hara to first place finishes.

Lily O Valley combined with Kurts Tuxedo, winner of the second race, to bring a $27.70 Daily Double.

Jerry Robinson scored a pair of victories. He reined Emilee Nugett to a new lifetime mark of 211.4 and then piloted Larkie's Girl to a win.

Brev Hanover, a brown five-year-old Star's Pride gelding came from behind in the fifth race to capture his first lifetime win for owner-driver Robert Glover.

Fleetwood Bev, owned and driven by Bruce Shea took the feature 10th race with Chocolate Cherry finishing second for a $51.60 exactor.

The biggest payoff came in the third race when Our Lad combined with Lucky Dell for a $590.70 exactor.

Wins 2-0

Kim Mott and Karen Brownlee sparked Belleville Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99 to a 2-0 win over Brighton in a junior girls' hockey exhibition contest Sunday, at Dick Ellis.

While Karen was closing the door on the Brighton shooters, Kim notched both Belleville goals.

Ceremony Before Game

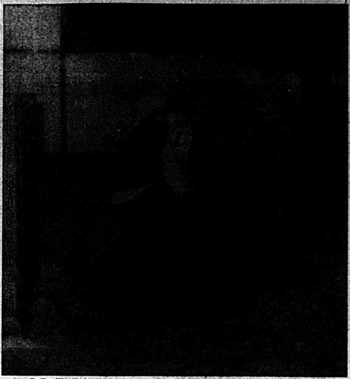
Before the Metro Junior B game the Touring Torch made its stop in Belleville on the way to the Canadian Winter Games in Lethbridge, Alberta, commmencing February 11-23.

Ron Hayes of Belleville, who will be representing Ontario in the weight lifting competition handed the torch to Cats Robbie Foster, who circled the ice with the flame.

Mayor Jeffrey was on hand to present a gift to be taken to the games from the city of Belleville In exchange the mayor was given an official Winter Games flag to fly during the Games.

Fraser Gray of the ministry of Culture and Recreation explained the purpose of the travel: "It's to inform people of what is happening and to get them involved so they just won't one day turn on the TV and not know what's going on."

Wyn Maund's rink took the day long Pepsi Bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club on the weekend. Fred Smith, representative of the Belleville Misner Beverage Company, was on hand to present the rink with the Pepsi trophy. Members of the rink are (left-to-right) Maund, Donna Kennedy, Marja Anderson and Mary Simmons.



Belleville Bobcat captain, Rob Foster, came within inches of scoring on this occasion. Doug Candy, Markham Royals' netminder, was almost the victim of Foster's second boal of the game. Foster opened Belleville's scoring to help lead his club to a 4-3 win over the Royals in Sunday night's Metro Junior B game at the Memorial Arena.

Belleville Joins OFL

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

If you're any kind of softball fan you'll remember the crowding that went on with different teams and different leagues at the Alemite Ball Park last season. Especially when the Ontario Amateur Softball Association started its playoffs and local teams went so far in them.

Well Belleville could be getting another softball park of the same calibre as the Alemite. If things were crowded last season they're really going to be tight at the Alemite this season.

What, you ask, could facilitate such a move?

Belleville was accepted Sunday afternoon as a member of the Ontario Fastball League (OFL), the premier fastball league of the province.

"What did it for us was the fact that in the future the OFL wants to go into divisions and Belleville is a good start on an East Division,' said Doug Adams. He and Dale Duval travelled to Burlington on the weekend to see if the city could obtain a franchise. They were accepted by the rest of the league on Sunday afternoon and made their announcement on Sunday night.

An Ontario Fastball League franchise means a lot of money, though, through sponsorship. Adams is confident he can pick up that kind of sponsorship right here in town

"It can only help the city," said Cliff Belch, Belleville Parks and Arena Commissioner and an executive member of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association. Belch wouldn't obligate his department by saying anything definite, but did suggest the city may need another park to accommodate a team of this calibre. The club will be playing 54 games, in all, throughout the season. Twenty-seven of those will be at home, with nine doubleheaders and nine single games scheduled.

Adams plans on running some indoor practice sessions beginning next week.

"I'll be doing most of my signing next week," said Adams, "we already know that Dale (Duval) and Paul Goodfellow want to play on the team and Bob Ethier (rated one of the top five hurlers in the province) is considering signing."

"I'd like to be able to sign Larry Mavety and George Ferguson as well," said Adams, "but I won't see them until after the hockey season."

A decision for any player to stick to an OFL club means a lot of travelling.

Most of the other clubs are 80 or more miles away," said Adams, "everyone has to be sincere about wanting to play."

Adams plans to send out invitations to the indoor practice sessions and work from there. "We can pick up and cut up to 20 ball players all the way through the season — at least until mid August," said Adams, "and by that time we'll know who's going to play and who's not."

Belleville gained the opportunity of playing in the OFL when Niagara Falls was thrown out of the league for tampering with a player. The Niagara Falls club purposely picked up Pete Landers a pitcher from Toronto Globals another OFL team). That happened just a few months ago and the league was left a team short.

"They were going to go with just nine teams," said Adams, "but the idea of going into divisions in the future — a league divided into north, south, east and west — was what got us through."

"I expect we'll pick up a few players from down east though," added Adams.

The local squad will open its exhibition schedule on May 4 with a game against the Oshawa Tonys.

So Belleville has now been lifted to the level of softball that many felt they were capable of competing in. The team will have their work cut out for them though as they face experienced clubs from Kitchener, London, Oshawa, Toronto, Burlington, Woodstock, St. Catharines, Hamilton and Newmarket.

Locals Have Bad Weekend

Belleville Shells came up flat in the opener of their Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AAA group playoff with Oshawa at Dick Ellis Rink, Saturday night.

Oshawa had things its own way, skating to an 8-0 win. The series resumes tonight in Oshawa. Game 3 has been rescheduled for Wednesday night in Oshawa.

In the other half of the group semi-final, Peterborough leads Kingston 2-0 in games.

Sunday, at Memorial Arena, Belleville Rollins found Oshawa tough to handle in OMHA peewee AAA playoff action as the home side fell 6-1 in the opener of a best-of-five set.

Jamie Robertson teamed up with Tony Parks on the only Belleville scoring play. Games 2 and 3 in this series will be played in Oshawa, Tuesday and Sunday.

Peterborough roared to a pair of weekend wins over Belleville Dixie Lee Minor Peewees. Saturday, the Petes scored an 8-1 victory and Sunday, it was a 4-1 score.

Belleville goals went to Stu Emerson and Steve Thompson, Emerson, Thompson, D'Arcy Maher and Steve Molaski each drew as assist.

Belleville McInroy Minor Bantams also found the going rough on the weekend.

Steve Carr and Greg Sprout had the only McInroy goals in a 5-2 loss to Peterborough on Saturday. In a Sunday match, Oshawa skated to an 8-1 win Steve Casey was the lone McInroy markman.

The Belleville team has two league games with Kingston before moving to playoff action.

In an exhibition match in Trenton Sunday night, Belleville Lions Midget Majors fell to Quinte Ice Products Midgets 5-3 Tony Bennett, Pat McGinn and Sandy Waterson clicked for the Lions' goals.

Jets Split Despite Hawley's Outburst

BANCROFT — Despite the efforts of Lorn Hawley, the Bancroft Jets could only manage one win on the weekend. Friday night they trounced Newcastle 11-0 and Sunday they dropped an 8-3 decision to first place Lakefield.

Hawley scored five goals and added four assists to ensure his first place stand in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior C scoring race.

Friday night he scored four times to help give goalie Kim Young the offensive help he needed. It was the first shut-out of the season for Young. The Bancroft goalie also got on the scoresheet as he drew an assist on Hawley's final goal.

Jim Goodwin scored twice and Dana Newman added a pair to the Bancroft attack. Singles went to Randy Rodgers, Mike Slydock and Bruce Johnson.

Four unanswered second period goals sank the Jets on Sunday as Lakefield stayed on top of Bancroft in the league standings Hawley, Newman and Goodwin did the scoring for the Bancroft crew.

Lakefield Hot in NHL

BANCROFT — Lakefield came out on top in two out of three divisions on the weekend in the divisional playoffs of the Little NHL Tournament, here.

In Atom, Lakefield finished atop the competition and did the same in Bantam. West Rouge won the round-robin competition in Peewee.

Lakefield, West Rouge and Bancroft were the three teams in the tournament.

The winners of each age group go to East Willingham while the runnersup meet Cobourg. The winners of the runners-up, Cobourg games also earn the right to play in the big tourney at East Willingham.

Marlies Held in Check By Crippled Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Generals, crippled by injuries and languishing in fifth place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Major Junior A league, made life miserable for Toronto Marlboros during their last two games.

The Generals, with seven regular players out of the lineup, tied the first-place Marlies 2-2 Sunday on the heels of a 4-4 deadlock with the same club Friday at Brantford, Ont.

In other games Sunday, St. Catharines Black Hawks defeated Peterborough Petes 4-3, Sudbury Wolves tied Kingston Canadians 5-5, London Knights beat Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 7-5 and Ottawa '67s triumphed over Kitchener Rangers 7-3.

In games Tuesday, Toronto plays at St. Catharines, London visits Hamilton and Kingston is at Ottawa.

Goaltender Paul Harrison was the key man in Oshawa's effort at home against the Marlboros. Playing with injured ankle tendons, Harrison retired for medical attention near the end of the second period in which the Marlboros outshot the Generals 24-1, but he returned to finish the game.

"Wasn't that a fantastic exhibition by a crippled goaltender?" asked Gud Bodnar, general manager-coach of the Generals. "Just wait until he's healthy."

The Marlboros needed a goal by John Smrke at 12:38 of the final period to obtain the tie. John Anderson got the other goal for Toronto. Scoring for Oshawa were Greg Malne and Tom Newton.

Black Hawks 4 Petes 3

Dave Salvian's second goal of the game and his 34th of the season sparked St. Catharines to its home-ice victory. Greg Craig and Doug Caines were other scorers for the Hawks. Mike Fryia connected twice for the Petes, with Gary McMonagle adding one goal.

Sudbury 5 Kingston 5

Sudbury Wolves surged for three goals in the final 101 seconds to tie the Canadians at Kingston. Randy Carlyle, Ron Duguay, Alex McKendry, Dave Farrish and Rod Schutt were the Sudbury scorers. Kingston goals were supplied by Brad Rhiness and Mike Crombeen, with two each, and Barry Sully.

Knights 7 Greyhounds 5

Ron Zanussi's two goals led the Knights to victory at London. Jim Hamilton, Tom Rowe, Bill Beauchamp, Vern Stenlund and Scott Campbell were other goal-getters for the winners. Cary Farelli pumped home his 40th and 41st goals of the season to lead the Greyhounds, who also got goals from Reid Bailey, Randy Carlucci and Bruce O'Grady.

'67s 7 Rangers 3

The line centred by Tim Young accounted for four of Ottawa's goals at Kitchener. Peter Lee had two, Young had one and three assists, and Dan Blair provided one. Other goal scorers for the '67s were Jim Roberts, Doug Wilson and Grant Rowe. Dwight Foster, Bill Stewart and Joe Fortunato scored for the last-place Rangers.

Black Weekend For Canadiens

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens entered the weekend with a 21-game unbeaten streak, just two shy of the National Hockey League record set by Boston Bruins during the 1940-41 season. Now they are on a two-game losing streak.

The Canadiens lost 6-3 Sunday night to the visiting Los Angeles Kings who moved into first in the Norris Division. And Montreal lost 5-3 Saturday to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Buffalo Sabres blanked Kansas City Scouts 5-0 Sunday, Boston Bruins topped Toronto 6-3, Minnesota North Stars and Detroit Red Wings tied 4-4, Pittsburgh Penguins nipped Washington Capitals 3-2, and Chicago Black Hawks defeated California Seals 3-1.

New York Rangers handed Vancouver its ninth straight loss by edging the Canucks 3-2 Saturday, Kansas City upset Chicago 4-1, St. Louis Blues edged Minnesota 5-4, New York Islanders drubbed Detroit 5-1, Philadelphia Flyers downed Atlanta Flames 4-1, and Boston and Pittsburgh tied 4-4.

Kings goaltender Rogatien Vachon managed a smile Sunday despite a bruised left shoulder and a cut on the bridge of his nose.

"It was a great night and I loved every minute of it," said Vachon, who blocked 33 Montreal shots. "I'm sure some of treal shots. "I'm sure some of us were a little tired after six games on the road, but they showed they had a lot of guts. It was a real team effort."

Vachon hurt his shoulder on a third-period blast from Guy Lapointe and had his nose cut earlier in the period when he was boarded by Serge Savard behind the Los Angeles net.

Bob Nevin had three goals for the Kings, who lead Montreal by one point in the Norris Division and have a game in hand.

Jim Lorentz had two goals for the Sabres who hold a seven-point lead over the Bruins in the Adams Division.

John Buyck assisted on the Bruins first three goals as Boston snapped a three-game winless streak by beating Toronto.

Buyck said he was kicked in the left foot during Saturday's game with Pittsburgh and the injury was aggravated during the game against the Leafs. He is expected to miss the league's all-star contest in Montreal Tuesday night.

Marcel Dionne's 24th goal of the season with 58 seconds left in the third period gave Detroit its tie with Minnesota, extending the North Stars winless streak on the road to 22 games.

Colin Campbell's first NHL goal, in the second period, gave the Penguins their win over Washington while Jim Pappin scored two goals to lead Chicago past California.

The top players from the Clarence Campbell Conference meet a team of all-stars from the Prince of Wales Conference in the all-star game.

League play resumes Wednesday with California at Pittsburgh.

Reds Find A Way

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds are showing the rest of the American Hockey League how to provide your parent team with top-notch players—and still win hockey games.

The Reds, forced to send many of their best players to New York Rangers because of injuries on the National Hockey League club, are leading the Northern Division by eight points.

The Rangers have called up—at one time or another—defencemen Ron Greschner, Joe Zanussi and John Bednarski, goalie Curt Ridley and forward Bob MacMillan.

Sunday night, the Reds won their 18th game of the season on home ice, turning back Richmond Robins 4-3. Providence has lost only one game on home ice and has tied four.

In other AHL games Sunday, New Haven downed Springfield 6-2, Nova Scotia Voyageurs defeated Syracuse 7-1, and Rochester beat Baltimore Clippers 5-2.

Another league game, Hershey at Virginia, was postponed due to bad weather and has been rescheduled for tonight.

Rookie Boyd Anderson's 20th goal of the season with 1:53 left in the game gave Providence the win over Richmond.

Hartland Monahan, Jim Nichols and Gerry Teeple scored the other Providence goals, while Andre Peloffy, Larry Fulland and Murray Anderson replied for the Robins.

New Haven got two goals from John Rogers in its victory over Springfield.

Rick Kessell, Richard Nantais, Tom Miller, Dennis Ciannini scored the other New Haven goals. Dale Lewis and Mike Usitalo scored for Springfield.

Nova Scotia scored six goals in the third period to break a 1-1 deadlock. Peter Sullivan got the Nova Scotia barrage uleashed at the 19 second mark of the final period, taking a pass from Mike McKegney.

Welland, Windsor All Even

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Welland Sabres stretched a home-ice unbeaten streak to 22 games Sunday, but John Riley dampened the enthusiasm somewhat.

He scored with two seconds remaining to give Windsor a 5-5 tie with the Sabres and to prevent the Welland club from jumping past the Spitfires and into sole possession of top spot in the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League.

The two clubs each have 61 points, but Windsor holds a game in hand.

In Sunday's other game, Chatham Maroons gained a weekend split, downing Guelph Biltmores 6-4. They had dropped a 2-1 decision to Detroit Junior Wings Saturday.

Hull Back as Coach

Jets' Juggling Act Pays Off with Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Jets announced a coaching shakeup Sunday night with the intention of getting the club "back on the track."

A couple of hours after the announcement, the Jets were back on the track, ending a four-game losing streak with a 9-4 victory over Cleveland Crusaders.

Included in the nine-goal outburst were two scores by Bobby Hull who resumed full coaching duties with the World Hockey Association club.

In other WHA games Sunday, Vancouver Blazers beat Indianapolis Racers 5-1, Quebec Nordiques defeated Chicago Cougars 5-2, and Minnesota Fighting Saints beat New England Whalers 3-1.

In Saturday's action, Phoenix Roadrunners beat Edmonton Oilers 3-1, San Diego Mariners edged Houston Aeros 5-4, Quebec whipped New England 8-2, Chicago edged Minnesota 3-2 and Cleveland beat Michigan Stags 2-1.

Jets president Bob Graham announced before Sunday's game that Hull was to resume full coaching duties while Rudy Pilous drops the coaching job to concentrate on acquisition and development of players.

"Changing the face of the coach may get the team back on the track," said Graham.

Hull, playing coach during the Jets' first two seasons, had said he wasn't effective in the dual role and Pilous was brought in at the start of this season to relieve Hull behind the bench.

But the Jets, who had a good season start, have been slumping and Graham appeared to put some of the blame on the club's lack of new talent.

"We have a lot of work to be done in the area of player development and acquisition. Virtually all our players' contracts expire this spring, and we have to decide whose we let expire and whose we renew."

But in Sunday night's game, the Jets had little to complain about their new acquisitions. Anders Hedberg, one of six Europeans who joined the club this season, led the scoring with four goals.

Even Howie Young, making his debut after he was acquired last week from Phoenix Roadrunners, scored once for Winnipeg.

The Jets trailed 4-2 going into the third period when they rallied with seven unanswered goals against a shaky Cleveland defence that allowed 21 shots on goal in the last 20 minutes.

Quebec increased its lead atop the Canadian Division to eight points over the idle Toronto Toros while Serge Bernier of the Nordiques gained a tie with Hull for the league scoring lead. Each has 69 points.

Bernier scored his 33rd goal of the season to help Nordiques help score their 28th win in the match at Chicago.

"I'm scoring more goals this year simply because I'm shooting more," said Bernier who had 37 goals in 74 games last season. "Of course, I'm nine pounds lighter, too."

At Vancouver, Hugh Harris and Bryan Campbell each scored twice to lead the Blazers against Indianapolis.

Gord Gallant's goal with less than five minutes remaining broke a 1-1 tie and Don Tannahill added an empty-net goal in the final minute for Minnesota's victory over New England which suffered its first loss in four games at its new home in Hartford, Conn.

Next on the WHA schedule is the All-Star game in Edmonton Tuesday night. Regular league action resumes Wednesday.

Flyers Shade Comets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

League-leading Barrie Flyers got two goals from playing-coach Darryl Sly en route to a 4-3 win over Napanee Comets in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Sunday.

Sly's two goals and a single by Bob Monteith put Barrie in a 3-0 first-period lead.

In Saturday's only contest, last-place Cambridge Hornets handed Orillia Terriers a 7-3 setback.

At Napanee, third-period goals by Ron Riley, Jim Sunstrum and John McConnell in a five-minute span tied the game for Napanee.

A goal with less than five minutes remaining in the game by Jack Smith won it for Barrie, who outshot Napanee 42-29 before 451 spectators.

At Cambridge, Steve Robson and Steve Ringler each scored twice for Cambridge while Pat Bester, Doug Schoenfeld and Don Vipond added singles.

Playing-coach Henry Monteith, Len Bray and Colin Gordon replied for Orillia, playing before 880 spectators.

After weekend action, Barrie now has an 18-point lead over second-place Brantford Foresters, while Whitby McDonald's and Orillia remain tied for third spot.

League play resumes Friday with Cambridge visiting Brantford, Napanee travelling to Barrie and Whitby in Orillia.

Four Points Off Pace

Leeds Continues Climb

LONDON (Reuter) — English Football League champion Leeds United, continuing its climb up the First Division table, is just four points behind leading Everton.

After losing manager Don Revie during the off season, Leeds slumped to the bottom of the standings under Brian Clough.

But now, under former England defender Jimmy Armfield, Leeds has moved steadily through the field. Saturday's 2-0 win over Chelsea gave Leeds 29 points.

Forward Duncan McKenzie paved the way with a first-half goal. Terry Yorath scored the second after John Phillips in the Chelsea goal only managed to deflect Frank Gray's shot.

Everton regained top spot from Ipswich, defeated 2-1 at Carlisle.

After a scoreless first-half against Birmingham, Everton swept to a 3-0 victory with centre-forward Bob Latchford scoring two goals to celebrate his 24th birthday.

Carlisle defeated Ipswich despite twice missing a penalty. Frank Clarke and Joe Laidlaw scored for Carlisle.

Newcastle manager Joe Harvey's hopes for recovery from the 5-2 loss to Tottenham the previous Saturday failed to pay off as five more goals poured through his team's defence.

This time Manchester City handed out the punishment, Dennis Tueart scoring three times in the 5-1 triumph.

The big match in the Second Division between leader Manchester United and second team Sunderland ended in a scoreless draw.

Manchester has 40 points, Sunderland 35 and Norwich 31.

In the Scottish League, Celtic regained a tie with Rangers atop the First Division, defeating Ayr 5-1. The Rangers game against Kilmarnock was one of several postponed due to wet grounds.

Celtic's match against Ayr was tied 1-1 after the first half but then Dixie Deans scored twice and Harry Hood and Danny McDonald scored once each.

Nine Selected for Games

OTTAWA (CP) — Nine women members of the Canadian national swimming and diving team have been selected to compete in the inaugural New Zealand Games at Christchurch Jan. 23-26.

The Canadian Federation of Amateur Aquatics announced today that Wendy Cook of Vancouver, Canada's top female athlete of 1974, will lead the team.

Winner of the Commonwealth, Canadian, United States and British backstroke championships last year, Miss Cook will be returning to the site of her 1974 kickoff triumph it was at Christchurch that she won three gold medals and set a world backstroke record in the Commonwealth Games.

With her on the swimming team are Marian Stuart and Wendy Quirk of Point Claire, Que., Becki Smith of Edmonton, Mitch Oliver of Toronto and Patti Stenhouse of Surrey, B.C.

On the diving team are Terri York and Tammy McLeod of Vancouver and Janet Nutter of Winnipeg.

Kareem Shows Them How

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amidst the controversy surrounding Portland rookie centre Bill Walton and his desire, or lack of it, to play pro basketball, Milwaukee centre Kareem Abdul-Jabbar ran a clinic Sunday on what the game is all about.

Abdul-Jabbar poured in 50 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and dished out 11 assists to lead the Bucks to a 122-108 National Basketball Association decision over the Trail Blazers. The win put Milwaukee over .500 for the first time this season at 22-21.

Abdul-Jabbar outplayed Walton in the first regular season meeting of the former UCLA stars.

Afterwards, Walton confirmed he has retained lawyer Charles Garry, who has represented the Black Panther Party, but said little else about reports he is trying to break his estimated $2 million contract.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Atlanta Hawks beat Seattle SuperSonics 117-109, Boston Celtics nipped Philadelphia '76ers 102-100, Detroit Pistons defeated Cleveland Cavaliers 100-98, Phoenix Suns topped Kansas City-Omaha Kings 113-97, and Buffalo Braves beat New Orleans Jazz 117-112.

Cleveland beat Philadelphia 108-106 Saturday, Boston defeated Houston 123-101, Washington whipped Golden Sate 125-101, Buffalo beat Atlanta 129-115, Detroit beat Phoenix 86-77, and New York defeated Chicago 104-91.

In the American Basketball Association, New York beat Virginia 113-91 Sunday, Kentucky defeated Denver 114-101, Memphis beat San Antonio 101-94, and Indiana beat San diego 108-91.

On Saturday, New York downed Virginia 92-91, San Antonio defeated San Diego 125-110, Denver whipped Memphis 126-104 and Utah defeated Indiana 122-118.

Colts Wheel and Deal

MIAMI (AP) — Baltimore Colts won the No. 1 pick in the National Football League college draft Sunday in a coin flip with Dallas Cowboys and surprisingly announced they probably would go for California's all-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

"We don't need a quarterback," said Joe Thomas, general manager of the Colts. "But we believe that we can make a good deal for Bartkowski and probably get two veteran players in return."

"This would be contingent on our completing the deal before the draft. If we are not successful, then I think we would go to Randy White, the Maryland defensive lineman."

The NFL draft is scheduled for Jan. 28-29 in New York. There will be 17 rounds of picking from college football's top graduates in a two-day session

The Colts, with a 2-12 record, were supposed to flip against New York Giants, who also were 2-12. However, the Giants traded their No. 1 pick to the Cowboys.

The Cowboys, with the second pick, are expected to go for a linebacker. It's believed they are considering Ron Shoate, a 6-1, 213-pound all-American from Oklahoma and Robert Brazil, an impressive Little all-American from Jackson State.

Allison Makes Sure This Time

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Allison, driving the only Matador in the race, turned the Western 500 into a one-man show Sunday, easily outdistancing David Pearson to capture the $114,000 opener of the 1975 stock-car series.

Allison also captured the finale of the 1974 series at nearby Ontario Speedway, a victory tainted by charges of cheating. This time he declared the legality of his car and took command.

At the conclusion, Allison and Pearson were the only drivers on the same lap. Cecil Gordon of Horse Shoe, N.C., finished third, a full lap behind, and others were seven or more laps back of them.

Richard Petty, the 1974 series champion, hit a wall early and lost seven laps although continuing in his Dodge with much of its right front side torn off and portions of the body reinforced with tape.

Last November, Allison's Matador was found to have illegal valve lifters and he was fined $9,100 of his $15,125 purse.

Record For Guay

QUEBEC (CP) — Patrick Guay, 15, of Ottawa set a Canadian record for the junior 500-metre event at an interprovincial speed skating competition during the weekend.

Guay covered the distance in 44.4 seconds to better the old mark of 44.78 seconds.

Guay also won gold medals in the 800-, 1,000-, and 1,500-metre races while Patti Hoch of Kitchener, Ont., was the winner in all the junior girls races.

TAKES SQUASH TITLE

TORONTO (CP) — Trish Fulkner of Detroit won the Canadian open women's squash championship Sunday by defeating Barbara Maltby of Philadelphia 3-1. Penny Glover of Ottawa defeated Barbara Savage of Vancouver 3-0 in the consolation final.

Johnny Miller

His Act Tough One to Follow

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller keeps asking the same question after each golf victory.

"How am I gonna top this?" Miller asked Sunday after he shot an 11-under-par 61 for another run-away victory, this time in the $200,000 Tucso Open golf tournament.

He asked the same question a week ago when he won the Phoenix Open with a 260 total, the lowest 72-hole score in 20 years of tournament competition. He was 24 under par for that tournament.

But he found a way to top it. He went 25 under par for a 72-hole total of 263, on the Tucson National Golf Club course, at 7,200 yards one of the longest layouts the touring pros play all year.

He won by nine strokes.

In completing an unprecedented second consecutive sweep of the two Arizona tournaments, Miller has led or shared the lead in every round with a season stroke average of 65.4.

"He's phenomenal," said John Mahaffey, a distant second with a closing 67 and 272.

"Without doubt, it was the greatest round of golf of my life," said Miller.

"I could have shot in the 50s.

"I didn't miss a green. I missed one fairway and that by not much. I never had the ball more than 15 feet from the hole, never," he said.

He scored nine birdies and an eagle on fast, bumpy greens that Arnold Palmer called "the most treacherous I'v seen in a long time." He missed two other birdie putts of five feet.

"I'm hitting the ball so good it's almost a joke," Miller said.

Then some questions occurred to him.

"What's the record for the most under par?" he asked.

Sandra Can't Catch Kathy

MIAMI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth outplayed top challenger Sandra Post with a one-over-par 73 in head-to-head competition Sunday to win $15,000 first-place money in the Triple Crown tournament of the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

The lanky Texan, all-time top money winner on the PGA tour, double-bogeyed the last hole but finished two shots in front with a 36-hole total of 144, even par.

Miss Post, a stroke behind her playing partner at the start of the day, remained in second until the next-to-last hole, when a double-bogey six dropped the former Oakville, Ont., resident five strokes off the pace and a stroke behind a third playing partner, Judy Rankin.

Miss Rankin took second with a closing 73 for 1466 and $10,000.

Miss Post, colecting $7,500 for third, started the day a stroke behind Miss Whitworth and was never able to catch her. She fell three shots off the lead, when Miss Whitworth birdied the 175-yard, par-three fourth hole.

Miss Post, who bogeyed the fourth hole, cut the lead to a single stroke on the 10th but fell behind again by three strokes on the next two holes.

U.S. Spends $14 Million On Golf Courses for Army

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The United States defence department is spending $14 million annually to maintain 300 golf courses on military bases around the world, Senator William Proxmire (Dem. Wis.) said today.

Proxmire said he questioned the use of money from the defence budget for such purposes when the defence department says its budget is at a dangerously low level.

He said there are 20 U.S. military golf courses in Germany, 10 in Japan and six in Korea. Other countries with U.S. military golf courses include England, Canada, Spain, Turkey, the Philippines, Thailand and Italy.

$2 Million Award Made

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (Reuter) — Nearly $2 million in damages has been awarded to a man paralysed in an accident blamed on a defect in his Volkswagen.

Lawrence Totsky, 29, was granted $1,860,995 for injuries suffered when his car ran off a highway in April, 1971. Investigators said they found a small chunk of concrete in the steering gearbox which allegedly had been sealed in at the factory.

Co-defendants in the six-week trial were Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft of Wolfsburg, West Germany, Volkswagen of America Inc., Inglewood Cliffs, N.J., and Coscours Motori Inc., a Milwaukee VW dealer.

Totsky is a quadruplegic and has severe impairment of his breathing, bladder and bowel functions and is unable to sense pain, a condition that greatly increases the danger of even minor infections, said testimony during the trial.

Doctor Denies Euthanasia

ZURICH (Reuter) — A leading Swiss doctor, suspended from his hospital post last week after being accused of allowing chronically-ill patients to die, denied Sunday he had practised euthanasia.

Dr. Urs Peter Haemmerli was suspended last Wednesday as the head of Zurich City Hospital's medical clinic after Zurich authorities accused him of committing murder.

"What I did or ordered to be done to my patients, I would have done if it was my mother or father in the same circumstances. Or if it had been myself, I would have wished that the doctor treating me acted in the same manner," he told the Swiss news agency ATS.

IN MEMORIAM

POLLITT — In loving memory of a dear wife, moher and grandmother Florence Pollitt, who passed away January 20, 1970.

Oh! dearest wife and mother,
Since you have passed away,
It seems not 5 years ago,
But only yesterday.
Oh, dear one, how we loved you,
And love cannot forget,
The Lord took you from us,
It was His Holy will,
And left in our hearts a vacancy,
Which no one else can fill.
But in our saddest moments,
One happy thought holds sway,
We will meet again, dear heart,
And be happy some sweet day.
—Husband and family.

THORN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Charles Edward Thorn who passed away January 18, 1968.

O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Remembered by son George, daughter-in-law Marilyn and granddaughter Sherry.

CARDS OF THANKS

The famiyl of the late Carl Sheffield would like to express their sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness received from friends, neighbors and relatives in the recent loss of a dear husband, son and father. Thanks for the floral tributes, donations to the Ontario Hear Fund and Gideon Bibles, calls and cards. Special thanks to Dr. MacDonald, Dr. McIntosh and staff of Emergency at Belleville General Hospital, LaSalle Ambulance, Rev. J. Morrison and Ladies of Gilead Community. Also thanks to John R. Bush Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

Sincerely, Irene, May, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huycke and family.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Martin are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter Gail Lorraine to Mr. William Edward Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cole of R.R. 2, Frankford. Marriage will take place on Saturday, February 15, 1975 at the Wesleyan Methodist Church, 76 Everett St.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED WANT AD

Be clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, or definite information.
Make It Easy for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects call you.
Place Yourself in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified ad.
Want Ads That Fail to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they do not contain enough information to prompt action.
The Greatest Reader Attention can be secured for your advertisement by ordering consecutive insertions. You can stop your ad in the event of results and then pay only for the days it is published. There are also very special rates for those who are desirous of keeping their name or offer before the public every day.

La Boheme Tours Hastings County

Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. the Canadian Opera Company will present Puccini's La Boheme at Centennial Secondary School.

The opera will be in English with the Canadian Opera Chamber Orchestra. The presentation is sponsored by the Quinte Arts Council and Corby Distilleries Ltd.

The production is directed by Jan Rubes, making use of new concepts in films projections and lighting techniques. Featured is the largest touring orchestra assembled to date.

Besides the one-night performance Tuesday, the company will be in the area from Jan. 19 to 21. On Sunday there will be an ecumenical service at St. Michael's Cathedral at 4:30 p.m. with a choir whorkshop at 7 p.m.

On Monday, there will be school activities in Coe Hill. The company will play at Bancroft High School at 7 p.m. Monday. This is a full operatic concert with a company of 39 with melodies from The Barbev of Seville, Carmen and The Mikado among others.

MORE

La Boheme Take 2

At 3 p.m. The Musician which is separate workshops by woodwinds, bass, strings or the orchestra as a whole making up a performance demonstration and panel discussion will be presented at Moira Secondary School.

The company's appearance here is capped by their performance of La Boheme at Centennial Secondary School Tuesday night.

Showbiz Shorts

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Chaplin, the comic movie tramp who is soon to be Sir Charles, arrived in London Saturday and said his new name "sounds rather good, don't you think?"

"I don't know what I'll say when I meet the Queen," said the 85-year-old king of silent films, who will be knighted by the Queen Feb. 5 at Buckingham Palace.

"I haven't got a script prepared, and I'm not rehearsing anything. I'll just have to wait and see what she says to me."

He said he was sick in bed with flu when the Queen announced the New Year honors.

"I'm fine now," Chaplin said. "In fact, I'm in the pink of condition."

The press turned out in force at the airport to meet the Chaplin, who appeared seated in a wheelchair.

"I'm delighted to be home," he said, waving to throngs of passengers and airport workers. "There's nowhere on earth quite like London."

Chaplin, who was born in London on April 15, 1889, to music hall performers, said he intends to tou the south London haunts he knew as a boy.

The legendary comedian, who lives in Vevey, Switzerland, was accompanied by his wife, Oona, with whom he has eight children.

NEW YORK (AP) — An award-winning producer of television documentaries has been arrested on charges he cavorted nude through the corridors of a West Side YMCA, his body sprayed with silver paint.

Police said Friday that Martin Carr, 47, was charged with public lewdness, public intoxication, and possession of a hypodermic syringe and a controlled substance, reported to have been a white powder and pills.

Carr won an Emmy for the documentary Hunger in America, which was televised by CBS in 1968.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A film distributor company where FBI agents seize a large quantity of allegedly pirated films has filed suit to get them back, court officials said Saturday.

In the civil suit filed Friday, Budget Films, Inc. contends that the warrant issued by FBI agents in its search Jan. 9 was "unlawful in scope" and nonspecific.

The seizure was one of several in Los Angeles and other cities in what federal authorities believe is a multi-million-dollar pirating industry.

Although the warrant described the property seized as illegally reproduced and stolen copies of 35, 16 and 8-millimetre motion picture films "which are duly copyright and protected," the owner of the firm, Al Drebin, was not arrested.

Drebin has denied that any of his films were pirated copies, and therefore, the suit contends, the property seized did not fit the description given in the warrant.

Another seizure of films was made Dec. 18 at the home of actor Roddy McDowell, it was reported Friday, but again no arrests were made.

Davis New TSO Head

The new musical director, designate of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra is Andrew Davis succeeding the late Karel Ancerl.

A photograph, which accompanied a Canadian Press Story that ran in The Intelligencer Dec. 19, incorrectly identified Mr Davis as Mr. Ancerl.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, Jan. 21

Aries (March 21-April 19) Conduct your more serious business affairs before evening. After dark you are much too playful to be sharp commercially.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Be modest about your accomplishments; let others mention them. Blow your own horn and you will only get a shallow sound.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Keep your attention focused on your more ambitious interests. Luck will fill in some gaps that muscle can't.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You will be fortunate today in dealings with prestigious contacts, if you don't try to mix business with pleasure.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Disassociate temporarily from allies whose aims don't jibe with yours. Success will come if you are singular about your goals.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Large issues you will handle in stride. Petty matters will call for some aspirin, especially if co-workers are involved.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will come off well today in transactions conducted along practical lines. Speculative ventures won't be so rewarding.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will be easier for you today to please outsiders than family members, no matter how hard you try.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are able now, if you apply yourself, to expand small advantages career wise into something very worthwhile.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be selective in your choice of companions. Shun persons who you suspect may want something from you materially.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Regarding purchases you make for the home now, durability and quality should take precedent over price and fads.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be receiving good news. It will require time to be fully appreciated. Don't let negative thoughts make less of it than it is.

Spanking Depends On Temperament

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Doctor: At what age do you suggest a child be spanked? In other words, how old should a child be to understand the meaning of a scolding or a light slap on the bottom or hand?— J.B.

The age of four is usually considered the age at which a child understands the meaning of a scolding. But there is no particular age for spanking—if it has to be done at all. You might be surprised to know the number of children who are raised without the need for spanking.

On this question, there are no hard and fast guidelines. Much depends on the temperament of the parent and the child's response to discipline.

For a serious misdemeanor such as running into the street, playing with matches, or committing some act that is truly destructive or harmful to the child or to others, spanking may be in order. But it must follow immediately upon the offence to be meaningful. Don't wait till daddy comes home several hours later.

Spanking can lose its effect because of the manner in which it is administered, and in such cases can lead to resentment and more provocative behavior. When used as punishment, it is best done with a single slap on the butt or the hand and should be accompanied with a clear explanation of the punishment. A light slap is just as effective as a heavy one.

Don't argue. When a child understands that no means business, discipline other than spanking will work as well if not better. Denial of a toy, a privilege, even of the car in the case of an adolescent, carries weight.

No child should ever be boxed on the ears or hit in the face or head or yanked by the arms. These harsh acts can cause physical injury.

As you may gather I do not condone spanking as a form of punishment. If I didn't know that parents would do it, no matter what is recommended, I would say flatly, "Don't spank."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can one have hardening of the arteries when cholesterol count and blood-pressure readings are fine?

I have good readings in both but I wonder why I get confused and can't remember facts or names. I am 58 and have pernicious anemia. At times I do have light chest pains, but I believe this is due to stress.— E.M.

We all have some degree of hardening of the arteries by the time we get to be 58, even though cholesterol level and blood pressure may be quite normal.

Anemia could be a factor in your confusion, particularly if your blood count is low. It also could be a factor in the chest discomfort.

I trust you are being treated for anemia. After it has been diagnosed treatment (with vitamin B-12) is usually necessary for life. Have it looked into if you have not already done so.

Also, as soon as you can, have an electrocardiogram taken to check those chest pains. Pernicious anemia and circulatory problems are closely linked.

Discourage Smoking

EDMONTON (CP) — Policies designed by city hospitals to discourage smoking on their premises are only logical, says J. W. Smith, deputy executive director of General Hospital. "We know we are treating an awful lot of people for respiratory conditions. And we know many of these conditions have been caused by smoking. So with smoking being a heath hazard we really can't condone having it in the hospital wile at the same time treating these conditions."

Seek Pros Counselling

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The Banff Centre is seeking intermediate to young professionals in the field of dance ballet through a cross-Canada audition tour. Emphasis is placed on professional and performance-oriented capabilities. The Banff Centre's six-week program will begin July 7 with mast classes, advanced and intermediate instruction in classical, jazz, character and contemporary styles.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

James: "South knew enough about dummy play to see that there was no time to develop any diamond tricks. The opponents would get their spades in first. He also had some idea about how to play the club suit. He won the spade in his hand; led a club to dummy's ace and a club back to his ten. East showed out. West had two club stoppers and South came up two tricks short of his contract."

Oswald: "A little expert knowledge would have helped declarer. In fact it would have made the difference between down two and game and rubber."

Jim: "One sees easily that the contract is going to make any time the East-West clubs divide 3-2. South's problem is to try to guard against a 4-1 split. If South had enough entries to dummy, he could lead to the ace and bring the contract home any time West held the singleton queen or jack. But that won't be any good here. The only 4-1 combinations he can guard against are those that find East with a singleton nine or eight. South should lead the ten of clubs and let it ride if West ducks. If West covers, South wins; leads low back to his seven to leave West with jack five and then takes the proven finesse against him."

Inadequate

REGINA (CP) — A Regina geneticist says genetic counselling services in Saskatchewan are inadequate. Dr. Helmut Bertrand of the biology department at University of Regina says little counselling is given in southern Saskatchewan and medical authorities are inadequately trained on the subject. In genetic counselling, couples receive information on the possible genetic makeup of a child before conception or birth.

PCs Ask Annual MP's Pay Review

TORONTO (CP) — Salaries for members of Parliament should be reviewed annually by an independent committee, a group of 21 area federal Progressive Conservative riding associations decided Saturday.

The group, which calls itself PC Metro, said MP salaries should be tied to the productivity of the economy and should take into account increases in the cost of living.

However, salaries should not be indexed automatically to the consumer price index, or the MPs might lose the will to control inflation, the group said.

The meeting sent a telegram to federal Leader Robert Stanfield, saying "strong reaction" had been received against the $3.3-per-cent pay raise proposed by the Liberal government.

The group suggested that in addition to the annual review of salaries, members' tax-free expense allowance of $8,000 a year be replaced by payment for actual expense outlays, with claims submitted monthly and made public.

The committee also asked that any such independent group study the importance of the MPs' work to see they are rewarded "commensurate with their responsibilities and appropriately in relationship to other vocations in the economy."

"Do you want a situation where most of the skilled tradesmen in Toronto are making $20,000 and members of Parliament are making $18,000," asked Alan Heisey of the York-Scarborough association, who drafted the proposal.

In calling for the setting up of an independent committee of three citizens, the group referred to the November, 1970, report of the advisory committee on parliamentary salaries and expenses, under the chairmanship of the late Thomas Norbert Beaupre of Montreal.

That report called for the establishment of a committee of three citizens, to receive advice from an all-party committee and make recommendations about salaries of MPs.

As proposed by PC Metro, the committee would make an annual recommendation, subject to change by Parliament, on salaries for both MPs and senators.

20,000 Mexicans Are Coming

MEXICO CITY (AP) — More than 20,000 migrant Mexican farm workers will work in Canada this year at salaries of $2.30 to $4 an hour under an agreement between the two countries, a Mexican diplomat said Sunday.

Alfonso Ballesteros, Mexico's consul general in Canada, said travel expenses for the workers would be paid by the hiring companies. The agreement requires that the workers remain in Canada not less than six weeks nor more than eight months.

Workers performing simple tasks will be paid $2.30 an hour while those operating farm machinery will receive $4 dollars an hour, he said.

Press Gallery Votes to Accept Free Services

OTTAWA (CP) — The Parliamentary Press Gallery voted Saturday to continue accepting free services such as telephones, stationery and parking from the government.

At its annual meeting, the 160-member gallery defeated by a wide margin a motion that would have obligated reporters and news organizations to pay their own way.

Minor Olympic Changes Save Millions: Premier

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Saturday "relatively minor changes which could save millions" of dollars have been made in plans for the 1976 Summer Olympics.

The premier refused to elaborate on what "minor changes" entailed, but he said they did not involve scrapping construction plans and staging some events in already-existing facilities.

The latest estimate of the total Olympics cost, made public in December, amounted to $653 million, more than double the original estimate of $310 million.

In an interview on English-language radio station CJAD, the premier said it would be premature to establish a definite figure until current efforts were completed to increase revenues and cut expenses.

"We cannot say in advance the government will accept a deficit of $100 million or a deficit of any kind," he said.

"I think now the goal is to try to fill the gap between expenditures and revenue. If we accept that there will be a deficit, no effort will be made to reach that goal."

"I hope we will have the final figures by Tuesday," he said, when Mayor Jean Drapeau and Olympic organizers are to appear before a committee of the national assembly to explain the increased cost of the Games and to present whatever contingency plans they have.

The government has taken "a very active role" in Olympics planning in the last few weeks, and there is "good co-operation" between the municipal and provincial governments as well as the Olympic organizing committee, Mr. Bourassa said.

While construction on the $380-million Olympic stadium was halted for the last two weeks because of a strike by 1,200 iron workers, Mr. Bourassa said the facilities could still be ready for the July 17, 1976, opening of the Games.

"According to the engineers, they told me they have no doubt that it can be ready on time," he said. "But there is also the question of financial implications."

The government imposed a wage settlement to the iron workers' strike Thursday and the men are expected back on the job Monday. City maintenance crews were busy during the weekend testing and repairing equipment on the site and clearing snow in preparation for the start-up.

New Brunswick Nurses Asked to Stay on Job

FREDERICTON (CP) — Glenna Rowsell, head of the New Brunswick nurses' collective bargaining council, said Sunday night that she expected all the province's nurses would be back on the job this morning, and would remain on the job at least through Wednesday when a meeting of representatives of nursing associations is to be held in Fredericton.

Miss Rowsell said the bargaining council has asked the nurses to return to work. She added that more than 90 nurses at Campbellton's Hotel Dieu Hospital were to hand in their resignations today, to be effective in two weeks.

The resignations follow similar action in Fredericton, where 86 nurses, representing two-thirds of the nurses at Victoria public hospital, handed in their resignations Saturday.

The resignations and sick calls by 2,700 registered nurses in most of the 39 public hospitals in the province since last Wednesday are part of continued efforts by the nurses to have their contract with the government reopened.

Miss Rowsell did not specify what topics were to be discussed at Wednesday's meeting, called at the request of various locals of the provincial registered nurses' association.

An executive meeting of the New Brunswick Council of Hospital Unions expressed its support Saturday for the nurses, in what it called their "fight with treasury board to obtain social and economic justice."

The council represents nonmedical hospital workers in the province.

The dispute between the nurses and the provincial treasury board centres around the nurses' demand for a reopening of their contract which still has 14 months to run. They are seeking increases of 32 per cent over current salary levels and a cost-of-living adjustment.

The weekly salary for registered nurses is $155.54 rising to $166.89 next Jan. 1.

A settlement by the Canadian Union of Public Employees last fall that saw non-professional hospital workers gain a 65-per-cent increase over two years sparked the current dispute with nurses and other professional groups. The nurses say non-professional staff supervised by registered nurses will be making nearly the same as the nurses.

Child Bitten

TORONTO (CP) — Tammy Lynn White, 6, of Toronto, needed 50 stitches in her nose and chin Saturday after she was bitten by a neighbor's dog.

The child was playing across the street from her home when she was attacked by the dog, described as part German shepherd and part collie.

Mrs. Frank Walsh, the dog's owner, said the animal would be destroyed.

Transport Command Band Out

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The city's internationally-known Air Transport Command Band is being tuned out by the department of national defence, says its director of music, Capt. Kenneth R. Moore.

Capt. Moore said he was told in a telephone call Friday that the decision was made at a meeting of department personnel in Ottawa and that he assumes it is a cost-saving move.

"I have received nothing yet in writing, but expect timing and reasons will be spelled out in writing shortly," he said. "Naturally, we are disappointed because we have an excellent band, but we are part of the armed forces and have to accept decisions made in the upper echelons."

Flora MacDonald, Conservative member of parliament for Kingston and the Islands, said Saturday she will question the department's action.

"When one thinks of the costly faux pas of the department—one of the latest being the buying of winter head gear too small for men's heads—not to speak of vast sums spent on ill-conceived equipment, it's a tragedy the department couldn't have found money for a unit bringing prestige to the forces," she said.

The band was formed in 1968 and composed of musicians drawn from the bands of the Royal Canadian Signals, the Canadian Guards, the Royal Canadian Dragoons and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. It was known first as the Vimy Band.

It has performed more than 1,000 times and has made four overseas tours. Its has been featured at world festivals of music, given royal command performances and toured Ontario schools.

FBI Kept Close Tab On Senate

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Post says the FBI compiled files on senators and congressmen during the reign of the late J. Edgar Hoover as FBI director.

Quoting as its source two former assistants to Hoover, The Post says the files contained information on the girl-friends and drinking problems of members of Congress, but that the data was not used for blackmail.

Senator Edward Kennedy, one of those said to be a subject of an FBI file, called for a congressional investigation into the charges.

Montreal Gang Strikes

13 Murdered In Club Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — In one of the worst mass killings in Canada's history, 10 men and three women died today in the fire-charred storage closet of a sleazy nightclub in what police speculated was a gangland elimination of possible witnesses to an earlier crime.

One of the victims, Rejean Fortin, 44, described by police as manager of the club, died of a bullet in the back. But the remaining 12 all were asphyxiated by smoke from a fire which police were sure was deliberately set.

The fire started at 12:27 a.m. and firemen said it took them three hours to get it under control. Shortly afterwards they found the bodies in the locked storage closet, used to store cases of beer. A juke box had been pulled across in front of the door.

Besides the club manager, police identified 10 other victims. They gave their names as Claire Fortin, the club manager's wife, Pierre Lamarche, Augustin Carbonneau, Pierre Lesiege, Gaetan Caron, Michel Viscardi, Denise Lauze, Ghislain Briere, Jacques Lamarche and Yves Pigeon.

A police spokesman, said: "We have no doubt that some of the victims were merely patrons of the club. At this time we have not yet established whether or not any of the victims had any criminal records."

Police had earlier described the club as a known hangout for underworld characters.

The fire was in the Gargantua Club in the city's northeast end, near the intersection of Beaubien St. and Metropolitan Blvd. It was a second-floor club, located above a dry-cleaning establishment.

Last Oct. 30 two men were gunned down by two other men as they sat at a table in the club. Police speculated that today's killings may have been an effort to eliminate possible witnesses to the October slayings.

The victims were Raymond Laurein, 30, and Roger Levesque, 28. Based on witnesses accounts, police named Richard Blass and Roger Roussel as suspects in the slaying. Blass, Roussel and three other men had escaped from the maximum security wing of the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary a week earlier.

Police established that Laurin and Levesque had been involved in crime with Blass and Roussel in 1969.

Roussel was recaptured about six weeks ago and found criminally responsible for a slaying in the Old Chum bar a week before his capture. At the inquest, he was not questioned about the Gargantua Club shootings. Blass still is at large.

Montrealers awoke with shock to news of today's multiple slayings, even though the city is known as having the worst crime record of any city in Canada.

One police officer said: "I've been on the force 24 years and this is the first time I've seen anything as bad as this."

Police said they are holding no suspects.

"All I can say is that police investigators are working on many hypotheses, some more reasonable than others."

No official statement was immediately available on how or where the fire started. Firemen at the scene said it appeared the fire had been started near the closet where the victims appeared to have been herded before the door was locked and a heavy juke box dragged across in front of it.

Files were being checked to see what was the last worst multiple gangland slaying in the city.

The slayings brought to mind the July 31, 1973, fire at the Blue Bird Club in Montreal where 37 persons died in a fire that was deliberately set.

But in that case, the fire was set by three men who had been refused entry to the night club. They left, bought some gasoline, heaved a bottle of it into the stairway and set the fire. The victims were trapped in trying to escape through doors marked exits, but which proved to be locked.

Police recalled that there were about 14 persons in the Garganuta Club last Oct. 30 when two men were shot to death by two gunmen as they sat at the table.

Killings Reported

CIA Will Face Full-scale Probe

WASHINGTON (CP) — Spurred by reports that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) killed some foreigners and its own agents as well as spied on U.S. citizens, the U.S. Senatt is gearing up for the first thorough probe of the agency since its creation 27 years ago.

The Senate Democratic caucus, brushing aside concerns the investigation would infringe upon the jurisdiction of other committees, voted Monday to set up a committee similar to the one which probed the Watergate affair.

CIA Director William Colby, meanwhile, was summoned to return to a closed-door Senate armed services committee today to testify on the agency's overseas operations.

During Monday's closed-door Senate Democratic caucus, members were told by one senator there was considerable substantive evidence the CIA might have been involved in assassinating foreigners and there had been rumors that low-level officials had contracted gunmen to murder CIA employees.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, meanwhile, said he has received "indications" the CIA soon will disclose the size of its total annual budget, for decades one of the U.S. government's most closely-held secrets.

Senator Alan Cranston (Dem. Calif.) said in an interview the secret budget's size apparently is expanded by contributions to the spy agency by foreign countries, including Iran.

The budgets of the CIA and other U.S. intelligence agencies are hidden in the annual appropriation for the defence department.

Cranston, who attended the that there is no valid security reason for hiding intelligence spending figures.

"Without adequate executive or congressional control of either budget or operations, the various intelligence agencies compete with each other, overlap, duplicate and often take actions in conflict with national policy as declared by the president and Congress," he said.

His office released notes of a speech he made to the caucus.

In his speech, Cranston listed alleged CIA actions which he said focus the case against the agency, including:

—Infiltration of domestic groups within the United States, including surveillance, break-ins and bugging in this country.

—A secret war the agency fought in Laos, which he said was concealed from Congress for years although it cost billions of dollars to fight.

—Helping overthrow the governments of Iran, Chile, Guatemala "and perhaps elsewhere," and giving direct aid to military dictatorships in Indonesia, the Congo and elsewhere.

—"Bribing foreign elected officials, newsmen and others."

Sources inside the caucus said Cranston also referred to charges that the CIA caused the murder of some of its own employees and assassinated foreign figures.

Consumers Respond

DETROIT (AP) — After 13 months of rising auto prices and sagging sales in the United States, some car dealers and buyers are responding to rebate programs by the Big Three auto makers. General Motors entered the discount arena Monday. The Big Three discounts range from $100 to $500 on selected models, and some dealers said the downward sales trend is being reversed, at least for this week.

Nurses at Work

FREDERICTON (CP) — A spokesman for New Brunswock nurses said Monday that nurses at all the province's hospitals had returned to duty, but gave no assurance they would remain on the job today. Registered nurses across the province have been calling in "sick" as part of their plan to force the provincial treasury board to reopen their working agreement.

Denticare Study Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Public discussion of the concept of denticare would be of substantial interest and benefit to the people of Ontario, the president of the Ontario Dental Association, said today. In proposing a four-point denticare program, Dr. Melvin D. Charendoff said all Ontario residents should have access to a dental program.

No Settlement Seen

OTTAWA (CP) — The dispute between the Carleton separate school board and its 750 teachers entered its third week Monday with no settlement in sight. Only a handful of the 45 schools affected were open as about 15,000 students remained without teachers. Talks broke off last week.

MacBeth Favors Change

TORONTO (CP) — Unorganized workers who want to unionize should not have to prove they have the backing of other employees to hold votes to decide whether a union can be formed, provincial Labor Minister John MacBeth says. If votes were held at the request of just a few employees, this would eliminate prolonged union organizing campaigns and employer attempts to dampen such drives. Mr. MacBeth added, however, that he has been cautioned by ministry officials that his idea is an impractical one.

Pile Drivers on Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau and members of the Olympic organizing committee explained to a Quebec legislature committee today the rising cost of staging the 1976 Summer Games. Meanwhile, a strike by pile drivers threatened to further delay work at the trouble-plagued Olympic site. The pile drivers are needed on the Velodrome, the Olympic Village and a viaduct linking the Village to the stadium site.

Rhodes Pledges Bridge Soon

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Ontario transportation minister John Rhodes told The Intelligencer this morning that a new Highway 14 link over — or under — the Bay of Quinte connecting Belleville with Prince Edward County "will definitely be built, and as soon as possible"

The minister said he had made a "definite commitment and the bridge will be built". It will replace the present swing bridge over the Bay.

Commenting on earlier reports that it could be six years or longer before construction starts, Mr. Rhodes said work would begin as soon as studies and meeting with area groups are completed and the necessary land is acquired.

The ministry has embarked on a series of meetings with officials and groups at both ends of the proposed structure to determine the most acceptable location.

When the location is determined, engineering studies will be required to establish whether a bridge or tunnel would be feasible.

Mr. Rhodes added that funds for the project would be no problem. "There is no question of budget restrictions holding up the project," he said.

Make Profit

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — A team of six students at Woodlawn secondary school in Mississauga, Ont., turned a mythical $100,000 into $295,930 during a 12-week period to win Wilfrid Laurier University's annual stock market game.

About 2,20t students in 100 high schools participated in the contest.

Ford's Tax Relief Program Helps Rich Say Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats in the United States Congress, led by Speaker Carl Albert, say they can do a better job than President Ford in directing tax relief where it's needed, fighting the energy crisis and helping the poor cope with inflation.

Albert joined other Democratic leaders Monday night in a steady drumbeat of criticism against Ford's economic and energy proposals.

In a broadcast reply to Ford's economic address last week, he said the Democrats who control Congress believe Ford's proposal to rebate 1974 income taxes by 12 per cent would put 43 per cent of the refund into the hands of the richest 17 per cent of taxpayers, democratic leaders have asked the House of Representatives to pass by the end of March a tax reduction for middle-and lower-income persons only.

Albert said Ford's proposals for oil taxation would mean price increases as much as 25 per cent for gasoline, heating oil, electricity, food, fertilizer and other products.

Congress will have to consider alternatives, such things as gasoline rationing, prohibiting the sale of gasoline on Sundays, excise taxes on automobiles with high horsepower and possibly other measures, he said.

Ford's program also was criticized by a Republican, Senator Jacob Javits of New York. The president's economic program falls "far short of the magnitude of the crisis," Javits said.

The senator said any tax rebate should be prohibited for U.S. families earning more than $25,000, and he urged authorization of wage and price controls.

Albert also urged creation of an independent agency that would have the authority to look into priec increases and delay them up to 90 days, "and in extreme cases the power to impose controls for a longer period on a selective basis."

Hike Gasoline Price Or Lack Oil, Choices

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians must be prepared to pay an additional 20 cents a gallon for gasoline in two years if the country is to be self-sufficient in oil, C. William Daniel, president of Shell Canada Ltd. said Monday.

Mr. Daniel told a meeting of the Toronto chapter of the Sales and Marketing Executives Association that Canada will lose its self-sufficiency in oil within two years unless a major effort is made to develop new reserves.

To do this, Canada would need to invest $30 billion in the next five years, compared to total industry expenditure of $9 billion in the last 10 years.

Currently, the domestic price of oil is fixed at $6.50 a barrel compared with world oil prices of about $11.

Mr. Daniel said the oil industry will need to receive $5 to $6 from a barrel of oil "and this suggests a Canadian oil price of $10 to $13 dollars a barrel depending on the level of government taxation and royalties."

He said under federal and provincial fiscal measures, the oil producers gets $2.79 for a barrel of Alberta crude oil which is "just not enough."

Mr. Daniel said that with a loss of oil self-sufficiency, Canada's net annual trading deficit in oil would reach about $1.7 billion in 1980.

This deficit would grow to $4 billion or more by the mid-1980s, roughly the same as Canada's total balance-of-payments deficit last year.

Miners Escape Landslide

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — A landslide at an open-pit mine near this town, 85 miles northeast of Montreal, forced the evacuation of about 25 families early today.

More than 150 men were working 950 feet below surface when the slide occured. However, nobody was injured as the men got out on time.

Tons of sand and clay covered about a one-mile-wide area of the pit after the slide.

One house fell into the pit during a later shift of the earth following the initial slide..

Terrorists Surrender In Iraq

PARIS (AP) — Iraq today denounced the three Arab terrorists who seized 10 hostages at Orly Airport here Sunday and said the gunmen had been placed under arrest in Baghdad.

A statement issued by the Iraqi Embassy in Paris said the French jetliner that flew them out of France in exchange for the hostages' lives had been permitted to land in Baghdad only because it was low on fuel and the crew was exhausted by mort than 17 hours of flying.

Permission for the plane to land was granted in response to a request by the French government, the statement reported.

Gilbert Hotel Reported Sold to Toronto Firm

TRENTON — An undisclosed Toronto-based company has bought the Gilbert Hotel and plans to tear it down for use as a commercial property, says co-owner Abraham Steinburg.

The three-storey hotel at the corner of Dundas St. West and Murphy St. sits on 7,000 square feet of prime downtown property facing the town hall.

Mr. Steinburg gold The Intelligencer Monday the purchaser, a financial institution, wished its name not be disclosed. Both Mr. A. Steinburg and co-owner Earl Steinburg declined to reveal the purchase price.

The Steinburgs bought the hotel for $130,000 in 1968.

The hotel contains 42 living units, a large kitchen, plus various rooms and lounges. Total floor space is 20,000 square feet.

Mr. A. Steinburg said final details of the sale will be completed by May 1, 1975. He said the hotel itself could be closed within two weeks, although a precise date has not been set.

The Steinburgs say they will retain ownership of the Quinte Hotel, on Murphy St. behind the Gilbert.

A major condition in the sale was the agreement that the new owners not take out a liquor licence within 10 years of the date of sale, Mr. A. Steinburg said.

Prior to the Jan. 3 sale, the hotel voluntarily gave up its three liquor licences. The request was made during a 30-day period during which the hotel's licenes were suspended by the Liquor Liensing Boacrd of Ontario.

Mr. E. Steinburg said last week the 30-day suspension did not hurt his business.

Customers who normally frequented the Gilbert walked around the corner to the Quinte Hotel, which the Steinburgs also own.

The volume of business at the Quinte made up for the loss of business at the Gilbert, Mr. E. Steinburg said.

The sale follows a period last year when hotel owners were plagued by extensive vandalism and at least two instances of arson.

Vandals went as far as ripping wallboard down, said Mr. A. Steinburg.

Boutique Offers Outlet For Local Craftsmen

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Promoted through the Paradox Boutique, Quinte area crafts are becoming more than tourists' souvenirs.

Opened in the fall of 1974, the shop operated by Marty Reynard and Judy Humble features the work of numerous artists, hobbyists and craftsmen.

Unlike many area boutiques that hang out "closed" signs "when the last tourist drives into the sunset, Paradox remains open the year around.

Although many fall visitors and Christmas vacationers do boost business at the boutique, Prince Edward County customers patronize it regularly.

"At Christmas time we could hardly keep up with it," says Marty noting the number of shoppers who decided to choose unique gifts for family and friends.

The boutique's stock changes steadily to offer the buyer unlimited choice of "in" and unusual items as well as traditionally popular items such as patch-work quilts.

Area residents bring crafts to the shop for sale and items that sell well are featured steadily while less popular work is replaced by other stock.

One of the "big sellers" for the Paradox has been Batik work by Rene Glassen of Kingston.

The boutique operators plan to expand business with a quilt room where patchworks stitched by Prince Edward women can be displayed.

Among the crafts people displaying their work at the Paradox are photographers Elias Brettler of Kingston and Len Koretsky of Flushing, New York, potters Margaret Hughes, Kingston and John and Kathryn Cody, Belleville, leather worker, Paul Gabourie of Picton, leather workers Broome and O'Brien, Kingston and candle maker Kay Camp of Picton.

The boutique provides artists with a winter sales outlet for their work and offers area residents an opportunity to buy "different" items stamped with originality.

Home Standards Bylaw Splits Trenton Council

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The means of enforcing the town's week-old minimum housing standards bylaw came under scrutiny here Monday and as a result, amendments to the seven-page document may be forthcoming.

In addition, four separate provisions came under fire from councillor Robert Wannamaker, who said the bylaw "really hit a lot of people like a swat in the face".

He said the bylaw is too specific.

In brief, the bylaw regulates both the outward appearance and structural soundness of all Trenton homes. Both the inside and outside of a house will come under the jurisdiction of a standards officer and standards committee, still not appointed by council.

Mr. Wannamaker cited one case in which an old-age pensioner said she would be forced to sell her home because she couldn't afford repairs to stucco peeling from her walls.

Such provisions, said Mr. Wannamaker, should be more generally stated.

Deputy-clerk Arden Royce argued, however, the need for detailed regulations in any test of the bylaw in court.

Though acknowledging the need for certain provisions to safeguard tenants, Mr. Wannamaker said that "if a fellow (homeowner) wants to put up with a leak (in his roof), let him put up with it".

On the other hand, said Mayor Robert Patrick, "How far do we let a leak go?"

The mayor said any specific faults in a house need not come to light. The bylaw prohibits entry by a property standards enforcement officer without the consent of the occupant.

Mayor Patrick suggested both Mr. Wannamaker and Trenton citizens are over-reacting: "You may not get all these calls you expect to get."

In response, Mr. Wannamaker said that when he voted for the bylaw he was looking at it through the eyes of a new home owner, and not through those of a pensioner.

Councillor Pete Aziz suggested council recind the bylaw and study its provisions clause by clause: "I don't think we gave it enough thought."

Councillor Peter De Groot questioned both the cost and the manner the bylaw will be enforced.

"Are we going to act only on complaints or inspect houses ourselves? Is it going to cost another $15,000 to have it enforced by the offizer)?"

Councillors agreed to move amendments to the bylaw after information on enforcement procedures is received from other municipalities where the bylaw is in force.

Head Start

With a new consignment of leather hats from Picton craftsman Marty Reynard, one of the operators of the Paradox Boutique, has a head start on stocking his shelves for spring. Unlike many area craft shops, Paradox does not close in the winter months but remains as a sales outlet for Quinte area crafts people.

Council Discusses Altered Format

TRENTON — Some members could withdraw from council discussions if existing committee of the whole sessions are discontinued in a revamping of council procedures, councillor George Greer said here Monday.

"Let's face it, that's where we do a lot of discussing," he said.

"To be brutally frank, there are some councillors that don't like to discuss things on the air (over Radio Station CJBQ)."

Mr. Greer's comments came during the introduction by clerk-administrator Aubrey Sharp of a report dealing with changes in council proceedings.

Mr. Sharp recommends committee of the whole sessions be discontinued in favor of two open council sessions that would be broadcast by radio.

Prior to each meeting, councillors would convene in caucus for an hour "to disucss and deal with caucus items and also allow members . . . an opportunity to become familiar with items on the agenda". Guidelines would be established for procedures during caucus.

Regular meetings would be held the first and third Monday each month.

If adopted, the new procedures would mark a departure from the existing practice of alternating committee and regular council sessions weekly. Committee sessions are not broadcast although the press does attend. Caucus sessions are frequently held after meetings.

Responding to Mr. Greer, Mayor Robert Patrick said, "On some issues, there might be some stifling of discussion."

However, discussion in open council is "one of the risks you have to take," said the mayor.

In support of the recommendations, councillor Robert Wannamaker said "This is what the people want. They want to hear what's going on."

Grant Policy Considered

TRENTON — Town council is short steps away from formulating a policy it will apply to all future requests for grants.

The move to establish a policy came after council received a request from a Trenton service club last week.

In a set of recommendations to council's committee of the whole session Monday, it was suggested council established March 1 as the date all requests be filed with the town.

Town council, working within pre-set budget limitations, would then grant funds according to need.

Under the procedure, all grant aspirants would be required to submit financial statements.

A limited fund would be available for unexpected grant requests that would be judged on merit.

Mayor Robert Patrick said the need for a policy first became evident when council came "under a considerable bit of fire" after it granted funds to a group early in 1974.

No decision will be made until council learns what money was granted, what wasn't, and to whom it was granted in 1974.

Facelift Ruled Out

Reg McCurdy, standing, of Greer, Galloway and Assoc. presented a scheme to council to improve the appearance of the new municipal office-fire hall centre. It would cost too much at this time, council felt. Left to right are councillor Ray Tanner, deputy-reeve Fred Brandt, reeve Ray Short, councillor Wayne Martin and councillor Ruby Tompkins.

New Picton Industry To Employ 50 by Sept.

PICTON — A new industry that will employ 50 persosn by September, 1975, will locate in Loch Sloy Industrial Park here, William Duggan, Prince Edward director of economic development announced Monday.

Mr. Duggan said negotiations have been completed for Galaplast Industries Inc. to locate at the industrial park. The company manufactures large plastic thermal forms such as counter tops for vanities and bath fixtures for sale to hotels and motels.

The company, formerly Galaxy Plastics Inc. of Denver, Colorado, last weekend moved equipment and machinery into Building Six at the park. This is the same building utilized by Wickes Canada Ltd. until it abandoned its recreational building facility because of the 1974 oil crisis.

Mr. Duggan added production supervisor Jerry Maher accompanied the large transports that arrived in Picton last week. President of Galaplast Howard Finley and vice-president Ronald Adams followed to supervise the transfer operation.

Mr. Finley has said much of the company's production will be exported to the north eastern United States as well as overseas.

Because of contract commitments Galaplast must be in production at an early date and the move from the Colorado facility to Picton was affected as swiftly as possible.

A spokesman for the company said he expects the first employees will undergo training in February and March and that by September, 1975, a total work force of about 50 persons will be needed.

Companies now in operation at Loch Sloy industrial park include Hullmaster Boats Ltd., Visador Canada Ltd., Galaplast Industries Inc. and Manco Home Systems Ltd.

In addition, Quinte Airways Ltd. has located a facility at Hangar 5 and two other major buildings are leased to companies whose projects remain in the planning stage. A smaller building is occupied by ARC Industries.

Opera Troupe Charms Bancroft-area Children

BANCROFT: North Hasting School children were charmed Monday by the delightful performance by a travelling troop of the Canadian Opera Company under the direction of Ian Rubes.

During the hour-long concert at Our Lady Of Mercy School, approximately 500 children from all the North Hastings Schools were introduced by the company to the history of music and voice developement.

In a program that ranged from cave women imitating birds to folk songs, barber shopping and a brief excerpt from Rigolitto the group of six singers and musicians kept the local children on the edges of their seats.

Monday evening, area residents were able to see the entire troop of singers and orchestra in the concert, Across the Land, at North Hastings Secondary School.

The Canadian Opera Company are planning a new series of concerts for the spring of next year and are already taking bookings for the new tour.

During the evening performance in Bancroft the history of the troop was presented in film and live music.

Excerpts from La Boheme and other operas were also performed.

Builders to Winnipeg

Three members of the Quinte Home Builders Association executive will travel to the Housing and Urban Development Association convention in Winnipeg Feb. 2 to 5. They are President Bob Marcotte, first vice-president Don Keller and secretary-treasurer Randy Loewen.

Stirling Balks At Flashing Lights

STIRLING — If the fire siren keeps sounding here a wake-up crew won't be necessary for homecoming weekend, fire chief Graham Mouk told Stirling Council Monday night. "The whole town will already be up," he said.

A few minutes before council started the alarm went off. Firemen responded but did not take the fire engine to a reported burning transport truck on Highway 33 south of the village. The truck, it turned out, was not on fire.

The rash of false alarms began Sunday morning when firemen investigated black smoke coming from a new furnace at Brown Shoe Co. Ltd., There was no fire. Firemen had another call late one night last week at Edward St. Manor. Again, no fire.

Chief Mouck said "I hope this will be the end of it. Sometimes these things run in cycles."

In other business, council decided to take no action at this time on a request by the Edward St. Manor for flashing red lights at the railroad crossing on that street.

CNR had also asked council to close Baker St. and put up the flashing lights at the same time. Council said it did not like the idea of paying $6,000 for the lights plus the $600-a-year maintenance required.

A delegation from the Stirling Teen Recreation Club asked council to renew the agreement to let them use the community hall for their drop-in centre. Council agreed after reguesting they keep the premises cleaner.

The IODE requested use of the community hall for a few travelogue shows starting next fall. Mrs. Jessie Warren told council the senior citizens looked forward to this.

Councillor Wayne Martin could not get a seconder for his motion to let the IODE have the hall for free, since the teen club got it gratis.

Finally councillor Ruby Tompkins seconded the motion, but deputy-reeve Fred Brandt voted against letting the hall be used for free of charge.

In other business, councillors Martin and Tompkins abstained from voting on the issue of letting liquor be served in the lounge at the arena on special occassions. The balance of council said it had no objection.

Councillor Martin recently voted against the community hall being used on Sunday night for a country jamboree during homecoming weekend.

Concert Popular

About 500 North Hastings School children enjoyed an hour-long concert on Monday by the travelling troop of the Canadian Opera Company under the direction of Jan Rubes. The program for the children ranged from the earliest musical sounds made by man through folk music, barber shop music to a brief operatic performance.

Provincial Scene

Suddenly the pundits are all but writing off the Conservative government in Ontario. The "Big Blue Machine," they say, is sick, has seen better days.

Premier William Davis himself is being viewed in a less than charismatic and effective light. And Robert Nixon and his Liberals, by comparison, are being transformed in the public mind from political lame ducks to potential winners in another election.

The opinion polls confirm it.

But the election is not yet, and it may be asked what essentially has changed? Are the Conservatives all that lacking in vitality and know-how? They remain a stable and effective enough administration, one incidentally which may take on new life now that there has been a cabinet reshuffle.

Is this a time to cast out such a government, one of proven performance; it is certainly not a perfect government, but that is merely to identify the weakness of any administration and of human condition at large. Are we to supplant this in a future vote, with the kind of eccentricities and uncertainties and extravagances and questionable politics and alliances that have been perpetrated by the Liberal government in Ottawa? Similarly with an NDP administration, in the unlikely event of one being returned.

Replying in recent days to critics of his Government, Premier Davis said they were not engaged in a popularity contest; rather they were pursuing policies that had been established. He said also that the Government would not be deterred from making spending cuts. The latter holds peculiar irony for Mr. Davis whose free-spending policies when Education Minister have haunted him ever since.

Right now, where spending and general policy are concerned, it seems the Government is damned if it does and damned if it doesn't. By and large, though the Government itself has not changed, even if the mood of the country and voters has. How much this feeling is abroad in the province will be reflected in the returns at this next election whenever it is called.

Prison Security Lax

The failings of the prison system in Canada are making themselves apparent too often.

In many instances the parole program for one has worked only to the detriment of both prisoner and public. True, there have been successes enough, but when individuals are set free and then go and commit further crimes, including murder, there is genuine cause for alarm.

Now we have the case of a man who was considered "extremely dangerous" hijacking a Collins Bay prison bus and ordering it driven to Ottawa where in a subsequent shootout two police officers and a civilian were wounded.

The question that arises here is why the four guards aboard the bus with the suspect and four other prisoners — originally headed for the military hospital in Barrysfield — were unarmed. Why, in view of the fact the hijacker for one was categorized as "extremely dangerous?"

If the prison system is to be effective it should match its security to the need in any given situation. To that extent the Collins Bay authorities would appear to have been negligent. It is a matter prison authorities should look into.

Brezhnev Ill

Leonid Brezhnev reportedly has stepped down from the Soviet leadership, if not been eased out, which is more in the political nature of things in that part of the world.

The reasons have been given variously as overwork, ill-health, the recent death of his mother, and the collapse of the trade agreement with the United States.

Whatever the reasons — and they occur, incidentally, eleven years after Khrushchev fell from grace — it could mean the West is entering another era of uncertainty in its relations with the Soviets.

With Brezhnev out of the picture, the Kremlin leadership is now reported to be a collective of the Communist party central committee. There is not even any word of Premier Kosygin, although presumably he is still part of that leadership.

Long-Term Outlook Encouraging

World-Wide Recession Hits Base-Metal Mining Activity

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer
Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Canada's base-metal mining industry is currently bearing the full brunt of the global economic recession.

Although long-term demand will almost certainly exceed the capacity of our mines to produce non-ferrous metals, the short-term prospects remain clouded.

"Canadian primary producers of non-ferrous metals may face six or nine months of increasingly competitive market conditions, characterized by producer price cuts, formal and tacit discounting from posted prices, production cutbacks and producer inventory build-ups," says analyst Walter Kitts of Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities in Toronto.

"The depressed conditions in the construction and automotive industries are particularly distressing."

Here are factors that are influencing the market in specific metals:

—Nickel: Supply will be under pressure in 1975. Production capacity will not be extended appreciably, because of rapidly rising costs of capital and construction, the growing threat of expropriation of nickel laterite reserves in so-called developing countries, and the possibility of strikes next summer at Canadian mines.

—Copper: The prospects for copper, an important co-product of nickel, are closely linked to it. The international market price of the red metal—approximately 57 cents a pound on the London Metal Exchange—has dropped 60 per cent since early 1974 to approximately the average international cost of producing it.

North American producers would probably face difficulty in trying to maintain their current 73-cent price, and a price decline could be expected unless a broad business recovery should get under way sooner than is generally expected.

—Zinc: Even the unusual discipline of the world zinc industry is not likely to be successful in maintaining prices at their current record high levels in the face of cutbacks in zinc consumption almost everywhere.

Price solidarity has already been broken by Australian and Peruvian mining companies on zinc sales to U.S. processors.

Japanese zinc smelters are reported to be reacting to the drop-off in demand by reducing their output as much as 30 per cent. It remains to be seen whether such tactics will enable producers to stave off a reduction in prices on the LME.

—Lead: Here again, an artificially high price is being maintained on the LME through a quasi-cortel combination of overseas lead producers. But the natural pressure of a declining demand will probably break through the price supports later this year, and lead producers—in Canada as elsewhere—can expect to receive a lower return.

Looking beyond 1975 and the current recession, however, analysts expect that demand for base metals will again exceed producers' capacity to deliver.

As Walter Kitts of Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities observes, most non-ferrous metals are in abundant supply in nature, but the environment for decision-making in the resource industries of the Western world is deteriorating because of hostile economic nationalism, confiscatory taxation, ecological restraints, high interest rates and a general atmosphere of uncertainty.

'Liberation' Groups In Africa Are Still Receciving 'Humanitarian' Aid

Oshawa Times

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) is a super-department of the federal government about which we obviously don't know as much as we should, judging by a CIDA statement in the past week.

An unidentified CIDA spokesman was quoted as saying that "a trickle" of Canadian aid money - about $200,000 was the figure cited - was going to provide "humanitarian relief to members of liberation organizations" in southern Africa. Applications for other assistance are being considered, the spokesman told The Canadian Press.

That sounds most humanitarian, indeed - unless one stops to realize what the man said. And what he said, as nicely as he knew how, was that Canadians are shelling out their money to patch up or feed wounded, starving or ill terrorists so they can get back to their business of murdering other people.

Plainly and bluntly, Canada is helping the very same sort of terrorists our government avows to hate in Northern Ireland or the Middle East, just as surely as if we were shipping them hand grenades, rifles, machine-guns or flamethrowers.

It may warm the heart of some mandarin in CIDA to think that the medicine he has provided - with our money - will ease the suffering of some "freedom fighter" in, say, Rhodesia. It chills our blood to think that same medicine may heal a man who can then go out and butcher women and children on some isolated, white Rhodesian-owned farm, in the name of independence. Because it's civilians, not troops, who are the favorite target of the African terrorist, or any terrorist for that matter. Civilians are easier to kill, especially defenceless ones.

The only modern anti-terrorist campaigns which ever have been successful have been those which first commanded the loyalty of most of the people of the country involved and, secondly, denied to the terrorists the necessities of life. Malaya's terrorists, for example, were crushed not just by force of arms but also because they were starved into submission and couldn't care for their sick and wounded.

Death by starvation or of untreated wounds is no more humane than death by bullet, knife or bomb. On the other hand, the terrorist has an option not open to his victims; he can quit dying any time he wants to, just by ending his own killing.

In Africa today, for the first time in years, there are signs of hope for peaceful solutions in the black-white struggle. What an odd role for peace-loving Canada to be playing at this stage of development: binding up the wounds of the terrorists so they'll be enabled to go ahead with the slaughter that diplomats on both sides are trying to end!

One wonders, too, where that "other assistance" being considered could be headed. To the IRA?

Grit Staying Power Is Suspect

TORONTO — Will the Liberals blow it again?

With their new-found prosperity the Nixon-led Liberal forces, ahead of the government in an opinion poll for the first time in 32 years, are riding high.

But this leaves us with a main question, will they dissipate their strength as they have in the past.

On two occasions since the Conservatives took over in 1943 the Liberals have entered election campaigns quite close in the polls.

In 1951 when Walter Thomson was leading them they were within a few points.

And in 1963 under John Wintermeyer they were 41 per cent to the PC's 43.

In each case, however, they quickly blew their chances, dropping off 10 points or so in the first couple of weeks.

Thomson did it through a series of ridiculous promises that the public simply wouldn't buy. Wintermeyer couldn't get away from organized crime. He had a good platform that year and there was quite a bit in his speeches, but what the press played was any mention made of crime, and the public was fed up with it.

Now it's Bob Nixon's turn and we will have to see if he has learned a lesson from his predecessors.

One political trueism that is really true is that elections are lost, not won.

The Conservatives undoubtedly will mount a massive campaign in the next vote. But even with this, if he keeps his cool, Nixon should get back with at least a minority government.

But can he keep his cool?

Getting-Away-From-It-All Proves Disappointing For A U.S. Family

Milwaukee Journal

Most people hearing about the suburban Racine family who shut themselves away from the world for nearly a year can understand the impulse. Sometimes the world is simply too much, and this last year has been a humdinger.

Along about the time that this family threw a blanket over its head came the gas and fuel shortages, followed by soaring food prices, teacher strikes, Watergate, rising unemployment, trouble on trouble. It would have been a good year to get away from. Still, most people survived the assault of 1974. Retreat, if attempted at all, was momentary, consisting mostly of not turning on the television, not reading the newspaper, not buying meat, not taking a trip.

The family who tried to turn off the world didn't make it. In the long run, they, like everyone else, were stuck with having to live with themselves. For most of us, that reality is perhaps as hard to cope with as the reality of the world outside.

Smear Rumors Can Do Much Harm

Cambridge Reporter

Strong arguments are presented from time to time that this generation is the best informed and most knowledgable in history.

Improved means of communication, including the mass media, are cited as reasons.

But despite the communications' improvements and the sophisticated methods employed to move information from one point to another, wild rumors continue to be spread and, unfortunately, believed.

A case in point - one that strikes uncomfortably close to home - came to light just prior to Christmas, a time usually associated with the spreading of goodwill and cheer, not damaging falsehoods.

Newsrooms throughout the region were plagued with calls concerning George's Restaurant, one of the most popular Chinese restaurants in the area.

The callers contended that a newspaper in the area had carried a story stating the restaurant had been fined a substantial amount of money for using cats in the preparation of Chinese food.

As a result, calls were made to health authorities at the regional and provincial levels as well as to area news media in an attempt to determine the credibility - or lack of it - of the rumors.

It was quickly determined that the rumors had no basis in fact at all and amounted to no more than a malicious attempt to harm..

Unfortunately the attempt appears to have succeeded. A spokesman for the restaurant reported this week that business had fallen off to the point where a $1,000 reward has been offered to anyone able to stop the rumors.

It has also been discovered that the rumors have not been confined to this city but have ranged as far as Burlington, Fort Erie and Niagara Falls and applied to establishments in those cities.

It is an unfortunate but realistic view that rumors of this kind will never be stopped completely; they will continue as long as human nature includes traits of jealousy and intolerance.

However, on the basis of the rumors in question, those of us who hear them can help to place them in proper perspective and prevent them from spreading.

The Chinese restaurant rumor has been heard in this community at various times for as long as there have been Chinese restaurants and in every instance the result has been the same - the rumor is proven false.

The next time a rumor of this nature is heard stop for a moment to consider the source and previous experience.

Free Subject Choice Criticized

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Last night I read a recent article in The Intelligencer where Mr. Kneisel from Loyalist College said he was concerned about the level of education that grade 12 graduates had when they applied for admission to the College.

I'm sure that the only people who are more concerned about this than Mr. Kneisel are we, the people who were the guinea pigs for the Board of Education's experiment in the concept of complete freedom in subject choice.

Did you know that in high school you don't have to take Math, English, (or any other subject for that matter) if you don't wish? This is great if Canada wants to lead the world in basket-weaving, bead stringing and hand-puppet making.

The only thing that is drilled into you in high school is that you should be able to do whatever you choose in the line of education and also in the line of work when you graduate. What they don't tell you is that chances are you won't have even the basics in reading or math to cope with a College course when you finally graduate from High School.

So until the Ontario Government realizes that the old method of five-year and four-year arts and science courses etc., with a definite course outline is the best way, Mr. Kneisel should teach courses that will benefit our illiterate grade 12 grads, like Pure and Applied Welfare Cheque Signing.

UCS, The Y, And Citizens' Bureau

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

After reading recently of the performance of the UCS I have no reason to doubt that 1975 will be any different than 1974 for the "professionals" on the staff of the UCS and the YMCA. Their salaries will be ensured from either donations from the public to the United Appeal or by grants on the double dipping scale from City Council. In the last United Way Appeal, the UCS suggested to the public that the Citizen's Bureau was a full time participating agency.

However, the Citizen's Bureau, unlike other affiliate agencies, had impossible conditions imposed upon them by the budget committee. It stipulated three things:

1. That the Bureau have a board of directors;

2 That they have terms of reference and

3 They have evidence of alternate funding.

The Bureau easily met the first two qualifications but, because they had been struggling since the LIP grant stopped and was manned on a voluntary basis, the attainment of supplementary funding was very difficult.

The Bureau however, had established change of command with the provincial and the federal government agencies and had advised the UCS that these lines of exploration were progressing favorably. The UCS well knows the extreme difficulty that any agency has in soliciting funding.

By allowing the Citizen's Bureau's name to remain as an affiliate member, many members of the public undoubtedly contributed for this worthwhile agency.They have been misled.

I can only reiterate to the Citizen's Bureau, desperate as they may be to service their fellow citizens .The best thing that they can do is to get out of the United Way Appeal, and to return any money they might have received through the UCS.

Regular Air Fare Versus Charter

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Current transatlantic passenger fares by regular airlines amount to very little short of extortion.

For a ten day return via charter, the cost is two hundred and twenty-nine dollars ($229.00). For a ten-day return via regular airlines, the cost is six hundred and thirty-five dollars ($635.00). These charter flights are run by substantial and reputable airlines. Anyone who has been via a charter flight can verify that the service is better than regular schedule.

Our Government, in protection of regular schedule airlines has made legislation imposing restrictions upon charter flights, such as 60-day notice etc.

How much protection is fair?

Since the Government is part owner of a regular airline, who represents the public when they made Legislation protecting

Salmon Project Questioned

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I am amazed at The Intelligencer giving space to the restocking of salmon in the Bay of Quinte.

It is a fact that for some unknown reason, the salmon will not reproduce in nearly any fresh water let alone the slime and filth of the Moira River or the Bay of Quinte. We cannot afford to restock fish every year just to bow to the whims of every sport shop in and around Belleville.

I think it would be more feasible as a Centennial project to prosecute known polluters feasible as a Centennial project to prosecute knkown polluters and form a serious committee to stop the contamination of our waters, then and only then can we think of restocking fish in our poisonous waters.

CP News Roundup

Britain Abandons Tunnel

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain announced today its withdrawal from the project to build a tunnel under the English Channel between England and France, but said the plans will be kept in storage for possible future revival.

The decision, widely predicted during the weekend, was announced in the House of Commons by Environment Secretary Anthony Crosland.

He said the government was obliged to pull out because of new conditions set by the private companies involved in constructing the tunnel.

The project, talked about since the days of Napoleon, was firmly launched in 1973. But inflation has pushed up the initial cost estimates to $4.6 billion from $1.9 billion.

Firm Fined

MONTREAL (CP) — Bristol Laboratories Ltd. was fined $1,200 Monday in sessions court for six infractions of the Food and Drug Act. The charges against the company included preventing inspectors from checking control tests in labs, selling drugs containing penicillin in a false manntr and selling products that should not have contained penicillin.

Resume Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Contract negotiations are to resume today between the Royal Canadian Mint and representatives of 550 striking employees, a union spokesman said Monday.

The talks, due to begin in the early afternoon, will be the first since mediation efforts failed Jan. 9 and a walkout by employees began in Ottawa, Hull, Que., and Winnipeg.

Index Down

OTTAWA (CP) — The Statistics Canada index of industrial production declined in November, the fifth consecutive month the index has moved lower, the agency reported Monday.

The industrial production index is a component of an index which measures the value of all domestic production. The index and its components are adjusted to discount the effects of both price inflation and seasonal factors.

Opposes Sale

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — The bankruptcy trustee handling the Wasaga Beach Zoological Park says he intends to prevent the sale of the zoo land to a Toronto developer.

Karel Jerabek, manager of trustee Dunwoodco Ltd., said Monday his company will try to buy out the interests of the main mortgage holder, the Toronto Dominion Bank, for $150,000.

The bank had agreed to sell the 55-acre zoo site to developer Vumy Silver for $200,000, he said.

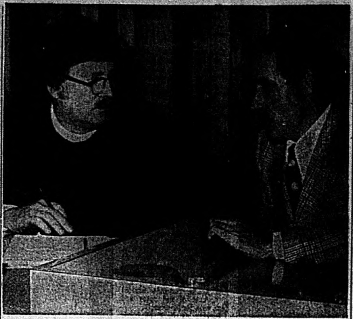
Strike

TORONTO (CP) — About 120 of the 150 social workers, child-care workers, psychologists and other employees of the Catholic Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto went on strike Monday.

Make Rebates

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — General Motors of Canada Ltd. announced Monday a customer rebate program of up to $500 on all its 1975 subcompact and compact cars sold in Canada.

David Collier, GM of Canada president, said in a statement the rebates are retroactive to Jan. 13 and continue to Feb. 28.



New Executive

Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board elected a new chairman and vice-chairman recently at the inaugural meeting of the board for 1975. Vice-chairman Angus Yorke, left, and chairman, Austin Scott, confer during the meeting.

Poor Planning Blamed For Jobs Going Begging

TORONTO (CP) — A study by the Ontario labor ministry says there is an unprecedented number of job vacancies in the province because of poor planning and inadequate use of women, youths, minorities, people in economically-lagging regions.

The research paper refutes the view that the attractiveness of unemployment insurance is largely responsible for jobs going begging.

It concludes that "employers and the education and training system must be guided by longer-term considerations in their planning for manpower development."

"We must do a better job of facilitating entry into satisfactory employment for youth, women and minorities," the report states.

Tht study, made during mid-1974, shows that people under 21 made up 32 per cent of the unemployed, but accounted for only 13 per cent of uneployment insurance.

The paper says the total number of job vacancies in Ontario has increased each year since Statistics Canada began a job vacancy survey in 1970. The largest increases in 1973-74 were in the machining, managerial and science categories.

A general expansion in demand for labor, a lack of training and on-the-job experience during 1971-1973, regional and sectional shifts in labor demand and "a failure to utilize adequately women, youths and minorities" were given as the more important causes of the difficulty in filling vacancies.

There was also a dramatic increase in the rate of rejection by employers of people referred by Canada Manpower centres, the study shows.

The paper rejected the theory of token appearances as not supported by data.

The conclusion is that "most of the people who are now unemployed are not regarded by employers as worth hiring in spite of what many claim is a desperate vacancy situation."

Teachers Deserting Low-income Regions

TORONTO (CP) — The exodus of school teachers from the lower-income areas of Toronto is "an issue of crisis proportions" and the only way to halt it may be by offering them more money, says a board of education trustee.

Douglas Barr said Monday that teaching in the area, referred to by the board as the inner city, is "considered more difficult and some supply teachers feel they couldn't control the kids."

"There's an atmosphere of apathy" in which teachers feel they are doing their job amid public indifference, he said, adding that new teachers have a fear of the unknown and sometimes are paralysed before getting into the class.

Last year, 70 of 540 teachers in the inner city requested transfers out of downtown school area No. 4, while only 20 requested transfers into the district.

By comparison, in school area No. 6, which comprises an affluent part of north Toronto, 10 teachers wanted out, while 89 requested transfers in.

Under a complicated formula, the Metropolitan Toronto board of education allocates an extra $2.4 million to the city to educate the 25 191 pupils in the inner city, with most of the additional money paying for additional teachers.

However, salaries to teachers in the inner city do not appear to be sufficient.

Chris Wooding, president of the Toronto Teachers Federation and a former teacher in the inner city, said schools there also are having trouble getting supply teachers.

Metro Transportation Problem Placed in Hands of Committee

TORONTO (CP) — The future of a proposed project to expand the province's transportation system for Metropolitan Toronto and surrounding area has been placed in the hands of a committee to be convened by Ontario Transportation Minister John Rhodes.

The committee will deliver its recommendations by March 31.

Mr. Rhodes said Monday the committee will deal with "the needs of the immediate future."

He said transportation facilities serving Metropolitan Toronto are operating to maximum capacity and must be expanded.

The decision to form the committee to plan the $1.5-billion downtown transportation system, part of the proposed Metro Centre development, resulted from a two-hour meeting Monday in the office of Premier William Davis attended by representatives from all levels of government and from transportation and development agencies.

Representatives of these groups will sit on the planning committee.

The Metro Centre project, first proposed seven years ago, calls for building of a new commuter terminal, housing for 20,000 persons, offices for 50,000, a 1,800-room hotel, a new Massey Hall and new headquarters for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Inflation in U.S. Worst Since '46

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governmtnt statistics baing announced today show that inflation in the United States in 1974 was the worst in 28 years.

The cost of living for the first 11 months of the year was up 11.4 per cent and the December increase is expected to push the over-all rise for the year into the 12 per cent range—the sharpest rise since Second World War price controls ended in 1946 and the worst in any period unrelated to war.

The U.S. lifted wartime controls in July, 1946, and prices rose 18.2 per cent that year. Since the government began 1913, the largest increase ever recorded during peacetime was 11.6 per cent in 1916, the year before the United States entered the first World War.

Any solace consumers can find in the fact that the rate of inflation has been easing in rectnt months is dampened by the cause—a recession which already has put 6.5 million Americans out of work.

Economists say that while U.S. prices will continue to increase this year, most increases will be smaller.

Food prices, however, art expected to climb at a 15-per-cent annual rate during the first half of the year.

The record U.S. inflation rate in 1974 compared with an 8.8 per cent rise in living costs in 1973. In both 1972 and 1971, the U.S. had an inflation rate of 3.4 per cent.

Grow More Grain Whelan Pleads

OTTAWA (CP) — Opportunity is knocking and Canadian farmers were told Monday they should open their doors to it if they want to counteract cost increase they likely face this year.

Several speakers, including Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan, made this plain Monday during the first day of the 19973 agriculture outlook conference.

"Grain producers have the whole world in their hands," Mr. Whelan told delegates from several countries, the provinces and many areas of the agriculture industry.

"It is the moral responsibility of every country in the world to grow more grain. Not very many countries are as able as Canada to accept this challenge, so I want to see our producers plant more acres of each grain crop. This is urgent."

Wheat, which accounts for about 10 per cent of dollar exports in a normal year, is a major factor in Canada's trade balance.

World requirements usually increase by about 3.6 per cent a year—a six-million-ton increase this year. But many 1974-75 supplies have failed so far to meet expectations despite intense efforts to increase production many countries.

How much should an owner spend to get his property ready for sale? If it's a relatively small amount for improving appearance, fine — but think twice before investing large sums into making extensive improvements prior to putting your house up for sale.

The chaces of getting the money back in a correspondingly higher sales price are remote. Depending on the nature of the improvements, the recovery historically runs from 10c to 50c on every dollar spent.

The exception to the rule is what we call "cosmetic treatment." If the property looks run down, then a paint and paper job once over lightly may be prudent. But it's a whole new ball game when you start with extensive repairs and remodeling.

Th best solution is to discuss your situation with a local REALTOR. You may find that you can sell the house faster, with more profit and less inconvenience by dropping the price about the same amount you expected to spend on repairs.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

STEPHEN

At 11, Stephen has his next few years all planned.

First he wants to be adopted. Stephen yearns to belong to a family, to have a mother and father and perhaps brothers and sisters as well.

Then Stephen, how an average student in Grade 5, wants to fishish high school.

After that he want to be a policeman.

Like many plans, Stephen's will need the help of other people if they are to work out. He is ready and eager to contribute his share towards their realization. For the rest — Stephen hopes. He hopes very much.

Stephen is a quiet, pleasant, congenial boy who gets on well with adults and children alike.

Outgoing and fun-loving with his friends, he is seriously responsible when given chores to do such as helping with younger children in his foster home. He really enjoys the little people.

Stephen is keen on hockey and loves camping.

He attends Sunday School regularly and belongs to a church-sponsored group called Cadets, similar to Boy Scouts.

Anglo-Saxon in descent, Stephen is sturdy, active and healthy with dark eyes, brown slightly curly hair and fair skin with a sprinkling of freckles. He wears glasses because of far-sightedness.

Likable, adaptable, well-mannered Stephen needs a warm home where there is not great pressure for academic achievement but where he will receive encouragement to pursue his ambitions. He could fit into a family as either the oldest or the youngest child.

To inquire about adopting Stephen, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Women: Are You Happy With Your 'Ad Image'?

As a woman, are you satisfied with the way women are portrayed in advertising?

The Monitoring Committee of the Ontario Status of Women Council wants your views for a comprehensive report being prepared this winter.

If you have views about the image of women in newspaper and magazine ads, or in radio and television commercials in Canada, you can help in the report preparation.

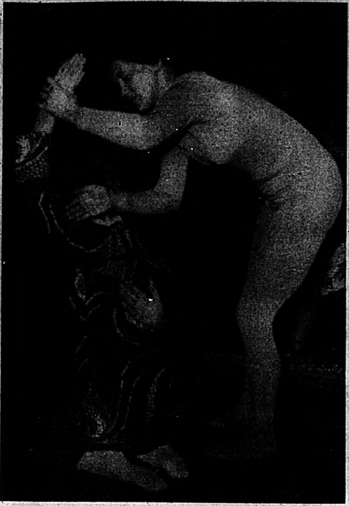
Send your name and address to Laura Sabia, Chairman, Ontario Status of Women Council, 801 Bay Street, Third Floor, Toronto M5S 1Z1.

Five monitoring forms will be sent to you with instructions on how to use them. If a few of your friends would like to assist, ask for extra forms.

There are only two weeks left in the information-collecting stage of the report, so that haste in writing for the forms is recommended.

"The more information we get, the more we'll know what the women of Ontario think about advertising and what should be done about it," says Mrs. Sabia.

The report should be valuable not only to women, but to the advertisers themselves who can profit from the compiled opinions. No advertiser wants to irritate half his potential customers.



It's Easy Once You Know How!

Mary Moore, who is presently conducting weekly yoga lessons at the YMCA, helps one of her new students to achieve a hands-clasped-behind-the-back position. The afternoon class, which was quickly joined by the maximum number of women (25), is just one of the many self-improvement and interest courses available for women at the 'Y'. This class, like the others, is followed by an optional sauna and shower, an excellent way to keep both body and spirit in tip-top condition during the winter months. Inquiries about courses should be directed to the Belleville 'Y' which this week is observing YMCA Week.

ROBBIE BURNS DAY

The skirl of bagpipes, soprano singing, spirited dancing and recitations from the Bard of Scotland—await you at the Hastings County Museum's Robbie Burns Day Celebration.

Doug Burns will patrol the halls of Glanmore in full regalia playing his pipes. Later he'll join his daughter Jane for some lovely Scottish songs.

The Kingston Branch of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society will perform, and Shaun Rafferty will recite from the poets' works, at the Hastings County Museum, 257 Bridge Street East, Belleville, on Sunday January 26, 1975 between 2 p.m. — 4 p.m.

MELROSE UNITED CHURCH

The annual meeting of Melrose United Church Women was held Thursday at the home of Helen McLaren. Dorothy Melburn is newly elected leader for the year assisted by Ruth English. Mrs. McLaren continues as secretary and Jean McFarlane as treasurer.

Slides and a discussion period were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson.

Lawrence — Gartland

Holy Name of Mary Church in Marysville was the setting for the December 28 wedding service uniting Mary Jo-Anne Gartland and Lieutenant Robert Charles Lawrence in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. David Gartland of RR 1, Marysville, and the late David Gartland, and the groom is the son if Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Lawrence of Sarnia.

Rev. William Dwyre and Rev. Timothy O'Shea officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle Jack Jordan, the bride wore a gown of crepe over sharkskin with a high mandarin neckline, a front and back bodice of Alencon lace and seed pearls, and lacy Victorian-type sleeves. The skirt was accented with lace trim and an unattached train of lace. A four-tier lace-edged veil was caught by a crown-type headpiece of satin and seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses and pine with forget-me-nots.

Serving as maid of honor was Dianne Garland, the bride's sister, wearing a dress of red velvet and carrying a white marabou muff.

Veronica Wemp and Valerie Madden were bridesmaids in green velvet dresses, and carried white marabou muffs like the maid of honor. All the attendants wore white marabou hats.

Lori-Anne Whalen was flower girl in a gown identical to the maid of honor's.

The ring-bearer was Doug McCormac.

The groom's twin brother Ted Lawrence was his best man.

Ushers were Axel Kleer and Jim Madden.

Debbie Callaghan and Wendy Lawrence were soloists for the occasion.

Following the service, a dinner and dance reception took place at the Club Cedars in Cannifton.

The newly-married couple now reside in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Because housewives complained that chicken no longer tastes as good as it did, a company in Reigate, Surrey, has begun marketing a product that gives added flavor to the bird. The product, Interchicken, can be varied to give branded chickens a distinctive taste or to suit differences in national palates. Workers at a U.S. plant are shown injecting the flavor into broiler chickens using hydrolance pump that gives exact control over the quantity injected. (CP Photo)

Injections Improve Chicken's Flavour

LONDON (CP) — Housewives who complain that chicken no longer tastes as good as it did may be right.

As a result of revolutionary developments in the table poultry industry in the last 20 years, birds are killed at a much younger age and processed on a scale that militates against flavor.

Research has shown that a time lag of several days between killing and evisceration is essential for a chicken to be fully flavored, a delay that is totally impracticable in a modern packing station processing many millions of birds every year.

As a result, a company in Reigate, Surrey, has begun marketing a product that gives added flavor to chicken.

The company, White Stevenson, began its research when it was asked by a manufacturer to investigate ways of improving the flavor of its chicken noodle soup. It first tried feeding flavored diets to the birds but the effort was unsuccessful.

From its work on meat flavoring, the company knew that the combination of proteins, sugar and fat that produces flavor differs between younger and older animals.

Modern techniques could produce a chicken that attained the same weight in 49 days as a 120-day-old chicken raised by traditional farmyard methods but not matching the older bird in flavor.

The company's scientists began work on a flavoring agent. It had to be entirely natural with no synthetic ingredients and nutritious in its own right. It had to leave the meat character unchanged and emulsifiers or dispersion agents had to be kept to a minimum to avoid introducing extra water into the bird.

Eventually they developed a blend of specially treated baker's yeast, concentrated butter extract and herb and spice oils.

The agent, known commercially as Interchicken, can be varied to give branded chickens a distinctive taste or to suit differences in national palates.

In Italy, for instance, test marketing indicated there was insufficient rosemary in the flavor and the quantity of this herb was doubled.

The technique is proving popular in the United States, where two major packers are carrying out large-scale tests. One injects the flavor with a hydrolance pump fitted into a dual-pronged head with solid-state electronic controls governing the quantity injected.

The other packer immerses chicken portions in Interchicken at the point of sale rather than in the processing factory.

When Interchicken was introduced in Britain in 1973, there was initial skepticism among packers, many of whom resented the suggeston that modern chickens lack flavor. But four packers adopted the technique and consumer tests have shown that its introduction has increased sales.

Young Woman Tries Many Jobs, Now Her Line Is Selling Wine

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — In the beginning, pedestrians would give Carol Taplay a long, hard stare when she walked into a strange town and asked directions to the liquor store.

By now, she usually knows the way and carries a street map as insurance. But she still gets funny looks when she is spotted in a shopping plaza loading a dozen cases of wine into her car.

It's all in the line of duty. Miss Taplay is a sales representative for Barnes Wines Ltd., the oldest Canadian winery. As far as she knows, she is the only woman in Ontario selling wine or liquor.

Her area encompasses the western outskirts of Toronto, Hamilton, the Niagara region and numerous smaller cities and towns in between. She covers it all twice a month.

The first round takes her to all the Ontario government liquor stores where she talks to the managers, finding out how the various wines are moving and whether an unpopular variety should be replaced by a better seller.

On her second trip, she visits hotels, lounges and restaurants persuading the person responsible for ordering wine to stock more of her company's products.

"Maybe it's easier for me to get in the door but once I'm there I have to prove I'm able to sell," Miss Taplay said. "This is more difficult for me because I'm female."

She also looks after returns. When a customer turns back a bottle and it has been checked by the company laboratory to determine what, if anything, is wrong, she calls on the customer with a replacement.

Another aspect of the job is helping with the arrangements for banquets and receptions. She advises the host how to obtain his special permit from the liquor control board and works with her counterparts in breweries and distilleries to ensure that the right kinds and amounts of beverages are available.

For wine and cheese parties, she knows what cheeses go with each wine and can arrange for glasses to be borrowed or plastic ones bought.

Miss Taplay, 27, moved into her present job last June after managing a summer resort near Orillia, Ont., for two years.

"I had the satisfaction of seeing it get going," she said. "But the work is seasonal. I just couldn't handle it—it was too physically exhausting."

A native of Woodstock, Ont., she trained as a dental assistant but left her job with a Niagara Falls dentist after a year to sell exhibit space at the city's Skylon Tower. Then she moved to Toronto, where she arranged for exhibitions and conventions in the Skyline Hotel chain, including its overseas branches in London and the Caribbean.

The least of her worries about her present job is the amount of travel involved.

"I like meeting people," she said. "I like being in and out of the car all the time. I can't stay home.

Government Produces Ineffectual Promises

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian government has produced nothing but "ineffectual promises" on human rights legislation, the 30-member federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women (ACSW) said Wednesday.

The council sent a telegram to Health Minister Marc Lalonde, who is responsible for the status of women, asking for immediate introduction of such legislation.

"As early as July, 1973, this legislation was clearly identified as the ACSW priority and in December, 1973, cabinet approval was announced," the telegram said.

The ACSW, ending a three-day meeting here, said only one such bill—providing for payment of Canada Pension Plan benefits to widowers—has been passed since the government established the council in 1973.

Dr. Katie Cooke, ACSW chairman, termed the delay "an absolute disgrace" and said the council wants an equitable distribution of the approximately 50 federal deputy ministers' posts. There now is only one woman at that level.

The ACSW recommended the government change legislation dealing with citizenship, passports, family court and sharing of Canada Pension Plan benefits by husbands and wives.

Dr. Cooke said a mother should be able to confer her Canadian citizenship on her children. Only fathers could now do so.

The council also said that information about marital status required only from women—should be required from men as well if it is valid.

The council also recommended a 50-50 split of Canada Pension Plan credits between marriage partners, whether one or both works and contributes.

Carol Taplay is the only woman selling wine or liquor in Ontario and in the beginning, pedestrians would give her a long, hard stare when she asked for directions to the local liquor store in a strange town. Her work area encompasses the western out-skirts of Toronto, Hamilton, the Niagara region and smaller cities and towns in between. As sales representative for Barnes Wines Ltd., Miss Taplay also looks after returns, makes arrangements for banquets and receptions and gives advice for wine and cheese parties. (CP Photo)

Ann Landers

Kids, Cats and Cheap Hosts

Dear Ann Landers: My heart went out to Newbury Park Cadaver, the mother of the six-year-old boy who was so active she had to hire a sitter, take a pillow and blanket and drive to a park so she could sneak in a nap.

Although I agree with your advice to get the child tested and perhaps put on medication, it isn't easy to find a physician who understands the hyperactive child. Sometimes medication is just a means of masking the symptoms.

It burns me up when well-meaning friends and relatives tell you: "There's nothing wrong with your child that a little discipline wouldn't cure." Our son was so unmanageable that the neighbors had to build a fence to keep him off their property. He was destructive and ruined their flowers and shrubs. Punishment was no deterrent. It only made him more incorrigible.

I have been helped a great deal by the National Association for Children With Learning Disabilities. Their headquarters is 5225 Grace Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15236. The association is made up of doctors, parents, teachers and nurses. Invariably the hyperactive child is brighter than the average and can think of more mischief to get into. Please, Ann, tell Newbury Park Cadaver to write to ACLD for literature. She will also be told the location of the nearest chapter. Parents who share a similar problem can be a godsend to one another.—Ohio Mother Who Owes ACLD A Lot

Dear Mother: I received over 100 letters from readers who praised ACLD. It gets a five-star rating from this corner and I urge parents who have the problem to write to this organization.

Dear Ann Landers: You blew it again. I refer to the letter from the woman whose six-year-old son was allergic to cats. (He was getting asthma attacks and had developed a skin rash). When the woman told her husband the cat had to go, he became upset and suggested a better solution—find a foster home for the guy.

You said the guy was bananas. Well I don't agree. Kids have caused more divorces than cats. Cats are also a lot cheaper to keep and they do not create havoc and dissension the way some kids do. So please don't write the guy off as a kook. He sounds like a solid citizen to me.—Another Stepdad With A Pain-in-the-Neck Kid

Dear Pain: Too bad I can't put you in touch with that other nut. I'm sure you'd have a great time together. I feel sorry for your wife—and your stepson has my heartfelt sympathy.

Dear Ann Landers: If I didn't see it with my own eyes I'd have troube believing it.

A few days ago I received an invitation to a wedding and reception to follow. On the invitation was a handwritten note which read, "Please send $21 to pay for your transportation from the wedding to the reception. We are planning a great party at this beautiful resort and hiring buses for our guests."

This is a unique experience for me and I don't know how to deal with it. Frankly, I have better things to do with $21.—Plain Stunned

Dear P.S.: Inform the "host"

Dear P.S.: Inform the "host" that you'd be delighted to attend the wedding but you can't afford the reception.

Doris Clark

Mixed Marriage Can Be Blessing

Dear Doris: Your column contained a letter from a woman whose daughter will be bringing home her husband, a native of Ceylon.

My advice would be to announce the marriage and circumstances to her relatives and friends immediately, never turning a hair, as it were. What are friends and relatives compared to the young couple?

This happened with our lovely granddaughter a few years ago. This was her decision, her future - no one groaned except the father. Since, he has adjusted to the mixed marriage. There are two lovely little girls. They have been home to Canada, visited with us, and everyone felt it a pleasure to meet them.

Never was there any question of her decision. We love the husband, really a gentleman.

If we cannot do this, one might as well run all our Western ethics down the drain.

Don't Turn A Hair.

Dear Don't: Your real life experience will do more to strengthen that mother's stand than any amount of theorizing. I'm glad things turned out well in your granddaughter's case.

Dear Doris: I have a friend whose son is engaged to a girl six years his senior. My friend is very perturbed, as she feels this is too great a gap, even though the young couple are compatible in many ways.

Could you please give me the negative points of such a marriage? Have you any statistics to show how such marriages turn out?

The boy is 23 years of age, and very mature in his outlook. In later years, will not this difference be more pronounced, both physically and psychologically?

Age Difference.

Dear Age: So very much depends on what has happened to that young man in his 23 years, what responsibilities he has carried, what kind of family he comes from, that you simply cannot think of a number and decide whether his age is wrong.

I know several marriages where the wife is six or seven years older than the man and you couldn't see anything more complete or satisfying than their loving regard for each other.

The gap tends to close. The only statistics I can give you are to the effect that women are outliving men by five or six years these days.

Which makes the difference all to the good in this case, doesn't it?

(Doris welcomes your comments and ideas. Write to her, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Library Group Contends Publishers Inaccurate

OTTAWA (CP) — Figures on Canadian book sales to libraries contained in a recent Independent Publishers' Association newsletter are incorrect, The Canadian Library Association said Monday.

Harry C. Campbell, chairman of the association's committee on Canadian book development, said in a statement that the figures were not checked with libraries.

The publishers' newsletter claims that only 12 per cent of the country's total school library budget of $34 million was spent on Canadian books.

"This figure can nowhere be supported with evidence," the library association statement said.

Man Who Posed as Doctor Is Jailed for Assault

TORONTO (CP) — A man who posed as a medical doctor in order to perform internal examinations on women was sentenced Monday to three years in prison after pleading guilty to 22 charges of indecent assault.

It was the second time Antonio Maurantonia, 35, appeared before County Judge William Rogers on the o[illegible]

Maurantonia was sentenced to two years in prison.

Crown attorney Stephen Leggett said the man had a thriving practice in the Italian community.

"People went there for everything from a nose job to blisters, and there would appear to be no sanitary precautions taken," he said. "He professd to be a doctor and gave vaginals regardless of the complaint."

Dog Which Bit Child Being Watched for Rabies

TORONTO (CP) — A dog that bit a six-year-old girl in the face Saturday, leaving cuts that required 50 stitches, will be kept in quarantine for two weeks to determine whether it is rabid and then it will be destroyed, an official said Monday.

Tammy Lynn White had played with the 16-month-old mixed collie-German shepherd several times before, but Saturday it is believed she pulled the dog's tail.

Father Of Dead Child Pleads for Tracey Street Sidewalks

The father of a schoolchild killed in a traffic accident earlier this year, went before city council Monday to plead for sidewalks on a northwest city street.

Michael Burke's plea followed a petition opposing sidewalk construction proposed for the north side of Tracey St. from North Front St. to Sidney St.

Council already has given two readings to the needed construction bylaw which evoked the protest signed by 20 petitioners.

Under the formalities of municipal procedure, the petition likely will now mean an Ontario Municipal Board hearing on the project, a city official said later.

But Mr. Burke of 114 Jackson Ave. — whose 10-year-old daughter Arlene died following a traffic mishap last March on Tracey St. — told council the sidewalk is necessary to the safety of youngsters using local schools.

The hazard is such, said Mr. Burke, one woman in the neighborhood watches through binoculars for her children coming from school.

Council

He said he does not feel the petitioners were "justified" in their stance.

The petition says a sidewalk linking North Front and Lemoine streets would benefit youngsters attending the separate school. However, extending the walk as far as Sidney would be no advantage.

The sidewalk is proposed as a local improvement — which means householders involved would pay for the facility on a per-foot-frontage basis.

The petitioners questioned the "extreme costs" of $9.40 a foot. The area was outside city limits when a number of properties were being developed under the Veterans Land Act. At that time, VLA standards required minimum 120-foot frontages, said the petition.

It also questioned the feasibility of building a sidewalk if storm sewers are planned later for the area.

The requests of both Mr. Burke and the petitioners stimulated lengthy debate as councillors pondered various alternatives from temporary sidewalks to crossing guards and stop signs.

Ald Jack Ireland said he believed a police safety report early had suggested a Front-to-Sidney sidewalk.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said two factors had to be considered with temporary walks: (1) Cost of installation, and (2) gravel walkways flanking front lawns are not always acceptable to householders.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey noted that council has adopted a philosophy that sidewalks should be installed on streets deemed traffic collector routes for main thoroughfares. Tracey now is "certainly" such a street.

Ald. Ben Corke said a similar situation on Haig Road — in the city's east end — is also causing parents in the area " a great deal of concern and annoyance."

Council to Ask Province For Parks Commission

Belleville city council will call on the Ontario government to organize a Quinte Parks Commission.

The proposal will be among suggestions presented provincial cabinet ministers meeting in the city next month, Mayor Robin Jeffrey revealed Monday night.

The city suggest formation of a provincial parks group similar to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, she said.

The St. Lawrence commission supervises development and maintenance of parks and provincial recreation facilities from Adolphustown toward the Quebec border.

It was among proposals discussed for the city's official brief to the ministers — all with resources portfolios — who meet at the Four Seasons Hotel Hotel Feb. 17-18.

Contents of the brief was the major topic at the council's caucus which ran three hours before council went into regular session.

Other proposals being pondered to presentation to the ministers, said Mayor Jeffrey, included:

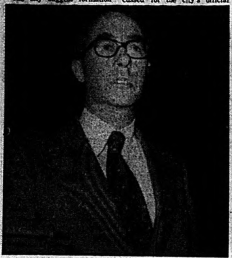
— Changing the hours of municipal elections so the polls open a 9 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

— Low-interest loans to assist servicing of housing and industrial developments within municipalities.

— A transportation corridor for eastern Ontario.

— Location of the proposed new Highway 14 link across the Bay of Quinte replacing the present Belleville-Rossmore swingbridge and causeway.

— Municipalities be fully informed on the implications of new provincial departments.



It's Under Way

Consultant R. E. Crysler announces to city council Monday that Bay of Quinte Waterfront Planning Study now is under way. Ideas will be sought from community for document which will assess future recreation possibilities along waterfrontage of city, Thurlow and Sidney Townships.

Elevator Size Often Critical

There are apartment buildings in Belleville with elevators too small to transport stretcher cases in emergencies, a city councillor warned Monday night.

This often means ambulance teams must manouevre people suffering injuries or seizures down long flights of stairs — a problem that increases with the height of the building and the weight of the patient, said Ald. Stu Meeks.

Elevators in high-rises particularly, must be large enough to take a stretcher, cautioned the councillor.

Ald. Meeks, himself an ambulance operator, indicated reluctance to debate the issue since he might be in conflict of interest.

Nonetheless, "I feel there should be something done about this," he said.

His remarks were prompted by a letter from an upper-floor apartment dweller on Ann St., thanking his attendants for the way they handled her husband downstairs to an ambulance during an emergency.

Last Hearing

Dr. Omand Solandt, right, held the last of a long series of hearings on the Lennox to Oshawa power corridor last night in Cannifton. One of the farmers who presented briefs to the commission was Bill Langstaff, conferring with Dr. Solandt after the hearing.

Public Response Needed for Study

Belleville-area communities soon will have a chance to define ideas about the future of their waterfront recreation resources.

The Bay of Quinte Waterfront Planning Study is under way.

And the experts in charge are seeking public response to help with the survey, city council was told Monday.

The study was commissioned by the Moira River Conservation Authority to evaluate the recreational potential along the waterfrontage of Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow townships.

R. E. Crysler, professional engineer, whose consulting firm of Crysler and Latham Ltd., is conducting the study, told council public input and suggestions from community groups are being sought.

He said he hopes the first public session could be called in about two weeks.

Mr. Crysler said he has a list of about 30 community organizations whose representatives would be asked for an "exchange of ideas".

He also told Ald. Stu Meeks that exploratory drilling to determine the extent of dredging needed in the mouth of the Moira River would start as soon as ice conditions permitted.

Rowan Named Deputy Minister

FROM TORONTO BUREAU OF THE INTELLIGENCER

From Toronto Bureau

Of The Intelligencer

TORONTO — A former Belleville resident has been appointed deputy minister of the newly-created provincial culture and recreation ministry.

Malcolm Rowan, 39, assumes the position after spending three years as executive assistant to Premier William Davis and deputy secretary of the provincial cabinet.

He will work with Robert Welch. former attorney — general and justice secretary who was moved to head of the new ministry in the Premier's cabinet shuffle announced a week ago.

Mr. Rowan, a native of Yorkshire, England, attended high school in Belleville before graduating from Queen's University in 1959. He served in various capacities with the federal government before becoming involved with the province through work on the committee on government productivity.

Layoff Termed Normal

McFarlane Gendron Ltd. employees who were laid off their jobs in the past two weeks will be returning in March, general manager Les Young said Tuesday.

About 30 employees were affected by the layoff. Mr. Young said the labor reduction is "an annual thing ... not geared to the economic climate."

"It happens every year ... part of the cyclical nature of the business,' he said.

Privacy at Stake

How much detail should a company disclose in its annual statement was the topic of panel discussion Monday night at a joint meeting of the Quinte chapters of the Industrial Accountants and Chartered Accountants Associations. The panel resolved that a company's privacy should be guarded but that complete disclosure be made on government request.

YMCA to Tackle Debt Before Any Expansion

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Staff Reporter

Top priority for the Belleville YMCA in 1975 is the elimination of its $40,000 capital debt, says Executive Director D. G. Diamantides.

Referring to a speech made Monday to the Rotary Club by Dr. Douglas Horne, Mr. Diamantides said today until the 'Y' has written off its debt, there will be no definite plans for expansion.

"We hope to pay off the capital debt this year "by funds raised in a quiet campaign among friends," he said.

"Ben Corke is the leader of this campaign, which is being conducted among businesses and individuals.

"We hope that these donations will be sufficient to clear away the $40,000.'

Once the YMCA has accomplished this, a drive for further funds will begin, so that a gymnasium sports area can be added to the present building, Mr. Diamantides added.

"But we don't have specific plans now," said Mr. Diamantides. "The only thing I can say at this point is that the addition will be on the west side of the building. We haven't got into its size and cost yet."

Fund-raising activities such as last fall's Swim-a-thon are for the paying of current operating expenses and for purchase of YMCA equipment, explained Mr. Diamantides.

This is separate from Mr. Corke's campaign the director outlined.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance in the 24-hour period ending 8 a.m. today.

Monday, Jan. 20, 5:40 p.m. ... 13 Herman St., chimney fire, minor damage.

Railway Underpass Adopted by Council

City council Monday night adopted the final phase of detailed engineering study to take the railroad out of Cannifton Rd. traffic.

Approved was a functional planning report on the Cannifton Road grade separation at the Canadian National Railway main east-west line.

The report — from consultants Toten, Sims, Hubicki Associates—was the latest preliminary in a project that will move the Cannifton Rd and pass it beneath the railroad. The document followed council's approval in September to alter plans for an overpass to a subway route.

The project shifts Cannifton Road further east, linking it as a four-lane artery into Station St. near Emily St.

Cost of the grade separation scheme now is $2,933,000 — of which the city will pay about $446,000.

The present Cannifton Road would be closed at the railroad crossing

But the report also suggests these moves because of the road realignment and closure:

— A pedestrian underpass at the present level crossing since what now is Cannifton Rd would be downgraded to a local street between College and Station Streets.

— A landscape plan for the area north of College St.

— Investigation by the City of acquiring the CNRA Park adjacent to the present crossing — to increase "open space" in the area.

— Upgrade East College to an arterial street.

— Close Albion St. at Emily and realign it to interect Station further south of Emily.

Driver Charged

TWEED — A Madoc man has been charged with careless driving following an accident Monday on the Crookston Road, 2.4 miles east of Highway 62.

Percival Evans of Madoc was westbound on the road when he lost control, hit the north shoulder of of the road, went into the south ditch and rolled his car. Damage was estimated at $600. Mr. Evans was treated at Belleville General Hospital for cuts on his forehead and arm, and released.

Corke After Pay Study

A city councillor wants a citizens' committee to review all remunerations for civic service in Belleville.

Ald. Ben Corke Monday night told city council he will bring in a recommendation at its next meeting two weeks from now calling for such a study.

What he will propose, said Ald. Corke, is a five-member committee representing various work and professional sectors of the community.

What is involved is the scale of payment for all elected or appointed memberships in the mechanism of the city's local government — from council to its various supporting boards and commissions.

It does not involve city workers or its civil service, Ald. Corke emphasized later.

Such a committee would take the remuneration issue "out of the political field," said Ald. Corke later.

While council doesn't have to accept recommendations, the committee would be an "opportunity for citizens to participate" in the issue, he said.

City councillors at present are paid $3,000 a year. In total, the mayor's office currently earns its holder under $12,000 — $9,000 in mayoralty salary, $1,000 each for police public utilities commissions appointments and stipends for each meeting attended of the Quinte Planning Board (QPB).

"I still say the average alderman is getting paid about $3 an hour — which is not an acceptable rate in this day and age for people," said Ald. Corke.

"It's all very well to say if you get the pay up high enough you get people who run because of that," he said. "But then they have to get elected."

Sign Bylaw Approved

Bellevillians will know when it's 1980.

City store fronts will be displaying the signs of the times.

By then all store signs must be flush with the premises they advertise.

City council Monday read into law its new sign control bylaw to smoothen the appearance of commercial fronts in the city.

The new flush-to-the-wall emblems are officially called fascia displays — and their overhang will only be 18 inches. There are two specified exclusions — the marquees at the Park and Belle theatres.

The new ordinance gives a five-year period of grace for merchants to effect the changeover.

Hearings Conclude

Farmers Critical Of Power Route Location

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Staff Reporter

Spokesmen for Sidney and Thurlow township farmers were vocal in the defence of their prime agricultural land against the encroachment of industry Monday night at a Solandt Commission hearing in Cannifton council hall.

Dr. Omand Solandt held in Cannifton the last of a long series of hearings on the proposed routes of the Lennox-to-Oshawa power corridor carrying electricity from the Lennox generating plant near Bath to the fringe of the Toronto area.

About 40 concerned residents of Sidney and Thurlow turned out to support their spokesmen, who argued against the line that would run 425 feet wide from east to west across the northern part of concessions 4 of the two townships. In the townships of Tyendinaga, Thurlow and Sidney, the corridor would occupy 750 acres of land.

Ivan May, president of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, was the first to present a brief to the commissioner. He said most food produced in Ontario was grown on a narrow strip of land along the Great Lakes — a strip shared with industry and cities. He asked that the power corridor be placed north of prime agricultural land. With power readily available, the less productive northern land would become more attractive to industry, drawing it away from the high-producing south.

"Little has been done about conserving farmland," said Mr. May.

Bill Langstaff, representing Sidney farmers, said that from 1941 to 1971, only about 6,000 acres (12.5 per cent) had changed from farming to other uses, compared with 28 per cent change for the province as a whole.

"We recognize an obligation to society to produce food for the future," he said.

He asked that the power corridor be erected along existing lines.

Borden Forsythe, former deputy reeve of Thurlow, echoed the off-the-record opinion of many of the farmers present when he said "There is no doubt in my mind the proposed line is the one of least resistence."

The proposed route through the 4th concessions covers flat, cleared land, "where there's not a tree to be cut,' as one farmer expressed it.

"Ontario Hydro has pulled off one of the greatest whitewash jobs I've ever been associated with," said Mr. Forsythe.

The proposed route would cut across the northern part of the 200 acres farms originally laid out by 18th century surveyors in the 4th concessions of Thurlow and Sidney. Farmers want the corridor located along boundary lines between the 4th and 5th concessions, if the southern route is chosen.

Mr. Forsythe asked Hydro officials if they were "prepared to follow lot lines, not decimate properties?"

An Ontario Hydro official said the government would "try to locate the route in the best interests of everybody."

Clarke Rollins, MPP for North Hastings, added his voice to the chorus asking for a corridor that follows lot lines if the southern route is used.

"There is a realization that there is a need for hydro but farmers have as deep an interest in their land," he said.

George Beer, representing Thurlow farmers, said many properties along the power corridor were developing areas. The township now is negotiating for water and sewer services in an area adjacent to Belleville where 40 per cent of the wells are no longer useable. He asked how Ontario Hydro intended to compensate if proposed services were disrupted by the power line.

Horace Casey, reeve of Thurlow, said the proposed official plan of his township would make it "almost impossible" for a farmer to get a land severance.

If the official plan prevented agricultural land from being developed for residential and industrial use, he asked, how could Ontario Hydro justify its power corridor severances?

Hydro Failure Disrupts Power Corridor Meeting

Electricity was the topic at Cannifton Council Hall Monday night, as a hearing of the Solandt Commission on power corridors got underway about 8:30 p.m.

At 9 p.m., the power failed. The overhead projector, on which an earnest Hydro official was trying to explain expropriation procedures gave up — due to an overloaded fuse.

It took a half hour to find the fuse, replace it, and continue with the hearing.

"I don't know whether or not this was a plot to show how essential electricity is or not," said commissioner Dr. Omand Solandt.

"First the projector went off, then the coffee pot," he reported.

Instead of a mid-hearing coffee break, the electrical interruption resulted in coffee being served at the end of the hearing.

All-star 28 Set to Go

When the first National Hockey League All-star game was played 28 years ago, 14,169 fans turned up to watch the action at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Gross receipts totalled $25,865.

The All-stars won that 1947 match with Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-3.

First team All-stars, for the 1946-47 season were: Montreal's Bill Durnan in goal (his fourth straight selection), defencemen Kenny Reardon and Butch Bouchard, also from Canadiens; Boston centre Milt Schmidt; left winger Doug Bentley from Chicago and another Montreal great, Maurice Richard, on the right side.

Boston had three players on the Second Team. In goal, it was Frank Brimsek (Mr. Zero) while Bobby Bauer patrolled right wing and Woody Dumart was on the left side. Detroit's Black Jack Stewart and Bill Quackenbush were the defencemen. And rounding out the lineup, was the old dipsy doodler, Chicago's Max Bentley, at centre.

One of the features of tonight's 28th All-star Game from Montreal Forum, for television viewers, will be film of that 1947 match. The full CBC network will carry the action from the Forum.

Another item on tonight's program is a tongue in cheek review of the strange aliases associated with the stars of the past, as well as the present, when the Hockey Night in Canada All-Time Nickname team will be selected.

Try these on for size: Bones, Sabu, Snowshoes, Spider and Fido. Can you match them with the players?

You get the first one free, courtesy of my cobweb-plastered memory.

I'd say "Bones" is the nickname given former New York Rangers' forward Don Raleigh.

But after that, I draw blanks.

Perhaps we'll get the other answers, tonight.

In the meantime, you'll have no trouble with these: Chico, Roadrunner and Moose.

SLICES — Ontario Amateur Softball Association executive member Jim Tebworth of Belleville will be one of the special guests Monday night when Trenton's provincial Midget B softball is honored.

The Dickson Sport and Bait team will be feted during a banquet and dance at Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 110 in Trenton.

Guest speaker for the event is former clerk-comptroller for the Town of Trenton, O. W. Larry.

Retire recently, Mr. Larry was a skilled softball player himself, performing at shortstop for championship Trenton teams.

Organizers report sale of tickets for the banquet and dance has been completed but interested persons may pick up dance tickets at the door, Monday night. And with everybody's favorite Andy Lapointe supplying the music, the dance should be well attended.

Carling - O'Keefe Brewery will have four members of the Montreal Expos in the city, Tuesday, February 4, reports Paul Ruttan, representative of the brewery.

Nothing definite on who will represent the ball club but Ruttan is hoping manager Gene Mauch will be one of the visitors.

The Intelligencer, Radio Station CJBQ, which airs Expo games, and The Trentonian will have representatives at a noon luncheon at the Four Seasons and in the evening, a special event will be staged at Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 99.

For a $2 admission price, adults will have the opportunity of meeting the Expos who will field questions and, perhaps, prognosticate on the 1975 season.

And Belleville Minor Baseball will pick up a cash donation, says Ruttan.

Keep that date open. It should be an interesting evening.

The Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League has an for Thursday, at 6.30 p.m., at the Recreation Centre.

One of the items on the agenda is the proposed tournament tentatively scheduled for the city.

Buffalo Sabres Hold Their Own

BOSTON (AP) — Buffalo s French Connection Line has its chinks, but the Sabres are more than holding their own against the favored Boston Bruins as the National Hockey League hits the annual All-Star Game break.

Since beating the Bruins 9-5 in a 1974-75 season opener in Buffalo last October, the Sabres have been in front in the NHL's Adams Division, a quaint league alignment which stretches 3,000 miles from Boston to Oakland, taking in Toronto Maple Leafs and California Seals as its other members.

Despite inuries to two-thirds of its high-scoring line of Gil Perreault, Richard Martin and Rene Robert, the Sabres have a 29-9-7 record and a seven-point lead over the Bruins, who made a runaway of the race last season.

Martin has 23 goals although he missed seven games with a thumb injury. No sooner had he returned than Perreault was put out of action. Perreault, who has 27 goals, will be lost for six weeks with a left knee injry. Robert, who also has 27 goals, remains healthy.

The Sabres average a mere 23 years old. They expected to have goaltending problems this year because of veteran Roger Crozier's delicate health. However, rookie Gary Bromley, 25, has been a pleasant surprise.

Buffalo also boasts plenty of size, particularly in their young defence corps. Jim Schoenfeld, 22, the team captain, is 6-feet 2-inches and weighs 200 pounds. Then there's Jocelyn Guevremont at 6-2 and 190, Jerry Korab, 6-3 and 215, Bill Hajt, 6-3 and 215, Larry Carriere 6-1 and 190, and rookie Lee Fogolin, 6-1 and 203.

Under coach Floyd Smith, the Sabres built an imposing 14-point lead in early December. Then the Bruins closed to within two points Jan. 11 before slipping back.

The Bruins still have an awesome offence led by Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr, the league's 1-2 scorers with 87 and 81 points respectively. However, they have been hurting in the vital goaltending department.

Veteran Gil Gilbert has been plagued by first a hand injury and then back problems. He returned to action last weekend after missing nearly a month. Backup goelie Ross Brooks also has been injured.

Boston tried Ken Broderick for a while, then shipped him to Rochester of the American Hockey League, calling up rookie Dave Reece, a University of Vermont product.

High-scoring Wayne Cashman, a left wing on Esposito's line, has been sidelined since November after undergoing back surgery.

Right wing Ken Hodge, a 50-goal scorer last season, has had trouble finding the range with only 15 goals so far this season.

"I'm not going to push the panic button," first-year coach Don Cherry says. "We'll be all right when we get a couple of our injured players back."

The Maple Leafs, sharply criticized as "too fat" and "too serene" by owner Harold Ballard a few weeks ago, finally appear to be straightening out.

The Leafs got some solid thump in recalling 20-year-old rookie Dave (Tiger) Williams from Oklahoma City recently. They won three in a row before losing in Boston Sunday and reach the all-star break with a 17-21-7 record.

Toronto has had a flock of injuries. Six defencemen have been injured so far this season.

The Seals, once the joke of the NHL, no longer are a pushover although they are in the division cellar with an 11-28-9 record. Purchased by the league from Charley Finley, the Seals are gaining new respectability while new ownership is sought.

California has made sweeping changes, for coach Marshall Johnston. The Seals traded heavily in search of new talent. Of their eight players who scored 10 or more goals last scored 10 or more goals last season, only Joey Johnston still is with the club.

Tonight's game will be televised on the full CBC network and also on a selected group of stations in the United States. Starting time is 8 p.m. EST.

NHL All-stars at Montreal

Action Will Feature Finesse

MONTREAL (CP) — You may be disappointed if you expect to see hard hitting in tonight's 28th annual National Hockey League all-star game.

Fred Shero of Philadelphia Flyers, coach of the Clarence Campbell Conference club, said:

"You will see a lot of great stickhandling, shooting and passing but you won't see much hitting."

Neither Shero nor Bep Guidolin, coaching the Prince of Wales Conference all-stars, would name their starting goaltenders.

Shero has Bernie Parent of the Flyers and Gary Smith of Vancouver Canucks while Guidolin has Rogatien Vachon of Los Angeles Kings and Ken Dryden of Montreal.

Shero said Bobby Clarke of the Flyers will centre a line with team-mate Bill Barber on left wing and former team-mate Simon Nolet, now of Kansas City Scouts, on the right side.

Garry Unger of St. Louis Blues will be between Jim Pappin of Chicago Black Hawks and Steve Vickers of New York Rangers while Chicago's Stan Mikita will centre the third line of left winger Eddie Westfall of New York Islanders and right winger Rod Gilbert of the Rangers.

Shero also has sophomore centre Tom Lysiak of Atlanta Flames on a line with team-mate Curt Bennett and Dennis Hextall of Minnesota North Stars.

Philadelphia's Jimmy Watson and Ed Van Impe form one defensive pair with Tracy Pratt of Vancouver Canucks and Chicago's Doug Jarrett on another. Denis Potvin of the Islanders and Brad Park of the Rangers will be the other defensive duo and Shero said he probably will use them on the points during power plays.

Guidolin, who moved to the Scouts after coaching Boston to a loss in last year's Stanley Cup finals against the Flyers, did not reveal his alignments for tonight's contest.

On defence he has Terry Harper and Bob Murdoch of the Kings, Carol Vadnais and Bobby Orr of the Bruins, Guy Lapointe of Montreal and Jerry Korab of Buffalo Sabres.

Phil Esposito of the Bruins, Marcel Dionne of Detroit Red Wings, Syl Apps of Pittsburgh Penguins and Buffalo's Don Luce will be the centres with Rene Robert of Buffalo, Denis Dupere of Washington Capitals, Montreal's Guy Lafleur, Terry O'Reilly of Boston and Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh as the right wings.

The left wingers will be Darryl Sittler of Toronto Maple Leafs, Rick Martin of Buffalo and Joey Johnston of California Seals. Dupere also can play left wing.

O'Reilly replaces John Buyck of Boston who injured his foot in NHL action during the weekend.

Shero said he would like the NHL to return to the old all-star format—the Stanley Cup champions against the all-stars. That format has not been used since the league doubled to 12 teams in 1967.

The Philadelphia coach said an NHL-World Hockey Association all-star game would be more meaningful, but he doesn't think the WHA is ready to play the NHL.

Guidolin suggested that perhaps all-star teams from both conferences could play a team from the Soviet Union.

Wally Harris of Montreal will referee tonight's game with Claude Bechard and Leon Stickle as the linesmen. John McCauley is the standby official.

The league announced that next year's all-star game will be Jan. 20 in Philadelphia while the 1977 game will be played in Vancouver Jan. 25. The 1978 game is scheduled for Buffalo.

Coach Hull On Top

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Winnipeg Jets might be having trouble getting untracked in their Canadian Division of the World Hockey Association, but ace Bobby Hull always seems to come up with a winning performance.

The Golden Jet scored twice and collected assists on two other goals Sunday night after being renamed Winnipeg coach, and the Jest responded with a 9-4 rout of Cleveland Crusaders.

The four-point spree kept Hull atop the WHA scoring race with 38 goals and 70 points. Serge Bernier of Quebec Nordiques, held to a goal in Quebec's 5-2 win over Chicago Cougars, has 69 points, including 33 goals.

The Jets, seeming to be going nowhere under Rudy Pilous, used Sunday's outburst to remain in a fourth-place tie with Vancouver Blazers in the five-team division. Their 38 points left them trailing third-place Edmonton Oilers by four.

No TV For WHA All-stars

EDMONTON (CP) — At least one surprise developed Monday night in the make-up of the eastern team in the World Hockey Association all-star game tonight.

Eastern coach Ron Ryan said Al Smith, goaltender for his New England Whalers, likely won't be in the nets for the sold-out game in the new Edmonton Coliseum.

Ryan said Smith doesn't think he's having as good a year as he should, and doesn't think he deserves to be here for the third annual all-star contest which will not be seen on national television.

The Whalers coach said he will start Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland Crusaders and then put in Andy Brown of Indianapolis Racers for the final 30 minutes.

However, Ryan wasn't ruling out the possibility that Smith could change his mind and fly in today with team-mates Tom Webster and Rick Ley, all of whom had not arrived by late Monday.

Brad Selwood and Larry Pleau of the Whalers were on hand, however, for the all-star dinner.

Mike Walton of Minnesota Fighting Saints is missing from the west team because of a groin muscle pulled in a game Sunday night, and he has been replaced by team-mate Fran Huck.

Bill Dineen, coach of the west team, said he will keep one of his Houston Aeros lines together while Gordie Howe and son Mark will play on another line. Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets will be on a third line with team-mate Ulf Nilsson. Defensive pairs will be from Edmonton oilers and Aeros, Dineen said.

The east team will feature a line from Quebec Nordiques and Toronto Toros, while J. C. Tremblay, Pat Stapleton, Brad Selwood and Jim Dorey are expected to be seen in defensive positions.

Player Supply Exceeds Need

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday that several member clubs want their player lists enlarged in order to consolidate their major and minor league operations.

It was one of several topics discussed Monday at a meeting of the board of governors held in conjunction with the all-star break.

"Player development is not as pressing now as before," Campbell said. "There was a time when there was much more emphasis. Today, there are 85 rookies in the NHL and that's about 20 per cent or maybe even closer to 25 per cent of the total."

There have been reports that there are about 140 unemployed professional hockey players and Campbell said this was bound to increase.

"There isn't any doubt there are a lot of unemployed hockey players and there are going to be more.

"The market for their service is bound to decline.

"The economics of operation is terribly different than it was in 1967, 1970 or 1972. I think that salaries have hit their peaks although Mr. (Alan) Eagleson says they are going to be even higher next year. I hope he is wrong.

"We obviously have to honor exisiting contracts and pay them out. As time goes on, I am sure we will not be entering into long-term deals.

"The salaries are 250 per cent more than they were in 1971-72."

Campbell also said he expected ticket prices had hit their peak as well.

He said there had been a small reduction in average attendance for the league's first 298 games in comparison with last year.

"That's not bad considering the economic condition. It is quite remarkable our attendance has held up.

The league president also said the NHL plans to go ahead with the expansion to Seattle and Denver for the 1976-77 season.

"But there is no further consideration being given at this time for further expansion," Campbell added citing the economic crunch.

The league is still looking for owners for the California Seals franchise and has received some applications which now are being studied.

Campbell also said the NHL would not play any exhibition games with the WHA next season. The NHL found the games were "economic disasters."

"It cost us between $500,000 and $700,000 to get our players to play the games.

"Divide that by 15 and you have to get a lot of gate receipts."

Powerplay Potent Weapon

Manpower Advantage Means Goals

MONTREAL (CP) — Powerplay goals account for just under one-quarter of all goals scored in the National Hockey League.

But statistics issued by the league Monday show that more than one-third of the goals scored by the current top 25 players listed in the individual scoring race were counted with the opposition short-handed.

The importance of the powerplay to the leading scorers is shown in the following figures:

—The leading point men have scored 541 goals, 192 of which were on the powerplay, or 35.5 per cent.

—After 405 games this season, there were 2,743 goals and 658, or 24 per cent of those, were power-play goals.

—The 25 current scoring leaders have scored 19.7 per cent of oll the goals, but 29.1 per cent of all the power-play goals.

The league's leading scorer for the last six seasons, including this one, is Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins. The Boston centre has 43 goals among his league-leading 87 points and he also leads in power-play goals with 22. That is only six shy of the league record he set in 1971-72 when he had 66 goals, 28 of them off the powerplay.

Second in power-play goals is a player tied for 24th place in the over-all list—left winger Danny Grant of Detroit Red Wings. Grant has scored 13 of his 25 goals while the Wings have held the man advantage.

Grant has 46 points, tying him with Don Lufe of Buffalo Sabres. Luce, with six goals, currently leads the league in goals scored while his team was killing a penalty, two short of the record set by Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs in 1970-71.

Tied for third in power-play goals are centre Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers, right winger Ken Hodge of Boston and left winger Rick Martin of Buffalo, all with 11 each. Centre Marcel Dionne of Detroit and Pete Mahovlich and Yvon Lambert of Montreal Canadiens each have 10.

Every one of the top 25 point men has at least one power-play goal and the average among those players is almost eight power-play goals per player.

The Bruins, who have the most potent powerplay in the NHL—56 goals in 183 chances for a scoring percentage of 30.6—have five players among the leading scorers.

Defenceman Bobby Orr, second in points to Esposito with 81 and the assist leader with 55, has nine power-play goals. Hodge has 11, left winger John Bucyk five and defenceman Carol Vadnais three, a total of 50 by five players.

Bucyk, selected to play in tonight's 28th annual all-star game, will miss the event because of an injured foot. He will be replaced by team-mate Terry O Reilly.

Esposito, Orr, and Vadnais will also represent the Bruins on the Prince of Wales Conference club. It will be guided by former Boston coach Bep Guidolin, now with Kansas City Scouts.

Tom Wilkinson

Wilkinson Says It with Leading Percentage

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan Roughriders threw the most passes, Peter Liske of Calgary Stampeders and British Columbia Lions completed the most and for the most yardage, but Tom Wilkinson of Edmonton Eskimos was the Canadian Football League's leading passer in the 1974 season.

Figures released by CFL headquarters Monday rate Wilkinson No. 1 on the basis of an efficiency rating that weighs the number of completions, total number of yards, completion percentage, interceptions, touchdowns and average gain per pass.

He led in only one category, with a completion average of 66.03 per cent — a shade off his 1972 CFL record of 66.04—but he was close enough to the top in others to edge Liske.

RON LANCASTER

Liske was the actual leader in three categories—most completions, 228, most yards, 3,259, and average gain per pass attempt, 8.3 yards—but a low TD yield of one for every 39.2 passes cost him efficiency points.

Jimmy - Jones - of Montreal Alouettes led in that area with one TD for every 17.3 passes thrown, while Calgary Stampeders rookie quarterback Joe Pisarcik led in the remaining category, having been intercepted only three times, once for every 56 passes thrown.

Wilkinson, whose eight-year mark of 61.46 per cent completions is the best in pro football, connected on 173 passes in 262 tries for 2,169 yards and 13 TDs for an average gain of 8.27 yards. He was intercepted seven times.

PETER LISKE

Liske hit on 228 of 392 for 3,259 yards and 10 TDs for a 58.1-per-cent completion record. His average gain was 8.31 and he was intercepted 18 times.

Lancaster threw the ball the most, 395 times, completing 222 for 2,873 yards and a 56.2 percentage. He was intercepted 20 times, tops in the CFL, had an average gain of 7.3 and 20 TD passes.

Three non - quarterbacks shared the honor of being the only players in the league to complete 100 per cent of their passes. Calvin Harrell of Edmonton and Larry Scherrer and Larry Smith of Montreal each threw one pass.

Bears Tie Red Wings

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Ricky Pratt's goal with 1:13 left in the game gave Hershey Bears a 5-5 tie with Virginia Red Wings in the only American Hockey League game Monday night.

Pratt stole the puck from a Virginia player and on an attempted centring pass bounced the puck off a Virginia defender and into the net.

Neither team was able to score in the overtime period.

Yves Bergeron added two goals for Hershey, while Don Selling and Michel Deziel scored single goals.

Dennis Johnson, Rene Drolet, Ken Mann, Brian Watts and Rick McCann scored the Virginia goals.

Wednesday, New Haven travel to Baltimore, Hershey hosts Richmond, and Rochester plays in Halifax against Nova Scotia Voyageurs.

Rookie Takes Over

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Jim Montgomery moved into sole possession of third place in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League's scoring race Monday night, scoring four goals and assisting on three others as Hull Festivals edged Quebec Remparts 9-8.

In other action, Laval Nationals downed Chicoutimi Sagueneens 5-3 and Shawinigan Dynamos and Sorel Black hawks played to a 6-6 tie.

Montgomery's fourth goal of the game with 22 seconds remaining in the third period gave Hull its home-ice win over Quebec.

Montgomery, who played junior B hockey in the Montreal area last year now has 35 goals and 58 assists.

Denis Turcotte and Gaetan Boucher had two goals each for the Remparts.

Mario Piacente's goal at 15:51 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie and Laval went on to its win. Pierre Belanger had two goals for the Nationals.

Benoit Plouffe's goal at 9:28 of the third period gave Shawinigan the tie with Sorel. Lucien deBlois scored twice for the Black Hawks.

Play resumes Wednesday with Montreal at Hull, Sherbrooke at Laval and Quebec at Sorel.

No Intent To Injure

OTTAWA (CP) — The Central Junior Hockey League Monday attached no blame in the broken jaw and concussion suffered Thursday by Mike McDuffe of Gloucester Rangers in a game with Nepean Raiders.

Following a special inquiry, league president Ken Wark said in a statement:

"All parties agreed there was no intent to injure on the part of Nazar of Nepean."

Nazar took a five-minute major penalty for drawing blood in the affair, but the referee made no report to the league concerning an intent to injure.

Players and officials of the teams involved were at the inquiry.

The statement also said the league would continue to get only "the best qualified A referees" who will apply Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules strenuously.

The league already is applying Ottawa District Association rules concerning rough play, especially those requiring a major misconduct for excessive fighting, automatic suspensions and league hearings before reinstatement.

Pro Bowl's Most Valuable Player

Harris Pilots NFC to Victory

MIAMI (AP) — It was restoration of tarnished pride for the abused National Football Conference all-stars, but it was a personal triumph for James Harris, the black quarterback castoff who some said would never be able to cut it.

"I wasn't trying to prove anything," the 6-foot-4, 215-pound signal-caller for Los Angeles Rams said, reflecting on the NFC's 17-10 victory over the American Conference in the Pro Bowl game Monday night.

"I just prayed I would play my best. I knew if I could play my best, with the best guys in the league supporting me, we were capable of doing the job."

Harris, a late replacement on the NFC squad for Minnesota's sore-armed Fran Tarkenton, was voted the most valuable player after taking over late in the second quarter for the injured Jim Hart of St. Louis Cardinals and passing for two quick fourth-quarter touchdowns that won the game.

The first, an eight-yard throw to Mel Gray of the Cardinals, was set up by a 57-yard bomb to Gray. The other, just 1½ minutes later following a fumble by Pittsburgh's Franco Harris, was another eight-yarder to Charley Taylor of Washington Redskins. Both scoring passes came on third-down plays.

The AFC built a 10-3 lead in the third quarter on a 32-yard pass from Miami's Bob Griese to Dolphin team-mate Paul Warfield and Roy Gerela's 33-yard field goal. Green Bay's Chester Marcol kicked a 33-yard field goal for the NFC in the second quarter.

Harris is not prone to boastfulness, often speaking so low it is difficult to understand him. Yet he is not one to down-grade his own passing ability or to lightly pass over his problems in getting a starting position with a National Football League team.

"I got so disgusted at one stage I thought I would just toss it in," he said. "I felt that people thought a black quarterback could never make the grade. I really got the impression there was something racist in my early failures to make the grade."

Harris joined Buffalo Bills in 1969 and was cut in 1972, joining the Rams' taxi squad. He didn't start for the Rams until the sixth game of the 1974 season after John Hadl was traded, yet finished as the No. 2 passer in the NFC, completing 106 of 198 for 1,544 yards and 11 touchdowns.

He was thrust into another pressure role Monday night when Hart went out in the second quarter with a bloody gash over his right eye that needed six stitches. Harris completed seven of 13 passes for 119 yards in directing the NFC's successful rally.

It was the first NFC triumph over the AFC in four years in the Pro Bowl and eased some of the pain suffered in losing six of the last seven Super Bowls.

Chuck Knox of the Rams, who coached the NFC squad, said the victory was a matter of "great personal satisfaction" to him.

"Our fellows were so keyed up and so fed up with talk of AFC superiority that they volunteered for the kickoff team, which you know is a suicide assignment," he said.

Central Canada Teams Show Well

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Sydney Legionaires are not yet what you might call a typical hockey team.

The Nova Scotia midget team began practising in late October, plays two games a week with one practice, and has a policeman for a coach who cares about how they make out in school.

That, coupled with the superiority of most of the central Canadian teams, explains why the Legionaires dropped their first game Monday and will be heading home disappointed, but more experienced, first-round losers of the Canadian midget hockey championship.

Sydney, which dropped a 6-3 decision to Oshawa, was one of five east-and west-coast teams to take a beating from their opposition from the interior in games Monday.

South Ottawa Canadians downed Charlottetown Golden Eagles 4-1, Yorkton (Sask.) Parkland shut out Quesnel (B.C.) Macks 7-0, Verdun (Que.) Leafs, winner of last year's tournament, beat Edmonton Canadians 3-1, Oshawa took its second victory of the day with a 10-0 decision over Corner Brook, Nfld., and Fort Garry-Rouge (Man. Twins beat Dalhousie (N.S.) Legionaires 5-0.

Murray MacIntosh, the Sydney policeman who wears an old fedora while coaching the team, admits most of his players are in the tournament for fun.

"Some may make college hockey players, but most realize they are in it for fun," said MacIntosh.

He makes a point of checking his players' school records at the start and during the season.

"There is no way we'd allow hockey to abuse their education."

Mike Pigeon sparked Oshawa to its win over Sydney, scoring two goals. Defenceman Rick Mombourquette scored two goals for Sydney.

South Ottawa scored three goals in the last two minutes of play to hand Charlottetown the loss.

Gordon McLean scored twice for Ottawa. Bob Bradley got the only Charlottetown goal.

Yorkton got three goals from Randy McBride in its win over Quesnel. Sheldon Leffler picked up the shutout in goal for Yorkton.

Kevin Reeves, Pierre Sarrazin and Jim Mann, all players on last year's championship Verdun team, scored goals to pace the Leafs past Edmonton.

Left winger Doug Smith scored for Edmonton at 14:21 of the third period to spoil Pierre Clouthier's shutout bid.

The Twins, representing the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association, got two goals from centre Jim McFetridge in their win over Dalhousie. They led 4-0 after the first period.

Pigeon, Dave Allen and Barry Gordon scored two goals each in Oshawa's 10-0 rout of Corner Brook.

Rickey Richards picked up the shutout in the Oshawa goal.

Meanwhile, centre Gordon Rhymes of Sydney is in hospital under observation after suffering a kidney injury in the game against Oshawa.

Rhymes, 16, was injured when struck in the back by a slapshot by Mombourquette. A hospital spokesman said Rhymes condition was stable, but would not confirm a report from coach MacIntosh that the youth underwent surgery.

All's Well With Randle

TORONTO (CP) — Court action against the Ontario Hockey Association and two of its teams has been dropped by Ontario Provincial Junior A player Bruce Randle.

Randle had brought the suit against the OHA, Toronto Marlboros of the major series and Markham Waxers of the Provincial Junior A because the OHA had failed to act on an interim injunction declaring him a free agent.

The OHA decided to act in accordance with the injunction at a meeting Jan. 15, but did not disclose its decision until Monday.

Randle played with the Waxers until Jan. 10, when he obtained the injunction to prevent Markham from placing him on its protected list of players.

The day after the OHA decision was announced, Randle signed a playing card with Wexdord Raiders of the same league—one of two teams he had been practising with while the OHA contemplated the injunction.

BAUN RECUPERATING

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Baun, who retired in 1972 after 16 seasons as a National Hockey League defenceman, is recuperating from two operations and about to undergo a third. The operations were for removal of cartilage from his right knee and bone chips from his right elbow. His next operation, scheduled for later this week, will be to correct spinal cord damage suffered in a fall that ended his playing career.

Gas House Hockey League

Jim's Holds Rollins to Tie

Jim's Pizzeria continued to raise eyebrows in the Gas House Hockey League Monday night as they battled to a 4-4 tie with Rollins Lumber. In other games Stanley Structures added to their league leading points total as they dumped Chuckwagon 8-1 and Constellation Carpets upended Canadian Durabla 11-3.

Rollins hasn't had much luck with the Jim's crew this season. While the Lumbermen have only lost three games in their second place stand one of their losses has come at the hands of the Pizza players. Though they only have two ties, one of them now, is with Jim's.

Jack Card fired a pair of goals for the Pizzeria and Steve Sully and Mike Evans added singles.

Dan Garlick replied with two goals for Rollins and teammates Mike McDermott and Scott McLaren added singles.

Ron Mitchell fired three goals and added four assists in leading Constellaton to their 11-3 victory. Dale Kiley and Ken Kerik each scored twice and Bill Yull, Gord Vesterfelt, Ken Vos and Wayne Andrews got one apiece.

Dale Caul picked up a hat trick for Durabla.

Mike Goegan was the man who did the scoring with four, but Ray Summers was the man who set them up. Summers drew seven assists on eight goals as he led Stanley's attack. Ron Fuller had two goals and two assists and Bob Wludyka and Rob Harrington got one each.

Gary Soro got the only goal for Chuckwagon Foods.

Shells Square Playoff

OSHAWA (Special) — Home ice doesn't seem to mean too much in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AAA playoff series between Oshawa and Belleville. While Belleville Shells dropped an 8-0 decision to Oshawa at home on Saturday, they came here Monday night and won 5-4.

The third game in the best-of-five series is scheduled for Oshawa Wednesday night.

Mark Foster led his club to victory with a pair of goals while Mark Crawford, Wayne Clapp and Roger Chapman each tallied one.

Frankford, Belleville Post Wins

In the two scheduled games in the Quinte and District Church Hockey League Friday, the winning teams outscored the opposition by a total of 23-4.

In Napanee, the Belleville entry in the league exploded for eight goals in the final period to hand Odessa a 12-3 thumping.

The Picton team found that home ice was of little advantage as the visiting Frankford team came up with an 11-1 drubbing.

Five players on the Belleville squad had two goals each Brent Babcock, Ralph Plane, Ron McIntyre, Peter Hall and Don Sutton with Steve Campbell and Chris Parks each adding singles.

Tom Martin, Floyd Babcock and Vern Kenny scored the Odessa goals.

Frankford had four two-goal men, Richard Patrick and Calvin Watson Merrit Carr, Walter Twiddy, Paul Eyre, Randy Moore and Gary Reichert all had singles.

Ed Hodgins picked up the lone marker for Picton, spoiling Clint Locklin's bid for a shutout.

Loyalist 5 for 9

OSHAWA (Special) — Loyalist College Women's Volleyball had their climb to the top stymied on the weekend as they dropped four of a possible nine games in their round-robin Eastern Ontario College Athletic Association play at Durham College.

Loyalist faced Algonquin, of Ottawa, in their first round of competition and dropped three straight 15-3, 15-5, 15-7. The losses left Algonquin with undisputed possession of first place.

In their next set Loyalist took on St. Lawrence, Kingston and won all three matches 15-5, 15-10, 16-14.

Against the home squad Loyalist took two of three 11-15, 15-6 and 15-13.

This Saturday Loyalist hosts Algonquin, Durham and St. Lawrence Colleges with the round-robin beginning at 1 p.m.

Carson Wins District

6 Straight for 110

TRENTON (Special) — For the sixth straight year, Trenton Branch 110 has captured the District F championship in the Royal Canadian Legion Curling event.

It was an all Branch 110 final.

The double knockout competition went to a sudden death match for top honors with Earl Carson's rink defeating Branch 110's Ron Mewrriam 6-4 in the showdown.

Carson won over Merriam 8-4 in the A final. In the B championship, Merriam topped an Ajax entry 6-4 to qualify for another shot at Carson.

Seven Branches were represented in the District F competition.

Other members of Carson's rink are Frank Jorbeau, Rod Oberg and Vince Gallipeau.

The Legion Provincial championships will also be held here with Carson attempting to retain the honors for the Trenton Branch.

CFB Trenton Champ

BRIGHTON (Special) — Canadian Forces Base Trenton rolled to the A championship in Broomball Tournament action here Saturday, posting a perfect 3-0 record on the way to the title.

But in the A final, the Trenton team got an argument from CFB Uplands. Claude Latulippe scored the only goal of the game as goalie Joe Teruya handcuffed the Uplands team to record his second shutout of the tourney.

On the way to the showdown with Uplands, Trenton blanked CFB Toronto 11-0 and got by Grafton 4-1. Uplands defeated Smiths Falls 7-5 and edged CFB Borden 2-1.

The B honors went to Smiths Falls which knocked off CFB Kingston 4-1 in the final.

An all-star team from the Belleville Broomball League lost both its tourney starts.

The Belleville league representative was turned back 7-4 by CFB Borden and took a 6-1 defeat at the hands of Smiths Falls.

Ron Cannons, Larry Wannamaker, Ron McFarlane and Bob Brownlee took care of the All-Star scoring in the loss to Borden. Wannamaker was the lone marksman in the match with Smiths Falls.

GETS BEST TERMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Britisn soccer star George Best said Monday he has come to financial terms with New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League. Best can't sign with the United States team, however, until he obtains his release from Manchester United, an English League club.

PITCHERS SIGN

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos of baseball's National League announced Monday the signings of right-handed pitchers Steve Rogers and Dale Murray. Rogers, 25, won 15 and lost 22 games last season as a regular starter. Murray was 1-1 with a 1.09 ERA with the Expos after being called up from the minors in mid-season.

BENCH TO WED

CINCINNATI (AP) — Catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati Reds announced Monday he is marrying a New York model, Vickie Chesser, on Feb. 21. Bench, who said he has known the 25-year-old Miss Chesser about a month.

House League Hockey

No Shortage of Goals

In spite of the fact, SACOs John Wardaugh racked up a shutout in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Midget house league play last week, six games produced a whoppint total of 59 goals.

SACO took care of seven of that total while blanking Belleville Yardmen as Mike Kirby and Ian McCutcheon each scored a pair of goals.

Sun Luck Gardens and ANAF Dukes found the mark for 18 goals with the Gardens crew holding a 10-8 edge. Brian Masterson rattled in three goals for the winners and Chris Ripley connected for a pair. Chris Rutledge led the losers with a pair of counters.

Canadian Legion doubled the score on Tim Horton Donuts 8-4, sparked by Chris McIntaggard's two goals. Kelly Munkittrick had a pair for the losers.

Ernie Gordon fired three goals to spearhead Juby Electric's attack in an 8-2 win over Ross Royals.

Stirkling Sheet Metal and Demark Construction kept the score down in their match. The Sheet Metal squad got two goals from Steve Graham in a 3-1 win.

Red Shark and Uptown Billiards finished at 4-4. Leading the way for Uptown was Sean McKinney with three goals.

The Major Bantam section wasn't taking a back seat in the goal scoring, either. In three league games, 31 goals were scored.

First place Belle Cleaners had their work cut out for them in turning back J. F. Nelles Real Estate 4-3. Scott Hubbs, Jeff Runciman, Teddy Carleton and Jim Hartt each scored once for the winners who got a two-goal effort from Mike MacDonald and one from Tim Coates.

Belleville Toyota took over second place by whipping Sidney Inn 10-4 on the strength of a six-goal second period. Randy Donovan fired four goals for Toyota and Brian Sagriff had a pair. Andy Plane had a goal and three assists.

Avis Rent-a-Car was in high gear, topping Allied Chemicals 8-2 as Steven Pearce rattled in four goals and Peter Manderville and David Bennett each shot a pair.

Belle Cleaners show the way with 21 points; Toyota has 14; J. F. Nelles, 13; Avis, eight; Sidney Inn five and Allied Chemicals, five.

Lancers Pull Out Win in Overtime

Loyalist College Lancers attracted the largest crowd for a home game this season, Monday, and they didn't disappoint their supporters.

Coach Rob Stinson's crew pulled out an 82-81 win in overtime, shading Peterborough Oilers in a Bay of Quinte Men's Basketball League match.

The teams were even at the half, 28-28 and at the end of regulation time, it was 71-71.

Lancers held an 11-10 edge in the overtime to outlast Oilers.

The game's top scorer was Peterborough's Haig Kelly with 27 points. Oilers' Ken Clancy hit for 10

Loyalist got 21 points from Bill Kyle and 18 were supplied by Dave Culmer.

Rinks Aim for Titles In Mixed Bonspiel

Trenton Curling Club is the host this year for the annual Bay of Quinte Mixed Bonspiel.

The four-event competition which has an added consolation series, opens Thursday on three fronts and winds up Sunday with the finals at the Trenton club.

A maximum of 64 rinks (256 curlers) will be taking part with action scheduled at Trenton, CFB Trenton Curling Club and Belleville's Quinte Club.

Winner of the first event will take the Deacon Brother Trophy. Second event, Pepsi-Cola Trophy third, Dixie Lee Fried Chicken, and fourth, the Carling Bowl.

During the four days of the popular event, the public is welcome to take in the action at any of the three clubs.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.*

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

BIRTHS

DEACON — Eric and Jane (nee Swan) are pleased to announce the birth of their son Eric Sean on Saturday, Jan. 18, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

BADGLEY — In loving memory of a dear husband and foster father Stirton, who passed away January 21, 1972.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by foster son Thomas, daughter-in-law Phyllis.

EVANS — In loving memory of my dear husband Doug, who passed away January 21, 1974.

Although his smile is gone forever,
And his hand I cannot touch,
I shall never lose sweet memories,
Of the one I loved so much.
—Sadly missed by wife Mona.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity through the medium of our newspaper to express my sincere thanks to the staff of 5th floor, the administration, the nurses for their excellent care and kindness, the persons who looked after my room and prepared and brought my meals and for their kindness, also during three recent stays in Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks and appreciation on the first two occasions to the following for their excellent care and thoughtfulness - Dr. and Mrs. Monaghan, Dr. and Mrs. Patel, Dr. Rackham, Dr. Reid and assistants in the radiology department and the nurses in Emergency, Dr. Gibson, the anaesthetist and operating room nurses, Homemakers' Care and VON. On the third occasion, special thanks to Dr. Patel for his excellent care and also to Dr. Rackham and the kind nurses in Emergency. Special thanks to the Hospital Administration for having my husband as a guest for Christmas dinner and the thoughtful extra treats for Christmas and New Year's. Appreciation and thanks to the Women's Hospital Auxiliary for their Christmas morning visit and gift. Sincere thanks and appreciation to my family, relatives, UCW of Bridge Street Church friends, other friends including neighbors and former fellow workers for their get-well letters, cards and gifts, visits and calls and errands, visits from Mr. Ward and Mr. Poulter and their prayers for me were very much appreciated. Many thanks to all again.

Margaret Jaynes.

Phase Out Fire Alarms

SASKATOON (CP) — Alarm boxes are being gradually eliminated by the fire department in residential areas and relocated in industrial areas, a fire department spokesman says. Boxes originally were located in residential areas before telephones were in every home. The spokesman said it is no longer practical to keep the boxes in residential districts because the percentage of fire alarms turned in through them is small.

Rear Deer For Food

ABERDEEN, Scotland (CP) — Scottish scientists, conducting research into the rearing of red deer in captivity, believe their work may yield a new source of food. They say venison could be raised on land unable to sustain sheep or even to be used for forestry and still be marketed more cheaply than prime beef. The three-year's research was by a team from the Rowett Research Institute near here, and the Hill Farming Research Association, and was financed by the government.

Successful Bouncers Agree Brains AND Brawn Required

TORONTO (CP) — They come in all shapes and sizes and have different titles but Toronto bouncers agree it is brains rather than brawn which make a successful bouncer.

Mike Potter, 23, a greeter at El Mocambo, said "to get along in this trade you've got to be a regular Kissinger."

"You must never blow your cool and you soon learn that you can do more with honey than with muscles."

At the Nickelodeon Room of Friar's Tavern, Martha Harding, a 65-year-old, grey-haired woman known to the regular patrons as "Aunt Martha", is the bouncer.

To those that create a disturbance, she says "You surely would never pick a flight with a nice old lady like me," and then orders them a cab.

The Brunswick's Donny Sinclair, 53, said "in this busness you've gotta use humor and finesse when giving the bum's rush to the odd customer too deep in the sauce."

Mr. Sinclair, a four-foot, four-inch midget, added that "because of my size, who would dare take a swing at me?"

Russ (Twinkle Toes) Stevenson, 32, one of two bouncers at Le Coq d'Or, said "Kung Fu comes in handy when friendly persuasion doesn't work."

His partner, Lee (Grasshopper) Sheridan, 38, said regular customers are not the ones that create a nuisance. He said many of the regulars are "lonely rooming-house lodgers and they consider the club a home away from home.

Being built like a weightlifter has its advantages and disadvantages for two other bouncers.

Jim (Killer) Conroy, 45, a former professional wrestler and now bouncer at Kelly's, said, "It's like you're in one of those cowboy movies, where you have a reputation for being the fastest gun in the West."

With that kind of reputation, "every pipsqueak in a saloon wants to take a shot at you." But he gives them his meanest look and they back off.

. Howard (Baldy) Chard, 50, a former heavyweight boxer and now part-time bouncer at the Gerrard House Tavern, is acknowledged by most other bouncers to be the toughest in the business.

Tavern owners intimidated by gangs of hooligans call him in at a free-lance hazard pay of $150 a night to restore order.

Yet Mr. Chard agrees it is "tact, not toughness, that pays off in the bouncing profession."

"You gotta keep using the old psychology," he said.

Like every other Toronto bouncer, he finds drunken women the most difficult to handle.

"When they're deep in the sauce, some ladies develop a tramp, earthy vocabulary you wouldn't believe."

Mr. Chard says bouncing can be lucrative. He recently acquired his own discotheque.

THE UNEXPLAINED
by Allen Spraggett

The Devil's Footprints

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT
Copyright 1975,
Toronto Sun Syndicate

On the night of Thursday, Feb. 7, 1855 there was a deep fall of snow over South Devon in southwest England.

The next morning the local inhabitants discovered in the snow a series of tracks unlike any they had ever seen. The tracks became a celebrated mystery, were investigated by several scholars, but no explanation for them was found. None has been found to this day.

The tracks resembled the impression left by a donkey's hoof. They ran in a single line, however, and one-legged donkeys must be exceedingly rare. The marks were exactly eight and a half inches apart, never varying by so much as a fraction of an inch.

They covered a total distance of more than a hundred miles. This distance appears to rule out someone riding a pogo stick! The tracks surmounted all obstacles — trees, high fences, even steep cliffs.

The tracks were found, for example, on one side of a nine foot wall and continued on the other side, — as though whatever made them had walked through the wall! They were found even on rooftops!

The devil's footprints, as they were dubbed, created a sensation, not only in Devon but throughout England.

The London Times of Feb. 8 1855 reported: "The superstitious go so far as to believe that the tracks are the marks of Satan himself. That great excitement has been produced among all classes may be judged from the fact that the subject has been descanted on from the pulpit."

All manner of exotic speculations arose.

A vicar suggested the marks were made by a kangaroo which had excaped from a zoo. Alas, no such escape was reported.

Other therorists suggested hopping birds, rats, hares, polecats, badgers — even frogs. These candidates were all definitively rejected by the scientists of the day. But the scientists were unable to come up with a plausible alternative explanation.

Something walked the Devon countryside that winter's night. Something traversed high walls, climbed precipitious cliffs, even surmounted rooftops. The tracks went up to more than one doorway, as though the creature — whatever it was — had contemplated trying to enter and then had retreated.

What was it?

Population of B.C. Could Double by '96

VANCOUVER (CP) — If growth trends in British Columbia continue the way they have in the last few years, the province's population will nearly double by 1996.

At a growth rate of 2.3 per cent a year, a figure determined by a recent study by the B.C. Research Council the population would increase to 3.88 million in 1996 from 2.18 million in 1971, the year of the province's last census.

In one generation, B.C. would increase its numbers by 78 per cent, adding almost as many people as live in Alberta now.

However, these figures constitute a projection rather than a prediction, said demographer Glen Forrester who did much of the work on the report.

"The purpose of generating a forecast is to show where we are heading, based on the best knowledge we now hava.

"But one reason for finding out where we are heading is that we might want to change the end result. If that's the case, the forecast doesn't have a chance of being right."

The figures are based on the assumption that immigration rates would be stable, birth rates would continue to decline at the same rate and death rates would remain the same as they have since 1961.

According to the forecast, Vancouver would still be the largest city in B.C. in 1996 but its population would have risen relatively slowly, increasing to 496,000 from 430,000.

Victoria's regional district, which includes the provincial capital, would also experience a relatively small increase, growing to 287,000 from 205,000. However, it would still be the province's second-largest urban area.

Apes Shown Movies

As anyone can tell at a glance, the love life of gorillas, Chris, bottom, and Susie, top left, at the William Land Park Zoo in Sacramento, Calif., are not what officials there had hoped for. The zoo director said last year the two nine year olds showed an inclination to breed but unfortunately didn't know what to do. He said in an experiment he is showing them movies of gorilla group activities, leading up to — and including — mating, in an attempt to arouse their sexual instincts so they will reproduce. So far they are still at odds. (AP Photo)

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, Jan. 22

Aries (March 21-April 19) If you are conducting business with a friend today, be prepared for the unexpected. Settle any misunderstanding amicably.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Don't use pressure tactics to get compliance with your wishes. The ally you gain will not prove reliable over the long haul.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency to say one thing and mean another. You may think you are doing it cleverly, but others will see through the facade.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) A relationship with a close friend is under more strain than you realize. Root out and discuss the underlying problem.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) It's not the time to be indecisive about an important goal. Take some small steps toward your target or you will lose momentum.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally, projects you undertake are well thought-out. Today will be an exception. Slovenly methods will curb productiveness.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't get yourself involved now in another's complicated affairs. Think twice before making loans, borrowing or advising.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Erratic moves on your behalf today could jeopardize the harmony in an important relationship. Be moderate. Keep cool.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are likely to fall heir to additional tasks today. You will manage neatly if you don't make them seem tougher than they are.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are far too sensible to believe you can get something for nothing, yet today you will bank your hopes on that theme.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are too dictatorial with those in your charge today, it will provoke a very unpleasant response—one difficult to handle.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You will have some difficulty today in getting hold of people. Verify all important appointments.

Excess Protein Rare Occurrence

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a person to accumulate too much protein in the system?—Miss B.E.M.

Protein is such an essential bodily need, it is rare to hear of a person getting too much. The need for protein increases throughout the growing years, and during pregnancy, in illness accompanied by fever, or following any severe injury.

If body functions are normal, the system utilizes protein as needed and disposes of any excess. Waste products derived from protein metabolism such as nitrogen and uric acid are passed out of the system through the kidneys.

However, when the disposal mechanism is faulty, there is trouble. For instance in Bright's disease, nitrogen wastes accumulate in the blood stream. And in gout, an excess uric acid from purine-containing foods (organ meats, etc.) can aggravate the situation. Purine is a form of protein.

But, generally speaking, there is a tendency not to get enough protein in the diet. An excess is rarely encountered.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes shingles? Is it because of a nervous condition? Can you get them more than once?—H.P.

Shingles, also called herpes zoster, is caused by a virus which affects the root of the nerve usually in the chest wall. But it is not caused by a nervous condition. The virus is akin to the one found in chicken pox.

The shingles virus may lie dormant in the system throughout much of a person's life and be touched off as a complication of a number of unrelated ailments.

Persons over 50 are most prone to shingles, and attacks normally appear in early summer or late fall, with symptoms lasting often for several months. One episode normally confers immunity, although second attacks have been known.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently had to have my IUD removed. My husband has offered to have a vasectomy, but he keeps putting it off and I suspect it is because he has had prostate trouble in the past.

Does a vasectomy have anything to do with the prostate? Also can a prostrate problem be caused by having intercourse during menstruation? I've asked this question before and only get vague answers.—L.S.

A vasectomy has nothing to do with the prostate gland. A prostate problem may encompass several things, chiefly enlargement of the gland and infection (prostatitis). This latter is a common occurrence.

I don't know why you should be getting vague answers to your last question. There is no way I know of in which intercourse during the period of menstruation should cause a prostate problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 28, is retarded and has been taking Dilantin and phenobarbital since she was four years old to steady her convulsions. Please let us know why Dilantin should make her gums swell so badly that she needs periodic dental assistance.—Mrs. J.M.

It is well known that Dilantin can cause overgrowth of the gums in some persons. I have not been able to get a satisfactory answer as to why it does from either the manufacturers or dentists.

It is essential that the person so affected receive meticulous dental care. Phenobarbital usually is given in conjunction with Dilantin, but whether this could be a factor in the gum situation is unclear.

Opening lead—K♠

By Oswald and James Jacoby

South glared at his partner and yelled, "Do you have to overbid all the time? Couldn't you double four spades and take a profit?"

Then he spread his hand and announced, "I have to go down one trick."

West who was keeping score, put down his hand and chalked up 100 points on his side of the ledger. North picked up the West hand, looked it over carefully, turned to his partner and said, "If you had the brains of any animal quieter than a braying [illegible], you would have kept your mouth shut and wrapped up your contract."

North was right and the play to make five diamonds is not really complicated. In fact it is a sure thing provided West has eight spades and at least one trump.

South wins the first spade; draws trumps with two leads; cashes the top hearts and clubs and noted that West has followed to one heart and to both clubs. Now South leads a low club.

If West wins the trick he must play spades. After following once South gets to ruff in one hand and discard a heart from the other. If East wins he can cash a heart, but then must give South a ruff and spade discard.

Westerner Raves About Old Ontario

By BRIAN McWATTERS

The Canadian Press

When Max Braithwaite kissed the flat plains of his Saskatchewan home goodbye in the 1940s and transplanted his family to an "Old Ontario" mentioned only by relatives, his mind reeled at the varied landscapes that flashed by the train window.

When the train pulled into Toronto's fabled Union Station, the mind reeled again at what to do with a fistful of baggage claims and how to get the baggage to his rented house.

Fortunately, he was approached by a taxi driver who not only took the family to the house but made two trips to transport the baggage. And he was embarrassed to accept $5 for his services.

The author of The Night We Stole the Mountie's Car and other humorous stories couldn't have had a better welcome to Toronto—a city looked upon by westerners as cool, conservative and conceited.

Max Braithwaite's Ontario, a rollicking chronicle of provincial history filled with anecdotes and an obvious bias toward Ontario, should be financed by the tourism and recreation department.

Mr. Braithwaite's approach is a rebuke to the traditional Western Canadian antipathy and reveals a genuine love for the many sides of Upper Canada.

He raves about exploring back roads and hidden fishing holes a few hours from Metropolitan Toronto, poring over old journals in county museums and swapping tales of the land with descendants of smugglers like Fisty Masterson, customs men, United Empire Loyalists and proponents of the steadfast Orange Lodge.

He talks about the present as well: The post office that replaced Montgomery's Tavern, the first Welland canal and its replacement, and even the controversial Yonge Street mall.

The book is filled with his revelations on visiting every corner of the province and, with 32 pages of pictures to illustrate his views, there are only 183 written pages to convert the reader into an Ontarian.

Max Braithwaite's Ontario; 215 pages; $10; J. J. Douglas.

Quiet as a mus musculus. Busy as a castor canadensis. Sly as a vulpes vulpes.

These similes might cause some confusion in everyday conversation but to the average mammalogist they mean mouse, beaver and fox. House mouse, American beaver and red fox, to be exact.

They and 183 other animals are studied in The Mammals of Canada by A. W. F. Banfield, professor of biological studies and director of the Institute of Urban and Environmental Studies at Brock University, St. Catharines, Ont.

Although mainly scientific in its approach, the book is written to make it interesting to the layman. Each species and sub-species is examined in detail, from habits and environment to distribution, the latter illustrated in numerous maps.

The author includes a description of each animal's economic status, its importance of the species to aboriginals, modern techniques used to hunt it, and its fur-bearing potential. He also discusses the species' harmful habits and their control and their importance as transmitters of human diseases.

The Mammals of Canada, by A. W. F. Banfield; 438 pages; $19.95; University of Toronto Press.

Demonstration Ends At Dorchester 'Pen'

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP) — Penitentiary authorities planned to meet with a committee of prisoners today to discuss grievances which led to a 24-hour demonstration at the federal maximum security institution here.

The demonstration ended late Monday night when the 221 prisoners involved filed out of the main recreation hall they had occupied and returned to their cells in the 100-year-old penitentiary.

There were no reports of violence and penitentiary officials said it was not known if disciplinary action will be taken.

Authorities refused to say what grievances led to the protest. Earlier demonstrations at the prison have centred on living conditions and facilities.

The latest demonstration began Sunday night when the prisoners refused to leave the recreation hall.

"They finally came to the conclusion they weren't going to get exactly what they wanted in staying there," John Guthro, acting assistant administrator, said. "So they finally gave in."

Authorities said there was little damage to the hall. There are about 350 prisoners and a staff of 319 at the institution, the only maximum security penitentiary in the Maritimes.

Steve Campbell, a university professor and a member of the city council of Moncton, N.B., 30 miles from here, took part in two unsuccessful attempts to negotiate an end to the protest but was not in on the final talks that brought the prisoners back to their cells.

Prisoners Here Are Not Record

OTTAWA (CP) — A Toronto University team has strongly rejected a widely-held belief that Canada has more persons behind bars in proportion to her population than any other Western country.

The team, Dr. Irvin Waller and Janet Chan of the university's centre of criminology, said Canada ranks well behind the United States and some other countries but admits prison is used here more than in Western Europe.

In an article prepared for publication in tte January edition of the Criminal Law Quarterly, the team, using its own system, comes up with a rate of Canadian imprisonment of 9[illegible] per 100,000 of population for 1972, the latest year that information was available.

Under that system Canada is behind the United States, which has a rate of 200 per 100,000, Poland with a rate of 189.7, Australia 129.2, Finland 106.8 and New Zealand 92.7.

NDP Leadership Race Wide Open

OTTAWA (CP) — Ed Broadbent's withdrawal from the New Democratic Party leadership race apparently throws the contest wide open with no front-runner in sight.

Party spokesmen speculated weeknd announcement by Mr. Broadbent, that more than 12 potential candidates might consider seeking the leadership.

"It's anybody's ball game at this point," one official said. "It would be ridiculous to bet on a winner now."

The new leader will be elected in July when delegates from across the country assemble in Winnipeg. He or she will succeed David Lewis, defeated personally in the July 8 general election.

The consensus among New Democrats on Parliament Hill is that Mr. Broadbent, the Oshawa-Whitby MP elected parliamentary leader following the election, would have won handily.

"His performance in the Commons convinced a lot of people he could do the job," the official said.

"But his decision is final and he won't accept a draft."

A university professor, Mr. Broadbent withdrew from the race to spend more time with his wife and two children.

Among those who might run now are at least four MPs from the 16-member federal NDP caucus, Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba, one or more of the NDP members defeated July 8, and an assortment of others. This includes former Liberal cabinet minister Eric Keirans, British Columbia NDP MLA Rosemary Brown, Saskatchewan Attorney-General Roy Romanow and Grant Notley, Alberta NDP leader.

The most likely possibilities from the federal caucus appear to be Lorne Nystrom, party whip and MP for Yorkton-Melville; Stuart Leggatt (New Westminster); Max Saltsman John Rodriguez (Nickel Belt). Two former Toronto MPs, Terry Grier and John Harney, also are considered possible candidates.

There is some speculation that Mr. Lewis would use his influence to stop Mr. Schreyer if it appeared that the Manitoba premier might run and win.

M. Schreyer has had his differences with other NDP premiers. He delivered what many considered a slap in the face to Mr. Lewis during the July 8 campaign by endorsing some form of wage and price controls, the key plank in the Conservative election platform.

"Things like that aren't forgotten—by the leadership or the rank and file," the spokesman said. "Schreyer would have support but he wouldn't walk away with it."

Mrs. Brown, a left-leaning former social worker elected to the B.C. legislature in 1972, is rated a good bet to enter as a women's candidate.

"She'll have some clout with delegates if she decides to go," said another official.

Mr. Kierans is favored by some party supporters but is considered a doubtful contender. Although he has endorsed some NDP economic and resource policies, he is not a party member.

Among NDP premiers, Mr. Schreyer is considered the most likely candidate—even though he has said he will not run. Premiers Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan and Dave Barrett of British Columbia are considered unlikely to enter.

"Blakeney could probably have it for the asking if he wanted it now," one organizer said. "But both he and Barrett have to try for second terms provincially. Neither is likely to run."

Severe Coin Shortage Developing in Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Canadians keep feeding coins into vending machines, parking metres, pay telephones and cookie jars in their kitchen cupboards, a severe coin shortage is beginning to develop.

Most provinces have not yet felt the pinch but British Columbia and Quebec report increasing shortages.

A strike at the federal mint in Ottawa—now in its second week—is also adding to the shortage and no settlement is in sight.

G. W. Hunt, master of the Royal Canadian Mint, says there now is a production backlog of 250 million coins.

The mint released 862 million coins in 1973 and 1.2 billion in 1974. There now are eight billion coins in circulation in Canada.

Mr. Hunter says a major problem is the habit ofmany Canadians to hoard coins.

Banks in the Montreal area say they have just started to notice a shortage of coins.

Hardest pressed is the Toronto Dominion Bank where a spokesman said the bank's branches are "screaming at us to supply the coins."

A spokesman for the Bank of Nova Scotia also said dime and nickel supplies are dwindling.

In Ontario, spokesmen for vending machine companies said they have no problems although there is a general coin shortage.

James Irwin, acting president of the Retail Council of Canada, which represents major retailers, said the shortage was noticed before Christmas but is no longer serious.

"Things could be difficult if the (mint) strike lasts for a few more weeks," he added.

Eugene Luchuk, executive assistant at the new mint in Winnipeg, said many coins are taken by cigarette machines which recently increased prices, by parking meters and by pay telephones. In addition, Winnipeg buses adopted an exact fare system last fall.

Commerce Chamber Wants Right to Strike Limited

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor relations appeared to dominate concerns Monday as the cabinet received the annual submission from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which suggested, among other things, that the right to strike be withdrawn from "essential public services."

There was little encouragement from the government in this respect.

"If you outlaw strikes there will be illegal strikes," said Prime Minister Trudeau. He said it was also worth remembering that since public servants were given the right to strike in 1966, some 200 contracts had been negotiated and there have been only six legal strikes.

Labor Minister John Munro told the 120-member delegation that if management and labor were to be brought together in meaningful discussions "to reduce the emphasis on confrontation," then it would be better done without legislation.

As usual, the annual brief from the 125,000-member chamber covered a wide area of concerns, but the 90-minute presentation to 19 cabinet ministers seemed to emphasize fears about future industrial relations. And the concern came from both sides.

Treasury Board President Jean Chretien told the delegation, headed by Chamber Presi- of negotiations, with contracts expiring for some 155,000 public servants.

"We want to be good employers, but we don't want to be trend-setters," he said.

Mr. Munro said an effort would be made this year to develop a greater harmony in industrial negotiations. It was important to end the atmosphere of confrontation and adversary, and try to cut down on the number of mid-contract walkouts.

In its brief, the chamber suggested that members of Parliament take another look at their proposed salary increase in the light of "inflation psychosis," and there was reference to a "lack of visible communications" between Canada and the United States. There was also a plea for an early resolve of federal-provincial disputes over resource tax policy.

Another suggestion was for the government to cancel a 10-per-cent surcharge on taxes of corporations other than small businesses and those in manufacturing, processing and resource extraction.

There was no response from cabinet about MPs salaries. But Finance Minister John Turner said there were "daily and continuous" talks between Canadian ministers and their U.S.counterparts, and Mr. Trudeau said discussions are continuing between federal and provincial officials over resource taxes.

Indians Give Views On School Vandalism

TORONTO (CP) — The Grand Council Treaty No. 9, composed of all Northern Ontario Indian chiefs, said in a news release Monday that the public should be given a more detailed analysis of funds allocated by the federal government to Indians.

Noting publicity given to wilful damage at an Indian school in Poplar Hill, Ont., the council said this "must surely make the Canadian taxpayer, church groups and many other generous donors to the Indian cause feel that their dollar has been utterly wasted."

"If the public sector of this country were as outraged by government failure and bureaucratic red tape and one-sided policies as the Indian people have endured, we feel that their reaction would be many times worse than the $500,000 monument to failure at Poplar Hill.

Belleville Considers Bid for Ontario Summer Games in 1978

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

If facilities are available, Belleville may bid to host the Ontario Summer Games for the city's 1978 centennial-year calendar of major events.

That's the indication Mayor Robin Jeffrey will convey to the provincial government — a major costs underwriter of the games.

She obtained the authorization Tuesday night from the city's recreation and parks boards.

But the same directive also saw the boards turn down an invitation to have the games in Belleville earlier — this summer or next winter.

Possibility of playing host for the games — which involve amateur athletes from around the province in what approximates a week-long mini-Olympiad — was first posed almost two weeks ago.

A letter to the mayor from Rene Brunelle, then community and social services minister, sounded out the city as a site for the provincial games — either the summer event this year or the 1976 winter games.

The games attract up to 40,000, wrote the minister, and also have positive effects on development of local amateur sports.

But, recreation director Clifford Belch and his committee chairman, Ald. George Zegouras, told Tuesday night's meeting Belleville hasn't the facilities for such events at present.

"And we haven't got time to prepare for anything of this magnitude in this year," said Ald. Zegouras.

However, he suggested the event could become part of the city's centennial — preferably the summer games since winter weather has been unreliable in recent years, he said.

By 1978, city facilities might also include the Belleville Yardmen's big sports complex planned for the Cannifton Road area, Mr. Belch said. Indications were the province paid operating costs of such events.

The recreation director said Kingston had refused the 1975-76 games, which were also being offered Peterborough.

Ald. Paul Russell, re-elected parks board chairman, cautioned about making any definite commitment before city authorities discovered what facilities they would have to provide.

"I'm all in favor of having these people come here. But I don't want to wind up with what they're in in Montreal," he said in reference to current problems with facilities for the 1976 Olympics. The situation needed more discussion by city authorities before a bid for centennial year could be entered.

The committees decided the tone of the mayor's reply to the ministry should be: Belleville cannot play host to the 1975-76 events, but the city "hopes to be in a position" to take the games in 1978. If so, applicaion will be made in two months.

Cash Discounts Favored

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A survey by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business shows a majority of its members favor giving cash-paying customers a discount. Many of the major credit cards, such as Chargex and Master Charge, require participating merchants to pay between two and five per cent of the purchase price as a handling charge. The contracts with the merchants forbid them to offer discounts for cash sales. In the United States, the Consumers Union won an out-of-court settlement, forcing American Express to allow cash discounts and the decision whether to offer the discounts now is left up to the individual mrechant.

THAMESFORD, Ont. (CP) — Police decided today "to play a waiting game" and not to hand over $10,000 in ransom as earlier planned to a gunman holding four young children as hostages in a farmhouse.

Police identified the man in the farmhouse as Donald Wayne Cline, 21, who, along with Leonard Russell Burliuk, 25, of Kingston, walked away from a minimum-security annex at Millhaven institution near Kingston last Oct. 1.

Det.-Insp. Dennis Alsop of the provincial police in nearby London said the gunman might pose an even greater danger if allowed to leave with the hostages he has held sinceTuesday allowed to leave with the hostages he has held since Tuesday afternoon.

A police broadcast earlier in the morning said the man would be allowed to leave the farmhouse with two unspecified hostages and a cash ransom.

Making the announcement, Insp. Alsop said the four Field children—Donald, 11, Robert, 12, Kim, 7, and David 4—were all well and that police were checking them by phone periodically.

The gunman, identified by police as Donald Wayne Cline, 22, said in several telephone interviews during the night he had no intention of harming the children. He said repeatedly, "the only ones who can harm these children are the police."

He said if the police co-operate with him the children would remain safe.

Despite that, the police were taking a hard line against the man.

"One of us will have to weaken," Insp. Alsop said.

The refusal to comply with the gunman's demands came after a long, cold vigil through the night as heavily-armed police officers, wearing bullet-proof vests surrounded the farmhouse. Reporters and photographers huddled in their cars at a police roadblock about 1½ miles west of the farmhouse.

The news media were banned from the area, however, following a bizarre early-morning incident.

The host of a London radio talk show telephoned the gunman, preventing police from getting in contact with the man at the same time, and taped an interview with him.

At one point in the interview, the announcer asked the gunman why he had asked for only a $10,000 ransom.

Startled, the gunman said he had not thought of it and thanked the radio host for suggesting the idea.

"Why don't we go for the big one—$150,000?"the gunman said

The flustered broadcaster tried frantically to change the subject during the rest of the interview; but outraged police officials ordered photographers and reporters away from the area after hearing the broadcast.

The tense drama of the four young hostages began shortly before 4 p.m. Tuesday when four men robbed a supermarket in this town 15 miles east of London.

Moments later, police roadblocks ringed the area and the men's abandoned car was found a short time later.

Two police officers, OPP Constable P.J. Vallier and London Det. Fred Schell, entered a nearby farmhouse, the home of Mr. and Mrs. George (Pete) Field in search of the suspects.

Although details were still sketchy, they apparently were met by an armed man who took their service revolvers. Donna Marie Field, 31, mother of the four children, was in the house at the time and she said later two or three shots were fired.

The police officers managed to escape the house. The gunman then sent Mrs. Field out to seek an understanding with police, leaving the children as hostages.

Later in the evening, a tearful Mrs. Field told reporters the gunman said he was "not going to leave the house alive."

In another incident, details of which also were sketchy, Gail Guest, a friend of the gunman, arrived on the scene and entered the house.

Police have refused to confirm or deny that she came at the gunman's request.

During the evening, the gunman spelled out his demands for the release of the children—$10,000 in cash, a radio-equipped car and a safe escape route.

A provincial police spokesman said it took most of the night to collect the ransom money, put together in Toronto.

He said the cash came from a variety of sources, including contributions from individual policemen and loans from hotels, motels and restaurants in the Toronto area.

Meanwhile, squads of police evacuated nearby homes and set up command posts near the farmhouse, locking it in a tight cordon.

Equipment and supplies were ferried in by helicopter and at least one police dog was brought to the scene.

Stan Wouder, a neighbor of the Fields, spent a chilly night at a roadblock, unable to get in touch with his family, evacuated from their house to the safety of the police command post.

"All I want to do is see my wife and children", he said.

That plaintive cry was echoed through the night by another father, as George Field and his wife sat in a police car waiting for news.

Kidnapper Telephones His Mother

NEW SARUM, Ont. (CP) — The mother of Wayne Cline who is holding four children hostage said today that her son told her Tuesday night that he had telephoned to say goodbye.

"I told Waynie . . . don't you hurt those children," Mrs. Cline said. "He said, 'Well, maybe they'll (the police) know how I'm hurt.'"

She said Wayne knew the children since they were babies and one of them, Donald Wayne, is named after him.

"Waynie went to live with George (the children's father) when he was only seven or eight years old, she said.

Taking Drugs to Jail Brought Beating, Claim

TORONTO (CP) — Brian MacLean, 24, Tuesday told a royal commission into allegations of brutality by Toronto jail guards that he was stripped, beaten twice and thrown into a solitary-confinement cell at the jail last summer after he was caught smuggling in drugs.

MacLean told the commissioner, Judge Barry Shapiro, that he did not complain about the beatings "because I figured if I didn't say anything about it, I'd be released from segregation."

MacLean now is serving a five-month sentence in the jail for fraud and possession of a restricted weapon. He said he was caught during his second drug-use venture while a prisoner of the jail.

When Judge Shapiro suggested he knew the beatings were against jail regulations and he had a right to complain, MacLean replied he was aware of that, but also realized "it wasn't an uncommon thing."

He said he had heard of other prisoners being beaten.

MacLean testified that he and fellow prisoner Gordon Courts, 23, were given 40 barbituates by another prisoner while all three were waiting for court hearings scheduled for July 26.

He confirmed Courts's testimony on Monday that Courts took the drugs, felt their effect and became involved in a fight with guards after they returned to the jail.

Man Near Death, Shooting Himself

Oshawa Sniper Terrorizes Mall Shoppers with .303

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — A sniper, who terrorized shoppers at the city's largest mall for 90 minutes Tuesday, was in serious condition early today following four hours of surgery for a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

A spokesman at Oshawa General Hospital said the man's condition remained stable as he recovered from the operation.

Durham regional police said early today no charges had been laid because they were not sure if the man would live or what the exact charges would be.

They said their investigation of the incident will continue this morning.

The man began shooting about 5:30 p.m. from a house diagonally across from the shopping plaza, police said. The gunman was the only person injured in the shooting spree.

Police said the weapon used was a .303-calibre rifle.

A loudhailer was used by police in a bid to persuade the sniper to surrender. When no response was received, police lobbed tear gas into the two-storey building.

Supt. Ken Young and two other officers then entered the building and found a man lying on the floor in a rom upstairs.

He was bleeding heavily when he was rushed to hospital, police said.

A hospital spokesman said a man brought into the emergency admitting room by police underwent surgery at 8 p.m. He had a gunshot wound on his left side between the waist and shoulder.

The man was identified by police as Edward Lloyd McGaughey, 24, of Oshawa. They said he resided in the house from which the shots were fired.

Freelance photographer Dave Thompson was in a service centre across the street from the house when a bullet crashed through the front window and "about 10 guys hit the dirt."

Mr. Thompson said bullets continued coming through the window until police arrived. The sniper then began shooting at police, he said.

Ford and Congress at Odds Over Import Tax on Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress is responding to President Ford's economic program with quick action on tax relief while entangling his energy policy in dispute.

In a no-retreat statement opening a news conference Tuesday, Ford said he will put into effect without congressional help his tariff on imported oil and will veto any mandatory gasoline rationing legislation.

House of Representatives leaders went ahead with plans to open hearings today on tax abatement—both Ford's version and Democratic counter-proposals.

But they moved to block the imposition of the $3-a-barrel tax on imported crude oil.

Police Think 11 Slain Because They Saw Two Shot

MONTREAL (CP) — Police say two victims of a massacre at a north-end nightclub Tuesday were shot, one fatally, while the other shooting victim and 11 innocent bystanders were asphyxiated in a deliberately-set fire to get rid of witnesses.

The manager and a client were both shot with a .22-calibre revolver, and "we believe everyone else was herded into a storeroom to get rid of witnesses," said Claude Desautels, assistant director of Montreal Urban Community police.

He said Rejean Fortin, 43-year-old manager of the Gargantua Bar-Salon, was shot through the heart while patron Pierre Lamarche, 29, was shot in the stomach.

Pathologists said Mr. Fortin died of the wound but that Mr. Lamarche died of asphyxiation—as did the 11 others—when a fire fuelled by an undetermined substance was ignited in at least two places.

The 13 were jammed into the tiny storeroom in the second-floor nightclub and the fire was under way "at least 30 minutes before firemen were called to the scene," a police investigator said.

The bodies, crammed into about 25 square feet of floor space, were "piled three feet high," said Lieut. Maurice Labarre of the Montreal fire department, who made the grisly find.

Lieut. Labarre said he pried open the padlocked plywood door of the storeroom after he pushed aside a jukebox positioned in front of it.

"I didn't know there were any bodies until another fireman told me I was stepping on the body of a man.

"I thought it was a rolled up carpet."

It took another 30 minutes to find the other bodies after the smoke had cleared.

Official Urges Census Of Handicapped People

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

For the physically handicapped person confined to a wheelchair, the everyday activity of mounting a curb or using a public telephone can be a traumatic experience.

And many times, not much can be done about it, save provide easier accessibility and transportation for the handicapped.

This was the message brought before a conference on the handicapped at Loyalist College Tuesday by Doug Harley, assistant executive director for the last three years of the March of Dimes, Ability Fund.

Mr. Harley was accompanied by James Good, director of community development with the organization which starts its fund-raising drive next Monday.

Campaign chairman of the fund in Belleville this year is Vera Morphy while Joanne Muckle is heading the Trenton drive.

The meeting was attended by about a dozen people and slides were presented showing the provisions and services such as camps for the handicapped made possible through the fund.

Tuesday night's meeting dealt largely with transportation problems faced by those handicapped restricted to wheel chairs.

Mr. Harley mentioned that the role of the March of Dimes, started in 1951 and which in the past years added the Ability Fund to its title, has changed during the years.

He said that since the discovery of the polio vaccine, emphasis now is being placed on vocational lines and workshops.

He said that the role of case workers also has changed during the past few years.

He said that an information program is needed to help the handicapped in the community. This is where Mr. Good enters the picture, acting in many ways as liaison between the handicapped person and the community he must live in and adapt to.

Mr. Harley said that one area needing attention is that of finding out the handicapped population in communities such as Belleville.

"I'd like to know how many handicapped people there are in Belleville . . . in Trenton," he said, advocating that a census be taken to seek this information.

Besides the problems of transportation and seeking the number of handicapped, other areas of discussion dealth with housing and recreation.

Trustees Double Allowance

Trustees with the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board doubled their allowance of $100 a month to $200 a month at Tuesday's first regular meeting of the 1975 board.

The pay hike wasn't their idea.

It is a provision of the new "Education Act 1974" a composite act given third reading recently.

Under the act, separate school trustees with 14 members on their boards are entitled to double their allowances from $100 a month to $200.

Trustees John Granville and Joseph Chapelle voted against the measure and asked for a recorded vote. The two men made it clear that they were voting against the increased stipend, not against the provision, included in the motion, that awarded a travel allowance of 15 cents a mile to trustees and board employees.

Pet of the Week

Much too young to fend for himself, this six or seven-week-old pup was a stray and was picked up by the Humane Society in Belleville. The little female is part terrier, white and black, and will grown up to be a small-sized dog. She is available at the Quinte Animal Shelter on Avonlough Rd.

Cement Plant Expands

PICTON — The Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd. now is involved in stage two of a major expansion at the Picton plant geared to double capacity and reduce fuel requirements.

By late 1975, a new kilm system costing about $16.5 million will be complete.

The new system will have a capacity of 850,000 tons of clinker per year. This is equal to the combined capacity of the three kilns now in operation at the Picton plant.

Third stage of the expansion plan is addition of extra grinding facilities. This will increase the total capacity of the Picton plant to produce cement made by grinding cooled clinker with gypsum. This stage now is in the planning phase.

At completion of stage three the Picton plant will become one of the largest cement plants in North America.

Stage one, a new roller mill system was installed at a capital cost of $6 million and now is fully operational.

The roller mills use waste heat from the kilns to dry the material feeds and, in the process, clean the kiln gases of additional dust. This increases efficiency of the plant's precipitators.

Province Doubles Trenton's Road Building Allowance

TRENTON — The town works department will get more than a two-fold increase over its 1974 share of the provincial pie for road construction and maintenance this year.

Trenton's initial 1975 subsidy of 50 per cent of road costs has been increased to $325,000 from $150,500 in 1974.

The increase, says commissioner of works Arie Hoornweg, tops total monies received from the ministry of transportation and communications (MTC) last year. The $150,500 represented the initial provincial allocation to which were added supplementary funds.

Mr. Hoornweg said Tuesday, the increased allocation is "better than I expected."

During discussions geared to set this year's town budget, he had anticipated that the province would likely meet the 1974 allocation.

"Everything that we get above that is gravy," Mr. Hoornweg said. Provincial allocations came at the "good will" of the MTC, he says.

The increase in the initial subsidy does not include any supplementary funding requests the town may make of the ministry.

Trenton's road budget must meet the MTC allocation in order to receive the full $325,000.

In its use of MTC funds, the town is not bound by provincially imposed ceilings on where the money can be channelled. Money can be used for either construction or maintenance as the town sees fit.

In previous years, a specific amount of the allocation was directed to each category of road work.

The increased funds may not bear directly on a stepped up road building program.

"I'm not sure of any change in expenditures," said Mr. Hoornweg. "I don't anticipate more work being done."

However, he did not entirely rule out the possibility of additional town spending. The final picture will emerge only when the town budget is struck later this year.

At present, plans call for the continuation of the road improvement program — the curbing and paving of town streets.

The works department has prepared the 1975 program but Mr. Hoornweg said he would not release its contents pending final approval by council.

He said Elgin, Murphy and Middle Sts. are slated for reconstruction, but such work this year is a carry-over from work not done in 1974. Funds have already been allocated in the town's 1975 budget for the work.

Edward and North Murray will also be done.

Reconstruction of the two streets is necessary since they will serve as detours when the expected relocation of the Sidney St. subway railway lines is done this year.

Library Offers Books in Dutch

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A book display titled "Nederlandsche Boeken" may be Dutch to Picton librarian Valerie Creasy but to Prince Edward residents from the Netherlands it's a touch of home.

Mrs. Creasy says the Picton public library recently received about 100 books printed in Dutch from the Lake Ontario Regional Library System. The volumes of fiction and non-fiction were an immediate success.

Earlier a collection of Spanish books was placed in the library but, for once, Prince Edward's nickname "Little Spain" seemed a misnomer. Few of these publications were borrowed and the display was returned.

Mrs. Creasy says new Dutch books probably will be circulated and in addition the library has requested a collection of French reading material.

Books printed in other languages now are available at the Picton library for the first time.

Another "first" is the Fine Arts collection offered through the Lake Ontario Regional Library System.

The books in this display proved an immediate success and a large number are off the shelves in circulation.

Mrs. Creasy said the books in this collection would be costly to purchase.

Among the publications offered are Hirmer and Lullies' Greek Sculpture, Treasures of Spain, and Creation is a Patient Search by Le Corbusier.

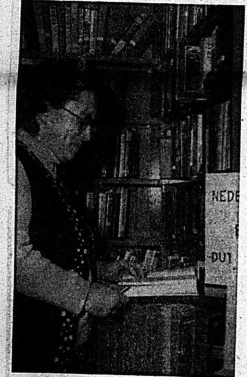
Introduction of the foreign language book display and the fine arts collection points up the wider use of the Picton public library reflected last year in increased circulation figures.

Mrs. Creasy says a total of 59,503 books were circulated in 1974 in the adult and children's libraries. This represents an increase of 4,344 books over 1973.

In former years, there was a tendency for circulation figures to drop slightly in the summer months but Mrs. Creasy reports the busy season now covers 12 months of the year.

"We are as busy now in July and August as in the winter months," she comments.

Mrs. Creasy is assisted by five staff members in her work at the library.



Dutch Touch Arrives

Picton librarian Valerie Creasy examines a new collection of books printed in Dutch now offered at the public library. The display was provided by the Lake Ontario Regional Library System and proved an immediate success among Prince Edward residents who are natives of the Netherlands.

Brintnell Named Warden

COBOURG — Brighton village reeve Dorothy Brintnell was elected warden of Northumberland county here Tuesday. She is the first woman to assume the post since the county government was formed in 1849.

A member of county council for the last four years, she won her seat over rival Ken Parr of Seymour Township.

She assumes a one-year term of office from Edward Roddy of Lakeport in Haldimand Township.

Mrs. Brintnell is also the first Brighton council member since 1922 to be elected warden. The last member was H. B. Phillips.

In a brief inaugural address Tuesday, she predicted a busy year for county council.

Mrs. Brintnell said she hoped three studies currently under way in the county would be completed and acted upon.

At present work is being done on a study of solid waste handling on a county-wide basis and another on county government restructuring. A task force has undertaken study of development strategy for Northumberland.

Science Fair Set

PICTON — The third annual Kinsmen Science Fair will be held March 8 at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Students of Prince Edward County now enrolled in Grades 7 to 13 are eligible to submit projects.

Winners in each category receive trophies provided by the Kinsmen and each contestant is awarded a certificate of entry.

The fair is not organized just as a showcase for spectacular inventions. Hobby displays, such as rock collections, relating to science, are welcomed as well as other unusual exhibits.

Passing The Time

A morning brunch can be enjoyed anywhere, anytime, even if you are a horse savouring a mouthful of hay. This pair, well furred against the winter's chill, even took their shadows along for a feast — Dutch treat? This tranquil scene was at Wooler Rd. and the Gunter Settlement sideroad.

Rollins Says Papineau Park Won't Extend Original Plan

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins indicated in a press announcement today that the proposed provincial park for Papineau Lake, 20 miles north of here, would definitely be going ahead as it was announced by Leo Bernier, provincial minister of natural resources last January.

In his release Mr. Rollins said, "I am now in a position to announce that the Papineau Lake project will definitely be going ahead on the basis of the maps that were supplied to concerned individuals."

"The area of the park will be as shown in a submission prepared by the ministry office in Bancroft which I presented to property owners in February, 1974. At that time I made a promise and a commitment to those present that this project would involve the property mentioned only," said Mr. Rollins.

During the 1974 meeting in Maynooth, Mr Rollins told cottage owners and permanent residents of the Papineau area that there would be no expropriation of land for the park except for that which had been contained within the original Davis family homestead.

Mr. Rollins said today, "I can now assure all concerned that there will not be any extension. In addition, the minister of natural resources has made a definite commitment that there will not be any further property purchased for this development."

The Papineau Park has been opposed in the past by the cottage owners who felt that a 250-camp site development would tax the water quality of the lake.

In September, the provincial ministry of the environment released information concerning a pollution level study of Papineau.

A spokesman for the ministry, D. C. Kinder said at that time "generally speaking the lake is in good shape and could accommodate more use".

The Davis family, whose 425 acres of farm and shorefront property are needed for the park, have indicated for the past year that they are not prepared to sell to the ministry for a provincial park.

Mrs. Bruce Davis who lives on the family farm with her husband and children said Tuesday "We still haven't made any deals with the ministry to sell the farm. We were told by them last Thursday that the park was going ahead, and we said we were still not interested in selling.

In a natural resources study in March, it stated that "the short-term objectives should include the acquisition of all the Davis family property, the Davis store and the two Davis subdivisions.

"This would involve the dislocation of nine cottages in the area extending from the Davis store to the west bank of the Little Papineau Creek.

The province already owns several hundreds acres adjacent to the Davis property.

Fire Guts Home

MARMORA — A farm home and contents owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McGrath of RR 1, Marmora was destroyed by a fire which began about 8.30 today.

Marmora fire department officials, still at the scene at noon, said they believe the blaze was caused by a fire in a wood stove in the kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath and their six-year-old son, Dennis escaped unhurt.

Private Bill Limits County Council Size

Hastings County will be governed by a smaller council starting with the current inaugural session.

The number of councillors are reduced to 20 from 47.

The shrinkage is the effect of a private bill which set new population standards for representation on county council.

Council passed the bill in 1973 to take effect this year as it feared its membership might become unwieldy.

The bill removes all but two deputy-reeves from council memberships.

Townships with populations of 1,000 may elect deputy reeves. But as such townships increased within Hastings in recent years, so did the number of deputy reeves on county council.

The private bill calls for a township to register 2,500 before a deputy reeve may take a county government seat. Only two townships presently meet the standard — Thurlow and Sidney.

Meantime, last December's elections have produced five new reeves on council.

They are Ritchie Wells, Marmora - Lake; James Haddow, Herschel; Ken Wilson, Carlow; Russell Hawley, Bancroft and Carman Mikel, Frankford.

Planners Differ

Provincial legislation may be pending that will help resolve planning differences between Hastings County councillors and provincial government planners, Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, said Tuesday.

Mr. Rollins took the opportunity at the 1975 council's inauguration to reassure the county's reeves on differences of opinion involving the Hastings official plan — now up for provincial approval.

The plan allows a minimum one-acre allotment for house construction in certain rural areas.

Some officials of the province's housing ministry want this raised to 25 acres, recalled newly-elected Warden William McCrea in his inaugural speech. The same issue was raised at the final meeting of the 1974 county council in December.

But said Mr. Rollins, he had been given to understand pending legislation being drafted for the legislature will set the minimum at five acres or less.

Mr. Rollins, whose Hastings riding faces amalgamation with much of neighboring Peterborough constituency in proposed redistribution of electoral boundaries, said the proposal does not foreshadow any move to regional government.

The 'Revolution…!'

Come the revolution . . . the victory of the proletariat . . . the brotherhood of the egalitarian society and all that. Well forget it, in our time at least, for there is little evidence that there is unanimity among the revolutionaries themselves.

Maybe Patricia Hearst is managing all right, to have eluded the law for so long, to have virtually dropped out of sight.

Not so however for erstwhile bomber Jane Alpert who gave herself up in November after a lonely and fear-ridden four years on the run. Miss Alpert, who had jumped bail in May 1970, was sentenced recently to 27 months on pleading guilty to aiding in a series of bombings in New York.

Going underground in an effort to free her lover, Sam Melville, subsequently killed in the 1971 riots at Attica prison, Miss Alpert received no help from the radical Weathermen wing of Students for a Democratic Society whom she approached. She told the New York Post they had no interest in Melville because they "could not identify with a white revolutionary. Someone had to be black or heavy into dope."

Miss Alpert said she later rode a train to Washington with a huge crowd of young people heading for a demonstration protesting the shootings at Kent State University.

"I had bleached my hair and was wearing a dress, heels and makeup. The kids had knapsacks and blue jeans and big placards. They were not quite spitting at me, but sneering."

So much for the tyranny of the cult, of the mob, whatever the era. The day the mobs start to gather — whether clad in blue jeans and carrying placards, or in shirts and pants and chanting wildly Middle East or Latin American style, in our own still individualist-oriented society — we will be in trouble.

…And 'Brotherhood'

Some more on the concept of brotherhood, — the solidarity so beloved of the revolutionary mind, or as subscribed to as a remote ideal of men everywhere:

The case for instance of 46-year-old divorcee Barbara Wilson who lay injured at the bottom of a gorge near Ventura, California, before a group of teenagers heard her cries and came to her aid. This, after a man two days earlier worked his way partly down the gorge, then said anyone who drove that road deserved anything he got and he didn't want to get involved.

Expect to find that incident show up in due course on the television program "Emergency," for it was tailor-made.

Consider another emergency Canadian-style that had a somewhat less than heroic ring to it — the incident in Saint John in which two firemen, as revealed at a court hearing, pushed a man away from their station wagon while he begged for help against three men who were beating him. A third firefighter said he watched from inside the fire station while one attacker held the man's arms behind him and another man beat him. All three said they did not want to become involved. And this after the victim had merely stopped to ask directions of the men, only to be attacked by them.

While this should not be construed as reflecting critically on a fine body of men such as the firefighters, it is inescapable that it must do so on the trio in Saint John. At the very least they could have called the police; instead, they fell back on the latter-day rule of thumb for many a citizen faced with an assault or some such situation: let's not get involved.

Indeed, it is a common failing.

Matter Of Discipline

Young Americans are joining the army again. The period of anti-war disenchantment, associated with Vietnam, is over and the comment of one recruit, as a Miami training centre, is revealing.

When asked why he had joined up, the recruit — a handsome young man — replied: "I was a hippie . . . basically, I had forgotten what discipline was all about."

In the language of the day: Right on!

Originates In Fireplace

Blaze In Columnist's Home Could Have Been So Final

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA - For a switch, let's change the pace from the often unreal world of politics to the real world of people.

Ever had a fire?

Not the kind you read about — other people's fires, like that horror in North Bay that took eight lives and injured some 30 others, nor the blaze in the next block with its financially damaging property loss to somebody else — but your very own smoke and flames?

Well, there we were the other evening, finished with watching television's fantasy on the last days of Hitler, and my wife, Margaret, was on her way to bath and bed.

There had been a wood fire lazily burning in the corner fireplace since late afternoon, not a big, hotly crackling flame, but just the slow smoky sizzle, a small blue blaze from sizzling green pine and spruce logs.

The fireplace always makes the 65-year-old brick house faintly redolent of the fragrance of faraway evergreen smoke. Nice.

But this was different. Stronger. Strange new pungency to it.

Marg noticed it, and I waved it aside with the offhand remark — not altogether believing it — that it must be that last wet while pine log that had gone onto the bed of glowing coals.

She went upstairs, and seconds later was down again, a little breathless with the alarm of a haze of clearly visible smoke, in hall, bedrooms and bath.

And wisping out from just under the mantlepiece, and oddly, four feet away from a cornerpost of the wall, smoke traces slowly curling.

I was still peering at them when, making the decision, Marg commanded "call the fire department, right now!"

Number One fire station in suburban Westboro is seven blocks away, and before we had time to move the car from the lane, the firemen were there, three big red wagons with flashing lights, a pair of police cars in escort.

In they trooped, in their heavy rubber slickers and big hats, with hand extinguishers, hoselines, axes, shovels, crowbars, pails, powersaw and tarps.

Down went the tarps on the rug, and over the furniture; off the walls came the Tom Roberts paintings; from the top of the fireplace was crowbarred the mantle; and out puffed a small cloud of piney blue smoke.

"It's in the wall," said the Chief, "open it up." And a young fireman with an axe pounded through the ancient wallpapered plaster and lath and was stopped right there, in full blow, by the inner wall fashioned back in 1910 of inch-and-a-half red pine slabs, still straight and tight.

A second young fireman was shovelling into a pail that was left of the dying log fire in the fireplace, and a third put the crowbar to the brickwork.

A powersaw ripped through the heavy red pine slabs of the old inner wall, the left side of the fireplace collapsed in a billowing cloud of mortar dust onto the hearth and the place seemed near ruin.

I groaned, "You're wrecking everything; take it easy. Save the old circular arch if you can."

"Better loss the fireplace and the wall than your lives and the house," replied the Chief. "Think what could have happened if this had been an hour later and you were both in bed, overcome with fumes and smoke and the flames racing up through the attic to the roof."

The beautiful, oval, old fireplace arch crashed down in another smother of dust.

They picked and chopped and hand-hosed, and when all seemed ashes, announced it was under control with the fire area fully exposed.

The walkie-talkie was squawking with Number One Station getting a running account of it; firemen were lugging out pailsful of bricks, mortar and charred wood; and the room was a mob scene with police, neighbors and a couple of strangers.

What were the police doing there?

"You wouldn't believe the number of fire buffs there are who chase us, jamming traffic and getting in the way."

"I believe you," I said, glancing at the strangers.

Well, they put out the smouldering wall, cooled down the hot bricks and timbers behind, said that a "hot vapor leak" through the old fireplace mortar had slowly charcoaled the wood back of it to the flash-point, exclaimed about the extravagant use of timber by builders 65 years ago, lifted the dust and debris-laden tarps, swept and tidied up, said they were sorry about the damage, told us in a way we were lucky, and departed, leaving one man standing by "in case."

They were fast, efficient, pleasant, and sent a man around next morning "just to make sure."

It was no Towering Inferno, but the adjusters say it could cost up to $4,000 to repair and restore.

Fire is frantic.

It's Heavy Going

Economics Of The Olympic Games

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

As if the 1976 Olympic Games were not in enough trouble already—with wildcat construction strikes and soaring costs—two elements of the grand design for raising cash are not working out quite as expected.

Sales of the special series of stamps marking next year's events in Montreal have been a disappointment. There is a slight surcharge, destined for Olympic financing, on each stamp—and most users of the mail seem unwilling to pay it.

Coins are to be issued in seven special series to mark the Olympics, with two $10 and two $5 coins in each series.

The first issue of special Olympic coins, priced at $36—or 20 per cent above their face value—was an outstanding success. Demand greatly exceeded supply.

The second series, higher priced, proved to be reasonably popular, although not a sell-out.

Now, with the fourth series that was scheduled to go on sale Jan. 20—but didn't—the outlook for this source of Olympic funds is becoming clouded.

In the first place, production workers at the Royal Canadian Mint have walked off the job to demand more pay. Until their strike is settled the introduction of the third series will have to be postponed.

Second place, the price of the coins has risen again. Minimum is $15.75 for the $10 coin and $8 for the $5 pieces—higher in sets in "presentation" cases.

Finally there is some grumbling among the coin dealers and bankers upon whom the distribution rests.

The dealers' fears that the market may be flooded were recognized by Austin Page, managing director of the Olympic coin program, when he announced a limit of five million coins to be struck in the third series.

"In the declining world economy," he said, "it is imperative that we avoid the pitfall of over-supply, to protect the value of the coins, to ensure continuing interest in the program, and to safeguard the investment made by supporters to date."

Bankers are complaining their profit on the coins—undisclosed — is too small to compensate for the fact that they earn no interest on the coins they hold, and for the new problems they encounter.

"This is the first time the bankers have had to merchandise a tangible product," one banker noted. "They are unaccustomed to acting as retailers."

Chartered banks are required by law to keep a certain amount of cash in the till, earning no interest:

For each $100 of demand deposits, they must have $12 in deposits at the Bank of Canada or in bank notes. And for every $100 in notice deposits, they have to hold $4. The average is about six per cent of both types of deposits.

At mid-January Canadian banks had $2.6 billion on deposit at the central bank and $1 billion in bank notes—all of it unproductive.

They also had some $55 million in coins at last report, including about $2.5 million in Olympic coins—and they are pressing the government to allow them to include at least the high-value Olympic coins, if not all coins, in counting their legal cash reserves. (This would free an equivalent amount of currency reserves, and allow the banks to put it to profitable use).

In 1974, the Olympic coin program made a net contribution of $29 million to the Olympic Games financing. This year when the Games need the money more than ever, such a profit will be harder to come by.

Minister's Strong Stand

The Armed Forces Win A Reprieve

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The Canadian Armed Forces have a one-year reprieve against escalating costs of supplies and salaries for the fiscal year 1975-76 and will operate with a positive change in the command organization.

These favorable developments in our hard-pressed military establishment viewed indifferently by the prime minister, much of the public, by a lot of politicians, were achieved by Defence Minister James Richardson, the defence minister who to date, had spent too much of his portfolio marking time with the military.

Speaking before those hardy and often nasty ex-warriors who make up the member groups of the Canadian Defence Association, Mr. Richardson announced the formation of an air command to match the existing mobile command (army) and maritime command (army) and an increase of about 11.2 per cent in the defence budget.

The former will do something to distinguish the three different parts of the armed forces, each one having its own command with a major-general or vice-admiral in command.

The new air command will be based somewhere in Western Canada. One hopes it will be Edmonton where a pre-unification northwest air command was once based, and where there is a substantial aviation back-up industry, unlike the minister's home city of Winnipeg.

The budget increase of about $280 millions gives the minister just enough to cover operation costs, no money at all for major new equipment, certainly none for expansion of present services.

Indeed the other side of the minister's well-received announcement is reduction and closing down of certain facilities, mainly on the air side.

This includes moving a Voodoo CF-101 jet fighter squadron, reductions in the number of operational aircraft of various kinds, including the sale of the five Falcon executive jet transports now operated mainly for the use of senior departmental personnel by the outgoing air transport command.

Though Mr. Richardson has enough money to make it to 1976, (assuming the inflationary rate does not escalate above 1.5 per cent by 1976), he has had to reduce the forces by about 5,000 all round. Yet he must maintain the same old demanding roles which overlap and still require a thorough ministerial and cabinet review.

These are defence of national sovereignty, continental defence, our NATO commitment and peacekeeping.

We could hardly fulfil these with the 83,000 in the armed forces and existing facilities, before the inflationary spiral began.

And any emergency such as forces in Cyprus, would send the whole military establishment scrambling to find the trained bodies and enough available equipment.

The Canadian Armed Forces are stretched just as thin, perhaps thinner. And above all, there is the real dilemma facing Mr. Richardson, of the need for new equipment in all three forces.

The long-range patrol aircraft Argus will commence their 18th year in service, even though they will be reduced from 33 to 26 by the minister's recent announcement. That's just one example.

And the army, pushed hard increasing our peace-keeping by retired ex-tank and armored brigade officers is campaigning for tanks to maintain what they see as "the minimum armored force capability."

Our continuance in NATO should be seriously questioned. But again more delay since the prime minister is off to Western Europe in March with such a discussion put off indefinitely again.

The Jargon Of The Seventies Makes for Way-out Conversation

Cornwall Standard- Freeholder

Looking over our copy of the 1974 Associated Press (a U.S. news-gathering agency) almanac or yearbook, which incidentally was issued several months ago, we found a fascinating chapter on words and phrases that have recently crept into the English language.

Some such as acidhead (a frequent user of the drug LSD) are associated with the current counterculture (culture of many young people of the 60s and 70s manifested by a life style that is opposed to the prevailing culture).

Others such as moonquake (a trembling on the surface of the moon) exobiology (study of the effect of space on living organisms) and mobot a remote control mobile robot) are part and parcel of the space age.

Still others have a social connotation. The very well known male chauvinist pig is a popular example. This, of course, is a term of contempt used by Women's Lib (also an example) in describing men who treat women as something less than equal.

Then there is the battered baby syndrome (serious bruises and other injuries incurred by a small child allegedly in an accident but actually as the result of mistreatment) jet lag (a term denoting tiredness because of travel through several time zones) and various other scientific and medical terms.

One could even carry on a conversation, even if somewhat limited, using little but these new words and expressions.

How about trying this on for size:

A wonk(worthless person) and a groupie (young woman who is a fan of rock musicians) were having a heavy head rap (serious discussion) on downers (drugs) and freaks (users).

A Jesus freak bent on outreach) establishing a branch of his religious sect) passed by on his way to the artmobile a van carrying art).

A youth in Afro (full bouffant hair style) fingered his worry beads (beads designed to bring relaxation) while leaning on a set of ape hangers (motorcycle handlebars).

There's a credibility gap (apparent disparity) here somewhere said a gricer (railway enthusiast) who happened along. Perhaps it's a ripoff.

A weenie-bopper, young girl who follows rock or pop) heard him bad mouth the others and laughed.

"We've got it all together (are free from anxiety) said a voice from the crowd.

"Bleep, bleep bleep (censor)," said the gricer.

"Why don't you call a whirlypig (police helicopter)," taunted a voice in the crowd.

"Heavy, heavy, heavy pleasing)," chimed his mates.

And so on and so on.

Ever wonder why you don't understand the conversation around the dinner table anymore, parents? The answer seems clear.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

January 22, 1945

Several local gasoline venders have been wondering how the transition period between the time of the new licence purchase and the use of new ration books on April was to be handled. The local licence issuer states the number of the old marker should appear on the new licence card and the motorist need only show his vehicle licence permit to prove he is using the proper gas ration coupons.

Dentists are having to set appointments ahead from two to three months. Scarcity of dentists in Prince Edward caused a heavy influx of patients from that district - for a long period Prince Edward County did not have even one practising dentist. Then, too, people have plenty of ready cash and are willing to spend it on this necessary personal service.

Case Of An Unlisted Number

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

My wife died quite suddenly Dec. 28. My sister in Belleville has an unlisted phone. They would not give me her number, but they sure want us to use their phones.

They at last agreed to call the police in Belleville after I got quite displeased. I want to thank the police in Belleville and St. Thomas for the way they helped me, the co-operation was wonderful.

Thanks for printing this. Excuse my writing as I have had a stroke in my right arm and am just starting to write again.

Municipal Ambulances Are Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's health ministry will recommend to Metropolitan Toronto that it "get rid of internal competition for business" and unify ambulance service under municipal control, Health Minister Frank Miller said Tuesday.

Mr. Miller said the province would provide $360,000 to buy out five independent ambulance services in Metropolitan Toronto.

Supervisors of existing private ambulance services would be hired by the municipality and an annual saving of $200,000 would be realized by centralizing service, a 154-page report for the ministry states.

The report, which cost $40,000, was commissioned following criticism of delays in ambulance arrivals at accident scenes.

The consultants studied ambulance systems in Dallas, Chicago and New York.

ARREST 149 MERCHANTS

CAIRO (AP) — Cairo police said they arrested 149 wholesale hashish merchants in a campaign to rid the Egyptian capital of narcotic dealings. Police did not say how much hashish was confiscated.

THE WORRY WART

St. Bernard Is On Trial

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — A Stroud, Ont. man has been ordered to appear in provincial court March 19 to show cause why his 240-pound St. Bernard dog should not be destroyed.

Barrie lawyer John Livingston, representing Lionel Hinkley and the dog, Winston Churchill, said in court Tuesday: "The dog is in protective custody out of the province to ensure nothing happens."

He would not elaborate.

Mr. Hinkley was not in court. He had been ordered to appear in court here Jan. 14 after Brent Dickey, 11, of nearby Stroud needed 200 stitches after a dog attack near his home.

Charged under the Vicious Dog Act, Mr. Hinkley will be required to show cause as to why the dog should not be destroyed. The case was remanded Jan. 14 to Tuesday to set a trial date.

Civil Servants Accept Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Employees in the general services category of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) have narrowly voted to accept a government offer of a five-per-cent, across-the-board wage increase for 1975.

CSAO president C. J. Darrow said in a statement Tuesday that the workers voted 51.22 per cent to accept the offer.

A two-year contract between the CSAO and government, which expires at the end of this year, provides for a seven-per-cent pay increase for the 18,009 civil servants during the second year. They include secretarial and clerical staff.

The government last month offered to revise the contract to give the employees an additional five-per-cent pay increase, to offset cost-of-living increases not anticipated when the contract was negotiated.

Of the 11,151 CSAO members eligible to vote, 6,248 sent back their ballots unmarked, 3,128 voted to accept the government offer, 2,978 rejected it and 142 ballots were spoiled.

The union claims the increase, amounting to 12 per cent for the year, will not meet the inflation rate. Mr. Darrow said in a letter Tuesday to Eric Winkler, chairman of the management board of cabinet, that the government is "playing with dynamite."

The CSAO president said in the statement: "The government, in response to our request to negotiate, merely pointed out that there was no legal obligation on government to reopen the contract and therefore would not negotiate."

Ann Landers

Marriage As Solution Unrealistic Reader Says

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to your answer to the 26-year-old woman who had been married four times, had five nervous breakdowns, two children, another on the way, and was considering marriage to a 24-year-old man. Anyone with such a history at 26 must have had a load of personal difficulties which contributed to her marital and emotional breakdowns.

Unless some significant progress has been made in working out these difficulties, it is unrealistic to expect that a fifth marriage would turn out any better than the first four.

Your advice—"Grab him"—seemed totally misdirected. You never even raised any of the important issues, such as: Is the woman receiving ongoing treatment at the present time? Is the man similar to any of her previous husbands (or her father)? Has HE been married before? Does he have a psychiatric history? Sorry, but you blew it, doll.—A Social Work Student

Dear Student: You are right. I did. Thank you for pointing out the inadequacy of my response. The reader was certainly entitled to a better answer than I GAVE HER, AND I appreciate your letting me know it.

Dear Miss Landers: I have been a housekeeper for a wealthy woman for four years, but I am not allowed to answer the door or the telephone. If an appliance is broken, I am not supposed to mention it because such things irritate her. ("They don't make things like they used to.")

I must serve meals seven days a week—breakfast at 8:00 a.m., lunch at 12:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. If I announce a meal four minutes early I am told: "You are four minutes ahead of schedule."

On days when madame drinks a little more than usual she doesn't respond to the dinner call until 7:15 or 7:30 p.m. By then the food is dried out. She then complains that it is inedible.

This is a good-paying job, but is it worth the money if I get ulcers from aggravation? What do you advise?—Heading For Loonsville

Dear Heading: Madame is not playing with a full deck. What's more, there is no way one can rationalize with a disturbed person who has the added problem of alcoholism.

Get another job even if it means less money. Incidentally, honey nobody should have to work seven days a week. Lincoln freed the slaves in 1863.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually I can think my way through to a logical conclusion, but this "problem" is too close to my feelings and I need an outside opinion. Yours. Please help.

I've been seeing a psychiatrist for two years. He has helped me a great deal. Not only do I consider him a fine doctor but a good friend.

My father has been dead for five years. I was never very close to my father but I miss him. My psychiatrist has helped me think of my father in a more kindly light. Now the question: I plan to be married in a few months. Do you believe it would be proper to ask my psychiatrist to give me away at the wedding? I have two brothers and an uncle, but I feel much closer to my doctor than to any of my male relatives. What do you say, Ann?—Doing Fine

Dear Doing: Ask a brother or your uncle to do the honors. By all means invite your doctor as a guest, but it would not be appropriate for him to occupy such a prominent position in your wedding when you have living male relatives.

Doris Clark

All People Equal in God's Eyes

Dear Doris: I read the letter from a lady whose daughter is bringing home her husband who is of a different race and knows the reaction from relatives will be explosive. It reminds one of a talk I had to do for our ministry school to show that we should all overcome racial, national, social prejudice.

I will list a few things here which we must remember. First of all we should remember that God made out of one man every nation on this earth and therefore we are all related. Secondly, all of us are sinners no matter what race, color, nationality, or station in life and therefore all have to depend on the ransom sacrifice of Jesus Christ.

Then we should also remember that it isn't all whites or all blacks, etc., that will be spared through the Great Tribulation but the Bible tells us they are taken from "all nations, tribes, people and tongues."

I would like to conclude with one last thought: If all people are equal in God's eyes, should they not be equal in ours?

All Are Equal.

Dear All: You did some deep thinking In many ways we need to realize our relatedness — as members of the human race, as persons equal in the sight of God, as creatures who can love, work, live together. And that it is up to all of us to make a good job of it — regardless of what may be our individual ideas about assorted theological creeds.

Confidential to Orange Blossom: It is next to impossible to convince a jealous husband that you have always been faithful to him. Your husband needs help, both with his drinking problem and with his attitude to you and the family.

See if you can get him to accompany you, for counselling, to your nearest family agency. If he won't go, go by yourself for help in coping with your problem.

(Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope for private reply.)

Someday She'll Be Captain

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Elizabeth Ross, a 19-year-old mariner from Chatham, N.B., was never asked to go with her shipmates when they went ashore.

Miss Ross said she didn't mind too much as her main purpose for being aboard the British cargo ship Samantha M was to serve some of the sea time she will need to qualify for her captain's ticket.

She is in the second year of the nautical science program at Newfoundland's College of Fisheries, Navigation, Marine Engineering and Electronics. She is the first woman to take the course and the only female in a class of 13.

As part of the first year she was required to spend three months at sea. The 12 male members of the class had no berths. It wasn't easy for Miss Ross.

"Many ships were just afraid to take a woman on board and offered the excuse that there were no female accommodations.

"Others just didn't even bother to reply to my application."

She wound up aboard the Samantha M, a vessel on charter to a linerboard mill at Stephenville, Nfld.

Except for a three-week period when the second engineer's wife was aboard, Miss Ross was the only woman among 11 British deck and engineroom officers and 15 Spanish crew members.

She said the captain had been in contact with female seafarers before and was willing to have her as a cadet to stand watches with the first mate.

After a few weeks the officers and crew treated her as "just another person on the ship."

Before leaving the vessel at the end of September to return to classes Miss Ross asked some of the crew if they had disliked having her aboard.

The only thing they objected to was that she didn't get dressed up and become "more ladylike" after working hours.

She said she became interested in the sea at an early age and during the summer in the years 1969-1971 sailed with her brother in a small fishing craft off the New Brunswick coast.

Aboard the Samantha M she had a private cabin near the bridge with a shower and washroom.

"I'm not going to sea because I'm a woman's libber or just to prove a point.

"It's my career and I love it."

No More Galloping

Food Frivolity 'Obscene' Graham Kerr Says Now

OTTAWA (CP) — Times and food prices have changed since Graham Kerr did his Galloping Gourmet television shows in 1970.

His new series Take Kerr, produced here, will reflect everyone's growing concern with eating economical and nutritious meals.

"There is no comparison between this series and the other one'" said the show's producer, Treena Kerr, who is also Graham's wife.

"The Galloping Gourmet shows were for fun and entertainment, we spared no expense in the dishes we made," she said.

The new series has a different format. There are no silly jokes, wine-sipping or live audiences. The four-minute shows will be sold to television stations to be included in early news programs, talk shows and afternoon features.

"When we all start driving big cars again and don't have to worry about how much the gas costs I'll start jumping over chairs again," said Graham, "but until then, frivolity as far as food goes, would be an obscenity."

He said he will deal with one specific topic in each show—how to decant wine, why left-over meat is a waste of money, how a working couple can organize their time and budget to eat better, or what gourmet cooking gadgets you would never use.

A reporter who sat in on a video-taping session at the CJOH-TV studios here saw that things do not always go smoothly.

Graham said a day-and-a-half worth of production had been lost through technical oversights. No one was looking forward to the overtime required to finish shooting on time.

At the end of one show he realized he had made a mistake in his figures and that hamburger was not as cheap as the 1.1 cents an ounce he had calculated.

It was literally back to the drawing board for Graham, who muttered as he went, "If this keeps up I'll have to take up with the dry white."

From her vantage point in the screening room where she could watch monitors and see exactly how the taping would look at home, Mrs. Kerr discussed mistakes with the floor director, Steve Watts.

One could hear her shrill voice through his earphones cross the studio floor.

"Darling, it's still not right."

"Darling," said the floor director to Graham, "We'll just have to tape it again."

Then Mrs. Kerr herself bounded into the studio, loudly urging hangers-on, reporters included, to leave. She answered a few questions and ended by saying everything was in such a muddle and there was still so much more for them to do.

Camping Banned

AMSTERDAM (AP) — City council has outlawed sleeping in the Vondelpark, an open-air gathering place for young visitors to the Netherlands since 1971. A council spokesman said the step was taken because of rising crime and hard-drug use.

Women Police Officers Debated in Sweden

STOCKHOLM (AP) —"Get the women out of the patrol cars," a superintendent of a Stockholm police squad demanded last summer, as he circulated a petition among fellow policemen to ban female police from radio patrol duty.

Fifty signed and a heated debate flared in equality-conscious Sweden.

Supt. Goesta Soederstroem's demand caused widespread publicity and brought angry reactions.

"The opinion that women are no good at exercising force says a good deal about the men who signed the list, a great deal more than they are probably aware of," wrote columnist Gudrun Hjelte.

As is so often the case in Sweden the laws and the government's official stand on controversial issues are more radical than present attitudes. This goes for the acceptance of women in the traditionally male police force.

The debate died at the policemen's union congress in early September when Attorney-General Lennart Geijer firmly stated that "we need more women policemen and we do not wish to exclude women from certain duties such as patrolling."

It used to be that policemen in radio cars were considered the "super-cops" of the force.

What stirred old-timer Soederstroem into action was the news that a young policewoman, Lisbeth Gauffin, 25, had been appointed commander of a car crew.

"Women cannot handle situations when violence occurs; she will be a danger to her colleagues," he argued.

But Miss Gauffin's boss backed her and so did her union branch in Stockholm. She made better marks on a special emergency test than did most of her male colleagues, said the head of the Skaerholmen police, where she is employed.

So she went back to work as if nothing had happened. After four years on the force with exactly the same training as male policemen she considered herself as fit for patrol duty as they.

"It's all nonsense," she said. "During all my years I have never been in a situation where I had to use violence."

Police instructions declare that violence is the last thing a policeman should resort to.

According to my experience it is rather an advantage to be a woman in this job," she said. "My sex has a psychologically dampening effect on people. Men are brought up not to hit women."

This was confirmed by the Stockholm Police School's psychology teacher.

Granola Brightens Up Breakfasts And Snacks

Not too long ago, few people had ever heard of granola.

The highly nutritious mixture of toasted grains, seeds, nuts and dried fruits was known only to vegetarians and young people.

But now cereal manufacturers have hopped on the health food wagon, and are having great success selling crunchy products which claim to be "pure food", "back to nature" and "full of old-fashioned goodness".

Although the commercially available granola cereals are tasty, and better for you than more refined and processed cereals, they are much more expensive as well.

In order to make your own granola, you must purchase some ingredients you would normally not have on hand. But even though the initial expenditure may be high, you will save a good deal of money over a long period of time.

Family taste and budget will dictate the type of granola you decide to make. Here are six recipes of varying complexity which you can adapt to your needs.

Many of the ingredients are obtainable in supermarkets, but you may have to visit a health food store for items such as flax or pumpkin seeds, and special flours made from soybeans, barley, millet or brown rice.

One word of caution to weight watchers. Granola is terribly good for you, but it is also terribly high in calories. Go easy on the amount you eat. Two or three tablespoons, mixed with milk, yoghurt or fruit, is sufficient for anyone.

GRANOLA 1

seven cups uncooked rolled oats
one cup wheat germ
⅓ cup sesame seeds
½ cup sunflower seeds, shelled (unsalted)
one cup unsweetened shredded coconut
¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup honey
½ cup hot water
½ cup cooking oil
one tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla

Thoroughly combine rolled oats, wheat germ, sesame and sunflower seeds and coconut. Stir remaining ingredients together, and combine with dry mixture.

Turn into a baking pan and bake at 325 degrees for at least one hour, until lightly browned and crunchy.

Cool thoroughly and store in plastic bags or covered jars, in a cool dark place or in the freezer.

GRANOLA 2

five cups rolled oats
one cup milk powder
one cup chopped almonds
one cup raisins
one cup sesame seeds
one cup sunflower seeds (unsalted)
one cup soy flour
one cup oil
one cup honey

For best results, do not use "instant" oats, but instead use the heaviest "slowest" ones you can find.

Mix all the dry ingredients together, and then add the oil and honey. Turn into a shallow baking pan, and bake at 300 degrees for at least an hour, stirring the mixture frequently for even browning.

Store in sealed containers as for the Granola 1 recipe.

GRANOLA 3

six cups rolled oats
½ cup sesame seeds
one cup unsweetened coconut
¾ cup sunflower seeds (unsalted)
½ cup vegetable oil
¾ cup honey
one cup raisins

Combine all ingredients except raisins in a large bowl. Mix well and place on two cookie trays. Bake in 200 degree oven for one hour. Stir occasionally.

Remove from oven, cool. Stir in raisins. Store in covered container for up to one month.

GRANOLA 4

½ cup ground almonds
one cup corn flour
12 cups oatmeal
½ cup chopped dates
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup unsweetened coconut
½ cup soya flour
one cup corn meal
one cup chopped walnuts or hazelnuts
½ cup sesame seeds
½ cup pumpkin seeds (unsalted)
½ cup wheat germ

Stir in these dry ingredients together before adding the following mixture:

½ cup date sugar
½ cup honey
one cup water
one cup sesame seed oil

Combine thoroughly. If the mixture is too dry, add a little more oil and water. If too moist, add more oatmeal.

Spread thinly on large cookie sheet. Bake for one hour at 225 degrees, or until light brown.

This, or any other granola, is excellent mixed with warm cinnamon-flavored applesauce and warm milk.

GRANOLA 5

one cup wheat flour
½ cup barley flour
one cup millet flour
one cup soy flour
½ cup white or brown rice flour
½ cup rye flour
one tbsp. salt
three tbsp. sesame seed
⅓ cup oil
¼ cup honey
½ cup water
one cup oatmeal
½ cup corn meal

Mix together flours, salt and sesame seed. Then add oil, honey and water and mix into granules. Bake in moderate 325 degree oven until nicely browned, stirring occasionally. Turn off heat and allow to cool in oven.

GRANOLA 6

four cups rolled oats
1½ cups shredded unsweetened coconut
one cup wheat germ
one cup chopped nuts
one cup sunflower seeds (unsalted)
½ cup sesame seeds
½ cup flax seed
½ cup bran
one cup ground roasted soybeans
½ cup oil
½ cup honey
½ tsp. vanilla

Heat oil, honey and vanilla and add to dry ingredients and mix well. Spread on oiled cookie sheet and bake at 325 about 15 minutes.

ICEBERG GRANOLA SALAD

one large head western iceberg lettuce three-quarter cup shredded carrot three-quarter cup sliced celery three tablespoons chopped green pepper
Honey Herb Dressing
1½ cups granola

Core, rise and thoroughly drain lettuce. Refrigerate in disposable plastic bag or plastic criper Prepare carrot, celery and green pepper; chill. Mix dressing.

When ready to serve, cut lettuce into bitesize chunks to measure 6 cups and turn into chilled salad bowl with carrot, celery and green pepper. Top with granola. Toss with dressing and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Honey Herb Dressing: Measure ½ cup corn oil, one-third cup lemon juice, 1½ tablespoons honey, 1 tablespoon onion salt, 1½ teaspoons grated orage peel, ¾ teaspoon each spearmint flakes and marjoram (crumbled) and ¼ teaspoon pepper in a small jar. Cover and shake well. Shake again just before using. Makes about 1 cup dressing.

Making your own granola is easy, and takes less than two hours from start to finish. You can vary the amounts of ingredients according to your family's budget and particular tastes. Shown here are corn oil, honey, wheat germ, oatmeal and grain flours, peanuts, hazel nuts and brazil nuts, apricots, dates and raisins, unsweetened coconut and brown sugar. The finished batch yielded 14 cups of granola at a cost of approximately $2.50. Purchase of all the ingredients came to $8, and enough was left over from the first batch to make at least 30 more cups of granola. This home-made granola is less expensive than commercial prepared crunchy cereals.

Books By And About Women

DOCTOR'S WIFE IN PAPUA

by Margaret Spencer.

To the northeast of Papua lies Ferguson Island which is administered by Australia. It was to this isolated island and to the medical station at Mapamoiwa that Margaret Spencer and her doctor-husband came. There they found a group of dedicated young Australians working courageously among thirty thousand primitive natives only recently removed from cannibalism and headhunting.

Their special task was malaria control which entailed visiting the numerous scattered islands and settlements. They learned to understand the people and the problems of evolution from stone age savagery to modern self-government.

Hunting, fishing, and living with the natives provides a valuable insight into a little-known area of the world and its inhabitants.

Mrs. Spencer simply, yet knowledgeably, describes not only the island and its troubled history but also every aspect of the daily life of the hunters and fishermen. There are fascinating glimpses of the animal and bird life and of the strange customs and rituals of the natives. Vividly depicted, too, is the unending struggle against disease, malnutrition, and the effects of sorcery.

Now that civilization has failed to reach only a fraction of the earth's surface, this account of life on a remote island assumes particular significance and will be of interest to the layman and the anthropologist alike.

This book is available in the Corby Library.

People and Events

VOLUNTEER BUREAU

The Central Volunteer Bureau will hold its annual meeting February 19 at 8 p.m. at the Park Room of the Four Seasons Hotel. Special programs run by the Volunteer Bureau will be discussed at the meeting.

HISTORICAL MEETING

The first meeting of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society of 1975 will be held January 25 in the Council Chambers, Town Hall, Napanee at 8 p.m.

The county's new museum at the County Gaol Building will be the special topic presented by architect Wilfred Sorenson.

MARMORA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Percy Carman was hostess for the January meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute meeting.

The president opened the meeting by reading the motto "As the resolution is, so will our progress be."

Mrs. Carman, resolutions convenor, gave a paper and brought in two resolutions which members agreed should be sent to the district level.

The members decided to sponsor the 4H girls for their banquet at Sacred Heart Church on January 17.

A report of the 48th annual Trent Valley Convention held at Cobourg November 14 and 15 was given by the delegate, Mrs. Carman. The theme was "To-day's Women is Tomorrow's Women's Institute." More than 200 were registered.

The 1975 convention will be held in Campbellford.

A donation was given to the Canadian Mental Health Association towards Christmas gifts for the patients.

Contests at the close of the meeting were won by Ruth Moffatt and Letha Colden.

Overwatering Can Kill!

Too much tender loving care, if it includes too much watering, can kill houseplants. Avoid overwatering during the winter when there is little sunlight and plants are growing at maintenance levels rather than putting on new growth, says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, J.K. Hughes.

Many gardeners give their plants a thorough watering whenever the soil feels dry to the touch. This saturates the entire soil ball and allows water to run from the bottom of the pot.

"Unless the soil mixture is so porous and well-drained that water does not lay at the top of the pot for more than two seconds, this procedure should not be followed," warns Mr. Hughes. Excessive watering of plants in heavy, poorly drained mixtures causes high salt buildups and plant death.

To overcome the low relative humidity in most homes during winter, occasionally mist the foliage of plants, or place a tray of water close to them. Do not attempt to make up for low relative humidity by overwatering.

THE BERMUDA TRIANGLE Charles Beritz.

In the Western Atlantic between Bermuda and Florida lies an area known as the Bermuda Triangle. It is a disturbing place of unexplained mysteries. More than 100 planes and ships have literally vanished into thin air there, and more than 1,000 lives have been lost in the last 26 years. Mr. Berlitz's book does not solve the mysteries, but offers some very intriguing theories from experts and several eerie tales from people who have escaped from what has been long known as the "Devil's Triangle."

THE BOOK OF KELLS - Text by Francoise Henry.

'The Book of Kells', the illuminated gospel book which is among the masterpieces of European art, has until now only been enjoyed by those with access to the manuscript now kept in Trinity College, Dublin. The present volume makes it available to art lovers in general. Kells was a centre of learning in the Irish Church from the sixth century, its monastery being founded by St. Columba around 563 'The Book of Kells' was probably written and illuminated there in the early eighth or ninth century. Much of the Book's fascination lies in its very small scale detail, showing the amazing eye and technique of the artists of a thousand years ago.

SIX WAR YEARS, 1939-1945. - Barry Broadfoot.

Barry Broadfoot interviewed hundreds of men and women across Canada, asking them what they had done in the war. From their answers he has created a mosaic of Canadian life during World War 11. Here are the memories of those who went off to fight, and the ones who stayed behind. There are the patriots, the children, the women in uniform and the war widows. The POW's. With humor and sadness they remember the horror, the illogic and a little of the nobility of those years.

COOKING FOR THE FREEZER - Myra Walde.

There are recipes from all over the world, designed to be frozen and used at your convenience. With the high cost of food and so many working wives and mothers, there is greater interest in easier and better ways in preparing meals, the basic principle being that when you are preparing a dish for one meal, you might just as well prepare enough for two and keep the second one in a freezer for last minute guests. The recipes cover every type of food from appetizers through desserts.

THE JOHN A. MACDONALD ALBUM - Lena Newman.

This book is the result of five years research and is a pictorial history of a great Canadian. His private life was as tragic as his public life was flamboyant. We find out what he ate, wore and drank, the women who loved him and the children he adored. There are numerous examples of his famous wit, plus letters, songs, diaries and recipes - linked by a vivid text. A charming portrait of a most lovable and unforgettable human being.

THE BOOK OF CANADIAN ANTIQUES - Donald Blake Webster, ed.

A book that provides an authoritative and up-to-date guide to collecting Canadian antiques. It is beautifully illustrated and the photographs represent the finest collection of pictures of Canadian antiques ever assembled. Written by nineteen leading experts, there is advice on the problems of care and identification, fakery and imitation.

Sounded Desperate

BAMBERG, West Germany (AP) — Mary Jo Schwarz is so popular with her fifth-graders they asked Santa Claus to get her "a real cute and handsome boyfriend" she could marry. Miss Schwarz, an attractive brunette from Belleville, Ill., teaches at the U.S. Army dependents elementary school in Bamberg. She told the Stars and Stripes newspaper the request made her sound a "little desperate."

Giza Pyramid Baffles Radar

CAIRO (AP) — After baffling explorers and archeologists for 4,500 years, King Chephren's giant pyramid at Giza has turned back man's most sophisticated attempt to find the king's burial chamber.

An expedition of a dozen American and Egyptian physicists, hoping to use short-range radar waves to see through the pyramid's sides and spot the suspected hidden chamber, gave up the hunt before the expedition reached its halfway point.

They found that the radar signals, transmitted by a 30,000 - volt "sounder," disappeared after travelling only a few feet because of the pyramid's unexpectedly high moisture content, said an official of the American Research Centre in Egypt.

"They've gone back to the drawing board," he said after the Stanford Research Institute — Ain Shams University expedition's abrupt breakup. The group hoped the pyramid's desert location about five miles southwest of Cairo would be a dry and friendly environment to test the revolutionary technique of using radar waves to probe solid objects.

Not all Egyptologists agree that Chephren's burial chamber is "missing." The Italian explorer Giovanni Belozoni in 1818 rediscovered a chamber and empty sarcophagus which many claim is Chephren's only burial vault.

But others think it odd that Chephren would settle for a single, easily accessible vault after his father, Cheops, had built several interconnected chambers inside his pyramid a few hundred yards away.

The mystery is a tantalizing one, for if Chephren's tomb does exist and has not been robbed, its treasures would certainly surpass the rich and now famous treasures of Tutankhamen, a far less powerful king.

Egyptian authorities are anxious to make use of advanced technology in hunting for and making sense of Egypts' haraonic, Greek and Islamic past. There is talk of using infra-red aerial photography to chart ancient sites and of using remote-controlled minicameras to photograph Chephren's tomb—if it is ever found.

A team of physicists from the University of California at Berkeley successfully used "nuclear fingerprinting" to determine exactly where the Colossi of Memnon were quarried. But they could only guess how the 1.5-million-ton hunks of stone were transported 420 miles from Cairo upstream to the ancient city of Thebes.

A University of Pennsylvania Museum project is using a computer to help piece together some 25,000 blocks from the temple of the "heretic king," Akhenaten. The temple was dismantled about 3,300 years ago by Akhenaten's successors who hated the monotheism of the king and his queen, Nefertiti.

Although the computer stores up to 50 bits of information about the parts of scenes depicted on each block, the project's workers say they depend more on their eyes in reassembling the temple from thumbnail-sized photographs of each stone.

Nonetheless, the computer's store of information has already provided grist for several scholarly articles and will keep the project in order as the remaining thousands of pieces in the giant jigsaw puzzle are discovered.

Despite the Stanford-Ain Sham group's failure to make the new radar technique work, the head of the expedition, physicist Lambert Dolphin, is convinced his theory is sound.

Dolphin envisions a more sophisticated model of his signalling device, coupled to a computer and receiver and mounted on a golf cart, travelling over unexcavated sites hunting for the walls of ancient temples and tombs.

"We're not competing with regular archeologists," Dolphin said of his expedition's unorthodox plunge into Egyptology, "but we might be able to tell them: 'We think you should dig here.'"

$654 MILLION BUDGET

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Jordanian government has announced a $654-million budget for 1975.

Israel's Woes Reduce Flow of Immigrants

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's troubled economy, social problems and the danger of Arab terrorism or war in the Middle East are scaring off immigrants, including Jews from the Soviet Union.

About 600 of the 1,700 Jews who arrived in Austria from the Soviet Union last month declined to come to Israel, said Amno Mantever, spokesman for the ministry of absorption, which houses immigrants and finds jobs for them.

"They want to go to Belgium or somewhere else in Europe, or to the United States—anywhere in the Western world," Mantever said in an interview.

He said in the first 10 months of 1973, 26,597 Soviet Jews came to Israel. Only 14,833 came here in the first 10 months of 1974 and the other 2,517 who managed to get out of the Soviet Union were looking for homes elsewhere.

Mantever said one reason for the slump was that the Kremlin had issued fewer exit permits this year.

But other reasons were fears of terrorist raids in Israel, the housing shortage, problems of fitting into the social system and economic troubles.

The Jerusalem Post said some of the Russians who opted to avoid Israel were getting financial aid in Europe from charities such as CARE and Caritas, the Roman Catholic organization, and that "a small number have applied to return to the U.S.S.R."

The Post said the Association of Soviet Immigrants blamed the slowdown on "Israel's failure in the absorption process," and cited red tape and "the endless runaround from one office to another."

State Takes Over Swedish Brewery

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — Swedish beer drinkers—who have just witnessed a state takeover of the country's largest brewery—are wondering what their brew is going to taste like when the government gets through with it.

In a long-awaited move the state has bought up 60 per cent of Sweden's biggest brewery, Pripps AB and, has let it be known this is only the beginning.

For years powerful temperance groups have been pressing the government to crack down on alcoholism.

Beer lovers now fear the state is going to take the fun out of drinking by launching a new and weaker beer ironically called "people's beer" which no one except teetotallers seems to want.

At present there are three different classes of beer sold in Sweden ranging from so-called "light beer" containing about 1.8 per cent alcohol to strong with 4.5 per cent.

The target of temperance groups and social reformers has been middle beer, 3.6 per cent alcohol and the beer most Swedes drink.

URGE WEAKER BEER

A five-party commission appointed to study the alcohol problem has unanimously come out in favor of creating the new people's beer as a substitute for middle beer, containing about three per cent alcohol.

Some dissenters argue that hard liquor and not beer is the crux of the Swedish drinking problem. When Swedish beer and wine consumption is compared with other countries, it is well down on the list. But when statistics on spirits consumption is considered, Sweden and the United States share second place behind Poland.

During the last 10 years the state, through its national wine and liquor monopoly stores, has been going all out to get Swedes off spirits and onto wine.

One of Europe's largest wine importers, Sweden offers some of the lowest prices in the world for high-quality wines. Some experts say you can buy a better and cheaper bottle of French Burgundy in Stockholm than in Paris.

Even today there is still a strong social stigma attached to drinking. Many Swedes, especially those of middle age, seem to have a lingering guilt about drinking instilled in them during the fierce temperance movement which raged here in the early 1920s.

It is common to see rows of Swedes lined up at the counter of the state store shifting nervously about with heads bowed clutching their leather valises in which they secretly stash a purchase.

Naran home recipe plan takes off ugly fat.

The Naran Plan can help you lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. This home recipe weight-control plan is easy to follow and costs little. Go to your drug store and ask for the Naran Reducing Plan. The whole plan is included in every package. The directions are right on the label. Pour the liquid into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed. Take the vitamin supplement included and follow the low calorie weekly food menu.
Your first purchase should show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; reducible pounds and inches of excess fat should disappear from neck, chin, arms, hips, abdomen, calves and ankles. If you are not completely satisfied with your first purchase just return the empty carton for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan to help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears, how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Birthplace of Atomic Science Soon to Close After 101 Years

CAMBRIDGE, England (CP) — The famed Cavendish Laboratory is in its 101st year and in a new building about a mile from the old one where, for all practical purposes, atomic science was born and some of the great of physicists worked.

Since the laboratory was formally opened in 1874 at Cambridge University, one of Britain's two oldest, 20 of its men have won the Nobel Prize, including Lord Rutherford who laid the foundations of nuclear science at McGill University in Montreal.

The laboratory was founded when Britain was at the height of her industrial and imperial development. There was increasing concern about research and education in science.

In the middle of the 19th century the problem of research and education was discussed by the leaders of the nation, including the prime minister, Sir Robert Peel, the Prince Consort and his successor as the Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, the Duke of Devonshire.

The duke belonged to the Cavendish family, an earlier member of which was Henry Cavendish, the great physicist. In his student days at Cambridge he had been second in the mathematical honors degree examination and eighth in classics, and later became one of the greatest of the new industrial magnates.

Cambridge founded its professorship of experimental physics in 1871. The university looked for the ablest man to occupy it and engaged James Clerk Maxwell.

He had already achieved his place beside Newton and Faraday as one of the greatest physicists through his discovery of the equations of the electromagnetic field.

The Cavendish Laboratory could not have started with a more serious sense of historical purpose and intellectual tradition. Maxwell was, however, in delicate health and died after occupying the professorship for eight years.

Cambridge again searched for the ablest physicist to succeed him. Their choice was the young Lord Rayleigh, a Cambridge man and a landed aristocrat who had done splendid work in his private laboratory and study.

Maxwell and Rayleigh gave the Cavendish a magnificent intellectual start, but a further practical quality was required to convert it into an institution for training experimental physicists. This was suppled by Rayleigh's successor, J. J. Thomson, a brilliant young Cambridge man of Manchester origin.

Thomson began a systematic research into the nature of electricity which in 1897 culminated in the discovery of the electron, for which he won the Nobel award.

The first research student under a new scheme was Ernest Rutherford from New Zealand and another early arrival was Paul Langevin from France. Rutherford soon began to collaborate with Thomson and added an edge to their research which contributed to its ultimate success.

Systematic attention to experimental physics led to major advances in technique. The most extraordinary of these was the invention by C. T. R. Wilson of the cloud chamber for revealing the tracks of atomic particles. Rutherford described this as "the most original apparatus in the whole history of physics."

The first period of the Cavendish ended in 1914, with the outbreak of the First World War. Thomson was approaching retirement and Cambridge naturally wanted Rutherford to succeed him. After assisting Thomson with the discovery of the electron he had left for Montreal, and then Manchester. Here he pursued his own line of radioactive research, founding nuclear physics and accomplishing the first disintegration of an atom.

Rutherford was appointed director of the Cavendish in 1919. He carried it to the apotheosis of its fame in 1932 when Jamer Chadwick discovered the neutron which provided the key to the release of atomic energy. J. D. Cockroft first disintegrated atoms by electrical machinery, thus effectively starting large-scale atomic physics.

Rutherford died in 1937. Yet even before he had arrived at Cambridge in 1919 the dawn of major discoveries of nearly of major discoveries of nearly half a century later had already broken.

In 1912 a Cavendish student, W. L. Bragg, saw in his imagination how the recently discovered diffraction of x-rays could be applied to the analysis of the atomi structure of crystalline substances.

Bragg twice had the task of succeeding Rutherford, first at Manchester in 1919 and then at the Cavendish in 1938. He fostered the application of x-ray analysis first to minerals and then to the materials of living substances, providing the conditions in which other research men made discoveries in biology as important as those which had been achieved in nuclear physics.

Such was the importance of some discoveries that in 1972 the title of Astronomer-Royal was dissociated after nearly 300 years from Greenwich Observatory and bestowed on Martin Ryle of the Cavendish.

After Bragg's retirement from the Cavendish in 1953 he was succeeded by N. F. Mott, and Mott by A. B. Pippard in 1971. Under their direction the Cavendish has expanded, especially in the study of the solid state.

Both Mott and Pippard have been deeply engaged in conceiving and designing the new Cavendish Laboratory. It is essentially a product of the new scientific and technologial age. Parts of it were completed and occupied in 1973.

The new Cavendish has cost more than £3,000,000. It is built in large inter-connected blocks named after Mott, Bragg and Rutherford and illustrates the change from the craftsman "string and sealing war" tradition of the old laboratory to modern highly-developed technique.

Twenty Cavendish men have received Nobel awards since the opening of Cavendish Laboratory at Cambridge in 1874. The electron, the neutron and the disintegration of atoms by electrical machinery were all discovered in its research rooms. Photo shows Mott and Bragg Buildings of the new Cavendish Laboratory, part of which were completed and occupied in 1973. (CP Photo)

Six Finished

In the spring of 1898 more than 1,500 men and 3,000 horses set out for the Klondike from Ashcroft in southern British Columbia. Only six of the men reached the gold fields.

Leeches In Demand

CHICAGO (AP) — Pharmacist Harvey Snitman's specialty, live leeches, has doubled in sales despite inflation that has pushed the cost to $5 each.

"I average selling about three a day," said Snitman, manager of Sargent's Drug Store which has sold leeches ever since it opened in 1852.

"You know, in the old days it was common for the kings of England to be leeched—bled," said Snitman. "And in the 1930s managers would take their fighters to a barber shop or a pharmacy to have leeches clear up their black eyes.

"They are still used for medical reasons by a lot of people who think if they were good enough for kings they are good enough for getting bad blood out of themselves. Our best customer is an elderly man from Iowa who comes in once a month and buys 15. We sell about 100 every 35 days."

Snitman said the supply of the long, wormlike creatures that snap into a short, fat disc when they take on their Dracula-like chores, began drying up about a year ago.

"I was getting them from a New York importer and selling them for $3.50. Then, like a lot of other merchandise, the supply was cut off. I wrote the universities of Poland and Berlin and was told they couldn't help me find a market.

"Finally I got one—R. W. Brooks Co. in London, England. I had to buy them in lots of 100. The cost of air freight, customs and loss of leeches dying en route boosted the retail price to $5. There's not much markup—it's more of a service. Back in 1966 we were selling them for $2 each."

Millions of Mice In Rhodesia's Maize

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — Millions of mice have invaded Rhodesia's high-yield maize land about 125 miles northwest of Salisbury and started a conservation controversy.

Farmers have been laying poison to combat the mice, which have attacked the newly-germinated plants and dug up the newly-planted seed.

As one farmer said: "The mice dug up the seed almost as fast as it was planted."

But the department of national parks and wildlife management said the laying of poison was the worst thing that could happen.

"There is absolutely no point in using poison," a spokesman said. "It only makes matters worse.

"The best thing farmers can do is nothing. The plague will destroy itself."

Faced with the plague farmers have been spreading poison mixed in ground-up corn around the borders of their fields.

The result has been that mice predators have been killed.

"Before this operation is over some areas will have lost their snakes, certain large lizards, all birds of prey including the owls, particularly the bar owl, the small cats and mongooses," the spokesman said.

"The tragedy is that population explosions like this attract predators from neighboring land so that farmers who have not used poison may also lose their predators."

With the loss of the normal predation the huge numbers of mice will last longer.

Dr. Reay Smithers, the country's leading expert on rodents, said fluctuation in mouse and rat population is normal. Their numbers increase as food becomes more available ad they decease as the food supplies drop off.

Uusually favorable conditions bring on a plague and if the rodents are left alone it's followed by a sudden slump to below the usual population level. Then numbers recover slowly.

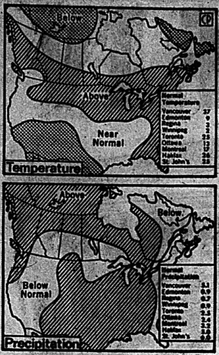
Mice in massive numbers show disturbed patterns of behavior They eat each other and show other signs of stress which act as a builtin check. Poisoning helps ease the pressure and makes the available food last longer than it would if no poison was laid.

A government spokesman said last year's excellent rainy season produced a good grain crop but also delayed its harvesting. The result was food was more plentiful for the mice and available for longer than usual. This probably accounted for the plague.

It's thought that two species of mice are involved, the striped field mouse and the multimammate. The latter has a litter of 24 and doubles its population in weeks.

GRAIN HARVEST HIGHER

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea harvested seven million tons of grain in 1974, an increase of 31 per cent over last year, says a Pyongyang broadcast monitored here. Despite bad weather, the broadcast said, North Korean farmers were able to meet production targets two years ahead of schedule.



Warm Weather

Above or near normal temperatures throughout Canada are expected for the next 30 days, according to the longrange outlook of the United States Weather Bureau. Precipitation is expected to be below normal in Atlantic provinces and portions of Ontario and the in the rest of Canada will be above normal. This is not a specific forecast and changes may occur. Brewmaster Now Turns Out Glass Sculptures

HALIFAX (CP) — The glass in the bottles is about the only link between Gilbert van Ryckevorsel's previous profession, making beer, and his current work.

The mirror-glass sculptures that now occupy him are beginning to show up more and more frequently in the lobbies of hotels and banks and at art exhibitions.

They promise to make him more widely known than he ever would have been in the brewmaster's trade he learned in Holland.

Before coming to Canada, he had sold some soft sandstone carvings to friends and he became interested in Eskimo soapstone when he worked in a Montreal brewery.

Moving to Halifax, where soapstone was unavailable, he first worked with wood and then looked into the artistic design potential of styrofoam, an insulating material. This led him out of the brewing business into a free-lance designing career.

A casual encounter with a glass dealer in neighboring Dartmouth led to Mr. van Ryckevorsel's most successful artistic venture.

"I saw him cutting up scrap glass for disposal and thoight what a beautiful medium it would be with which to work."

Prefer Civilization

KRIVA RIJEKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Milos Stupar, 45, has four boars in his pig sty that have accepted the regime imposed on them. Milos says they have no desire to return to the hazards of forest life. They joined his pigs in the forest while still young and never left them. However, every fall, when acorns fall off trees, the boars stay in the forest for three days and then return to civilization, Milos said.

Fake Flood to Test New EMO Disaster Plan

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

There will be a flood in Belleville February 11, but Emergency Measures Organization co-ordinator Angus Duffy has a plan that he believes will keep damage and casualities to a minimum.

Col. Duffy points out that it may be two or three flood seasons before the city's flood control dams are completed.

"Last year in western Ontario, despite far more elaborately controlled systems than ours, severe flooding took place. Subsequent investigations proved lack of knowledge of the Flood Plan that had been set up, ineptitude, neglect of responsibilities and other damaging factors that we plan to avoid here."

The Feb. 11 "flood" will be a test of Col. Duffy's new flood plan, which takes the place of previous plans. The exercise will take place at 7:30 p.m., centred at the EMO headquarters in Ben Bleecker Auditorium.

The EMO co-ordinator said the Moira had a history of flooding. Frazil ice, slush or heavy ice conditions, combined with deep snow, sudden thaw or heavy rain could cause flooding in low lying areas.

Since the river runs through the downtown area of Belleville, Col. Duffy said, many essential service could be disruped. In 1936 a flood took out the footbridge and affected Coleman, Everett, James and Mary streets to the Bay on the west side of the river. On the east side, Front, Bridge, Pinnacle and Church streets were inundated.

"Today," the co-ordinator said, "such flooding would cause heavy property damage and necessitate the evacuation of an estimated 1,500 people from the west side of the river and 500 from the east.

The Feb. 11 exercise will be based on the new nine-page Belleville Flood Plan prepared by Col. Duffy. Welfare centres for evacuees will be set up at Queen Mary and St. Michael's schools.

The entire plan will be tested under simulated flood conditions, beginning with upriver flood watchers through to rescue groups, radio communications and ending with a discussion of the effectiveness of the plan.

Buddhist Temple Now Part of City

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville attained the rare distinction Tuesday of becoming one of the few Canadian cities with a Tibetan Buddhist temple.

The shrine was dedicated Tuesday afternoon by The Venerable Chogyam Trungpa Rinpoche, a distinguished lama now living in the United States. He was assisted by Lama Karma Thinley Rinpoche from Toronto. Belleville's own lama, Gyaltul Dhomang Rinpoche, was taken ill during a visit to the United States and was unable to be present.

The temple fulfills a long-standing desire among Belleville's 60-member Tibetan community for a place where they can practise their religious observances. It is located in a converted garage on the property of Noedup Rongae at 528 Sidney St.

Chogyam Trungpa Rinpoche, who conducted the puja (ceremony) blessing the temple, studied at Oxford University for four years after escaping from Tibet at the time of the Chinese Communist take-over in 1959. He founded a meditation centre in Scotland, then moved to the United States in 1970. He now has about 30 centres in Canada and the United States for the study of Tibetan Lamaism.

The centres in Canada are in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. About half those attending the dedication of Belleville's temple were North American disciples of the lama.

Temple Dedicated

The fourth Tibetan Buddhist temple in Canada was dedicated Tuesday in Belleville for the city's 60-member Tibetan community. The ceremony was conducted by two lamas, The Venerable Chogyam Trungpa Rinpoche, left, and Karma Thinley Rinpoche, assisted by Tenzin Yongdu Rongue of Belleville.

McCrea County Warden For One-year Term

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

William McCrea succeeded in his second successive attempt to win Hastings County's highest political post-for-a-year Tuesday.

The reeve of Hungerford Township was selected warden of Hastings for 1975 Tuesday as a new county council opened its inaugural session.

Reeve McCrea, a beef farmer with a total of 11 years on township councils, last year unsuccessfully contested the office against Reeve Jack McKenzie, Faraday Township, whom he now succeeds.

His competitor for the office this year was Reeve Gordon Wilman, Sidney Township.

The election — adhering to council tradition — was held in caucus when the new councillors assembled for the first time Tuesday.

Warden McCrea's public selection and investiture later in the day also followed long-established council courtesies.

His name was presented to council for election by Reeve Wilman and was formally unanimous.

But both men had first entered their campaign bids on the office a month ago before the 1974 council adjourned.

The ritual public procedure can make selection of the wardenship seem deceptively easy — a fact wryly intimated by County Judge Russell Honey, after he administered the oath of office to the new warden.

"I envy you the ease with which you were elected. . .," said the judge — himself a one-time MP and political campaigner — with tongue-in-cheek. "I was in this business a number of years and "I never had one that easy."

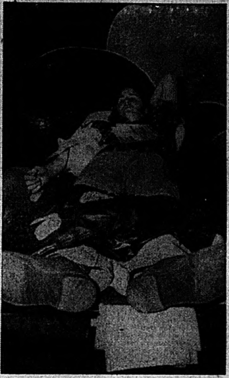
In his inaugural speech Warden McCrea cautioned council it could face a busy year in 1975.

Among topics he noted:

— Labor negotitaions. This year contract talks are due involving three union locals with county employees — road workers, inside office staff and employees at Hastings Manor Home for the Aged.

— Environment. The recent study on future waste management, involving the county, Trenton and Belleville, should not "be forgotten but should be investigated further' so that 'something useful' can be produced.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey called for resumption of informal meetings between the county, city and Trenton which began in 1973, but later lapsed. Such events — involving the administrative and political heads of the municipalities were aimed at heightening understanding between local government neighbors, she said.



Gift of Life

Dave Cunningham, a Communication Studio Techniques student at Loyalist College, waits patiently while giving a pint of blood for the Red Cross Belleville branch blood donor clinic at the college Tuesday afternoon. Clinic chairman Merritt Hackett said 181 students donated, an increase of about 20 over last year.

Demolition Begins For Century Square

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The ring of the wreckers' hammer struck the first note this week in construction of the $5-million Century Square centre slated for the intersection of Bridge and Front streets.

Bill Wills, a principal in the consorteum of businessmen attempting the project, said Tuesday, all notices to vacate the block of business buildings had been served by today and that the group of existing offices, retail outlets and warehouses would be empty by mid March.

Demolition crews began working this week to tear lown the former Barnes Wines store. Demolition of the larger buildings should commence in early February.

Mr. Wills said the project looks healthy and that everything is going according to plan.

The new centre, a major shot of adrenalin for the downtown section, will include two floors of retail space and three floors of office facilities.

Guaranty Trust has been named as one of the centre's anchor tenants. A second of three anchor tenants has been signed but has not yet been announced.

While there has been speculation that tenants will not materialize for the development, Mr. Wills said there has been a number of inquiries and "a number of people interested" but right now "we're working on the major tenants".

Bank's New Processing Centre Speeds Clearing of Deposits

An electronic data processing centre in the same building as the new Royal Bank of Canada branch at Applewood Dr. and Dundas St. E. is the nerve centre of an overnight clearing system for bank customers in a large area of eastern Ontario.

The processing centre, which went into operation earlier this month, introduces automation to the handling of current and personal chequing accounts from branches in an area bounded by Port Hope, Peterborough and Kingston, manager W.E. McDonald said.

Better customer service more flexible hours of business and greater accuracy in accounts are claimed for the Demand Deposit Accounting (DDA) system. Deposit slips and other material are collected from each branch by courier daily, processed overnight by the Belleville centre and returned to the branches the next morning.

The installation was damaged by vandals to the extent of more than $20,000 late in November. The culprits have not been apprehended, but did not delay getting the system into service.

In Ontario, similar processing centres are in operation in Windsor, London and Ottawa and the bank plans to have 25 such centres in operation by 1978.

"Such a system puts Canada ahead of other nations as far as chequing facilities are concerned," said C.N. Downing, deputy general manager of systems and processing operations for the bank. "No other country with anywhere near the same geographic distribution of population gives same-day credit for deposits."

In 1962 the annual volume of cheques handled by the bank was about 700 million. In 1973 this had risen to 1.2 billion — an increase of 75 per cent.

Stolen Cars Switched

City police are seeking a man in his late teens or early 20's who traded one stolen car for another in two separate incidences Monday and Tuesday.

Police said today a man took out a 1971 Volvo for a test drive Monday from B and D Motors at 348 Front St. and failed to return with it.

On Tuesday, a man matching the same description drove into Elliott Motors at 366 North Front St. with the missing Volvo and asked to try out a late-model Pontiac Astra.

He left the Volvo there and failed to return with the Astra, police said.

Russell Resumes Post

Ald. Paul Russell Tuesday night was elected to his sixth consecutive year as chairman of the city's parks board.

His re-election came at the first joint meeting of the year for both parks and recreation-arena boards.

Ald. George Zegouras began his first year as chairman of recreation.

R. W. Phillips was named vice-chairman of parks and Joan Guthrie, vice-chairman of recreation.

Ald. Russell also was appointed parks board member to the Harbor Improvements Committee, now a standing committee set up this week by city bylaw. The new 10-member committee has Ald. Stu Meeks as chairman.

Offices Entered

City police are investigating a break-in early today at the offices of Drs. G.E. Green and H.F. Williamson at 262 Dundas St. E. where $42 in cash was stolen.

A police spokesman said today a thief or thieves took $40 from Dr. Williamson's cash box and $2 from a cash box in Dr. Green's office. Nothing else was disturbed, he said.

Entry was gained by breaking the glass in a rear door.

No Change in Tax Service For Quinte-area Residents

Federal income tax department officials here emphasized Tuesday the future move of their audit division to the Royal Bank Building on Applewood Dr. will not change their service to the public at their main office in the federal building at 11 Station St.

A spokesman said the department is concerned earlier published reports about the switch might have confused customers into assuming information services were also going to the new location.

The audit division is not connected with the public service, pointed out the official. "All public inquiries, information and other services will continue at 11 Station St.," he said. "You can still call 962-8611."

The transfer will take place this weekend, and the reason is more space. The move is being undertaken to give the remainder of the main office additional room in which to work, explained the spokesman.

He also noted personalized income tax returns have been mailed out and if anyone has not received one, they can contact the main office or pick up a return at the post office. April 30 is the final day for mailing in completed returns.

Board Votes to Continue Trustee-parent Meetings

Trustee-parent committees, an avenue of communication between policy-makers and parents, will continue in 1975, following a narrow vote in favor of them at the first regular meeting of the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board.

The committees were set up in each separate school last year to acquaint parents with programs and practices. But, indicated Trustee Joseph Chapelle, they were poorly attended in Belleville.

Mr. Chapell, a member of the St. Michael's School committee, voted against the continuance of the committees.

"I can't see parents coming out unless they get results," he said. His committee was faced with complaints about playground equipment.

Lillian O'Connor said such complaints should go through the school principal.

"Don't get into the mechanics of what's happening," she advised.

The purpose of the parent-trustee committees is to give information on programs, and to receive recommendations from parents on what they want on the course of study.

The vote in favor of continuance of the committees, which meet once or twice a year on demand, was seven to six from a board of 14, with one member absent.

Band Competition Still Undecided

The city's parks and recreation committees want to talk over any plans local organizers may have for another drum and bugle corps competition in Belleville this summer.

The first such international event was organized by the Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps at the Quinte Exhibition Grounds last year.

Since then, the committees have been engaged in correspondence with the organizers.

Tuesday night, the boards had a financial statement from the corps which showed receipts and disbursements for the event at $4,129. The parks board has received $100, but there still are several hundred dollars owing, said parks director Lloyd Syer.

The latest letter from the corps did not specifically indicate when another competition was planned, but sought discussion on changes in installations at the exhibition grounds.

Parks chairman Paul Russell suggested the boards call a meeting immediately with the group and "let's lay our cards on the table with them".

After, another meeting could be arranged with Quinte Exhibition officials to discuss any future competition.

Enrolment Skyrockets

Variety Possible Key to Night School Success

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Post-secondary learning institutions such as Loyalist College are officially known as colleges of applied arts and technology.

And since their inception in Ontario, they have been loosely referred to as community colleges.

Well, at Loyalist the term is not so loose anymore.

Residents in the four-county area which Loyalist serves — Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland-Durham and Price Edward counties — have placed a capital C on community, by turning out in droves for the college-sponsored extension division programs.

People of all ages and from all walks of life have registered in community education courses at an increase of about 2,000 students per year since 1971-72.

At that time, there were only 1,800 students registered. Extension division officials predict enrollment by Mar. 31 will approach 8,000.

Those 8,000 students can choose from 55 courses, from college credit to hobby or leisure courses, at 55 locations in 27 municipalities.

All these figures mean Loyalist, in co-operation with school boards in the counties and of course, the students, ranks number one in the province in community education on a per capita basis.

The chain of extension has four administrators at the college — Mr. Butterill and three supervisors, Laurie Cameron, Al Davis and Ted Reid, plus a support staff. Then there are 22 night school supervisors, each with a personal secretary.

And the key to extension success is for the college to remain in the background, with much of the administration and groundwork off-campus.

For example, each night school supervisor, administered directly through his or her school board, is always a member of a teaching staff. Their criteria is they must be involved with the community.

In addition, the extension division cannot succeed if operated from the top down. The incentive must be born at the grass roots level. "We do what they (the public) want," pointed out Mr. Butterill.

The benefits to community education are many. Boards, employing the community use of schools approach, now have many of their schools open into the late evening hours. Teachers have excaped from feeling estranged from the community.

Parents feel they are a part of the school system, "There is no longer a feeling of antagonism, but of co-operation," noted Mr. Butterill. He added since extension programs began, "you can count the number of complaints on one hand."

It also brings peace to the taxpayer's mind. "I want to see that tax dollar go a long way. It goes so far in the evenings, it stretches and squeaks," he remarked.

Through it all, Loyalist stands to one side. Mr. Butterill said all effort and initiative comes from the community. The college is merely a catalyst, providing staff, resources and finances.

"It not only helps the community financially, but it helps them culturally," he said. Most of the impact is felt in the small communities or rural areas, where there is little to do except watch television, he continued.

"That's the biggest comment, I find,' said Mr. Butterill. "The adults say it's taken them away from the television and got them using their hands.'

Top Talent on Display

SLICES — Plenty of first rate young hockey talent on view tonight at Memorial Arena when the Metro Junior B League All-stars swing into action. Select teams from the Central and Eastern Divisions hook up in what should provide hockey entertainment at its best.

The decision to hold the annual All-star match here says a lot for our own Junior B operation headed up by Jim (Snipe) Matthews, and sports fans in Belleville and the district.

No doubt Memorial will be packed for the game and its a cinch the pro Eastern Division fans will give their favorites all the support their vocal chords can produce.

Naturally, most of the vociferous display will be directed at Bobcat players Rob Foster, Jim Richardson and Dave Taylor, all named to the East squad.

And Bobcat trainer Chris Rutledge will be busy, too. He has also been selected to work with the club.

Picton's Chris Storms, a proven winner when it comes to harness racing is reported to be moving his headquarters from Frontenac Downs at Kingston, to Ottawa.

Storms is looking ahead to bigger paydays.

He's said to be disenchanted with small purses at Frontenac.

Chris also finds a more central point for his operation appealing.

Now is the time for the purveyors of free advice who confine their activities to telling other people how to do things, to put their actions where their mouths are.

Yes, friends, you get your chance tonight.

Come out to the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA) meeting and election of officers at the Community Gardens in Trenton, and have the courage of your convictions ... stand for office.

It looks as if there will be vacancies at the executive level with the BQSA. Don't miss the chance to put your energy to good use.

The meeting starts at 7.30 p.m.

Belleville Shell Juveniles certainly weren't long rebounding from a crushing defeat in the opener of their Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA playoff with Oshawa Legion.

Whipped soundly on home ice Saturday (8-0), Shells demonstrated their ability to hang in there by squaring the series with a 5-4 Monday win in Oshawa.

Third game in the best of five set goes at Oshawa tonight.

Junior Nicks Press for Win

The junior Nicks of Nicholson Catholic College put together an incredible offensive drive by way of a defensive stand Wednesday night to upend the visiting Centre Hastings squad 64-45 in Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boy's Basketball action.

Down 38-37 at the three-quarter mark of the game, the Nicks went to a full court press and outscored their opponents 27-7 in the final period to earn a 64-45 victory.

In the midget game the Nicks went down to defeat 45-33, and in senior the home team took a decisive victory. No score or official results were available from that game.

Steve Dolan led the way in the junior contest as he dropped in 20 points. Boyd Kalnay was right behind him with 18 and Martin Seemungal scored 10 for the Nicks. Paul McAlpine and Pete Paquet got six each and Martin Harris had four.

For the Madoc squad, Joe Brooks got 17 and Rick Scero had 12.

CHSS gained a measure of revenge through the midget game behind the 10 point effort of Tom Lawrence, the nine point drive of Larry ailey and the eight points of Tim Thompson.

Pat Hurley was tops for the Nicks with 11 points.

Yardmen Earn 3-3 Tie

Belleville Yardmen Minor Midgets skated to a 3-3 tie with Oshawa Tuesday, completing their regular schedule on an encouraging note.

Oshawa notched the third period's only goal to erase a 3-2 belleville lead.

Potting the Yardmen goals were Howie Coons, Paul Hipkin and Bob Bunton.

The Belleville team is awaiting word on the start of group playoffs.

In OMHA exhibition action, Belleville Kinsmen Major Bantams dropped a pair of recent games, coming out on the short end of a 4-2 score in a match with Kingston Township and being edged 6-5 by Whitby.

Kinsmen open their OMHA playoffs in Peterborough, Friday. Second game in the series is scheduled for Belleville's Memorial Arena, Sunday, at 1:30 p.m.

Ward Morrison and Gary Frederick took care of the Kinsmen scoring in the loss to Kingston Township.

Belleville was paced by a three-goal effort from Danny Vance in the Whitby match. Nelson Frederick and Gary Clapp each scored once.

Kelsey Wins

MISSISSAUGA (Special) — Betty Kelsey's Quinte Curling Club rink took their first round match of the 16 rink Southern Ontario Ladies' Curling Association Provincial playoff, defeating Bea Cole's London rink 9-6 here Tuesday.

Kelsey's rink members are Cathy Brown, vice, Marabelle Clare, second, and Mary Livingston, lead. The Belleville foursome will play two more rinks today and should they win both of those games would advance to the all-Ontario final at Arnprior February 2-4.

Two rinks have already won two games while two others have been knocked out. Phyllis Durst's rink, from Goderich, and Joan Mathers, from Toronto are both looking for third wins today. Both the Burlington and the Owen Sound entries in the competition have been eliminated due to two losses.

Kelsey advanced to the Southern Ontario finals after winning the district playoff in Napanee January 6-8.

Special Presentations Part of the Program

Fans will be entertained not only through the actual East-West All-star game, but also between periods and before and after the contest begins and ends.

The pre-game ceremony includes the introduction of the East and West all-star teams, including coaches, managers and trainers and the presentation of the symbolic Metro Junior B all-star medallion to each team member. Gerry Fullam, the manager of the St. Michael's Buzzers will then sing God Save the Queen.

At the end of the first period the Belleville Bobcat cheerleaders will escort the team managers of each of the league's 14 clubs on the ice and each one will draw a ticket number for a door prize donated by their club. There are 14 different door prizes ranging in price from $15.

Then the regular nine Belleville program door prizes will be handed out.

During the second and third period intermission Police Chief, Douglas Crosbie and Fire Chief, Leo Culhane will escort the Ontario "Timmy" on to the ice and make a presentation to him from the gate receipts. The provincial Timmy just happens to be Belleville's own Billy Lynch.

Along with the presentation to Timmy on behalf of the Ontario Sportswriters and to aid their work with the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, part of the gate receipts will also go to the Charlie Conacher Research Fund.

Pete Conacher is to be on hand to accept that donation.

At the end of the game a three star selection will be made.

West Team Has Score To Settle with East

When West meets East in the 20th annual Metro Junior all-star game at the Memorial Arena tonight, the West will be looking for a certain measure of revenge. Last year at the stomping grounds of the St. Michael's Buzzers, the West had to settle for a 6-6 tie after being up 5-3 going into the final 20 minutes of play.

It was the line of Belleville's Mark Coates and Jim Richardson and Pickering's Gary Murphy that connected for all three of the third period goals to bring West's winning chances to a standstill.

Though Murphy and Coates won't be back this year, Richardson is making his second all-star start in a row. Along with right-winger Richardson, Belleville also placed centre Rob Foster and right defenceman Dave Taylor on the squad.

Last year Richardson scored one goal and Murphy two in the final period of play to sink the West's hopes. Coates drew an assist on all three markers.

This year the game is expected to be just as exciting. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Tickets On Sale

Advance ticket sales for 20th Annual Metro Junior B All-Star game have gone quite well, but Jim 'Snipe' Matthews assures all ticket purchasers that there will be enough to go around.

He says there are still about 700 tickets remaining to be sold at the door this evening. The gate will be open for early birds.

Predict Wide Open Hockey

Metro Stars in Action Here

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

The East better not play the type of game everyone figures they're going to play when the team meets the West in the Metro Junior B All-Star game tonight at Memorial Arena.

If they expect to contain the high-flying point scorers on the West team, an all-round defensive game might be what fans have in store.

However, Belleville Bobcat manager Russ Soule, who was East all-star team manager in 1974, says "You can expect much the same game as last year. Wide open hockey. Fast and very little of the physical stuff. These are the best players in the league. They won't be here to hurt each other or take a chance on hurting themselves."

Jim Richardson, one of the three Belleville Bobcats selected to the East squad says, "It'll probably be the same as last year. It was hard on the players because it was a fast game, but it wasn't physical."

The starting line of the West club is made up of the highest scorers in the league. All three players are from Bramalea and all three play on the same line together.

At right wing is Dean Hartwell. He is the number one goal scorer in the Metro Junior League with 38. His 37 assists give him 75 points in all. That, too, is tops in the league.

On the left side is the number two point-getter in the league, Steve Beasley. He has 32 goals and 37 assists for 69 points.

Between the two high scorers is a real digger, Doug Crawford. He has 17 goals and 52 assists (best in the league) for 69 points.

The trio is rated by all their opponents as the deadliest in the Metro circuit.

Along with Crawford at centre ice, the West also has Wexford's Brian Cleaver. He ranks fourth in the scoring race with 31 goals and 31 assists.

Next on the list are three east players. Two of those, Cam McGregor, of Kingston and Dave Faulkner of Pickering, will be in the All-star game.

Then comes Dave Popiel, of Bramalea. He has 23 goals and 29 assists, for eighth place in the scoring race, but like Brian Langille, of Kingston, who ranks sixth, he too will be missing from the all-star lineup.

From there on, in the scoring stats, the east pretty well takes over. However, the east will have to come up with a solid defensive effort if they are to stop the top scoring West squad.

Lions Hang Tough

KINGSTON (Special) — Sparkling goaltending by Mark Meehan and a strong over-all performance carried Belleville Lions past Kingston here Tuesday in Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget Major AAA playoff action.

Lions were never headed as they posted a 6-2 win to force a fourth game in the best of five series. Kingston ledds 2-1.

The Belleville team skated to a 3-1 lead in the first period and after the home side trimmed the deficit to one, early in the second, the visitors rebounded to make it 4-2. Two unanswered goals in the final period wrapped it up for Lions.

Tony Meagher was a two-goal Belleville shooter. Singles went to Tony Bennett, David McBride, Tom Belch and Clint Riendeau.

Brian Clancy and Neil Faulkner replied for Kingston.

The fourth game is scheduled for Saturday at 6.45 p.m. at Belleville's Dick Ellis Rink.

Prince of Wales Conference Easy Winner

Added to Team, Apps Proves Worth

MONTREAL (CP)—The name Syl Apps is in the National Hockey League's all-star record book again.

Apps, a centre with Pittsburgh Penguins, won an automobile after he was selected most valuable player in Tuesday night's annual all-star game as his two-goal performance helped the Prince of Wales Conference to a 7-1 rout of the Clarence Campbell Conference.

Apps' performance came in his first all-star appearance and 28 years after his famous father, then a centre with Toronto Maple Leafs, had scored a goal and assisted on another as his club dropped a 4-3 decision to the NHL All-Stars.

And Syl of Toronto fame was on hand to see his son win the accolades.

"I've never had a bigger thrill—I'm so proud of my son and so happy I was here to see it," the elder Apps said as he stood at the dressing room door.

"I've had lots of thrills in hockey, but this is one of the greatest."

But it was as great a thrill for the son, because he was not one of the 12 members of the Prince of Wales crew voted to the team.

The younger Apps was among several players added to the original 12 by coach Bep Guidolin. So were right winger Terry O'Reilly of Boston Bruins—a late substitute for teammate John Bucyk—Don Luce of Buffalo Sabres and Darryl Sittler of Toronto.

That trio responded in similar fashion to Apps—they all scored goals in their initial all-star appearances.

A pair of old hands, defenceman Bobby Orr and centre Phil Esposito of the Bruins, added the other goals for the winners. It was Orr's first goal in seven all-star appearances and Esposito's second in the same number of games.

Defenceman Denis Potvin of New York Islanders was the lone scorer for the losers.

Each member of the winning side received $500, with $250 each going to the losers.

The winners led 3-1 after one period on goals by Apps, Luce and Sittler. Potvin scored shortly before the period ended, his second goal in two consecutive all-star appearances.

Howe Sparks WHAs West Team

Gordie—'One for the Road'

EDMONTON (CP) — Gordie Howe told everybody the third annual World Hockey Association all-star game would be the last of his distinguished career—then he went out to enjoy it.

GORDIE HOWE

Scoring a goal and an assist to spark the West to a 6-4 victory, the first western triumph after two defeats, Howe won a standing ovation from a capacity crowd of 15,326 at the Edmonton Coliseum and accepted his team-mates tributes after it was over.

"It's hard to say how much Gordie means to hockey," said centre Andre Lacroix, who earned three assists in a brilliant display of puck-handling. "He's the star of every game, just because he's still in it at 46 and because he's the greatest that ever lived."

Howe's goal, one of four in a second-period blitz that gave the West an insurmountable 6-2 margin, came on a half-speed backhander that trickled over the line.

"I was trying to pass into the goalmouth," said Howe. "I knew it was in when Andy Brown (Eastern goaltender) called me a lucky bleep."

The goal gave Howe a bit of an extra kick because he played with Andy's father, forward Adam Brown, early in his pro career.

Howe made it clear his last all-star game was something special. He took his stick home.

"Sure, it was fun," he said. "It's nice to wind up with one for the road, but the real highlight was to have the kid score one."

Mark Howe took a flip pass from his father to open scoring in the first period. Forward Mark and defenceman Marty, team-mates with Houston Aeros, gave their father the incentive to come back after a one-year layoff at the age of 44.

Andre Hinse, also of Houston, had two goals for the West. Bobby Hull of Winnipeg and Ted Taylor of Houston had the others.

The French Connection of Rejean Houle, Marc Tardif and Serge Bernier handled all the Eastern scoring. Houle, the most valuable player, had two goals and two assists, while Tardif and Bernier had a goal apiece.

The three were linemates on Team Canada 74 and now play together with Quebec Nordiques. Houle said he had an easy time because he knew where Bernier and Tardif were at all times.

Two Eastern players, winger Tom Webster and defenceman Rick Ley, suffered minor injuries. Webster injured a leg in the first period and Ley needed six stitches to close a cheek wound after Paul Popiel's deflected shot felled him.

The game marked the first appearance of former European stars in a North American all-star game. Former Swedish internationals Ulf Nilsson and Lars-Erik Sjoberg, now teammates in Winnipeg, played for the West.

The West outshot the East 30-28 in the wide-open, penalty-free contest. Goaltending for both teams was only adequate as at least six goalposts were hit by shots that got behind the goalies.

Bush Fired

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Coach Eddie Bush was fired Tuesday by Kitchener Rangers who are mired in last place in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series.

Rangers manager Ted Maki announced the dismissal in a prepared statement and said the club was buying up the remainder of Bush's one-year contract.

Bush has been with the club 2½ years. This season, the Rangers have won only 11 of 43 games.

"With the performance of the club to date, the executive felt it was in the best interests of the club to make the change at this time," said Maki.

Cash Split Settled

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League player-owner council met Tuesday and announced the playoff cash awards for the new division and conference alignments.

First place in each of the four NHL divisions will be worth $2,000 a player, with $1,000 going to each player on the second-place teams and $500 each for the third-place teams.

Each player participating in the first round of the playoffs gets an additional $1,000. he team with the most points in each conference will get an additional $2,500 a man.

The players also suggested, and the owners agreed, that players should have a voice on the rules committee.

Regarding suspensions, the players recommended that any player penalized for deliberate injury or attempt to injure be automatically suspended

Denver, Seattle May Get Nod

MONTREAL (CP) — Denver and Seattle, scheduled to join the National Hockey League in the 1976-77 season, could enter earlier through purchase of existing franchises, it was revealed Tuesday.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Tuesday following a two-day meeting of the league's board of governors that the entry of the two cities could come about if one or both purchased existing franchises.

He said a meeting of the governors will be held in New York Feb. 1 for further study.

"Both cities have buildings available now," Campbell said. "And I wouldn't be surprised to see them in the league next season."

Campbell said the league could stay at 18 teams if Denver, which has expressed an interest in purchase of the league-owned California Golden Seals, made such a move.

He would not designate a club that Seattle could buy, but it was learned that the Pittsburgh Penguins franchise, which has received financial assistance from the league, could be the club involved.

The NHL bought back the Seals franchise from owner Charles O. Finley last season after refusing him permission to move the team out of the San Francisco-Oakland area.

"What we would like to do is keep the thing in balance," Campbell said, noting that it would be unfair for one of the newcomers to start off with an experienced team while the other would be forced to start from scratch.

After the entry of Seattle and Denver, the NHL was set for further expansion in 1978 and 1980 to bring the number of teams to 24.

The governors also studied several suggestions from the players during a meeting of the owner-player council.

One suggestion was that they be represented on the NHL's rules committee and, that in case of a deliberate injury inflicted by one player on another or an attempt to injure, the offending player be suspended automatically after he has been given a match penalty.

Under the current rule, the league president establishes all fines or suspensions for such infractions.

Henri Duvillard

French Ski Star Produces as Pro

TORONTO (CP) — Henri Duvillard was heartbroken when he was dismissed from the French national ski team last year but the grief is being assuaged by his earnings since joining the World Pro Ski series this winter.

With four wins in six starts, Duvillard has quickly emerged as the dominant figure in pro skiing in North America. He has banked $18,500 and his 120 points are 15 better than second-place Hank Kashiwa of the United States who has earned $13,000.

Duvillard and other pro skiers stopped off in Toronto Tuesday en route to Collingwood, Ont., for the international meet Jan. 25-26 at Blue Mountain.

They attended a luncheon at which Duvillard, a downhill specialist as an amateur, explained his success in the pro slaloms by recalling that he had won a World Cup slalom or two as well. He also smilingly sidestepped a question about how much of a pay cut he took when he turned pro.

The professionals, who have 10 races left, will make one more Canadian stop, in Montreal Feb. 15-16. Other races will be held in Vermont, Wisconsin, Colorado, California and Idaho before the season ends in Cervinia, Italy, April 6-7.

The Three Musketeers of French skiing—Duvillard, Jean-Noel Augert and Patrick Russel—were dismissed from the national team in a power struggle with ski federation officials.

Augert is third in the pro standings with 54 points and $6,900 earned to date. He scored a surprise victory last Sunday in the slalom at Hunter Mountain, N.Y., and it was followed by Duvillard's win Monday in the giant slalom.

Russell is seventh in the standings with 30 points and earnings of $2,700.

Each of the 15 races is worth $30,000 with 25 points and $4,000 awarded for a first-place finish.

Otto Tschudi of Austria is fourth in the standings with 42 points and $4,[illegible]0; Werner Bleiner, also of Austria, fifth with 32 points and $3,200; Rudd Pyles of the U.S. sixth with 30 points and $3,000; Roger Rossat-Mignod of France eighth with 29 points and $2,800; Joseph Odermatt of Austria ninth with 25 points and $2,200, and Harold Steuffer of Austria is tied with Whit Sterling of the U.S. for 10th with 20 points although Steuffer has $2,500 in earnings and Sterling $1,600.

The only Canadian in the top 20 is Doug Woodcock of Whitby, Ont., with 15 points and $1,200. Paul Carson of Toronto has won $700.

The top 30 automatically qualify for the giant slalom Saturday and slalom Sunday along with the 10 best from Friday's qualifying races. They will be divided into two groups of 20 and the fastest eight in each section go into head-to-head eliminations.

Two prominent names missing from the list of starters are Jean-Claude Killy of France, undergoing treatment for a gall bladder condition that kept him out of action last year, and Alain Penz of France, recovering from a back injury.

Absent from the roll of big winners is Hugo Nindl of Austria, last year's champion with $90,000 in earnings. He continues to participate but seems to have lost some of his drive.

No Decision on Stags

EDMONTON (CP) — World Hockey Association trustees Tuesday failed again to settle the contentious issue of what to do with the financially-troubled Michigan Stags franchise.

Retiring league president Dennis Murphy said a decision now can be expected "within the next few days" on disbanding the franchise or moving it to Baltimore.

If the club is disbanded, players would be distributed in a draft and the schedule adjusted so dates remaining on Michigan's schedule would be fulfilled.

"We don't want to make any preliminary announcement because we don't want any adverse effect on a potential purchaser," Murphy said at a news conference.

A source in Baltimore said a spokesman for the Baltimore organization was trying to work out arrangements for use of an ice facility there. Baltimore has a team in the American Hockey League.

Officials of the WHA players association also met to discuss the situation but no announcement was made.

Ben Hatskin of Winnipeg, chairman of the board of trustees, was named chief executive in charge of finding a successor to Murphy, who has tendered his resignation effective June 1.

Trustees voted unanimously to move the league office to Toronto, "to make the operation more efficient," said Murphy. He denied suggestions that he resigned because of the shifting of the league office from his native California.

General managers, meeting separately, recommended that an unbalanced schedule be adopted for next season. The clubs now play each rival team at home and away an equal number of times.

League vice-president Bud Poile said the top two finishers in each of three divisions would qualify for the playoffs along with two "wild card" teams, selected on the basis of points.

General managers said they decided against increasing the playing roster by one to 18 plus two goaltenders, and asked that the waiver price be reduced to $100 from $1,000 and that each team play only four exhibition games during a 15-day training camp.

Teams or players not paying fines within a 30-day limit will face suspension, the league agreed.

Bob McAdoo on Target

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you think you've got Bob McAdoo where you want him—watch out.

"He takes the 17-footers you want him to take—but they all go in," said Seattle coach Bill Russell, whose Sonics were beaten by McAdoo's Buffalo Braves 118-106 Tuesday night.

Enjoying his best shooting night of the season, McAdoo sank 21 of 28 field goal attempts and poured in 49 points. His 21 field goals equalled a club record, and he also grabbed 19 rebounds.

"For over-all shooting, McAdoo is the best in the league," said his coach, Jack Ramsay. "This was a good night for him—but not exceptional. I don't think anybody can stop him from scoring."

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night, Chicago Bulls nipped New York Knicks 97-94, Washington Bullets beat Cleveland Cavaliers 97-88, Atlanta Hawks defeated New Orleans Jazz 135-103, Kansas City-Omaha Kings edged Portland Trail Blazers 109-106, Boston Celtics defeated Houston Rockets 113-102, Philadelphia 76ers beat Phoenix Suns 101-95 and Golden State Warriors defeated Los Angeles Lakers 138-108.

In the only American Basketball Association game, San Antonio Spurs beat Indiana Pacers 116-91.

McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer, made his first seven shots of the game and 13 of 15 in the first half as he led the Braves to their sixth straight victory.

JIM HUNTER

Hunter Finally Gets His Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Owner Charles Finley of baseball's Oakland A's has paid Jim (Catfish) Hunter the disputed $50,000 that led to the pitcher's being declared a free agent, The New York Daily News reported in today's editions.

The News said Finley paid up on Monday—$50,000 plus six per cent interest.

Hunter was declared a free agent and signed with New York Yankees after an arbitrator ruled that Finley had breached the terms of the pitcher's 1974 contract.

Hunter's 1974 pact with the A's called for Finley to defer half of the pitcher's $100,000 salary to a designated party. When Finley failed to live up to the terms of the contract, Hunter took the case to arbitration and was ruled a free agent.

He signed a five-year contract with the Yankees on New Year's Eve for an estimated $3.75 million in salary, bonus and other benefits.

BRINKMAN AGREES

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Five St. Louis Cardinals signed their 1975 contracts Thursday, including Ed Brinkman and Elias Sosa, acquired in off-season trades.

SPENCER LEADS

LONDON (Reuter) — John Spencer of England led Australian Eddie Charlton 3-1 Thursday after the first four frames of their best-of-nine semi-final series in the international Masters snooker tournament. England's Ray Reardon, the world champion, and compatriot Rex Williams were tied 2-2 in the other series.

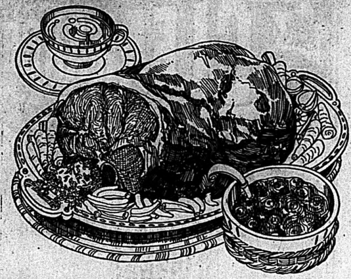
Big meat deals for great meals.



Joan Fielden tells how:

Joan Fielden,
Dominion Home Economist Consultant
Don Nichol, Meat Manager

Your appetite and mine were not designed to choose foods as wisely as they might. We tend to eat what we like best, rather than what we need.
To help give your family what they need for many of their daily body requirements, you can count on pork. It's a lean source of high quality protein; and like all meats, pork is considered a high density nutrient that is devoid of carbohydrates. It also provides a high ratio of nutrients to calories, as well as a supply of vitamins and minerals.
And pork is an excellent type of meat to balance your budget with. In fact, this week I've selected a Dominion pork special to build my recipe around. It will not only help reduce the cost of your meal, it will also supply some of the important nutrients necessary for your family's daily requirements.

Roast Pork with Easy Cherry Sauce

(Serves 6-8)

One 3 pound pork roast (shoulder or butt)
1-16 ounce can cherry pie filling
4 tblsp. lemon juice
¾ tspn. salt
½ tspn. ginger

1. Roast pork in 325°F. oven for 35-40 minutes per pound or until internal temperature of 170°F. on meat thermometer.
2. Heat remaining ingredients to boiling. Stir and simmer 2-3 minutes.
3. Serve hot with roast.

Menu Suggestions

Roast pork with easy Cherry Sauce, buttered brown rice, mixed vegetables, tomato and lettuce salad—Chocolate pudding with vanilla wafers—Coffee, milk.
The following chart will give you a guideline to the amount of food you should buy to balance your family's nutritional needs. And if you'd like to know more about food and nutrition, write me, "JOAN", P.O. Box 35, Station W., Toronto. I'll send you free, helpful information.

Oshawa Parkway Wrigley Leader

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Oshawa Parkway has emerged as the surprise leader of the Canadian midget hockey championships and today could extend its record to four wins without a loss.

The host club, reversing its dismal showing last year when it won only one of five matches, today goes against winless Fort William Miners.

Oshawa won its third game Tuesday night, beating Quesnel, B.C., 4-3, the West Coast club's second loss in as many games.

In other matches Tuesday, Edmonton Canadians defeated Charlottetown Eagles 6-3, Fort Garry-Fort Rouge Twins of Manitoba defeated Ottawa South 3-1, Barrie Co-Ops beat Fort William Miners 8-1, Yorkton, Sask., beat Corner Brook, Nfld., 8-3 and defending champion Verdun Leafs beat Dalhousie, N.B., 6-1.

Yorkton, Verdun and Fort Garry-Fort Rouge are undefeated after the first two days of action, all with 2-0 records. Barrie, playing its first game Tuesday, is also unbeaten.

In other games today, Yorkton meets Sydney, N.S., Quesnel plays Corner Brook, Edmonton faces Ottawa, Fort Garry-Fort Rouge meets Charlottetown and Sydney plays a second game against Barrie.

Warriors Edge Bears

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Brockville Warriors won their ninth Central Junior Hockey League (CJHL) game Tuesday night, edging Smiths Falls Bears 3-2.

Ken Hull, Del Sandles and Rick Bordeleau scored for Brockville, Dave Dixie and Chris Rae replying for the Bears.

The win left the Warriors in last place with 22 points in the six-team league and frustrated the second-place Bears' attempt to narrow the five-point margin between them and league-leading Pembroke Lumber Kings.

The Warriors now have nine wins, 23 losses and four ties in 37 games.

Fifteen penalties were called in the game, Brockville taking six minors and a major and Smiths Falls taking seven minors and a major.

TOM SEAVER

Problem Solved

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver thinks he now knows what caused all of his problems last season.

"It was a simple thing . . . mechanical really," said Seaver after signing his 1975 contract with New York Mets.

The trouble, said Seaver, was on his pitching follow-through. "I was jamming my heel instead of landing on the ball of my foot," he explained.

Marlies' Streak Snapped at 18

St. Catharines Black Hawks snapped league-leading Toronto Marlboros' unbeaten streak at 18 games with an 8-4 win Tuesday in Ontario Hockey Assocation Major Junior play.

The Marlboros' streak included 14 wins and four ties and was within seven games of tying the club's record of 25 unbeaten games set in the 1972-73 season.

St. Catharines scored three unanswered goals in the second period and added two more in the final period before Toronto got its last goal.

Gary McAdam scored twice for the Hawks while singles went to Kevin Kennery, Steve Cupolo, Ken Martyn, Rick Adduono, Bill Hamilton and Greg Craig.

Bruce Boudreau, John Anderson, John Tonelli and Lynn Jorgenson replied for the visitors, who were outshot 42-31.

The win was the fifth consecutive for St. Catharines and moved the Hawks into fifth spot, five points behind Ottawa '67s.

Toronto enjoys a 14-point margin over its nearest rivals, Peterborough Petes.

In other league contests Tuesday, Ottawa dumped Kingston Canadians 8-6 and Hamilton Fincups trounced London Knights 9-3.

League play resumes Thursday with St. Catharines visiting Peterborough and Sudbury Wolves entertaining Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

67s 8 Canadians 6

Ottawa built up period leads of 3-1 and 5-1 and hung on to the win despite a five-goal Kingston rally in the final period.

Dan Blair and Rick Bourbonnais scored twice for Ottawa while Doug Wilson, Tim Young, Jamie Masters and Hal Pearson added singles.

The goal and two assists by Young brought his season total to 109 points.

Brad Rhiness, with two, led Roger Dorey, Alec Forsyth and Mike Crombeen got the others.

Playing on Ottawa ice, the '67s outshot Kingston 37-31 before 2,100 spectators.

Fincups 9 Knights 3

Danny Shearer and Ric Seiling each scored three goals to pace third-place Hamilton to the win before 1,085 home spectators.

The Fincups took a 4-1 lead after the first period and led 5-3 going into the final 20 minutes.

CP News Roundup

Toronto Seeks More Downtown

TORONTO (CP) — A report prepared for the city planning board Monday said 40,000 housing units needed in the next 10 years should be built downtown, increasing the number of people living in the core of the city to about 240,000 from 124,780.

The report urged the city to become more active in housing "and the major thrust should be mixed-use development within commercial areas and in new areas now devoted to industrial and warehouse activity."

Oil Exports Will Be Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Energy Board will hold hearings in April to determine the volume of oil available for export in 1976, it was announced Tuesday.

The public hearings will receive evidence on Canadian oil production and requirements projected over a 20-year period.

Retires

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Maj.-Gen. W. M. Garton, 54, chief of Canada's Air Defence Command, announced Tuesday he will take an early retirement to coincide with the creation of Canada's new air command.

He said he will retire in July, three months early, to allow a younger man to become involved in the command.

Talks Resume

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations resumed Tuesday between bargainers for 550 striking workers and the Royal Canadian Mint only hours after three union members were arrested on a picket line.

Contract talks had broken off Jan. 9 when the employees in Ottawa, Hull, Que., and Winnipeg walked out.

Dr. Christie Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Harriet Christie of Toronto, a member of the federal advisory council on the status of women, died Tuesday morning in Edmonton while visiting friends. She was 62.

She had suffered from cancer for some time.

Seek Funds

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Heart Foundation will join nine other provincial heart foundations next month to begin a five-year plan to raise $60 million by 1979 to fight heart disease, which killed 80,000 persons in Canada last year.

Wants Houses

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Tuesday he wants to see 100,000 housing starts a year in Ontario, and to reach this goal the ministry will be "substantially increasing" its budget for the next fiscal year.

Pay Raised

TORONTO (CP) — Goldon Hurlburt, chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission (TTC), said Tuesday that arbitrator Carl Goldenberg has awarded 5,900 TTC employees wage increases of nearly 32 per cent in three stages over two years.

Senator Goldenberg provided concessions on the issue of split shifts and ordered the TTC to put an exact-fare system into effect by this fall. He also awarded the employees cost-of-living protection.

Wages of Sin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Dean, former White House counsel who was a star witness in the Watergate hearings, has signed a $300,000 book contract for his personal story, a publishing official said Tuesday.

Richard Snyder, a vice-president of Simon and Schuster, said he concluded two days of negotiations with Dean during the weekend.

Basford Back

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Ron Basford is "back in the swing of his parliamentary duties" after a long stay in hospital late last year, an aide said Tuesday.

The official said Mr. Basford remains on medication and is receiving physiotherapy for pain in his hands that plagued him late last fall.

Manipulation of Genes Seen Cure for Disease

WINNIPEG (CP) — The manipulation of genes, the body's biological units of heredity, may be the surest way to control a wide range of diseases—from cancer to cleft palate to schizophrenia, a U.S. geneticist said Tuesday.

Evidence is mounting that certain genetic characteristics predispose people to many common diseases, including birth defects, diseases of middle-age such as diabetes, ulcers and heart conditions, as well as psychoses such as manic depression or schizophrenia, said Dr. Arno Motulsky of the University of Washington school of medicine in Seattle.

However, Dr. Motulsky said genetic engineering, or the fundamental altering of the nature of certain genes, is unlikely to become a method of treatment for a long time.

Rather, the types of genes that predispose one to disease risk can, it is hoped be manipulated successfully by drug and diet treatment, he told the annual meeting of the Canadian Society for Clinical Investigation.

Dr. Motulsky also said it was not the genetic conditions alone that apparently caused common diseases, but rather peculiar genes interacting with environmental factors such as lifestyle, diet and stress.

Servicemen Training Credits Are Objective

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario cabinet will be asked at its meeting in London today to approve in principle the establishment of federal-provincial liaison so Armed Forces personnel can receive provincial accreditation for training taken in the forces, it was announced Tuesday.

D. M. Nadon of St. Thomas, president of the Canadian Forces Long Services Pensioners' Association, said if the appeal to the Ontario government is successful, applications will be made to other provincial governments to establish similar liaison.

He cited such cases as accountants and mechanics, who might gain considerable experience and training in their fields in the Armed Forces but cannot gain employment in the same field in civilian life because they have no formal education documents issued by the province.

Mr. Nadon said liaison would permit a continuing review of Armed Forces training programs and, where training meets provincial standards for education diplomas, certificates would be issued.

He said the federal government has been approached informally and "agrees with our concept and if a provincial government is in accord with our proposal, then the federal government would be pleased to co-operate."

First Target Of Strike May Be Airports

OTTAWA (CP) — Airports might be the first target ofa might be the first target of a strike by federal labor and trades employees should current conciliation efforts fail, a spokesman for the Public Service Alliance said Tuesday.

The union, which represents 18,600 workers in the labor and trades group, has started a series of meetings across the country to co-ordinate any possible strike action.

The spokesman said that in the event of a strike, the union would probably pick targets that would feel the greatest impact. Airport runway cleaners are among employees in the group.

Some of the runway cleaners, who operate heavy snowplow equipment, held an illegal work stoppage in December in Montreal and other centres, hampering air travel just before the Christmas holidays. Other employees who service post office trucks and equipment also walked out at that time.

Job Creation For Students Not Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's summer work plans for students will continue to steer away from direct job creation in 1975, a joint release from 12 departments showed Tuesday.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Cold weather is just about the worst thing that can happen to a car battery. At a comparatively mild 32 degrees, car batteries become about 35 per cent weaker than when the temperature is 80. At zero degrees, car batteries lost about 60 per cent of their strength.

Poor maintenance and careless starting practices can do the rest. In fact, battery failure is the main cause of auto breakdowns in winter.

To ensure enough power to start on cold mornings, combine proper maintenance with these suggestions.

Be sure the shift selector or gear shift, whichever you may have, is in neutral. If your car has manual shift, depress the clutch while starting.

Make sure all electrical accessories — radio, lights, heater — are turned off before using starter. They put an extra strain on the battery.

Push the gas pedal all the way down to the floor once, then hold it half-way down as the starter is engaged. Avoid pumping the gas pedal; this can cause flooding.

Turn the ignition key to "start", but don't hold the key in the start position for more than ten seconds at a time. Constant grinding of the starter can damage the battery and drain even a fully-charged one. If the engine doesn't catch the first time, stop and wait a minute or so to give the battery time to recharge iself.

Depress the gas pedal slightly to keep the engine running if the engine starts and dies several times.

If you have flooded the engine, depress the gas pedal to the floor and hold it there while you engage the starter. Keep your foot on the pedal until the engine starts again, then release it slowly. Again do not pump the pedal.

If the car won't start after repeated attempts, chances are that the battery is too weak to turn over the engine. In this case, a call for road service should be your next move.

Driving is hazardous in any type of weather; but in winter the conditions are especially treacherous. To help you reduce the risk of auto accidents, here are some safety suggestions:

Be able to see and be seen. Clean the snow and ice off your windshield, other windows, outside mirrors, lights, and reflectors. Make sure your vehicle is equipped with good wiper blades, and that wiper arms are exerting enough pressure on the blades to ensure a clean sweep. If moisture or ice builds up on the inside or outside of your windshield, stop and clean it off.

Tires with good deep treads are essential for good cornering and handling on slippery roads. Check the air pressure frequently to maintain the manufacturer's recommended pressure.

Get the feel of the road. Occasionally try your brakes, or gently depress your accelerator while driving. When you hve found out just how slippery the road is, adjust your speed accordingly. Rising temperatures greatly increase the slipperiness of ice and snow.

Stretch your "following" distance. Knowing that winter surfaces increase stopping distance three to 12 times, the smart driver increases his normal dry-road following distance. Heavy trucks require a longer stopping distance on slippery roads than passenger cars. And don't tailgate. The car ahead may make a sudden stop on dry pavement, and you may find yourself trying to stop in a patch of ice.

Brake before curves. All vehicles are particularly sensitive to over-powering, over-steering, and over-braking on curves. Unseen hazards around the bend may require an evasive action, so turn your steering wheel slowly and smoothly, keep a constant speed in the turn, and pump your brakes carefully if it's necessary to slow down or stop.

Pump your brakes. The key to stopping under control on slippery surfaces is to avoid locking the wheels.

MEMO FROM HELEN GAGEN, CONSUMER ADVISOR

YOUR FAMILY'S DAILY "COMPLETE" PROTEIN

Meat, fish, poultry, seafoods, egg, cheese or milk — in other words, protein from an animal source — is needed by everybody in your family, every day. Unless enough of these is consumed, the body lacks the amino acids needed for building and repair of body tissue.

That's why nutritionists frown on any diet that depends on vegetable sources only for protein. And while Canada's Food Guide does suggest dried beans or peas as an occasional meat alternate, that assumes that other recommended foods, such as milk, are included.

Nuts and some cereals, as well as dried beans, peas and lentils, provide a good amount of protein — but its quality is inadequate unless supplemented by some animal protein. For instance, you should supplement peanut butter sandwiches for lunch with a glass of milk, milk soup or dessert, egg or cheese. A meatless baked bean main course calls for some such dessert as crackers and cheese, custard or milk pudding. The quality of cereal served at breakfast is enhanced by the milk on it.

The recommended daily allowance of protein for a 10-year-old is 30 grams; for teen-age girls 39 to 41; teen-age boys 40 to 47 grams. A 160-pound man needs about 48 grams, a 125-pound woman 39. To find protein content of some common foods, consult the Nutrition Information book, in the Consumer Corner of your Miracle Food Mart. For specific foods, drop me a line.

B.C. Government Assists Debtors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Most people using the provincial government's new debtor assistant plan are not "deadbeats."

Harry Atkinson, who spent eight years with the Alberta debtor assistance board before developing the B.C. program last summer, says, "People have a bad image of the debtor."

"Ninety-eight per cent of them are honest people who just don't know when to stop buying. What people forget about credit is that you can't use it to subsidize diminishing income in times of inflation.

"'It will just snowball on you."

His cases are not confined to laborers, waitresses or the uneducated. He has files on stockbrokekrs, lawyers and doctors asking for help to straighten out financial messes.

In a rather typical case, he cites a woman—Ruth—who fed two teen-age sons, paid her $188 monthly rent on a suburban duplex and paid $141 a month on furniture payments, all on the salary of a secretary.

With the help of a $130 loan from her boss, she managed this for six months. Then the letters from creditors started to pile up.

When her file landed on Mr. Atkinson's desk, it looked like a perfect case for bankruptcy. Under federal consumer affairs department supervision, a personal bankruptcy is obtained easily and for only $50.

Then Mr. Atkinson met the woman. "She just kept pushing herself because she feels morally bound to pay," he said. "Bankruptcy for her would be a cop-out."

"She tried like hell to pay $141 o month when her ability to pay is $38."

He persuaded the finance company, to which Ruth owed $3,200, and the bank to hold off for 60 days so counsellors could work out a plan.

They will try to find a formula that allows her to make some payment and still feed and clothe herself and her family properly.

"She hasn't had any new clothes for five years and last year her oldest boy ran away from home because he was tired of being laughed at," Mr. Atkinson said.

He said the counsellors are combination father confessors and financial analysts.

While they don't necessarily sympathize with the people they see, the counsellors can put their problems into a clearer perspective because they aren't involved.

They also are tough enough to suggest that a wife go out to work if she's just sitting around home watching television while her husband goes deeper into debt, or to collect the family credit cards, Mr. Atkinson said.

"People seem to be afraid to go to the creditors and say: 'Look, I'm really in a bind this month. I've been sick, laid off, just had an operation, or whatever,'" he said.

"These people aren't ripoff artists. It's just that they've committed their incomes and if they get sick or laid off they're up against it because they don't have any savings to fall back on," Mr. Atkinson said.

Pat Hutchinson, deputy director of the program, said the credit industry was the first to admit the need for the program and more education in the field. In a bankruptcy, the creditor gets very little.

She said the counsellors work closely with small claims and family courts but they want to get involved before a situation gets to that point. This means working closely with community groups to reach the citizens who hay be having problems.

Holidays and Wardair

They go together.

Flying people on holidays is our business. It's all we do. And we take pride in doing it better than anyone else. We believe, for example, in smiling. And in being on time. And in being a good host. On every Wardair flight you'll enjoy complimentary bar service. You'll enjoy a delicious filet mignon, with French wines and your choice of liqueurs. Perhaps most of all, you'll enjoy being among friends. Especially when all this comes at a price way lower than any regularly scheduled flight. Let us give you that Wardair holiday feeling, non-stop to Britain and Europe.

Fares do not include $2.00 Frankfurt airport departure tax

*With balance of fare due at least 60 days before departure.

All flights governed by the Advance Booking Charter provisions of the Canadian Transport Commission, and approved by the Air Transport Committee.

CANCELLATION

In the event you have to cancel your flight booking any time prior to departure, you automatically forfeit your $50 deposit. Any balance of the fare which has been paid will be refunded by Intervac.

For an additional $6 per passenger, you can purchase Intervac's CHARTER FARE PROTECTION INSURANCE which protects you under most circumstances if your travel plans are necessarily and unavoidably cancelled due to causes beyond your control. The INTERVAC CHARTER FARE PROTECTION INSURANCE will refund the $50 cancellation charge, and in addition will ensure your travel home (point of departure) if you are unable to return to Canada due to sickness, injury or death.

All flights depart from, and return to, Toronto International Airport. Arrivals and departures in Britain and Europe are at Gatwick (London), Manchester, Schiphol (Amsterdam), and Frankfurt Main airports, depending on destination.

Fares do not include $5 Canadian Transportation Tax.

Tickets are valid only for flights purchased and cannot be exchanged for other flights.

Full details of Terms and Conditions may be obtained at any Intervac Office.

Infants under 2 carried free of charge.

IN MEMORIAM

BADGLEY — In loving memory of foster father Stirton who passed away January 21, 1972.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by foster son Thomas, daughter-in-law Phyllis.

GILL — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother Enid, who passed away January 22, 1974.
As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memory you are near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
—Always remembered by husband Richard (Dick) and family.

PINE, Bruce — In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away Jan. 21, 1960.
Sad and sudden was the call,
So dearly loved by one and all,
His memory is as sweet today,
As in the hour he passed away.
—Dearly remembered by his wife Florence, daughter Doris, son Robert.

RIXLEY — In loving memory of a dear husband, George Alyesworth, who passed away Jan. 22, 1974.
Little did we know that morn,
The sorrow the day would bring,
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near,
Only those that have lost can tell,
The sorrow of parting without farewell.
—Always remembered by wife Iva and children.

CHAMBERLAIN — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Sarah Chamberlain who passed away on January 22, 1974.
Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds true,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps her near.
—Always remembered by daughter Pat, son-in-law Ted and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank Rev. J. Craig, Rev. Draper and Rev. Shrier for their personal calls to see me while I was in Kingston Hospital. Also my many friends for their calls, many prayers and lovely cards during that five weeks. I also want to thank the VON and day care help both for my husband and myself. Words can't really express my gratitude.

Mrs. A. (Clara) Dent.

We wish to express our sincere thanks for kindness and consideration on our behalf to Mary Hough, Jim Quinn and George Cunningham.

Dawn and Rocky Hamilton.

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — King Moshoeshoe II's annual government grant has been increased by $6,220 to $38,610 by the national assembly.

Role of Fats in Diet Given Intensive Study

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Next to the weather, diet is probably the most popular topic for everyday chit-chat. What one eats, and how much is a concern for everyone from health-food faddists to middle-agers hoping to lose weight?

Dr. Denis Chapman of University of Sheffield, England, thinks that there is much more to nutrition than meets the eye—or the mouth for that matter. Dr. Chapman, who has been visiting Memorial University as a distinguished visiting professor in biochemistry specializes in biomembrane research.

Dr. Chapman said in an interview that modern views on what is a good diet now take into account the role of fats, rather than just concentrating on the necessary proteins. Some fats provide a source of energy but others play an important structural role in providing the building bricks of cell membranes.

He added that the presence and absence of certain fats in the body and in the diet are being increasingly associated with certain diseases.

One example of the correct balance of fats in the body, said Dr. Chapman, is found in the formation of gall stones. He said, there are three substances in the gall bladder: bile salts, lipids—the scientific name for fats—and cholesterol. Under certain conditions the cholesterol is precipitated, producing gall stones.

Another example of the importance of the right balance of fats in the body lies in the area of atherosclerosis and coronary artery disease—major cause of death in North America. This is characterized by fatty deposits in the arterial vessels supplying blood to the heart, brain and other vital organs. These deposits contain fats and cholesterol.

It has even been suggested that the formation of these fatty layers occurs early in life with young children. Doctors find these fatty layers in a significant number of North American children.

Many doctors and scientists are working in this field and recommendations regarding diet, such as limiting saturated fat and cholesterol intake have been suggested.

Dr. Chapman noted that researchers at Boston University—Drs. Donald Small and G. Graham Shipley—have been looking at methods to reverse the process of cholesterol build-up into gall stones. He said that it now is possible to remove gall stones by dissolving them. He added that they are also examining the possibility of adopting a similar approach to the removal of the fatty layers in the arteries.

A third area of research into fats lies in the area of brain development. Studies are taking place on the effects of nutrition on brain development and these include the effects of certain fats.

Some scientists speculate whether brain membrane instability—associated with the disease of multiple sclerosis—might be related to the absence of certain fats in the diet.

Some scientists had suggested that severe malnutrition involving certain fats could affect learning ability in some animals.

"It is clear that the study of fats or lipids and their nutritional effects is of great importance to all of us," said Dr. Chapman.

The scientist said the western world's protein-oriented prejudices have significant effects on policy for food aid for Third World countries.

"Proteins are an important component of the diet, of course but the people of these poorer nations need a balanced diet with the proper proportion of lipids. We have to be careful that we do not over-emphasize the importance of the proteins and ignore the effects of certain fats in the diet when we try to help these communities."

Dr. Chapman has won international recognition for his research on lipids and membranes; he has published six books and some 200 publications covering lipids and biomembranes and has given talks on the BBC related to his own research and science study in general.

In addition to his two-month visit to Memorial, Dr. Chapman acted as visiting professor at University of Alberta and Pennsylvania State University earlier last year.

Speed Urged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The new chief of the Michigan department of natural resources says he would like to see the cleanup of the Great Lakes move more quickly than at present.

"The lakes can be cleaner . . . So, I am dissatisfied with the present conditions. I would like to see it move faster. I'd like to see it more complete," Howard Tanner told Grand Rapids businessmen Tuesday.

BAGGS BAGS BAG AWARD

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Tony Baggs, a bellman at the Buffalo Statler-Hilton for 42 of his 63 years, was named 1974's Bellman of the Year at the annual American Hotel and Motel Association convention here.

Marxist Issued Visa

OTTAWA (CP) — A temporary visa is being issued for Marxist economist Andre Gunder Frank to permit him to teach as a visiting professor at the University of Quebec at Montreal, a spokesman for Immigration Minister Robert Andras said Tuesday.

Mr. Frank was originally refused a visa at Stuttgart, West Germany, but the spokesman said the refusal was based on old information.

The application was reviewed following protests from the academic community in Quebec and a telegram from the conference of rectors and principals of Quebec universities criticizing the refusal.
